Washington Digest National Topics Interpreted By WILLIAM BRUCKART

Washington.—It always has been of even greater age-built as warinteresting to me to see how politicians frequently Too Many overlook real issues in national affairs. Many times they stimulate the hound that overruns the rabbits. That is the reason why so often a new man in public life suddenly rises to leadership. He has taken hold of a bad situation that is right under our feet, offered a constructive solution and has dealt with an imminent condition rather than schemed for re-election through political fence building.

These facts lead directly into a bit of current history. It will be recalled how Bruce Barton campaigned through congested sections of New York's Manhattan island for an unexpired term in the house of representatives last fall. About all that Mr. Barton said of consequence in his campaign speeches was that there are too many laws. I think that is obvious. When he was cam-9. Where were the Fortunate paigning on that line, he was speaking for great masses of inarticulate citizens.

But Mr. Barton went further. He announced his intention to seek repeal of one federal law a week until there is some semblance of reason in the structure of federal laws.

Now, of course, Mr. Barton is very new in politics. He had been keeping his nose to the grindstone of business. He knew only what other persons outside of politics knew, namely, that high pressure minorities, sour pusses and nit wits were getting one law after another through congress, and that, in the end, those laws would be ruinous to the country as a whole. Whether Mr. Barton thought he would succeed or whether he recognized the fact that he was only making a start, it does not matter. Bruce Barton has taken hold of an obvious issue in national affairs and it is not outside of the realm of probabilities that he will "go places" with his program. Thus far, it must be said that Mr. Barton has succeeded only in getting a dozen repeal bills into the house committees through introduction in the house. None has been acted on. Few probably will be acted on-if the house runs true to form. That is to say, Mr. Barton is a Republican and the house is controlled by Democrats and New Dealers. Naturally, they will give no opportunity for the opposition to gain credit for anything, no concessions at all.

The significance of the Barton program goes much deeper, however, and it is of that significance that I want to write. Through more than twenty years as an observer of national affairs here in Washington, obviously I have witnessed many issues develop, or be created, or be discovered. It seems to me that the really important national issues are those that develop, as the Barton program is developing. That means the issue is fundamental; it means, further, that there is no necessity for building the issue, and it means as well that it involves vital questions of policy.

As I said above, there are too many laws, too many don'ts and very few do's. Restriction and regulation always breed more restriction and regulation. The Roosevelt administration has been constantly saying "don't" in the shape of laws and the tremendous majority in congress has been giving President Roosevelt almost unlimited power to do as he wants to do beyond the "don't" legislation. So the Barton program would restore a great deal of freedom to the people themselves and would restore to congress much of the power that it has given to the President. To carry that thought further, then, the Barton program actually seems to me to propose saving only those laws that the progress of civilization shows to be sound and work-

We might consider some of the statutes which Mr. Barton wants to Time to Cut repeal. There is for example the Them Out so-called Thomas amendment - one of the most assinine and dangerous pieces of legislation ever to get on the statute books. The legislation. forced through by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma in May of 1933, gave the President the power to issue $3,000,000,000 in paper currency. ] do not see how anybody can regard it as anything but authority to issue printing press money. Of course, it never has been used by President Roosevelt and probably never will be, but the authority to go into printing press inflation exists and that is the danger. How, for instance, can you or I or anyone else feel sure that the money we have in our pocket or the few dollars in the bank is going to be worth anything tomorow when the President of the United States, by one stroke of the pen, could turn loose a flood of worthless money. Mr. Barton also seeks liquidation of a flock of government agencies. Some of them are 20 years old or time emergency units, but still in existence for no reason at all. Besides the War Finance corporation and some others of that wartime era, it is proposed to get rid of some things of more recent date. The Commodity Credit corporation and the two export-import banks, to mention only three. Now, there is no reason available for retention of the skeletons of the World war, and there appears to have been no reason for creation of such things as the export-import banks. I mean there was no sound reason. Those radicals who forced the diplomatic recognition of Soviet Russia thought | ends of your towels, scarfs and there was reason for the exportimport banks because they held such banks would enable trade with Russia. But Russian trade has amounted to about the same as the sale of mules in my home county of

Two other pieces of legislation which Mr. Barton seeks to repeal are strictly New Deal. One is that law which gave the President the right to change the value of the dollar at will, within certain limitations. I suppose there are some who still believe that devaluation of the dollar has done or can do good in aiding recovery. It seems to me, however, that existence of that power in the hands of one man is just another basis for uncertainty among all of the people. In any event, the failure of that panacea has been amply demonstrated.

