

Doings and Happenings of the Pinckney School

Pinckney High School basketball team opened basketball season at Milford. Will play three games here on Friday night with Stockbridge. Other Activities Are Given.

Pinckney High School basketball team dropped its opening game of the season to a strong Milford "5" last Saturday night by a score of 38-26. Even in defeat the boys looked good and the general feeling around school is that if the boys can maintain their present stride, they will win quite a few games this season.

While all players performed well, Reynolds, Young, and VanBlaricum performed unusually well-Reynolds led the scorers with 11 points.

The second team after playing their rivals on even terms in the early stages of the game found the pace too hot and dropped a 30-10 decision. However, the boys played good ball and showed a fine spirit. On Friday of this week the local teams entertain Stockbridge here. by two boys' games and the local teams are hopeful of sweeping all three games. Win or lose the crowd will be treated to good clean basketball, and it is hoped that the gym will be packed.

The first game opens at 7:15.
1st Team Lineup: Points
M. Reynolds F. 11
A. Widmayer F. 00
J. VanBlaricum C. 07
W. Young G. 06
S. Widmayer G. 02
Subs: Hannett, Martin, McKune.
2nd Team Lineup:
Ambury F
Vedder F
Allee C
Lewidge G
Herrick G
Subs: Hendee, Thorp.

A party was held in the gym on Friday night for the football boys and the softball girls. There was dancing and games. Pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream, sandwiches, cookies and cocoa was served at Mr. Allee's residence later. Every one seems to have enjoyed himself.

The next basketball meet is here with Stockbridge. It will be held on December 9th and three games will be played. We are asking for a good turnout from the townspeople. Please come early for seats. The first game is played by girls. This starts at 7:15. Next, the boys second team will play and last the boys' first team.

The basketball players of Pinckney have invited the players of the Stockbridge team to a party after the game. Refreshments will be served.

The towns-women are getting a chance to show their skill as basketball players. The gym is theirs every Monday night.

Mr. Flintoff, the band director, gave lessons during school hours on Tuesday. We hope he will continue this practice so that we may have time at night for singing lessons.

WAS 4-H CLUB FOUNDER

And we wondered how many of the 4-H boys and girls attending the achievement day program knew that present that evening was the son, and two grandchildren of the founder of the 4-H movement in the United States? The son of the founder lives with his children over at Pettysville, a resident of Livingston County. Mr. Ralph B. Ottwell's father, now living in Illinois, is the acknowledged originator of the 4-H Clubs in this country. Back in the late nineties or early 1900's Mr. Ottwell's father, sr., pioneered work among the rural boys and girls of his home town, and today that ideal of Mr. Ottwell blankets the nation. Liv. Co. BUY XMAS SEALS

Miss Laura Hoff is the first in Pinckney to purchase a supply of 1938 tuberculosis Christmas seals, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association announced this week in checking over early Christmas seal contributions. Prompt response is the most heartening in the seal sale, the association declared, pointing out that early returns show that people appreciate the urgent need for the carrying on a vigorous fight against tuberculosis.

Christmas seals bought and used by Livingston county residents provide the means for preventing and controlling the spread of tuberculosis in Livingston county, it was emphasized.

With the state's annual tuberculosis death rate showing a slight tendency to swing upward, the need is greater than ever before for Michigan people to continue their cooperation in the anti-tuberculosis campaign. Theodore J. Werle, executive secretary of the association, declared. Through participation in the yearly sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals, Michigan residents help to provide modern protection for their homes.

National Farm Program for 1939 Announced

The Farm Program for 1939 is Announced. Soil Erosion and Crop Adjustment Will Feature This. The Manner of Payments Given.

The detailed provisions of the 1939 Agricultural Conservation Program, as approved by Secretary of Agriculture, Henry A. Wallace, last week, closely follow the program of 1938. Only changes have been made which were necessary because of changed crop conditions or to simplify administration, Maurice A. Doan, Chairman of the Michigan Agricultural Conservation Committee, announced this week.

The completed program is, now ready to be presented to farmers. Meetings for this purpose will be held throughout the State during the next few months. Farmers will have all necessary information well in advance of the 1939 crop planting season so that they can make their plan accordingly. In 1938 the farm act was passed by Congress on February 16 and the program was not available until after all of the winter wheat had been planted. Because of the late passage of the act last year, 1939 offers the first complete test of the new farm program, Mr. Doan pointed out.

