News and Doings of the Michigan State Legislature

First Bill Are Presented to the Legislature. Among the Many Things Which Are Arising to Vex the Administration Are Gambling, Civil Service Labor Legislation.

By beating the legislature 'to the draw' through the November election of the anti-diversion amendment Commissioner Murray D. (Pat) Van Wagoner of the state highway department has put the 'good roads' cause in rather an invulnerable position for 1939.

In fact, there is considerable speculation as to what, if anything, legislators can do to clip Van Wagoner's wings.

Voters back home possess a peculiar yearning for more highways. The chamber of commerce is always agitating a road improvement of another that would take motorists from somewhere to elsewhere. Good roads sentiment knows no party lines; it thrives amid all income groups.

When Governor Fitzgerald proposed that the highway department provide free ferry service at the Straits of Mackinac, build its own office at Lansing and cease dipping into the general funds, he threatened what former Governor Murphy tried to do in spirit. Murphy wanted to divert highway funds for welfare relief; instead the legislature authorized a 'blank check' for $10,000,000.

The free ferry idea, like free school books, sounds fine. Obviously, such a service would be popular, for motorists are just as human as anyone else. The present law provides that the ferry toll charge shall meet the cost of operating the ferry service which approximates a half million dollars each year.

Where the difficulty arises is over the financing of a bridge across the Straits. In all estimates made so far, engineers have assumed that the tremendous investment would be liquidated in part, if not eventually, through payment of toll fees. Once the state authorized free ferry service, bridge sentiment would rapidly subside.

The office building recommendation has merit, as has the suggestion that no further appropriations be made from the state general fund.

These latter proposals, like the first, will have to run the inevitable gauntlet of good road boosters who want every highway dollar available for matching by the federal government. Washington will send to Michigan in 1939 a total of $4,114,084 for highway improvements. Of this amount $3,012,993 will match the state funds on a 50-50 basis; $451,949 will match funds that are raised 50-50 by counties and the state, and $649,147 will be an outright grant to build grade separations in metropolitan districts.

On Feb. 3, Governor Fitzgerald will face the same hurdle that Murphy had one year ago. On that day the Michigan Good Roads Federation holds a big rally at Grand Rapids, to which the governor has been invited to speak.

COLD WINTERS OF THE PAST

Frank Grimes writes us from Shawnee, Ohio, in regard to a program he heard over station W. L. W. (Cincinnati) on Dec. 30, last. Ross Johnson stated that his grandfather told him of a trip to Ypsilanti in the winter of 1860 and that while there (Ypsilanti) his grandfather heard of a stage coach driver freezing to death. The death was not discovered until the team stopped in its usual place and the driver failed to leave his seat. We saw this same account in a Detroit paper a week ago.

Frank Grimes writes that he remembers all about the story having heard it from the late Dick Jeffreys and J. W. Hinchey. The stage coach was one running from Dexter to Pinckney. It stopped in front of the Pinckney Hotel. When the driver remained in his seat, J. W. Hinchey, the landlord, went out and found the driver frozen stiff. Mr. Grimes wished us to find out the name of the driver. Michael Lavey informs us that the name of the driver was Walter Pebbles and that a man, named Grandy, living in Dexter operated the stage but was not driving it on the above occasion. The stage carried the mail. In bad weather it sometimes took four hours to drive from Dexter to Pinckney. The driver stopped at Dover and got warm but eventually got chilled later. In the old stage coaches the driver sat on top with the luggage. On the above occasion there were evidently no passengers.

THE MARCH OF DIMES

This year the drive against infantile paralysis will be opened by a march of Dimes campaign. This campaign means asking every man, woman and child in the county to 'give a Dime and Wear a Button'. The 50-50 plan of distribution this year, whereby 50 per cent of all funds raised is held in Trust in each county for the Establishment of Local Chapters of the national Foundation to embrace each county has dramatized the local importance of this crusade. It has shown Chairmen that they are working, not merely for the country as a whole, but for their own localities, their own homes.

WOULD DISCONTINUE LINE

Appearing in this issue of the Pinckney Dispatch is an advertisement of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company stating that on January 27th, 1939, the Company will file an application with the Michigan Public Utilities Commission requesting permission to establish a charge of 10 cents for a five minute station to station call between Pinckney and Brighton.

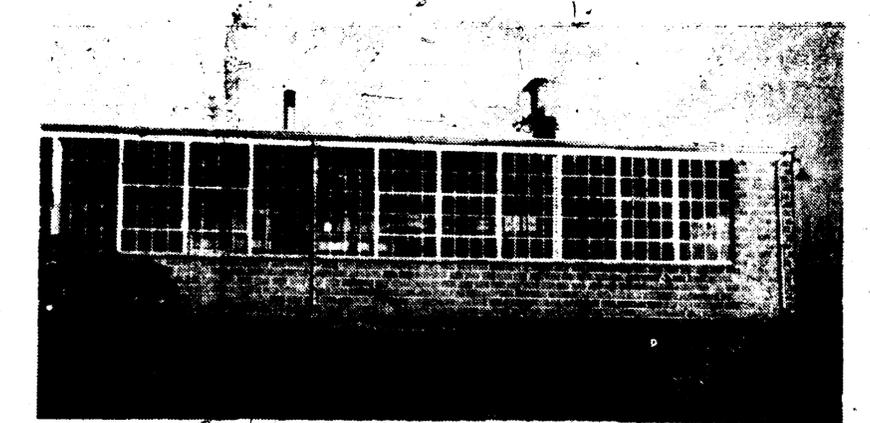

According to J. E. Johnson, manager for the company in this area, the company holds that free toll service between the two towns is discriminatory, in that the furnishing of toll service at any point without charge to the users results in the cost of such service being partially carried by those not using it.

NOTICE

Rev. J. M. McLucas has been appointed by the Church committee for China relief, sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches, to receive freewill contributions for the suffering in China. This is an interdenominational program and all contributions large & small will be appreciated. Anyone desiring to contribute or get further information concerning this matter, please get in touch with Rev. J. M. McLucas pastor of the Congregational Church. LET US ALL DO OUR PART!

NOTICE

The Pinckney Chapter of the O. E. S. will be the guest of the Fowlerville Chapter to receive the Traveling Gavel Friday, January 20th. All the members of Pinckney Chapter are requested to be present.

THE NEW PINCKNEY DIE SET FACTORY. This new factory was built in Pinckney last year and started production in November. From 12 to 18 men are employed. They make die sets for: drill presses and other machines, being formerly located in Detroit. Clare Reason, son of the late Floyd Reason, is the president of the company. The site of the factory is on part of the Dr. Charles Haze farm, north of Cong'l church.

Gambling Halls Are Closed

East Detroit Citizens Forced To Use Civil Action To Close Gambling Halls When Law Enforcement Officers Refuse To Act

The citizens of East Detroit finally got the gambling halls which have flourished in their midst closed but had to take a roundabout measure to do so. The sheriff and prosecutor and governor and attorney general turned deaf ears to their plans or else passed the buck.

