

Special Election to Be Called

The Reasons Why There Will Be Insufficient Revenue to Operate the Schools the Next Few Years is Explained. Election to Raise Tax Rate Probable.

A small crowd was present at the school house last Friday night to hear the financial position of the school. A larger crowd should have been present as this school question is a matter of vital importance to the community.

M. J. Reason, president of the school board called the meeting to order and outlined the purpose of the meeting. Supt. Hulce was then called up and showed the financial setup in 1935 when the school bonding proposition was adopted using the same map with the yearly interest payments and principal running until 1962 which was prepared at that time by former Supt. J. P. Doyle. If conditions had continued unchanged this would have worked out perfectly. However, conditions did change. The Doyle setup provided that the school should receive 7 mills on the winter tax levied. Last year they received but six mills and this year six and a half. Also the state aid was cut to the bone. The coming year the school could squeeze through but each succeeding year there would be a deficit. This has been increased too, by the fact that the valuation of the school district has been reduced from $390,400 in 1935-36 to $373,000 the past year. State aid in 1937-38 was $9181.64. In 1938-39 it was $7,993.87.

The operating expenses of the school for the past four years were as follows:

1935-36	$10,192
1936-37	$12,138
1937-38	$15,445
1938-39	$12,739.87
1939-40 (estimated)	$13,400

The four mills tax increase voted in the district in 1935 has two more years to run, it having been voted for 5 years only. At the end of that the principal payments on the school debt drop to $500 a year. An increase of 2 mills would allow the school to meet their obligation.

It will take a two-thirds majority to carry the two mill increase.

The last legislature changed the law in regard to school elections to raise the 15 mill limit. Previously it was necessary that a person who voted on such a proposition be a taxpayer. Now all that is necessary is that he or she be 21 years old, a citizen and a resident of the school district for 20 days before the election.

Supervisor Norman Reason was present and explained the township tax money, apportionment and why the school's share was cut. He said that the 15 mill limit had never been levied in Putnam township. Last year but twelve and one half mills was levied which added to the four mills voted for the school in 1935 brought the total up to sixteen and one half mills instead of nineteen mills as many people believe. In apportioning the tax the county comes first. Last year they took five and one half mills, the township took three and one half mills, poor and insane one mill, leaving but six and one half mills for the school. That Putnam township has a very low tax rate. Some units of the county pay 30 mills and in some the townships or city takes eight mills. He stated that at the present the outlook with the PWA and Welfare appropriations cut to the bone it is probable that the welfare costs will have to be assumed by the county or township and if this happens the school's share of the tax dollar will be cut still farther.

After some discussion it seemed to be the consensus of opinion that a special election will have to be held to increase the tax rate two mills. This is practically ordered by the dept. of public instruction and they have a way of enforcing their demands and they control the primary school money. If the proposition does not carry the first time it will have to be resubmitted.

Pinckney Boy Badly Injured

Robert Carr, 12, is Wounded Last Wednesday When Rifle Accidently Goes Off Near County Gravel Pit.

Robert Carr, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Carr suffered a bad wound last Wednesday afternoon. He and Ross Lamb, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Lamb had been out shooting with a .22 caliber rifle in the section just north of the village. About 5:00 p. m. they arrived at the county gravel pit on what was formerly part of the Dr. Haze farm. They sat down to rest and placed the rifle on a pile of stone there which had been thrown out from the gravel sifter. When Lamb picked up the gun it went off, the bullet striking young Carr in the right hip. With the assistance of Lamb he was able to walk as far as the Pinckney Die Set Factory nearby where Clifford Haines who is employed there took him to the Pinckney Sanitarium in his auto. He was operated upon that night by Dr. Ray Duffey, assisted by Drs. Hollis Sigler and H. C. Hill of Howell and the bullet removed. It was found that it had penetrated the intestine and bladder. It was necessary to insert tubes to allow these organs to drain and for several days the wounded boy was in a critical condition and infection was feared. At the present time he is improving rapidly and if complications do not set in, should recover.