Nationally, the program provides for encouraging soil conservation, for a level of agricultural production that will meet the country's domestic markets, and for adequate reserves. These national objectives are to be accomplished through national acreage goals and acreage allotment for individual crops or groups of crops, and by conserving the soil of the cropland not used for growing commercial crops.

Individual farmers will participate in the program through seeding crop within acreage allotments representing the farm's share of the national state, and county allotments, and through carrying out soil-building practices. For each farm, a maximum payment will be computed, based on the size and type of operation for the farm, and cooperating farmers who meet all requirements will earn these maximum payments. Where farmers plant more than their allotments, or carry out less than the maximum soil-building practices available for their farm, the payments which they can earn will be less than the maximum.

The 1939 program sets a national soil-depleting crop goal of between 270 and 285 million acres, provides for conservation payments to participating farmers on the basis of the $500,000,000 annual appropriation authorized in the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 and provided for continuing the soil-building practices which have been an essential part of the AAA programs since 1936. In addition to the conservation payments, $212,000,000 in price adjustment payments was authorized by the last Congress to be paid to wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, and the rice producers.

NATIONAL ACREAGE GOALS

The national acreage goal for 1939 is about 5,000,000 under that for 1938. This decrease was made necessary by the smaller wheat acreage allotment for 1939 as compared with 1938. The following are the national acreage goals for 1939:
Corn, 94 to 97 million acres.
Wheat, 55 to 59 million acres.
Potatoes, 3 to 4 million acres.
Cotton, 27 to 29 million acres.
Rice, 850 to 880 thousand acres.
Peanuts, 1.1-2 to 1.3-4 million acres.
Tobacco, flue cured, 860 to 900 thousand acres, burley, 375 to 400 thousand acres, fire cured, and dark air cured 160 to 170 thousand acres.
Cigar filler and binder, 85 to 95 thousand acres.

General crops, (including commercial truck) 145 to 150 million acres.

PAYMENTS

Exact rates of payments for the various commodities under the Agricultural Conservation Program have been determined. However, the exact rates which will be made to producers under the Price Adjustment Act of 1938 cannot, under the provisions of that Act, be determined before January 31, 1939.

Following are the rates for 1939 under the conservation program, on the crops that are grown in Michigan, the estimated range of rates in the proposed price adjustment payments.

CURRENT COMMENT

"By Ye Editor"

The battle for the speakership of the Michigan house of Representatives is still apparently up in the air. Mel McPherson of Lowell in a press report claims to be able to muster enough votes to swing it & announces that Rep. Maurice Post of Rockford is slated for the speakership. McPherson is a former president of the Michigan Association of Supervisors and states that 60 of the representatives are supervisors or former supervisors. It was with this organization that McPherson killed the Welfare Amendment. Gov. Fitzgerald is said to favor Rep. Feenstra of Grand Rapids. McPherson has long aspired to be the big shot in Michigan but time only will tell whether he will be able to pick the next speaker.

The annual sob, usually from some college who has experienced a poor football season, is again being broadcast, this time through the Saturday Evening Post. The writer is Professor Robert Hutchins of Chicago University whose team has been kicked around for years by the other college teams to such an extent that the Big Ten is talking of dropping them for lack of drawing power. Hutchins would solve the problem by cutting the admission price to big college games to 10c. The football going public is only interested in well played games by a winning team composed of the best players in the country. They would not go across the street to witness a game between mediocre players and that is what such games would be as the ten cent admission price would not bring in enough to develop good teams. No, the public demand the best available and are willing to pay for it.

Enough signers have been secured to get the proposition on the ballot in April providing for the election of judges on a non partisan ballot. This was defeated once. Last November a proposition providing for the appointment of supreme court judges also went down to defeat. Just what is wrong with the present system of electing judges we would like to know. On the whole they are a high class of men and the people in the past have shown good judgement in their selection.

The recent gambling scandal at Ann Arbor where a pool gambler in football games was unable to pay his losses and has been arrested has again started agitation for a state or national lottery.

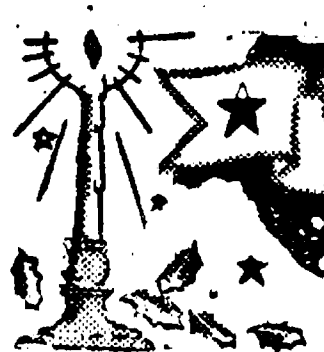

It seems to be an established fact that the people will gamble in some form or other in spite of all the laws that can be passed. Those of people by the Irish, Cuban and other lottery tickets every year to the enrichment of those countries. In Ireland we believe the money goes into a hospital fund. As long as the people are determined to gamble in some way or other many cannot see why this money should be allowed to flow out of this country.