The climax of the case is strongly reminiscent of the manner in which Al Capone was laid by the heels. In his case county and state authorities were apparently helpless when the federal government stepped in and sent him to Alcatraz for failure to pay his income tax.

After threatening an ex raid the law abiding citizens went into the circuit court at Mt. Clemens and got out an injunction against the operations of the places on the grounds their operations were decreasing the property values. Judge Neil Read issued the injunction. The gambling halls closed promptly. Judge Reid is well known here. He spoke at Masonic banquets several times and is a former grand master of the Masons of Michigan.

An amusing sidelight took place this gambling situation. Attorney General Tom Read, appointed as one of his assistant attorney generals, Maxwell Benjamin, of Detroit. When newspaper reporters told Read that Benjamin was the stepfather of Al and Mert Wertheimer, part owners of the Chesterfield gambling hall and notorious as big time gamblers, Read fired him. He also denied that he had appointed Benjamin to investigate the gambling situation. In fact Read stated that as yet he had appointed no one.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

The following marriage licenses were issued at the office of the county clerk last week: Wesley Green, 25, Fowlerville, Elizabeth Franklin, 21, Fowlerville; Marion Jones, 19, Fowlerville, Clarence Franks, 23, Fowlerville.

CIRCUIT COURT NEWS

Judge Collins adjourned circuit court last Wednesday until Monday of this week on account of the illness of his daughter.

Thomas Barron who pled guilty to embezzlement appeared for sentence. He was placed on 3 years probation and ordered to pay $136.12 and $30 costs.

George Hays charged with drunkenness was brought out from Detroit. He was too ill to be tried however, and was taken to McPherson Hospital.

The auto accident damage case of Mary J. McKillop vs William McIntyre was started and will be finished this week. Shields & Smith represent the plaintiff and Earl Gullen appeared for McIntyre. The jury drawn for this case was as follows: Bert Daller, Joe Innes, John McGivney, Iva Riedon, J. H. Brian, George E. John Gracie, John Goodfellow, Burton Clark, Leo Kiss.

MILK COMMISSION DISCHARGED

Gov. Fitzgerald discharged the Milk fact finding committee appointed by former Gov. Murphy with the remark that he would have no further use for their activities until he became convinced that a law was needed to regulate the milk industry. This commission was composed of farmers, distributors and consumers and was to draw up a bill guaranteeing the farmer cost of production and a fair profit. Michael Roche of Putnam was a member of this committee. The bill finally drawn up by them recommended that a price be set for milk.

ST. MARY'S ALTAR SOCIETY

St. Mary's Altar Society reorganized Sunday with the following officers: President Mrs. Margaret Clark. Secretary Mrs. Donn Swarthout. Treasurer Mrs. Mame Shehan. The society is planning a number of functions for this winter, the first of which is a card party at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Ledwidge on Jan. 20th.

NOTICE

There will be a meeting of the parents of prospective Cubs on Thursday January 19, 1939 at the Pinckney School at 8:00. Mr. Edward M. Danaher, Assistant Scout Executive, will give an address on Cubbing.

Other gambling interests are beginning to show activity. Among these is Floyd Fitzsimmons of Benton Harbor, the chief advocate of dog racing. His bill legalizing this in Michigan is to come up again. He presented it last year and threw a banquet for the legislators with Jack Dempsey the famous prize fighter as the star attraction. This infuriated Gov. Murphy and his statement that if the bill passed he would veto it was the means of killing it.

NOTICE

CARD PARTY. For the benefit of Altar Society of St. Mary's Parish Friday evening, January 20th. At the home of Mrs. Eleanor Ledwidge. Refreshments Served, Adm. 25c. Everybody welcome.

Masonic Banquet Held

Good Attendance at Local Lodge Banquet Many Outside Lodges Are Represented

About 100 attended the vespers banquet given by Livingston Lodge here last Saturday evening. Following the banquet prepared and served by the refreshment committee under the direction of Norman Miller and Azel Carpenter. Ford Lamb, master of the lodge welcomed the visitors and asked the secretary to introduce some of them. The following Masons were called upon: Bob Pence, master of Howell lodge, Tom Armstrong, master of Fowlerville and H. K. Smith, master of St. Ignace lodge. Also Bob Phillips and Henry Bidwell of Brighton, George Keal of Dexter, and members of the three Ann Arbor lodges, and Don Dancer of the Olive lodge of Chelsea.

E. L. McEachin, deputy grand lecturer, gave a short address in which he explained the purpose of his office and the duties he had to perform. He is a past master of the Golden Rule Lodge, Ann Arbor. The Haines children, Floyd, Jake, Jack, Marge and Jeanetta played and sang several numbers and received their usual hearty encores.

Following this return was made to the lodge room where the third degree was conferred on Gordon Lamb son of the master of the lodge by the Livingston Fellowcraft team under the supervision of the grand lecturer.

After lodge closed the deputy grand lecturer held an informal session and discussed ritual matters with the members present and answered questions. The visitor coming the greatest distance to the meeting was a Mason from an Arkansas lodge.

CURRENT COMMENT

The gambling situation in Michigan is still up in the air, especially in Macomb county near the Wayne county line where the Chesterfield and Chalet, the states 2 Monte Carlo, closed temporarily by an injunction. The situation so far is a regular merry-go-round with each person passing the responsibility on to the next one. The East Detroit City Commission where the gambling halls are located by a 2 to 2 vote refused to close the gambling places. The two commissioners voting to close the places, had them visited and got sworn affidavits that gambling was in progress. These they sent to Gov. Fitzgerald with a copy of the East Detroit City Commission meeting in which it was voted not to enforce the gambling law. The governor turned these over to Attorney General Read with instructions to conduct an investigation. Read stated this would take some time and that he should not hurry any. In the meantime the governor issued several statements in which he said it was up to local communities to enforce the laws and see that they were obeyed. This meaning has been variously interpreted by the press. Carried out it would mean that the various counties are not bound to obey any law unless they desire to. East Detroit officials stated that they would visit the gambling halls Thursday night armed with axes but however they backed up on this. In the meantime about the only thing left to the citizens of East Detroit is to recall the officials who have violated their oath of office by failure to enforce the laws. These include not only the city commissioner but the sheriff and prosecutor. The governor's stand is a queer one and entirely different from that of any other governor. Way back in the days of Governor Fred. M. Warner he threatened to call out the militia to close a Macomb county gambling place unless the sheriff and the prosecutor acted. That was before the existence of the state police. The governor's ultimatum closed the place.

The Michigan Milk Marketing Study Commission has finished its labors and submitted a bill giving the state the right to fix both wholesale and retail milk prices under emergency conditions. This would be the only way to meet the conditions in the milk market and assure both farmer and producer a fair profit on their product and work. But the producers, being better organized than the farmer has always made the latter take the losses. Price setting is the only method of insuring a fair deal for both.