The boy was on the operating table an hour and a half. Drs. Duffey and Sigler did the operating and Dr. Hill gave the anesthetic. Mrs. Laboe wife of one of the head doctors at the Howell TB Sanitarium and a graduate nurse also assisted and has since acted as special nurse for the boy. An intestine operation is one of the most serious and critical operations on record and the fatalities in such cases run very high. Since the accident young Carr has been unable to take any nourishment, being kept alive by injections in the veins.

As a result of qualifying for the second successive year as a member of the company's leading agents, Harold Ludtke of Gregory will leave by train Saturday to join the head officials and others for a trip to Montreal and Quebec where the Dominion Life Insurance Co. will celebrate their Golden Jubilee. Mr. Ludtke last year took a course under Prof. Irwin of the U. of M. in life insurance which it will take four years to complete.

Mr and Mrs. Will Mercer attended the Shaw-Reason reunion at Newport Meach, Sunday, about 40 being present.

Every day that they add to their span of life, now in the second year, makes the twin mules shown with Floyd Lincoln, farm manager of the farm of the Prison of Southern Michigan, a greater oddity. Rare are instances when twin mules are born, rarer are instances in which they live. These state-owned mules are the only living twin mules in the nation, according to records of the various breeder's organizations.

Sunday, Aug. 20 Is St. Mary's Picnic

Annual Event of the Past 50 Years or More Will Take Place on the Public Square Next Sunday.

St. Mary's church of Pinckney will hold their annual picnic on the public square here on next Sunday.

August 20th. The days events will start with a big chicken dinner at noon, which will continue until all are served. The ladies of the parish have a reputation of years standing for the excellence of the chicken dinners they serve which are equaled nowhere else in the land. You are welcome to all you can eat and some of the local hearty eaters have been known to get away with four helpings. A bevy of Pinckney's most popular young men will handle the coffee situation. This beverage served at the picnic here is unequalled anywhere in the country for its quality (not even Del Monico's in New York City excepted.)

Following the dinner there will be games and amusements on the picnic grounds for all. It is also planned to have plenty of seats for those who desire to rest. This event is attended yearly by many former residents of the vicinity and members of the parish who take this opportunity to revisit the old home town and pay their respects to their friends of years ago.

Mark this date down on your calendar and plan to visit Pinckney on Sunday, August 20th, and meet your old friends.

IMPROVEMENTS BEING MADE AT SCHOOL

Sanitary Engineer William Jeffreys is busy getting the Pinckney school ready for the fall term. The floors in the new addition are being sanded and put in first class shape.

A door has been cut through from the place off the gymnasium, previously used to store chairs to the basement, making it possible to go from the gym to the locker room and showers without going through the main part of the school building.

This is the second time tragedy has struck this family. His two brothers, John, 18, and Alonzo, 16, both lost their lives by drowning on July 13 last at Whalen Lake near Hartland.

COMMENT

Detroit is experiencing its annual gambling scandal with apparently the same old whitewash pail being brought out. This clearing of the police dept. in jig time is not relished by the public and the Detroit papers are asking a grand jury investigation. A peculiar situation exists there. In all cities which have police depts., the state police and sheriff leave the law enforcement inside the city limits to them. For some time past gambling such as the policy games and hand books have flourished apparently unchecked in Detroit. There have been several scandals and mixups and charges made against the police but nothing has come of them. Last week a woman employed in a big policy gambling hall which had some 50 employees committed suicide leaving a number of letters to the governor, newspapers, etc., in which she made charges against a certain police officer. Investigations galore started, none of which however, did more than scratch the surface. The usual exoneration followed. Now it is an impossibility for these gambling games to flourish unknown to the police. The blind pigs flourished in the old prohibition days but you could not make any one believe that the different law enforcing agencies were not aware of it. A grand jury investigation in Detroit should get at the truth of the matter and at rest some of the rumors which continue to persist.

The schools will have to wait for their primary money on Sept. 1, according to Vern Brown, auditor general as there are not sufficient funds on hand to pay it. The schools have $10,417,781 due them but there is but $2,300,000 in the treasury. Of this amount $1,750,000 is still due the counties as their share of the gas and weight tax. More money will be coming in but it will be necessary to pay the schools their primary money in dribbles so some of the school payrolls will be delayed somewhat.