The Republican National Committee turned down Kenneth Simpson, New York State chairman, and the manager of Tom Dewey's campaign for governor, in the former's attempt to get on the national committee and instead elected Senator Hastings, an old reactionary from Delaware. The explanation is that Hastings is an old friend of the DuPonts of Delaware and his election would cause them to contribute to the party. The G. O. P. has a national deficit of $750,000 left over from 1936. In Michigan the deficit is $90,000.

The deadline for hunters to send in their game report cards is Feb. 15. About 1000 have been received at the close of the deer season. Last year 25.80 per cent of the 157,349 hunters got deer.

About 2000 people climbed the fire towers in the Baraga conservation district this year.

Owen Harvey, 32, of Van Town Ohio, who took out a Michigan license and shot a deer was arrested and fined $100 and costs for not taking out a non-resident license.

Conservation officers stopped 16,000 autos and checked 60,000 hunters during the two weeks small game season. 89 hunters were arrested for law violations.

10,055,100 trees were planted this year in Michigan by CCC boys.

First land surveys in this state were made in 1807.

In 1931 but 23,510 deer were killed in Michigan.

More than 95 per cent of the money paid out for bounties this year went for coyote pelts. There were 1293 of these and but 30 wolfe hides.

The fire wardens and tower men are now off the payroll until spring. Of the 120 game birds examined by the dept. the majority were free from parasites and disease.

Ruffed grouse appear to be increasing in the Houghton Lake area. Snow shoe rabbits are still scarce, however.

In a census last week by the U. S. Biological survey 148 trumpeter swan were counted.

SPUD GROWS LIKE MONKEY

Evart: William Hanson, Evart farmer, is thinking of raising potatoes for the zoo. While sorting his crop this year, he found a potato that resembled the head of a monkey. Head, mouth, and eyes were formed by growth cracks.

NATIONAL YOUTH CAMP

Additional construction work that will expand the National Youth Administration work-training center at Chelsea, Michigan, into one of 14 major regional camps in the nation was launched Monday. The center is located on Casside Lake in the Jackson-Washtenaw County area.

The Chelsea work center will eventually accommodate 500 young men engaged in receiving practical experience, particularly in aviation and automotive mechanics and in other trades, according to Orin W. Kaye, State Director of the NYA. Already one of the finest projects of its kind in the country, the Chelsea camp has been operating steadily for over two years and now includes dormitories, a mess hall, a recreational center, an infirmary and workshop. At the present 125 youths are enrolled and hundreds more will join as soon as the projected housing and shop facilities are added to the present group of buildings.

This means, Kaye pointed out on Monday that hundreds of young men 18-24 years of age, drawn from this and surrounding states, who have special aptitude for trade training will have a splendid chance for self preparation. They will have, he continued, an exploratory opportunity to discover individual abilities and to fit themselves, under expert tutelage, for a permanent occupation.

While they are, in Kaye's phrase, increasing their employability, the camp members do much practical and worthwhile work, benefiting such organizations as the schools in Jackson and Washtenaw Counties, the State parks and the State Highway Commission. They remain at the Chelsea camp as long as their NYA supervisors, headed by Mr. Donald Miller, feel that they are making any progress, earning about $10 a month over their expenses.

Mrs. Nettie Vaughn spent the week end with Mrs. Roy Merrill in Webster.

PICK TOY GIFTS

TO SUIT CHILD

Two thirds of toy sales for the year are those made just before Christmas, so if Michigan's boys and girls are to get suitable toys for 1939 it will be wise Christmas shopping that will be in order.

Advice of Catherine Miller, nursery school instructor at Michigan State College, emphasizes suiting the gift to the child and considering age and ability in making the choice. A child's play is his work, says Miller, so that selecting toys mean many hours of entertaining and education for the youngster.

For those under two years, here are a few pointers:

Choose bright colors and hard finishes, rounded edges, no loose parts, washable materials and non-poisonous colors. Experiment with the toys to ascertain ease of operation.

For those over two years: Gifts should fit the child in age, ability and interests. An electric train for a youngster, age 3 is a mistake in selection. Provide a variety of toys for physical development, manipulative gifts such as crayons, scissors, dramatic toys, such as materials for housekeeping.

Quality is important. Easily broken toys lead a child to destructive habits. Price is not always an indication of quality, Miss Miller warns. Fads usually cost more and give less to a child than more sensible toys or other gifts.