California where a new pension scheme is born every morning, has brought forth still another one. This time they would pay a $50 a month pension to all persons married for 50 consecutive years. We understand this scheme did not originate in Hollywood where 50 hours is the average for married life.

A row developed in the state senate at Lansing last week when Senator Harry Little of this district charged that a resolution to increase the membership of the State Affairs Committee by three was for the purpose of killing Gov. Fitzgerald's labor relations bill. Senator Little is a labor leader and head of the Labor Committee. The State Affairs committee is headed by Senator Musshaw of Grand Rapids who was the leader of the block which killed most of Gov. Fitzgerald's measures two years ago.

The Washington investigations continue to be humorous. The committee investigating the appointment of Prof. Frankfurter to the supreme court called Mrs. Elizabeth Dillman, author of a book on Communism by the same last week. In her book she classed the professor as a Communist. Included in this classification were President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Prof. Glenn Frank, plaintiff's lawyer in the Republican party, and Chief Justice Charles Hughes. Mrs. Dillman's authority on Communism was high as any of those who have far testified on the subject. She would have been a very good witness if the bill passed he would veto it was the means of killing it.

Me Another A General Quiz

The Questions

1. Was John Witherspoon the only preacher who signed the Declaration of Independence?
2. Are there as many Indians in the United States today as there were at the time of the Battle of the Little Big Horn?
3. Who was the first Roosevelt to come to this country?
4. What is a digamist?
5. Is a knot or nautical mile longer or shorter than a land mile?
6. How much floor space is there in the Merchandise Mart in Chicago?
7. Can a steamship whistle cause icebergs to break off from the Arctic glaciers?
8. When did women first color their fingernails and wear them long?

The Answers

1. Yes.
2. There are more Indians in America today than there were in 1876, the year of the battle.
3. According to genealogists the first Roosevelt to come to this country was Claes Martenzen van Roosevelt, in 1640.
4. Anyone married legally the second time.
5. The land mile is 5,280 feet; the nautical mile is 6,080 feet, or 800 feet longer.
6. The Merchandise Mart contains 4,000,000 square feet.
7. The vibrations set up in the air by whistles have been known to do it.
8. In the days of Salome and Cleopatra, women stained their nails with henna. Under the social regime of the Chinese empire, fingernails worn several inches long and covered with gold cases were a symbol of the aristocracy who did not have to work with their hands.

HOW TO RELIEVE COLDS

Simply Follow These Easy Directions to Ease the Pain and Discomfort and Sore Throat Accompanying Colds

1. To ease pain and discomfort and reduce fever take 2 Bayer Tablets—drink a glass of water. Repeat in 2 hours.

2. If throat is raw from cold, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Tablets in 1/2 glass of water... gargle.

THE SIMPLE WAY pictured above often brings amazingly fast relief from discomfort and sore throat accompanying colds.

Try it. Then—see your doctor. He probably will tell you to continue with the Bayer Aspirin because it acts so fast to relieve discomfort of a cold. And to reduce fever.

This simple way, backed by scientific authority, has largely supplanted the use of strong medicines in easing cold symptoms. Perhaps the easiest, most effective way yet discovered. But make sure you get genuine BAYER Aspirin.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Dr. Robert H. Goddard, experimenting with rockets for the last 24 years, and steadily making progress, has had as his goal the penetration of the higher atmosphere, the possible catapulting of messages across the ocean, and sundry scientific inquiries to which he has thought his unique gunnery might supply the answer. Although much Jules Verne stuff has been written about his "rockets to the moon" and about shooting people across the Atlantic in a few minutes, he has been an aloof and patient scientist, intent on seeing only what he sees and not making any handsome promises.

So far as this courier knows, the suggestion by Maj. James E. Randolph that rockets may replace heavy artillery, for long-range bombardment of cities, is the first official recognition of their possible use in warfare. He specifically cites the work of Doctor Goddard, at a time when Doctor Goddard is piling up new patents and getting some of his biggest stasers under control. It is also the time when the tiny, motored plane, evolving from the toy, and controlled by radio, is absorbing the interest of the army experimenters as a possible bomb-dropper.

At Roswell, N. M., financed by the Daniel Guggenheim Foundation, Doctor Goddard has a unique desert laboratory with plenty of elbow room and sky room. He now has a gyro steering mechanism on his rockets, by which they may be accurately aimed. He has gained 30 per cent in range over his best shots of two years ago, and is now forcing his rockets to a speed of 700 miles per hour.

His most valuable contribution to rocketeering, noted by Major Randolph, is his continuous flow of power, instead of the single initial explosion. Gasoline and oxygen, mixing and exploding as they issue from a tall nozzle, give steady propulsion.

Doctor Goddard, an amiable, unassuming, balding man, began his rocket experiments at Clark university in 1914. He is a physicist, absorbed in pure science, admitting that we might hit the moon with a rocket if we wanted to spend that much power, but so far he keeps down to earth on immediate and specific problems—and makes progress.

IT DOES begin to look as though scientists will be the loudest of all when "Beulah Land" rings out at the next singfest. Once upon a time, religionists looked warily whenever a man of science opened his mouth, because so many of them were arguing against a hereafter. But Sir Richard Gregory, with his "It is just as permissible to assume that another world awaits habitation of an exalted type of humanity as it is to believe in the eternal existence of individuality," is only the latest of many to hit the sawdust trail.

Emeritus professor of astronomy, Queens college, London, is one of his present distinctions, and he is also a former editor of the magazine, Nature. The stars have been his chief guide for most of the years since he was born in 1884. How much their lessons helped him to his knighthood, 1919, and his baronetcy, 1931, is a question. But certainly, along with his acknowledged interest in heaven, they must take responsibility for his chief books, "The Vault of Heaven" and "Discovery, or the Spirit of Service of Science."

PROF. WALTER B. CANNON of Harvard avoided a mistake made by Howard Scott. When Mr. Scott appeared as the John the Baptist of technocracy, he started taking our measure for its immediate application.

When Professor Cannon put out "biocracy" several years ago, as a cure for the ills of the "body politic," he made it clear that we could take it or leave it. Hence, while biocracy is still in the suspense file, Professor Cannon finds honor and advancement as the newly-elected president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which body is driving for some grand scale rationalization of science and society. That's the main idea of biocracy—a society which is not at war with the life force.

He is one of the most distinguished physiologists in America, given to neural research. He is the discoverer of a method by which we may hear our brains ticking.

How to Curtain a Group of Windows

By RUTH WYTHE SPEARS

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I want to tell you how much practical help I have received from both of your books. I have been sewing for years but these books have explained many points that I never understood before. I am now planning new draperies to dress my living room up a bit. One group of three windows is especially difficult as the davenport has to be placed in front of them. Can you give me a suggestion? I think I would like a plain valance without gathers or pleats across the top. How should this be made and hung? I have just made a beige allover for the davenport with green piping and bands.—A. D. W."