The State Land Board will become possessed of hundreds of occupied and income producing properties on Nov. 3. These tax-forfeited lands number 600,000 parcels, many of which are apartment houses and business properties which were sold at the tax sale. Taking these over will present a huge management problem for the board. In a great many cases it is probable that the present managers will be allowed to handle them for the state. Next February the scavenger sale takes place when all these properties will be sold by the county treasurers and deeds given to purchasers.

When a dog bites a man it is news. According to that this should be news. Recently E. J. Parr was appointed director of drugs and of drug stores by the state board at $5000 a year. He immediately sought Auditor General Brown's approval to reduce his salary to $4000 a year saying the job was not worth $5000 a year. Whether the auditor general has the authority to reduce his salary when the law sets it at $5000 is a question.

The Livingston County Press in their last issue sums up the results of the last session of congress in an able manner. In spite of Republican claims no important Roosevelt legislation was repealed and the essence of most New Deal legislation will be with us for years to come. It has created a new era for society just as surely as the auto did for travel and like the auto the fundamental principles of these laws will be improved until in the future they will no more resemble the present ones than today's car compares with the buggy of 30 years ago. During adjournment Congress will find way to improve the wage and hour law, social security and other proletarian measures of magnanimous intent. In other words the paper thinks that this New Deal legislation is here to stay but will be improved.

Carefully, he instructed her, and as he showed her how to operate her cash register, he added: "Remember now to ring up the result of every sale."

He found that she was ringing up, time after time, "No Sale."

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Having failed to talk to Mars as the planet made its nearest approach to the earth since 1924, Dr. Clyde Fisher has not abandoned hope that sometime still has hopes of contracting neighbor Mars.

Dr. Fisher is better known to the Sioux as "afraid of bear," a sobriquet applied to him when he was adopted by that tribe. His wife, Te Ata (Bearer of Light), is a full-blooded Oklahoma Chickasaw Indian whom he met when she came to the museum in 1934 as a lecturer on Indian culture.

Lying in the astronomer's background is the little red school house whence so many eminent Americans have come to take significant part in the life of this nation. This particular seat of elementary learning was in Ohio, and there at 17 he had graduated from student to teacher. One summer during his career as a youthful pedagogue he registered for the summer course at Ohio Normal, and there an incident occurred destined to affect his life.

He became affiliated with the American Museum of Natural History in 1913, and while much of his work was concerned with this earth, its flora, fauna, fish and other manifestations of nature, he found time as president of the Amateur Astronomers' association to search the heavens, and is credited with having done more than any fellow astronomer to popularize the science through presentation in terms of lay understanding.

His mundane expeditions have included many remote and mysterious regions. With Carveth Wells he twice traversed Little-known Swedish and Norwegian Lapland, making valuable moving pictures. New Yorkers and untold thousands of visitors to the metropolis will know him best as curator of the Hayden planetarium.

WHEN Miss Lillian Spalding was a girl out in Michigan, she was not content with watching the boys play baseball. She got into the game herself, and won local school fame as a first baseman who let nothing of importance in the way of thrown or batted balls get by her, and she poled out many a lusty drive.

When she came to long skirts, as the saying used to be, she had to give up baseball, but love for the sport was firmly established in her. As teacher in an elementary school in Three Rivers, she watched with pain and with cumulative repugnance the efforts of her boys to express the national pastime. But, herself being a sandlot product, there was nothing much she could do about it. Time then came when she was elevated to the post of principal, and last year she came to New York as a student in the summer session of teachers' college, Columbia university, working toward a master's degree in elementary education. Appearing again this year, she registered for the course in baseball which the faculty instituted last year for the first time.

Now, under instruction from a distinguished faculty consisting of Professors Gordon, Salkirk, Gomez, Pearson and Rolfe of the Yankee school of thought and Professors Gumbert, Danning, Jurgens and Terry of the Giants, she expects to have learned enough by the time she returns home to take her boys in hand and teach them the iniquity of throwing to first when a runner is bound for second on an infield poke; the time and place for squeeze plays, and all sorts of inside stuff. She will not, she says, play herself; she will be quite content to be coach.