How good a driver are you? Can you answer questions on the rules of the road correctly? Here is one: When you make a right turn from one street into another, should you turn from the lane nearest the right edge of the street? You should, but many persons drive in the middle of the street and then make the right turn.

Drivers should get in the lane when making a right turn from one street into another; otherwise, there is danger of collision with cars in the right hand lane.

Do you agree, and do you make your right turns correctly.

STATUTES AVAILABLE FOR 1938 EXTRA SESSION

Few people realize the extent to which the state of Michigan is in the business of publishing books. In the execution of his duties as provided by law, the Secretary of State is the Capitol's chief publisher of books, pamphlets and other public records.

The publication of the Michigan Manual and the Public Acts of each session of legislature, is a matter routine for the Department of State and has been for years. Because of this the immensity of the project escapes public notice.

Every two years the Department publishes 15,000 copies of the Michigan Manual, or 'Red Book', which has been the familiar symbol of state records for many years.

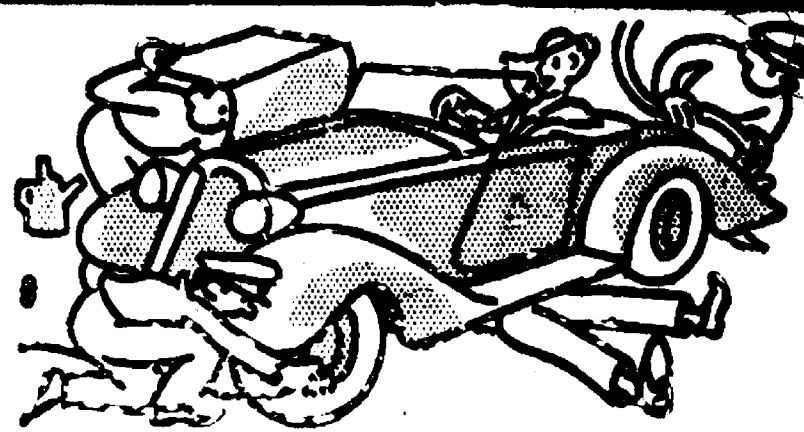

Also after each session of the legislature, bound volumes of the Acts passed and signed by the governor are published. The number of books published is usually about 13,500. These Public Acts, as well as the Michigan Manual, are distributed to thousands of public officials without cost as provided in the distribution act.

The most recent publication of the Department is that of the extra session of this year or properly bound volume of 30 pages recording the 9 acts passed by the last legislature.

The cost of this most recent publication is forty cents per copy.

SLEEP ON AN UNSET STOMACH

Neutralize excess stomach acids to wake up feeling like a million

To relieve the effects of over-indulgence—escape "acid indigestion" next day—do this: Take 2 table-spoonsful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water—AT BEDTIME.

While you sleep, this wonderful alkalizer will be sweetening your stomach... easing the upset-feeling and nausea... helping to bring back a "normal" feeling. By morning you feel great.

Then—when you wake—take 2 more table-spoonsful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with orange juice.

That is one of the quickest, simplest, easiest ways to overcome the bad effects of too much eating, smoking or drinking. Thousands use it.

But—never ask for "milk of magnesia" alone—always ask for "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

Professor Brace continued his testimony under the questioning of Mr. Flood:

"What time was it when you came out of the Tunnel?"

"Quarter past twelve."

"And what happened then?"

"A car passed us, then slowed down."

"Did you observe the number?"

"Yes, Miss Sentry said—"

"Never mind what she said. What was the number?"

Mrs. Sentry thought: They take so long to say such a simple thing. Why doesn't he just say, "I saw Mr. Sentry leave his office and drive home?"

But question and answer went maddeningly on.

"What did you do?"

"Followed the car to the Sentry home."

"Where did you last see it?"

"It turned into the Sentry drive."

"What did you do?"

"Miss Sentry and I stayed in my car, in front of the house."

"Hear anything?"

"Steps on the gravel from the garage toward the house."

"See anything?"

"I saw the light from the hall as the door opened."

"Anything else?"

"After about five minutes an upstairs light was turned on. About ten minutes later it was turned off again."

"What then?"

"Miss Sentry went into the house."

"At what time?"

"One o'clock, or a little before."

"Have you since seen that car?"

"Yes."

"With that number?"

"Yes."

"Where?"

"In the Sentry garage."

"Did you at any time that night see who was in the car?"