I would use plain cream colored glass curtains for all three windows and overdrapes at the ends only. A striped material in tones of tan and green and blue would be nice for the draperies with a narrow fringe edging in green and tan or green and blue. A valance board at the top of the windows is essential when a plain valance is used. This board should be four inches wide and 1/4 inch thick. It is screwed in place with L brackets. Ordinary metal curtain rods are placed just under it for the glass curtains and side drapes. The plain valance should be long enough to fit around the ends of the board and should be about six inches deep finished. It should be stiffened with an interlining of crinoline, and an allowance should be made at the top for a tuck or fold to be tacked to the board as shown. Be sure to save this lesson as it is not in either of the books offered below.

C. Houston Goudiss Reports Some Current Knowledge of Vitamin G, a Substance Essential to Growth and Normal Nutrition

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

A NUMBER of the vitamins have been discussed in these columns from time to time. The latest findings of nutritional science have been related, together with suggestions made by outstanding authorities concerning the amounts of different vitamins required to help maintain top health.

So far vitamin G has not been discussed specifically. Yet a knowledge of some of the functions and sources of this vitamin should be possessed by every homemaker. For eminent authorities are of the opinion that it has a far-reaching influence upon health.

Possible Effects on Longevity

The avowed objectives of modern nutritional scientists are to help humanity to enjoy happier, healthier and longer lives. If any one vitamin could be said to have more influence than any other on longevity, the distinction most certainly would be accorded—so far as present knowledge is concerned—to vitamin G.

Extensive laboratory experiments by investigators who are paramount in their field seem to indicate that vitamin G has a pronounced effect upon the maintenance of health and vigor at all ages. It has been demonstrated with experimental animals that a diet containing more vitamin G than is required for normal growth resulted in greater vigor, a postponement of the onset of senility and a comparatively short period of the mental and physical infirmities we usually associate with old age.

Effect on Digestion and Nerves

Laboratory experiments have also indicated that when there is a shortage of vitamin G, digestion is usually impaired. In this respect, a shortage of vitamin G has a slightly different effect than a deficiency of vitamin B. A definite lack of vitamin B causes an abrupt and complete loss of appetite. Withholding vitamin G appears to affect the desire for food, so that experimental animals consume only about two-thirds as much as they would normally take.

A form of nervous depression may occur when the diet is low in vitamin G for any protracted length of time. Other unfortunate consequences may be a decline in the health of the skin. Studies with animals indicated that when the vitamin was withheld, not only did a loss of weight occur, but there were other signs of nutritional failure. These included an inflammation of the mouth, a loss of hair, a thickening and in some cases, a cracking and scaling of the skin.

Vitamin G and Healthy Eyes

Studies with a variety of experimental animals resulted in the startling disclosure that on diets lacking vitamin G the health of the eyes was distinctly affected.

Not only was there a loss of hair around the eyes, but the eyeball developed a whitish appearance which was determined to be cataract.

At present, scientists are not prepared to say whether these laboratory findings may be confirmed clinically. But certainly when we know that in many ways, the food requirements of experimental animals are comparable to those in man, it would be distinctly to our broccoli, the flower buds are said to contain only half as much as the leaves, while the stems contain even less. Among the greens, turnip tops and beet tops have been found to be unusually rich. Investigations indicate that weight for weight, they are twice as rich as eggs, though eggs are considered a good source.

Homemakers will be glad to learn that heating does not appear to destroy vitamin G. Canned foods are therefore as good a source as though they had not been processed.

Milk must not be overlooked. For all practical purposes, and chiefly because of the amounts in which it is consumed, it is probably our most important source of the G vitamin.

One thing is certain. Homemakers should strive—not for diets that are merely adequate in vitamin G... but for a surplus to help build high resistance. One authority has advised a ration that contains four times the amount considered absolutely necessary. The surplus should help to provide a headstart toward the goal of buoyant health.

Questions Answered

Mrs. G. M. L.—The term, water balance, about which you inquired is used to describe the situation in which the available water from food, beverages, and that manufactured in the body equals that of the water excreted or lost from the body. It is to help keep the body in water balance that the daily diet must contain adequate amounts of fluids.

E. G. M. Jr.—Yes, it is true that approximately one-third of the protein required during infancy is stored by the child's body to take care of growth and development. As children grow older, the amount of protein stored for growth gradually decreases until they become adults.

Heat the Coconut.—Before breaking a coconut, heat it in a moderate oven. Crack it and the shell will come off easily.

Baking Potatoes.—Potatoes will bake more quickly, if, after peeling, they are wiped dry and smeared over with dripping before being put in the oven.

When Papering.—It is well when papering a room to remember that large patterns and dark colors will make it appear smaller, while a plain or striped paper, if a light hue, will give an impression of increased size.

Fringed Celery.—Celery looks much more attractive on the table when fringed. To fringe, cut celery into two inch lengths. Fringe each stalk within a quarter of an inch from the center. Put into ice water to which a slice of lemon has been added and let stand until ends are curled.

When to Add Salt.—Salt should never be added to stews, soups and boiled meats until after they're cooked. If put in at first it toughens the fiber of the meat and takes out the juices.

Larger Windows.—A small window may be made to look larger by setting the curtain rods beyond the casing on each side and using the draperies of a material heavy enough so that the casing will not be seen through the material.

NOTES OF 50 YEARS AGO

Frank and Wm. Moran are doing mason work at Hamburg. Reason & Lyman shipped two carloads of stock to Detroit this week. More hitching posts will have to be added in the business section to accommodate the great number of teams coming to town.

Claude and Wm. Black now have their telegraph lines connected with those of C. J. Teeple and A. J. Chappe and all talk together.

Born to Ira Cook and wife Saturday, a 7 1-2 lb. daughter.

Jennie Belle, the famous trotting mare owned by S. G. Teeple, died Thursday night, choking to death on a turnip. She was 20 years old and won many races.

A lyceum has been organized here with George Coleman, president; Jas. Harris, V. Pres.; Laura Wilson, sec.; P. G. Teeple, Treas., and Myrtle A. Finch, Cor. Sec.

Pinckney KOTM No. 285 will give a dance at the Monitor House Jan. 18. The Dexter orchestra including Charles Gibson, the harpist, will play.

The Pinckney Dispatch is six years old and is a better paper than ever. South Lyon Pickett.

Hattie Hinchey, Merritt Chalker, O. T. Baker, Elihue Briggs, and Minnie Dolan are new pupils in the Pinckney School.

Unadilla is again all pepped up over rumors of a coming railroad.

'Ten Nights in a Bar Room' will be put on at the Gregory Maccabee Hall on Jan. 24.

Four carloads of livestock were shipped from Gregory last week.

The citizens of Stockbridge are talking on incorporating.

The new furniture factory at South Lyon is sending out samples.