The piece of far-reaching New Deal legislation concerned is the socalled Guffey coal law. That thing is a price fixing measure. It gave authority to a coal commission to prescribe prices throughout the country, and producers would be violating a law if they sold below those figures; they would be subject to fines and prison terms. Only recently, the price fixing features were enjoined by a circuit court of appeals and so at the moment they are not operative. Yet the threat exists. And attention should be called to the fact also that the three judges who granted an injunction were appointed by President Roosevelt and supposed, therefore, to be very liberal in their views. Mr. Barton called the Guffey coal act a piece of "grand larceny against the consumers," because, he explained, the consumers are made to pay the higher prices fixed by the commission and they have no word to say about it.

Among other laws which Mr. Barton wants to repeal is the ill-starred silver purchase act. That law was another one which the inflationists in congress forced through in 1934 when all of the brain-trust camp followers were in their heyday. The only result that I can discover flowing from the silver purchase act is a grand outpouring of cash for the owners of silver mines. They obtained two or three times what their silver was really worth.

Analysis of the limited number of laws, I believe, shows the trend of the Barton program. It may be that he will never get to first base with any of them. My conviction, however, is quite to the contrary. I firmly expect to see a growth in the strength that such a program will muster.

WHEN COLDS BRING SORE THROAT

The speed with which Bayer tablets act in relieving the distressing symptoms of colds and accompanying sore throat is utterly amazing and pleasant. This is all you do. Crush and dissolve three genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets in one-third glass of water. Then gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back.

This medicinal gargle will act almost like a local anesthetic of the sore, irritated membrane of your throat. Pain eases promptly; rawness is relieved. You will say it is remarkable.

And the few cents it costs effects a big saving over expensive "throat gargles" and strong medicines. And when you buy, see that you get genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

Advertised Our readers should always remember that our community merchants cannot afford to advertise a hergain unless it is a real bergain. They do advertise bergains and such advertising messes memory saving to the people of the community.

Walt Disney is readying "Snow White' for France. That probably means that Pertinax is preparing to swing on it, just before it lands there. One American commentator made the film his sole exception in many years of dissent. Nothing like that may be expected from Pertinax.

He is the only full-time dissenter who bats 1.000. He has picked fights with Senator Borah, former President Hoover (being the only man ever to assail an American President with that dignitary present), with all the Germans, before, during and after the war, and with all ambassadors of good will.

In Bergen, Norway, fish is served three times a day in nearly all families, and as a result, the life of the community revolves about its fish market. The Bergen housewife is a somewhat fastidious shopper, insofar as fish is concerned, and prefers to have her fish scooped up alive from salt water pools within the market. The serving of ash

Plant them again later, timing the planting so they will matureduring the cool, moist fall months. Sweet corn, beans, tomato, pepper, egg plant, cucumber, melons, squash and pumpkin are not as hardy as those listed above and prefer plenty of heat, sunlight and ample moisture for best development.

They should be planted later than peas, lettuce and carrots, so as to come into maturity during the warmest weeks of summer.

For Winter Meals.

SCALLOPED dishes are favorites for cold weather because ites for cold weather because it is a pleasure to use the oven, and because the blended flavor of foods makes such delicious finished products. The tartness of tomatoes complements most any meat that is being served, and while there are almost unlimited ways of making the dish, you may enjoy trying the following recipe: Scalloped Tomatoes.

No. 235 can 1 tbsp. sugar 2 cups bread crumbs tomatoes thsp. minced onion 4 thsp. butter

Combine the tomatoes with the onion and arrange a layer in a baking dish. Mix the salt and sugar with the bread crumbs and blend with melted butter. Place a layer of crumbs over the tomatoes, add another layer of tomatoes, crumbs, and so on until the dish is filled and ingredients used. Leave crumbs on top. Bake about 30 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees).