Wisdom of Constitution Is Seen In Revolt of House on Spending

Not Politics Alone Involved in Congress' Opposition to President's Spending Policy; Response to Will of People at Last Reflected in Members' Action.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—The Constitution of the United States—that document that has served us so well notwithstanding the razing given it by enlightened thinkers of recent years—says in Article 1 that "all bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives." It further says with an emphasis that, "no moneys shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law."

There is, of course, nothing at all new in the above paragraph. It is important, however, to remember those provisions of the basic law of our nation for in them again we see wisdom and a rather clear understanding of what happened just before congress adjourned its first session. It is as though the authors of the Constitution were laying a prophecy when one considers the recent revolt of the house of representatives against President Roosevelt's spending-lending program. (And, by the way, during the debates on this program it became known as the "splending" program among those terrible people who opposed it.)

I assume that throughout the land there was much talk about the revolt against the President's policies for current spending as being purely politics. I have heard from many sections of the country, and the story was the same; politics. That is only partly true. Obviously, the house members had their weather eye on the political aftermath of what they were doing when they refused even to give consideration to Mr. Roosevelt's spending-lending plan that originally involved more than $3,000,000,000. They considered politics, too, when they refused to debate the merits of the $800,000,000 housing bill, although I believe they should have debated that thing in order that the country could know that it would have cost several billion dollars of taxpayers' money before it is finally wound up 60 years hence.

Not Politics Alone Moved House to Oppose President

The refusal of the house members to do the bidding of the Chief Executive must be examined in something more than just a political light, however, because of the two provisions of the Constitution that I quoted. It must be recalled that the authors of the Constitution contrived to build a national legislative body with a dual purpose: 1. to represent the Union of states which is accomplished through the senate, and 2. to represent the individual citizens which is accomplished through the house of representatives. The house, therefore, is held to be the body more responsive to individual thinking among the people and to react more quickly to changes in public sentiment. That matter of having taxation originate in the house, therefore, is seen to be an attempt to reflect in the legislative acts the willingness or unwillingness of the people to stand for taxes, since the house members must stand for election each two years.

Again, when the Constitution said that appropriations had to be enacted as law before money is paid out of the treasury, there was a patent curb on wild and profligate spending. The house, being closer to the people, first felt the call of the people for government spending and responded. Since the senators, too, are elected by direct vote of the people, they also heard the siren call and voted out money with the greatest of ease. But the house led the way.

Lately, however, there has been a change in that individual thinking. The majority of the people have begun to wonder where all of this spending was going to end; they began to wonder how the national debt—now well above $45,000,000,000—would ever be paid. They smelled fresh taxes. The senate heard, but failed to heed, this new call. Senators chiseled and nibbled at curtailment, but they did not put their mind to the business of cutting expenditures. It was the house that led the way, again. And, as I said earlier, they acted definitely by refusing even to debate the two cornerstone bills—the spending-lending bill and the housing bill.

Action of House Reflects Will of People on Spending

It is made to appear, therefore, that the concept of the Constitution's authors was correct. They felt that the house would hear from home, as we say these days. And the house has heard. Politics, alone, was not responsible except insofar as politics represents the shifts in position that statesmen must take to meet the changes in public sentiment.

The bulk of the people, it seems, have suddenly awakened to the fact that something must be done about the continued spree upon which the federal government has been engaged in the last five or six years.

The refusal of the house to act cannot be catalogued otherwise than as reflecting the will of the people, for the politician who knows his onions seldom is seen going in the wrong direction if the votes of his constituents are concerned.

Whether the economy wave that swept through the house in the last few weeks of a session that is destined to be historically important will be maintained in the next session of the Seventy-sixth congress, of course, is a matter of conjecture. It is to be noted that primaries for nominations come along early next spring and summer. Following those primaries in natural sequence are the November elections. If the members of the house and senate who have balked at running the federal government further into debt take the same position in the session starting next January, then I am inclined to the opinion that our nation will be on the way out of its troubles. I always hedge statements about congress, however, because politicians will sometimes place party above principle. They might deem it necessary to buy a few votes with taxpayers' money in advance of the primaries next year. Whether the representatives and senators have such ideas in mind, or not, I wish the voters would put every one of them on the spot by demanding to know whether they are going to let this nation go any further into debt. The debt now is so large that each of us is going to pay and pay and pay in taxes, and after we have passed on, our children and theirs will pay.