C. D. VanWinkle who recently moved to Howell has traded his place there for 60 acres in Ocoala.

W. W. Starkey's cooper shop at Fowlerville burned Monday.

For a bonus of $1000 Messrs. Toncray & Yallop agree to build a roller mill at South Lyon.

The Livingston County Mutual Fire Insurance Co., have elected the following officers: Pres., E. A. Bush, Conway V. Pres., George Fitch, of Howell; Sec.-Treas., Isaac Stowe, of Howell; Director, W. K. Sexton, of Marion.

Morris Topping of Plainfield and Fred Carlisle of Detroit are agitating a new railroad to run from Ann Arbor to Charlotte. The cost would be $3000 a mile.

RURAL WOMEN TO VIEW STYLES

Sixty three home economics students at Michigan State College will put on a collegiate style revue for the entertainment and information value it will present to rural women during the 24th annual farmers week program at Michigan State College January 30 to Feb. 3.

Included among those who will model clothing:

Alpena County: Isabel Alfsen. Bay County, Patricia Pearsall. Berrien County, Cynthia Conrod. Branch County, Arvella Greenmayer. Clinton County, Jeanne Marshall. Crawford County, Jean Peterson. Charlevoix County, Hilda Roe. Genesee County, Myrabelle Docksey, Rita Kasper, Mary Asman. Gogebic County, Elfreda Rosemurgy. Jackson County, Mary Ann Libey. Kent County, Marjorie Giberson, Fay Kinder.

Ionia County, Betty Jane Johnson, Dorothy Darling. Ingham County, Annabell Campbell, Patricia Wood, Charlotte Byrum, Jean Collar, Jane Wise, Fauvette Johnston, Jean Sprinkle, Rachel Stiles, Mary Walpole, Belva Trickey, Virginia Light, Marion Patch, Frances Patch.

Lapeer County, Mary Borland. Lenawee County, Elsie Witt. Monroe County, Alice Kirkland. Montcalm County, Marjorie Shupe, Katherine Rader. Muskegon County, Marjorie Wagner, Lois Bolt, Helen Murray. Oakland County, Helene Foss. Ottawa County, Nina Hahn. St. Clair County, Jean Warner, Helen Cawood.

Wayne County, Josephine Besancon, Elizabeth Robertson, Jean McClanahan, Jean Curtis, Jeanne Summers. Dorothy Pickett, Lucille Toll, Jane Craith, Barbara Smith, Viola Prill. Wexford County, Helen Simpson. Washtenaw County, Corrinne Russ. Out of State, Mary Clark.

This 1939 fashion show is being directed by Miss Marion Hillhouse, assistant professor of Clothing at the college.

To make the style revue more interesting the modeling by the girls will be of garments which they have planned and completed as part of their work in the clothing classes.

All types of materials and costumes for various occasions are to be featured as the girls tread the stage of the Little Theater in the Home Economics building. The students originally started in elementary classes. In advanced work they did not use commercial patterns but went into individual design and then modelled and constructed the garments. The revue is scheduled for 10:00 a. m., Wednesday, Feb. 1.

SCHOOL AID ISSUE IRKS M. E. A. BOARD

Howell Man Reports on Surety of School Officials on Aid to the Rural Students.

Mr. Osborne of Howell, representing independent friends of education in Michigan appeared before the board of directors of the Michigan Education association on Saturday and presented a resume of the returns on a questionnaire he had sent to superintendents and secretaries of school boards.

Mr. Osborne had received replies from 183 schools distributed from Plymouth to Bessemer, including 15 telegrams. Following is a tabulation of questions and replies.

1: Do you believe that the tuition or rural school graduates should be paid in full, up to cost of instruction, not to exceed $100 per annum, out of state aid? Yes, 178; No, 4; no voting, 1.

2: Do you believe that transportation of pupils within consolidated school districts should be so paid in full? Yes, 143; no, 18; no voting, 22.

3: Do you believe that transportation of rural pupils who live in districts not having a high school should be so paid to a nearby high school? Yes, 138; no, 26; no voting, 19.

4: Do you believe that tuition and transportation bill to the state for services rendered during any school year and completed before June 30 of that year should be paid out of the first available school aid money after July 1? Yes, 154; no, 10; no voting, 19.

Wants Full Payment

Mr. Osborne's position is that tuition should be paid in full, that transportation be paid in full, and that both should be paid promptly when appropriated state aid money is available. Under the present ruling of the state superintendent, final payment of tuition for services rendered before June 30, 1938, will not be made until April 15, 1939. And this will not be a payment in full, unless the state legislature so provides in an emergency appropriation.

Mr. Osborne also believes that the tuition of rural pupils to a nearby high school should be paid in full in unconsolidated school areas, but he does not believe that this should be attempted during the next biennium on account of the present serious condition of state finances.

After Mr. Osborne had completed his presentation of material and opinions he thanked the board for their courtesy and patience in hearing him through and then asked for criticism of him or the position he had taken. There were a number of criticisms. Pres. E. H. Babcock was critical of the fact that, last August, Mr. Osborne had tried to induce the board of directors of the M. E. A. to invite all four candidates for the governorship to speak on educational issues before a state-wide rally of friends of education in Lansing. This Mr. Babcock thought, was embarrassing to the M. E. A.

Blasts Booklet

Mr. Babcock and Fred Bailey were critical of Mr. Osborne for having written and distributed widely a political document commonly known as 'The Little Pink Circular' entitled 'What Frank Murphy has Done for the Public Schools of Michigan', all pages except the title page being blank. Both Mr. Babcock and Mr. Bailey made denunciations of this pamphlet. Mr. Bailey described it as scurrilous. Both said it was very embarrassing to the M. E. A.

Dr. Eugene Elliott stated that all Mr. Osborne was trying to do was to push E. E. Gallup into announcing himself as a candidate for the state superintendent of public instruction. He didn't state whether he thought this was embarrassing to the M. E. A. or not.

John Page was critical of the fact that Mr. Osborne had not kept himself better informed about previous actions and attitudes of the legislative committee of the M. E. A.

None of the critics commented on the fact that 97.5 per cent of all votes on the questionnaire favored

Mrs. Charles Wehner entertained the Lakeland circle of Kings Daughters at her home at its first meeting of the new year Tuesday afternoon with about 25 in attendance: guests were, Mrs. J. W. Marr, county president and Miss Mary Jean Wallace county nurse, both of Howell.

The following officers were installed for the ensuing year by Mrs. Marr: president, Mrs. Harry A. Lee, V. president, Mrs. Smith Martin, Secretary, Mrs. Thomas W. Featherly, Treasurer, Mrs. Edward G. Houston, junior leader, Mrs. Ben Tomlin.

Mrs. Russell Randell was initiated into the order by Mrs. Marr.