YOU FOLLOW THESE 8 SIMPLE RULES:

The warm glow of light shining through the window extends a welcome that is symbolic of home. The magic of light transforms old familiar surroundings and lends new beauty to rugs and furnishings and draperies. To achieve best results and use light most effectively, here are eight simple rules to remember.

 Be sure of decorative fitness of your lamps and fixtures. There is STYLE in lighting just as in dress. Choose your table and floor lamps to harmonize with your furniture.

2 Eliminate harsh contrasts (brilliant light and dark shadows). Do not have bright pools of light in a dark room. Supplement local lighting with general room-wide light.

3 Have enough light for each seeing task. There are definite recommendations as to the amount of light needed for reading fine print, sewing, mending, working in the kitchen, etc.

4 Avoid bare lamp bulbs . . . they cause glare. Haw lighting is poor lighting—even if there is plenty of it. Shaded lamps are always preferable.

5 Use the right size lamp in the right fixture. Too large or too small a lamp may cause eye discomfort and fatigue.

6 In your floor or table lamps, choose the type of lamp with a reflector bowl; and—wherever possible—shades with a white lining to provide more light. The bowl helps to diffuse the light and assures a soft, pleasant quality of illumination.

Wipe lamp bulbs frequently with a dry cloth—also the reflector bowl of your floor and table lamps.

8 If in doubt about any phase of your home lighting, call in a Detroit Edison Home Lighting Advisor. There is no charge for this service.

Late the next afternoon into the lake came Rickman's brigade, men weary, canoes battered and patched, baggage and equipment bearing the marks of long and arduous travel.

back, and come unarmed," he said sternly. The other hesitated; then, after speaking—to his men, he gestured them on and the canoe slid across the shallows. The great gate then creaked inward on its wooden hinges and, rifle in the crook of his arm. Shaw advanced. Rickman flushed. "I come unarmed," he said. "But you? .

lack of it, are you? Touche, trader.! That thrust pricked, eh? I wish I had your rum, Rickman! I could use it, along with mine. And, if it were here, I'd defy even your numbers to take it back! But your rum's not here, trader. The Mississippi has your casks.'

"No more than I'd stand by and mourn helplessly because my canoes were smashed by company axes! That's the item in our account the loss of your rum balances!"

she? And within hours your secret was passed to me. That for your competence!" And he snapped a thumb contemptuously. "Your days in the trade are numbered!"

His reference to Annette had sent a wave of anger through Rodney; anger more at self than another. "Ay, I admit tripping back yonder! But you and your trollop and your spurious murder charge couldn't turn the balance, could they? I'm here and I've rum and my goods are on the way and I'll hold these hunters close, Rickman, until my canoes arrive! I won't trip again. Mark that down."

Rickman turned disdainfully and signaled his men. The canoe came swiftly and he waded out and stepped to his place, not looking again at Rodney.

And then, in the morning, word of Rickman's arrival having spread far, Black Beaver finally came to eye and appraise these traders, stopping first at Fort Shaw.

The sharp eyes probed Rodney's spread before him; and with impassive countenance the man listened to Shaw's talk.

"Your words have fallen on my forth. ears," he said when the harangue ended. "There is no haste. Black Beaver will ponder on what the little trader has spoken."

for the opposition fort.

But his spirits would have been lower, his dismay might have given way to despair had he watched the scene enacted yonder after the jessakkid had stalked through Rickman's gate.

The medicine man had his tobacco, if not his rum. His eyes glittered like buttons at the presents spread before him, and under the spell of Rickman's sustained talk, under the influence of sight of the wealth of freshly stored goods in those buildings, Black Beaver tarried long.

Into his ears was poured the lie that Shaw's canoes might never come and, if they did, would prove to be but lightly laden.