Congress Failed to See That Money Was Properly Spent

I always have opposed congressional action that delegates power settled on the congress by the Constitution. In these columns, there has never been any deviation from that conviction. Since 1933, there has been a constant trend in the wrong direction. New powers have been given the President time after time. Particularly, has this been true in the matter of handling money. Congress obeyed the dictates of the Constitution by appropriating the money, but it did not do that which there certainly is a duty to do, namely, see that the money is spent properly.

In an examination of the latest spending-lending scheme put forward by the President and rudely shattered by the house, therefore, it strikes me that another device to get more power away from congress was being proposed. In the first place, there was little, if any, hope that recovery could come out of the program. We have seen only slightly different schemes flop annually for several years. Further, these plans that are temporarily out of the window appeared to me to be a trick to evade the law in that the financing was to be done without consideration of the national budget and finances. None of these new debts would show in the budget. The program resembled a road that is cut around the edge of a town to avoid the business section, a by-pass.

Respecting the merit of the spending-lending bill, itself, there is little in my opinion to warrant its adoption. In plain language, the proposal would have socialized credit in the United States—and I can not believe that the United States is ready to take up state socialism after the manner of Mussolini or Hitler.

President's Hints Sound Like Admission of Failure

The smashing of the administration's scheme, of course, did have its political repercussions and Mr. Roosevelt, feeling the toe of a stiff boot as he obviously did feel such a political blow, will be carrying his case to "the people" soon. He said in a press conference one day that "the people were entitled to know who was responsible," meaning the congress. He also suggested that the people ought to know in advance why there would be more unemployment and why there would be new taxes to pay for relief. All of which sounds rather like an admission of failure. That is to say, these schemes of spending, of pump priming, of creating new and greater debt, all have failed in returning the country to anything like a normal condition. We have nothing to show for something like $25,000,000,000 so expended excepting the bonds of the United States government that are outstanding.

New Dealers, however, are still battling. I noted one of them said the other day that an extra session of congress in November of this year was surely a necessity. That proposal will bear watching. I have talked with many, many leaders in congress—men of long experience and understanding—and none of them believes an extra session to be necessary. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Obeying the law may keep a person out of jail, but it won't always keep him out of accidents. Being legally careful is not enough.
I have driven with men in communities where the speed limit was 30 miles an hour, and these drivers felt that they were within their legal right to drive at that speed. However because of some unusual condition of sidestreets, traffic on particular thoroughfares may have been very crowded, and pedestrian traffic may have been heavy, too. Thirty miles an hour under those conditions was entirely within the law but not within the law of common sense.
"It's Smart to be Careful!"

60 gallons of automatic electric hot water

The luxury of automatic hot water—ready the minute you want it, at the turn of the faucet—costs less than you think. For less than the price of a package of cigarettes a day, you can enjoy automatic electric water heating in your home. Ten cents a day furnishes 60 gallons. Once you have known the unequalled comfort of this modern hot water service, you will wonder why you didn't install it long ago. Ask about it at any Detroit Edison office. The Detroit Edison Company.

60 GALLONS OF ELECTRIC HOT WATER COST ONLY 10c A DAY

Conservation Dept. Notes

A corralled forest fire is one in which sufficient work has been done to prevent its increasing in size but actual control is yet to be gained.
The great variety of weather experienced in the fishing season has made the fishing spotty. In some places trout fishing is good, in other districts pike while in still other big catches of pan fish are reported.
The recent downpours while they have checked the forest fires have not provided a permanent check as the forests usually dry out in 2 or 3 days.
The 200 barrels per day production set on the oil wells in the Bloomingdale area in VanBuren county have been lifted.
Forest fires run up hill more rapidly than down hill as the heated air draws the flames upward.
Electric fence has proven effective in keeping deer out of farm lands and crops. A 4 strand wire spaced 12, 22, 32, and 35 inches from the ground and topped by a 42 inch width of woven wire is used.
Monday, approximately 600 pheasants which were hatched on the Dalton farm at Southern Michigan prison last June will be released in different parts of Jackson county under supervision of the conservation dept. They will be planted on different farms, some 90 requests from farmers being received. 700 more birds will be released about Sept. 1. All these pheasants were hatched from eggs by league owned hens.