The following officers and committees were appointed for the year: Junior Leader, Mrs. Ben Tomlin; work committee, Mrs. Smith Martin, Mrs. Elmer Stofflet and Mrs. Glenn Borton, emergency, Miss Viola Pettys; Mrs. Bert Hooker and Mrs. Mary A. Downing; quilt, Mrs. Jennie Ferman, Mrs. Charles Wehner, and Mrs. Werner Todt; entertainment, Mrs. Clifford C. VanHorn, Mrs. Russell Randell and Mrs. Joe Basydlo, camp Mrs. Mildred Whitlock; Mrs. E. Clyde Dunning and Mrs. Smith Martin; the flower, Mrs. Ben Tomlin, Publicity, Miss Jule Adele Ball.

Mrs. Wm. O. Bird presented the circle with a pieced quilt top and a pair of hand knit mittens; the mittens were drawn by Mrs. Werner Todt and the proceeds put into the convalescent fund.

Mrs. E. Clyde Dunning presented Mrs. Elmer Stofflet, retiring president with a gift from the circle.

Mrs. Harry A. Lee gave a yearly report of the flower committee and as leader of the junior circle and Mrs. Clifford Van Horn read the yearly report of the treasurer, Miss Jule Adele Ball.

A letter of thanks was read from the state Sanatorium at Howell for gifts and a letter of greetings from Mrs. Robert G. Jack of Gulfport, Miss, a former member of the circle. Remarks were made by Mrs. Marr and Miss Wallace.

The next meeting will be a Valentine party held at the home of Mrs. Thomas W. Featherly Tuesday afternoon, February 14, with a pot luck dinner at one o'clock; each one is expected to bring a valentine. Mrs. Wehner served sandwiches, cookies, cake, pickles and tea.

The annual meeting of the Hamburg Cemetery Association was held at Jerry's Hardware store at Hamburg village Saturday afternoon with the president, Charles I. Bennett, presiding. Reports of the secretary Miss Jule Adele Ball, and treasurer, E. Wray Hinckley were read and approved. The financial report showed a balance on hand of $41.54, with expenditures of $86.60. It was voted to levy an assessment of $1.00 per lot and 50c per half lot for 1939.

The president was instructed to purchase the necessary ropes, etc. for properly raising and lowering the cemetery flag, and purchase a soldiers marker for the grave of the late Earl C. Lear, World War Veteran. His grave making the 15th soldier's grave in the cemetery. The Hamburg cemetery is one of the oldest cemeteries in Livingston county; the first burial being that of Christopher Lupton Culver in April 1830, who was killed at a barn raising.

Officers elected for the ensuing year are: President, Charles I. Bennett, secretary, Miss Jule Adele Ball, treasurer, E. Wray Hinckley, sexton, Columbus Rushlow.

A meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Carpenter of Hamburg to discuss the organization of a Community Farm Bureau Unit. There were representatives of 10 Farm Bureau families of Hamburg and Genoa present. Roy Welt and Ray Smalley, organization men for the Bureau and Lee Harwood discussed the organization and purpose of the Community Farm Bureau groups.

Officers elected for the ensuing year are: Chairman, Clayton E. Carpenter, V. Chairman, Wm. Haack, secretary, Mrs. Robert Herbst, discussion leader, Robert Herbst, recreational leaders, Miss Frances Sharp and Mrs. Clifford Van Horn. Games were enjoyed under the leadership of Miss Sharp. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Carpenter.

Meetings will be held monthly at the homes of members. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herbst Wednesday, February 15th.

BLIND MAN'S BUFF

Have you ever hunted in the dark to turn on a light? Aside from the lurking ambush of an open cupboard door (a favorite object to bump into in the dark) there are many good reasons for not putting up with this annoyance. One's time can be spent much more pleasantly than in groping for a dangling chain on a light fixture in the center of the room. A light switch on the wall by the door costs very little, and pays for itself many times over in convenience and safety. Telephone any electrical contractor for an estimate on this work. CRUCIBLE

CHAPTER XI

Mrs. Sentry went to see her husband on the morning after the jury's verdict was returned. Phil drove her to the prison, but she would not let him come in.

"Not this time, Phil," she said, and she was smiling, something in her eyes which he had never seen there before. "Not this time," she repeated. "This is for Arthur and me. A reunion, Phil."

And she got out of the car and walked almost proudly toward the forbidding door; and Phil watched her, wondering at the change in her in these recent days. She seemed increasingly frail; but also she seemed somehow younger, and there was a quality in her countenance he found it hard to name, a sort of translucent clarity, as though all confusion was gone out of her and her heart was quite serene.

When she came out, not long after, she wore radiance. She got in beside Phil, and she leaned suddenly and kissed him and said, "You look as he did when we were young, Phil."

He set the car in motion. "How is he?" he asked.

"I left him fine."

He nodded. "Did you make any plans? About the appeal, or anything? Or about buying out Mr. Loran?"

She even laughed a little. She said: "Heavens, no! We just talked about each other." And after a moment she told him, "Phil, everything he said about what happened that night was true."

"I believe him," he assented. "But of course what we believe doesn't help much."

"It helps me much," she confessed. "It helps me. So long as I know—I can manage not to mind so much what others believe. Whatever happens."

They came home thus, and went up to see Barbara; and Barbara watched her mother and seemed in some way to be better suddenly. And the days went on.

It was Mr. Sentry himself who presently assumed the decisive voice in the matter of buying the business from Mr. Loran. Phil and his mother were still uncertain what to do about this, when Mr. Hare came to the house a few days after the trial ended to say that Mr. Sentry had sent for him, had discussed the question.

"I told him Mr. Loran's proposition," he explained. "He feels that the valuation set up by Mr. Loran is too low, and so he believes it is better to buy than to sell."

Mrs. Sentry said: "What about payment? I should not care to buy on anything but a cash basis."

Hare assured her: "That can be managed. I went over it with Mr. Sentry, and later with his brokers. His investments are in good shape."

"I prefer not to see Mr. Loran myself," Mrs. Sentry remarked. "It would be painful to him and to me."

"Of course," Hare agreed. "But I can handle the whole transaction, under proper powers."

She asked, after a moment, "Has Mr. Sentry talked with Mr. Falkran about the appeal?"

"No. Falkran is to see him tomorrow morning."

"Mr. Falkran was here yesterday," she explained. "To discuss it with me. To explain some of the things—" And she said: "I did not always understand him, the technical points. I told him we wished to take every proper measure. But I warned him that we did not want any tricks, evasions, miserable meaningless delays." She asked suddenly, "What do you think, Dean?"

Hare hesitated. "Well, it's possible he might get a new trial."

"Do you feel that Mr. Sentry had a fair trial?"

The lawyer hesitated. "I'm not experienced in criminal cases," he said evasively.

Murr, who knew everything; and through that encounter with Mrs. Loran, Endie's sister. Phil was bitter toward Mary; but Mrs. Sentry would hear no word of criticism.

"You mustn't blame her, Phil," she insisted. "When a ship is wrecked, people have to—snatch at anything."

Now he came back into the living-room to find his mother sitting with streaming eyes, the letter in her nerveless hands. She extended it to him; and he read it in slow rising rage.