More gifts, all but spirits. And spirits were coming, Rickman promised. The casks he had brought with him had been lost in a rapid. he said, telling only half the truth. "I gave no pledge myself. Your A canoe had been despatched to Fond du Lac to draw on the company stores there for that important

> So the jessakkid left him and had his wives paddle him from lodge to lodge and proclaimed that he would make medicine only for hunters who accepted credits from the company trader, and dissension spread among the people.

Dissension, indeed! The hunters respected Standing Cloud; they feared Black Beaver. And puzzlement lay heavily upon them. What was a trader without rum? Or a trader without goods?

Not for days was Pillager trade secured.

The debate among the old men had assumed something else than the expression of judgment which might affect the welfare of the tribe. It had come, now, to a final test of influence among them.

And then Black Beaver made his supreme effort. The jessakkid sent word from lodge to lodge that talk must be made; that all hunters must meet with the chiefs; that all ears must listen to harangue . .

Over 40 canoes were drawn to the beach by sundown of the day named. They wore their finery, beads and ceremonial stones. Paint had been used on faces.

But of them all, Black Beaver was the most resplendent. He was the last to come as well, sitting erect in his canoe.

A blanket was about his shoulders which he did not drop off to reveal the glory of his raiment until he stepped ashore.

A woman handed Black Beaver a pair of gourd rattles and he took them one in either hand, and advanced majestically toward the circle and Standing Cloud arose from his haunches and moved sedately toward the fire in the center of the

But, Rodney thought, the old man lacked confidence. His step was slow and his shoulders were not squared. "My children," he began, "the chiefs have called you to council. Things that cause argument are abroad. The little trader has ever been as a brother to the hunter," he said, and grunts of approval rose here and there about the circle. "The little trader comes among us and builds his lodge and is as one

"These great companies are not so. They come as plunderers. They have no thought of another sun. They bid the hunters take all that wants and swims. They have no thought of what evil may befall the hunters when all is gone." A chorus of assenting grunts was raised. But there were gaps in the chain of sound; all, it was evident, were not in accord.

"There are among you," Standing Cloud declaimed, voice rising and swelling, "those who see only the one day. The ways we travel change. I am not one to say they shall not change again. I am not one to say that all great companies are evil and their stay among us short and like running fire in the way they take fur from the land. But I do say this: wherever the great companies have dwelt alone among our brothers, sorrow has come. I fear to see sorrow come to my people. My heart is heavy when I see that many of you will not await the coming of the little trader's goods before taking credits. My eyes see sorrow coming as a storm cloud if you listen to counsel that bids you take credits from the great company and send the little trader away from us.

"Men of the forest, I have spoken!"

A thrill ran through Rodney as the grunts rose in a lusty chorus, face: he accepted the presents as women, seated behind the men, stirred by the chief's oratory grinned at one another and nodded approval and rocked back and Flat Mouth spoke. Other old men spoke, all echoing Standing Cloud's words, all pleading that hunters await the coming of Rodney's canoes so he would be made welcome among them.

Black Beaver rose. In the man's very movements was a power, a magnetism, a sense of deviltry which foreboded ill.

"Pillagers!" he said sternly. "Pillagers, who fear my power, stay silent that my words may reach your ears. Black Beaver speaks to you. For many winters and many summers I have guided you wisely in your trading with the white man. You have not been hungry. Always my words have been wise; always has my medicine been good

"I have talked with the manitous. They tell me all. But you are deaf to their voices. You can not hear their wisdom; some of you will not listen when I pass on their wisdom with my breath.

"Some of you listen to other old men. But no other man among you can hear the words of the manitou. No other eyes among you can see what Black Beaver sees. You have heard much talk at this fire. Many of you believe that talk to be wise. You do not know. You can not hear, you cannot see, so you do not

"It has been said to you that the company of Flaming Hair is evil. I say to you, the company of Flaming Hair is good.

"Soon," he cried, "the great company will call its trader home unless you hunters make him welcome! The great company is not evil. The great company is good. But the great company will not wait outside our lodges many suns longer!

"You ask yourselves: How does Black Beaver know that the great company grows weary of waiting? | that I tell you what is so. You will I will tell you. I have flown as an owl to the island of the Great Turtle where the great Company chiefs sit in council. I have listened from of our people. He stays among a tree beside the door of their lodge and have heard their principal chief say that unless the Pillagers accept credits they will send writing which will point their canoes to other places.