"Yes, a man."

"Did you know him?"

"No, not then."

"Did you see his face?"

"Yes, when he first passed us. I had to put on the brakes to avoid hitting him, and a street lamp was shining on his face."

"Do you now know who he was?"

"He was Mr. Sentry."

Mr. Flood turned to Mr. Falkran.

"Your witness, sir," he said.

Mrs. Sentry looked breathlessly at Mr. Falkran, fearing on the one hand that he would allow this deadly evidence to go unchallenged; on the other that his questions would involve Barbara. Yet even at that cost he must do something. For here was the peg upon which the State's whole case must hang.

But Falkran said, "No questions!"

And instantly, like a clap of doom: "The State rests," said Mr. Flood.

During the brief recess, Mrs. Sentry, too shaken to move, stayed in her seat. She was not suffering; but she was so tired! Professor Brace had left the court room without having looked toward them, and she whispered to her son:

"Go catch him, Phil. Tell him we know he had to do it. Tell him we understand, that we don't blame him!"

Phil nodded, hurried out. Then Falkran came to her, and behind the mask of a smile which he wore for the world to see, he said, "Mrs. Sentry, I expect you were surprised I did not cross-examine; but the hour is late, and I wish to call one witness before adjournment today, so that I can leave the jury with something to think about tonight."

She said in low tones: "I see. But isn't that the key of the State's whole case? Proving he was down there that night?"

He said reassuringly: "Be easy. Trust me. We will give them a better key."

And a moment later they rose while the Court and jury resumed their places; and then Mr. Falkran, briefly, made his opening. Circumstantial evidence, he said in calm, assured tones, was only to be trusted when the evidence in question was capable of but one explanation, of but one interpretation. The evidence submitted by the State was elaborate, detailed, well presented, well selected.

"But you will see," he said, "how the truth which we propose to reveal to you fits into this pattern without a misfit anywhere."

And he called the dead girl's father to the stand.

Falkran dealt with the old man gently, winning his confidence with simple questions; but at length he led Mr. Wines to examine that collection of photographs which had previously been submitted to the New Jersey hotel clerk.

"I wish you would pick out all the photographs of your daughter which you find there," he directed.

The old man, after a little, selected two.

Falkran picked up from the clerk's desk those previously identified by the New Jersey hotel man as portraits of Miss Wines. "What about these?" he asked.

"They ain't her,"

"Sure?"

"I'd ought to be, I sh'd think. Sure I'm sure."

"Not your daughter?"

"No."

Falkran smiled contentedly.

"Now, Mr. Wines," he asked, in a new tone, "did your daughter write to you from Boston?"

"Yes, certain!"

"How often?"

"Most generally every Sunday."

"Did she write you while she worked for the firm of Sentry and Loran?"

"Yes, she did."

"How often?"

"Once, anyway."

"Have you that letter?"

District Attorney Flood rose hurriedly, approached the bench. Falkran joined him there. They spoke in low tones. The old man on the stand took a letter from his pocket and held it in his hands, waiting. After a moment Falkran turned and took it from him and handed it to the Judge. The Judge read it, spoke to Flood. Falkran smiled and with the letter in his hand turned back to the witness.

And What Happened Then?" Asked Mr. Flood.

"Who wrote this letter?" he asked.

"She did."

"Your daughter?"

"Yes."

Falkran said to the Court: "I offer the letter." It was marked.

He read it aloud, standing in front of the jury box, facing them.

The letter was for the most part without significance. The dead girl had written happily of her work, hoped that even though it was only temporary it might lead to something permanent. But one paragraph Mr. Falkran read slowly and impressively, in his fine trained tones, with a maximum effect, with his eyes upon the jury. He read:

"I don't like Mr. Sentry! He's cross if you make the least mistake. But Mr. Loran is nice, awfully jolly. He asked me to go to dinner with him tonight. He said there wasn't any harm in it, but of course I didn't go."

A stir ran through the court. Falkran waited a moment for silence, "Your witness," he told Flood.

The District Attorney declined to cross-examine. Falkran nodded, and he said: "It is near the hour, Your Honor. Mr. Sentry is to be our next witness. I suggest a recess till tomorrow morning."

Court adjourned.

CHAPTER VIII

Dan Fisher's assignment at the trial was not to cover the actual testimony—that was recorded by reporters working in relays, using those swift abbreviations meaningless to anyone but themselves which with a good newspaper man take the place of shorthand—but to write the morning paper story. Mr. Sentry was on the stand all Saturday forenoon; and Dan wrote for the Sunday paper:

Arthur Sentry, on trial for his life and charged with the murder of Agnes Wines, on the witness stand yesterday admitted that he fired the shot which killed Miss Wines.