Dear Mother and the rest of you: Well, I've been following the fortunes of the grand old family name in the home papers. Stout fellows, all of you, to stick with the sinking ship; but even a rat knows enough to leave on such occasions I'm the rat! Sorry, but there it is.

I've got a sinking ship on my own hands, but there will be plenty of salvage. After we left home, we honey-mooned as far as New York, and by that time, being mutually bored, were ready for company. Picked up half a dozen of such congenial spirits, and a hundred cases of ditto, tried Jamaica.

Havana, Bermuda, and other places too numerous to mention. Finally drifted back here to get rid of our sea legs and pink elephants and red, white, and blue mice.

Since then I've had some trouble finding places to lay my head, my own bed being so often occupied; but Florida has decided to go after the divorce trade in a big way, so I won't even have to go to Reno. It's hot here already, but I can stand it till my sentence is served. The lawyers say I'll get about a thousand dollars a month and found, and I've got another place in sight. Fine old Castilian family from Rio. The boy's only twenty-four, with no mother to guide him, and he can't resist my rapidly maturing charms. He counts his beef critters. I am told, in terms of light years. We shall probably live on the Riviera.

Give my dearest love to father. It's through him I have met so many charming people.

Your Mary

Phil read, and his face was like ice. He crumpled the stiff note-paper in his hand and strode toward the fireplace, without looking at his mother, without speaking; but she said quickly: "No, Phil. You didn't read the last page."

Phil looked at her then, saw again her tears; but he saw too that they were not tears of anger, nor even of hopeless grief; and he smoothed out the wrinkled paper and read on the other side, like a belated postscript:

Mother, when I was little and terribly hurt, I'd run to you, crying, and kick your shins awfully, and then feel better. Remember? You never seemed to mind, seemed to understand.

He read these lines two or three times, and some faint understanding came to him. He said, half-reluctant, "You want to keep it?"

"Yes."

"Going to write to her?"

"Just a line," she said. "Just three or four words. That's all she wants, all I can give."

He left her with the letter in her hands, smoothing it across her knees, stroking it almost caressingly. As he passed through the hall, he heard her deep inhalation, as though it were hard to fill her aching, empty lungs.

Mary was gone, he thought; lost to them. And Barbara too? She no longer showed a temperature every night and morning, yet except when Dan was with her she seemed weak and weaker, as though her life were draining slowly away. Phil went up to her now.

He found her lying relaxed, flat on her back, her legs straight, her hands at her sides; and near her head the clock ticked, ticked. The room was very still, and Phil looked at her and thought she was asleep, and then she spoke, as she sometimes did in her sleep, in almost natural tones.

She murmured, "—bite off my tongue."

Phil, remembering Doctor Maitop's instructions, asked softly: "Why? Why, Barb?" He came near her, sat close beside her.

"I won't tell!" she murmured. "I won't tell! I'll bite off my tongue!"

"You don't have to tell anything, Barb dear."

She said, in a dull fashion: "I don't want to go to sleep. I dream if I sleep. I'm not asleep, not asleep."

"No."

"They can't make me tell."

"Of course not, Barb."

"But I saw him, saw him that night, down there. Mr. Flood knows I know, and he'll try to make me tell."

"It's all right, Barb."

"I can't tell if I can talk, can I?" She smiled in a sly, secret fashion. "Asleep, Barb?" He was leaning near, close beside her, close above her, close protecting her. "It's all right, Barb."

"No," she said. "No, I'm thinking."

"What are you thinking?"

"If I can't talk, they can't make me, can they? Because if I did, it would kill him. And he didn't do it, Phil!"

Phil touched her brow to see whether she was feverish. Her head was cool, yet at his touch she moved convulsively, like one awakening. Her eyes opened and she saw him, and she said quickly: "I wasn't talking. I wasn't talking. I can't talk."

"You're talking now, Barb. You're all right."

"Oh!" she whispered. "Was I?"

"Yes," he assured her. "You were talking as well as anyone."

"I heard myself," she admitted, and she said: "Phil, I'm better! I'm better, Phil!"

"You're fine," he told her. His own heart was pounding; he was glad for the drawn shades, the shadows in the room, so that she could not see his excitement. "You can talk, Barb. You can talk now."

"Yes," she said, wondering. "I can talk. Why, I am talking, Phil. I heard myself talking in my sleep."

"You're not asleep now. You're talking now." His pulse raced with the thought: She is better, better! "I can talk to mother!" she cried. "Phil, I can talk to mother!"

"Yes, to anyone."

"To Linda?"

"Yes, of course."

"To Dan?"

"Yes, to Dan."

He saw color suffuse her white cheek. "To Dan," she whispered. "To Dan, to Dan." murmuring, her eyes drooping. "Dan . . . Dan . . ." And quietly, she was asleep.

Phil saw her breathing ease to a regular and even beat. When he could leave without awakening her, he went in haste to tell his mother; and to telephone jubilantly to Doctor Maitop.

The doctor was delighted. "Fine!" he cried. "She may sleep twelve hours, twenty-four; but she'll wake as good as new."

He was almost right. Barbara slept till noon next day; and when she woke, she spoke easily and naturally. On the second day she was able to sit up; on the third, to get out of bed.

But before that, another thing had happened to bring them something like peace. Mr. Falkran saw his client; Mr. Sentry directed him not to appeal.

After it had been determined to buy out Mr. Loran, Phil accepted the decision almost gratefully.

The dissolution of the partnership was arranged to take place as of April 1. During the interval before that date, Phil went daily to the office. Mr. Loran, as he had expected, received him with restraint. Phil saw that Loran, too, had suffered from the ordeal they had all endured; and when their first talk of business matters was done, the boy said apologetically:

"Mr. Loran, I want to tell you. Mother and I didn't know—what was going to happen at the trial. I mean, about mentioning you."

"Forget it," Mr. Loran told him. "Damned lawyer's trick, that's all; to throw mud at random and try to make it stick. Falkran knew that. Just dragging a dead herring across the trail." And he said: "I'm going out of town tomorrow. Be back April 1 to clean up the whole thing here. You can be learning the ropes. And of course, Miss Randall has been here nearly twenty years. She could run the business alone if you let her. You'll get along."

Phil had his misgivings; but when after the first of April he took full charge, matters went—to his own surprise—very well. On routine matters, Miss Randall could advise him; and the momentum of the business would carry it for a while. There were resignations, but none that were sufficiently important to cripple the organization. And those major decisions, in which a mistake in judgment might have proved costly, did not crowd upon him.

But despite this, his world was suddenly awry. From the day the papers had been signed, he saw little of Linda. She sometimes came to the house, and he had glimpses of her; but she never stayed long, and Phil missed her, and one evening told her so.

"I don't blame you, of course," he said reluctantly. "After all, you've given us a lot of time, been wonderfully generous. I can understand that you have other things—"

She smiled secretly. "I'm very busy just now, Phil," she admitted.