"You know what Black Beaver sees when he flies as an owl. You know that I flew as an owl to the Laughing Musquash and saw the Windigo there. Because I flew as an owl he could not catch and devour me. You know that because I flew there and saw the Windigo I kept many hunters above the sand, and wailing from many lodges.

"I flew as an owl to where the little trader tells you his canoes are coming. No cances are coming. The little trader has no canoes coming, my children. He speaks with the forked tongue when he says those words. If the great company trader goes away you will have only the lies of the little trader to wrap around you as blankets, to make powder and lead for your guns, to smoke in your pipes.

"I have spoken, Pillagers! Flee to the lodge of Flaming Hair as you would from a fire in the forest! Accept his credits before his chiefs grow angry . . . Flee . . . Flee, my children!"

Startled grunts rose in a chorus. Even the old men, Rodney perceived, believed and were frightened.

And then Rodney Shaw was among them. Boldly, presumptuously, shattering all precedent for the behavior of whites at a council, he stepped within the circle.

"My brothers! I stand before you as a son before fathers. I stand before you as a son against whom lies have been spoken. I stand before you and ask that you listen to my words!"

Standing Cloud rose. "The Pillagers are honorable men," he said. "The Pillagers return good for good. This man is my brother's brother. It is not good that he be turned away from our council fire. He may speak." "I stand before you to defy Black Beaver and his magic!" Rodney cried. "For many seasons you have listened to what Black Beaver has

"Black Beaver has frightened you with his forked tongue. He has told you that he flies as an owl and sees and hears many evil things. I will bring back the white clay which is found only on Laughing Musquash to show you I have been there. And I will return unharmed!

Sounds of surprise and excitement died before this challenge. "No," he said, and shook his head. "You will not believe these things. You will know that Black that builds character, that gives Beaver's words are those of a forked tongue. And you will know know that my canoes are on the march bearing goods to you. And you will await their coming that I may stay among you!

Robbers of Tombs in China Must Face a Firing Squad, According to Edict

Curio dealers who trade with tomb robbers are liable to immediate execution upon discovery according to an edict issued by the Hopei - Chahar Political council. states a Peiping United Press correspondent.

Although this may seem extreme to outsiders, it reflects the traditional Chinese attitude of veneration for the dead-a tradition that is being fostered at present by the old-style officials of this part of the country. "Grave robbers," reads the edict.

'are the cruelest, most utterly despicable people in China. In disturbing the bones and flesh of the dead they violate not only the statutes, but all the moral laws of humanity. Merchants who buy curios from grave robbers and then sell them for a profit are engaged in a depraved and horrible traffic. They are inhuman lunatics thus to enter into complicity with such men and hence deserve to be shot."

For years the robbing of tombs has been a lucrative trade near Peiping, in whose suburbs princes and members of the imperial clan were buried for centuries. Many of the genuine and valuable curios for sale at various dealers' shops in Peiping have come from such tomba. Persons of rank and wealth were always buried with fortunes in jewels, jade, porcelain and gold in the tombs.

The most famous tombs have been rifled by minor military commanders stationed in the areas around the city. Many of these men have laid the cornerstones of fortune and subsequent fame with the wealth from this semiofficial banditry.

There are also professionals and amateurs-farmers driven to economic desperation through poverty. When caught, the professionals and amateurs are shot, almost without trial, so greatly is their crime abhorred.

Senate leaders expressed the opinon that the relief appropriation with the imperative necessity for speedy action would displace the anti-lynching bill that has been the unfinished business of the Senate since January 6. A second attempt to limit debate to 96 more hours in invoking clotung failed again last week when 46 senators voted against the compulsory gag rule and 42 votes were polled for debate restriction. In the first vote taken three wicks ago the cloture motion was defeated 51 to 37. It needs a two thirds majority to go into effect. The relief appropviation was scheduled to be taken up for consideration on Monday of this week with the possibility that the anti-lynching bill would be relegated from its preferred status to a regular place on the calendar.