He testified that the shot was fired by accident, in the dark, when he surprised an attempt to rob the safe in his office.

He admitted leaving the dead girl's body where it fell. He admitted taking the money from the safe and burning it in the furnace at home. He admitted throwing the death weapon into the river behind his garage where it was subsequently found by the police.

He denied any misconduct with Miss Wines. He testified that it was another woman who spent two nights with him in a New Jersey hotel last August.

Mr. Sentry's testimony created a sensation. The court officers had difficulty in keeping order until Judge Stanton warned the spectators that if there was further disturbance the court would be cleared.

Piranha, Most Vicious Jungle Fish,

Lurks in the Rivers of South America

Probably the worst enemy of any living thing (in the South American jungle) lurks in the river itself—the piranha. There are piranhas in almost every South American river and they are literally devils, writes Stuart Martin in Wide World, London. I have seen three varieties—the green-and-gold ones of Paraguay, the shiny gray specimens of the Amazon, and the green-and-black spotted demons of the Araguaia and Xingu. The natives eat them, but the quality of their flesh is nothing to brag about.

For a wounded ox or horse to fall into the river means certain death; it is also fatal for a human being to get among a shoal of piranhas, especially if there is any sore or wound on his body. Piranhas can scent their prey far away, and go literally mad at the taste of blood.

It is a sickening spectacle to see these fierce fish conducting a mass attack. The water around the unfortunate animal that falls into their clutch becomes a whirlpool, a maelstrom of death, boiling and foaming as the blood-crazed piranhas rush to the feast. They eat the flesh off

SEES FIRST SNOW

Iron River: Jerry Clauser is nine years old, but he didn't see his first snowfall until this year. Until he came with his parents to Iron River recently, all of his life had been spent in Alabama. When the first big snow storm hit the upper peninsula this winter, Jerry was up four o'clock in the morning to tell his parents about it.

UNIQUE NEWS STORY

Reed City: Readers of the Osceola County Herald found a unique news story in their paper recently. At the top of the front page column, in a large type, were the words, "This Space Reserved for a Detailed Account of the Reed City Rod & Gun club activities to the present time in 1938." Below that were 8 and 1-2 inches of blank white space.

CITY IS DRIVER'S JINK

Portland: Joe Smith of Lansing will probably stay away from Portland from now on. About three months ago he purchased a $1,500 automobile. Parking it here shortly after he bought it, a fender was smashed when another car hit it. Recently his car was jammed on local streets for the third time in three months.

Uncanny experiences in the 'most haunted house in England', Dr. Harry Price, psychical investigator, rents a historic house nobody else would live in, and gives an amazing account of exciting experiences there, in an unusual article, illustrated in color, which will be one of the prominent features in The American Weekly with the December 11 issue of The Detroit Times.

PHILATHEA NOTES

There will be no afternoon social and business hour on the fourteenth of this month, owing to the many activities of Philathea members at this season of the year.

At the special business meeting on last Sunday called to order by the president and executive committee, an amendment to our class constitution was adopted, whereby the date of our annual election of officers was changed from the second Wednesday in December to the second Wednesday in January. The present officers were elected by special arrangement in January of this current year.

The pastor and people cooperated splendidly on our Missionary Sunday. A special sermon by Rev. McLucas and an extra Benevolence offering undoubtedly made the day one of cheer for the Benevolence Treasurer.

The class enjoyed a live wire discussion of the Sunday School lesson on Sunday. Mrs. Elliott emphasized the thought of the lesson committee and radio broadcasters in bringing out the deeper meaning of these commandments we are studying, and both teacher and class seemed to agree that out of the heart proceed both good and evil. One of the Practical Points, gives it this way:

"Think and be careful what thou art within."

For there is sin in the desire of sin."

Those who hear Rev. M. B. Hinkle with pleasure and profit ever will be glad of further opportunities this week when he is to be at the Baptist church here on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings.

We will consider another commandment next Sunday, when we are to study, 'The Sin of Covetousness' Exodus 20:17; Luke 12:15-21; and 1 Timothy 6:6-10. Think over the modern forms of covetousness, and be on hand to talk about them.

THAT BETHLEHEM STAR

is still telling the world of the story of the one Greatest Service; it keeps implanted in the minds of men the value of sincerity.