He had, during April, other concerns. Three times he saw his father, going to the state prison with Mr. Hare. It was necessary for Phil to acquaint himself with every detail of the family affairs. In lieu of a will, Mr. Sentry made deeds of gift; and arrangements were concerted to meet gift or inheritance taxes without a sacrifice of assets. Also, he set up a trust for Mr. Wines, the father of the dead girl, so that the old man's remaining years of life might be secure.

At the end of the third occasion, all was done; and then, under the guard's eye, Phil and his father bade each other good-by.

She murmured, "—Bite Off My Tongue."

Lost Tribe of Apache Indians Found by an Explorer on a Tour of Mexico

An explorer's story of a lost tribe of Apache Indians, mostly women and children clad in buckskins and fighting with primitive bows and arrows for existence in the mountains of Mexico, saddened the office of Indian affairs, states a writer in the Washington Star.

Commissioner John Collier writes of "this strange and sad account" given the Indian office by Dr. Helge Ingstad, Norwegian ethnologist, in a recent issue of Indians at Work.

Dr. Ingstad, formerly governor of Greenland and Spitzbergen, proved that the "Lost Apaches of Mexico" are not a myth when he sought them last year, Mr. Collier said.

"There is a vast mountain," the commissioner wrote, "150 miles below Douglas, Ariz., in Mexico. It rises to 13,000 feet and is cleft with huge canyons.

"There, on ledges such as mountain lions or eagles might occupy, or constantly moving from place to place, sometimes, afoot, sometimes on stolen horses, and sometimes on foot, were the Lost Apaches. Most of the survivors are women, with a few children. Doctor Ingstad never talked with them face to face, but saw them at distances of 100 yards, clad in buckskins, fleeing on.

"The ancient Apache-Mexican feud carries down, and 'Kill them on sight' is the rule toward Apaches, he says.

"Their extinction could be prevented if they could be reached and led back to the United States. Possibly Doctor Ingstad will try again, next year. He is returning to Norway, leaving this strange and sad account with the Indian office."

While the Chief Slept That tragical Black Hole affair of Calcutta, enshrined in English history, would probably never have occurred if the Subah of the country had not fallen asleep. For, as history tells the story, the cries of the 150 miserable Englishmen, crowded into a narrow space without ventilation and in danger of suffocation, touched the hearts of the Hindus who were guarding them, but their chief, the Subah, was asleep, and no one in Bengal dared to disturb his slumbers and request an order for the relief of the sufferers!

SCHOOL NOTES

Pinckney high school entered the win column in basket ball at last but it was the girls who put them there by beating the Brighton girls 35 to 39. Victoria Kulbicki had a big night, scoring 30 of Pinckney's 39 points. Pinckney had a seven point lead with 2 minutes to go. A number of substitutes were sent in. This nearly proved fatal as Brighton put on a rally and came within a single point of tying the score.

The Pinckney reserve team of boys lost 24 to 9 and the high school varsity 18 to 27. The boys still seem weak on basket shooting.

The games were played at Brighton Friday.

This week Friday the boys and girls teams will both play at the Pinckney gym with the Fowlerville teams as their opponents.

A foul shooting contest for those in High School has begun. The tournament began January 27. Winners will be determined by elimination. The contestants are paired off and must have their shooting done by January 19. The winners of the first elimination will then be paired off and must finish their contest by January 23. Two more similar elimination contests will be held, thus leaving only one person of each, a boy and a girl. The question in mind is 'who will the winner be?'

Pinckney High school enlisted another student Tuesday. His name is Clarence Cece and he has enrolled in the eleventh grade.

A party was given by Mrs. Myers Tuesday night. The party was open to members of the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades. After school, with sleds, toboggans and skis the 'caravan' made its way to Monks Hill. Hope you all enjoyed yourselves.

The second in a series of assembly programs will be held at the school gym Monday, January 23rd. The program will begin at 7:30. The numbers for these programs are chosen from the assembly programs given every Wednesday by different grades. We would appreciate a very large turnout.

The next basketball game is with Fowlerville here. There will be a boys and a girls game.

NEW PROGRAM OF SPORTS LAUNCHED AT PINCKNEY

Pinckney High this week will start its Intramural Sports program under the direction of the Athletic Board in Control of Physical Education. The purpose of this program is to give the boys and girls that are not members of the Varsity squads an opportunity to make use of the excellent Physical Education Department that the Pinckney School possesses. The program will be run during the noon hour period with several tournaments in progress. This week the foul shooting contest will start having 26 boys entered and 18 girls.

Contests to be held will be table tennis, basketball, golf, basketball '21', shuffleboard, and others. Medals will be given to the winner of each contest. With this type activity all have equal chance to become a winner. The Athletic Board hopes that the girls and boys of Pinckney High will take an active part in this program, which will be supervised by Coach Burg who has had considerable experience in handling Intramural Sports.

PHILATHEA NOTES

The Philathea Class of the Pinckney Cong'l church S. S. met with Mrs. Hattie Swarhout on January 11, for the annual election of officers, the reports of the year and tying of a quilt. Due to the illness of Mrs. Elliott the vice president conducted the business of the afternoon. The chaplain read 1 Peter 2: 1-12 and Mrs. McCluca offered a prayer. Mrs. Meda Henry acted as Secretary, reading the report of the November Missionary meeting and presenting bills and communications. The Roll Call letter was 'Q'. Several plates were sent out and a pot luck lunch was enjoyed as usual.

The next meeting, which will be the first quarterly Missionary meeting of the year, occurs on February 8, the place and program committee, to be announced later.

The officers selected for 1939 are as follows:

- Teacher Mrs. R. K. Elliott
- First Assistant Mrs. Edith Peck
- 2nd Assistant Clella Fish
- President Mrs. Millie Elliott
- V. President Clella Fish
- Secretary Mrs. Jesse Henry
- Treasurer Mrs. John Chambers
- Chaplain Mrs. Hattie Swarhout
- Organist Mrs. Carrie Swarhout
- Reporter Clella Fish

The pastor conducted an installation of Officers and Teachers of the S. S. on Sunday morning, followed by our usual class periods. As far as possible the Philatheas covered the second and third lessons of this series on Peter's life following the first lesson on Peter's call to service. For next Sunday comes the subject, Peter Denies His Lord, Luke, 22:31-34, and Luke 22:54-62. In this we can see the unhappy result of trying to warm ourselves over the fire of those who are disloyal to Christ.

Over Sixty-Eight Years of Safe Banking

Sir Harry Lauder

"People open the check book too often and the bankbook not often enough" said Harry Lauder. He appreciated the enjoyment of seeing his bank account grow not in a miserly fashion, but rather as a means to a fuller enjoyment of life. Sir Harry knew full well that everytime the checkbook was used there was so much less in the bankbook. The above statement is economics in its simplest form. With this view open a Savings Account and make your bankbook open more than the checkbook.