Philathea Notes

Our class was very well represented on Sunday by members and old friends. Our first assistant teacher, Mrs. Peck had charge of the discussion and the lesson on Elisha was well taken care of. In Mrs. Elliott's absence next Sunday, Mrs. Buzzard has accepted responsibility for the lesson. This will be the quarterly temperance lesson on "Bereavement and the Community". Study Joel 1:5-7 and Daniel 5:1-5, 17, 25-28.
The Sunday School Picnic committee reported choice of August 24, Thursday of next week, as the date of our S. S. picnic and the White Lodge Country Club as the place. Pot luck at noon.

APPOINT COMMITTEE OF THREE

Notice was received this week by Walter L. Clark, Livingston County Farm Security Administration Supervisor that a committee of three farmers have been appointed by Secretary Wallace to assist in administering the FSA Tenant Purchase Program.
These men will assist Mr. Clark in administering the Tenant Purchase Program which provides for the making of loans to a limited number of Livingston County tenants for the purchase of farms. Loans will be made only on productive farms which are so priced that the loan can be repaid by the borrower from farm earnings.
One of the main duties of the committee will be to investigate applicants and recommend those which they believe should receive loans. The basis for this recommendation will center largely on the character, experience, and farming ability of the applicant. In addition, preference will be given those who own, relatively free from debt, the necessary livestock and equipment and who may be able to make a down payment. No loans will be made, however, to persons who can obtain an adequate loan from other sources at reasonable terms, Mr. Clark said.

NEW SALES TAX RULING

The State Board of Tax Administration was preparing a notice today to be sent to plumbing heating and electrical contractors, all of whom were brought under the sales tax law this month.
Under the board's new ruling the contractors have been divided into three classifications for the purpose of checking existing leaks in sales tax collections. Plumbers, heating men and electricians who do more than a contracting business must obtain a Sales Tax License and pay to the State Board of Tax Administration a tax on all their materials. Those engaged in contracting exclusively will pay the regular three per cent tax when they buy their materials from one wholesaler or supply house. Wholesalers and manufacturers must also obtain a Sales Tax License and file the regular returns with the state.
In compliance with the new regulations which became effective on August 1, 1939, all plumbing, heating and electrical contractors must file notice of their classification in

TRAINING CAMP COSTS

Tuesday's Detroit Free Press carried an interesting article on the Joe Louis training camp to be established at Northville, August 26 where the champion will prepare for his battle with Bob Pastor at Briggs Stadium, Detroit, on Sept. 21. They interviewed John Roxborough, mgr. of Louis who stated that the operation of the training camp will cost $500 a day for 25 days. First they have to rent a house to house the 20 members of the Louis staff. This staff includes a chef who draws $15 a day, his assistant gets $7, then there are day and night guards, a secretary and a greeter. Joe will have six sparring partners who will draw $25 a day. The grocery bills will run $200 a week and the meat bills about as high. Four sparring partners have already been hired. There are two openings here for anyone wanting a job and you can't beat the hours or pay. All you have to do is go six miles on the road with Joe every morning and box three rounds with him every other day.

BALANCED DIET OF PLANT FOOD NEEDED BY GROWING CROPS

CHICAGO.—Growing crops need a balanced diet of plant food from the soil, the same as human beings or livestock need a balanced ration in their foods, a bulletin issued by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee points out.
"If certain plant food elements are missing from the soil, growing crops will develop weaknesses and a susceptibility to diseases," the bulletin declares.

Pinckney soft ballers only played one game last week, winning from a Pingree-Howell bunch 10 to 5. They were scheduled to play the Hewlett-Young Inc. team of Gregory Wednesday night but some members of this aggregation were AWOL so the game was postponed.

Formal Draperies to Make at a Low Cost

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS
AN IMPORTANT speaker was scheduled, and the club rooms were looking rather shabby. The decorating committee reported that formal draperies would lend an air of distinction. The funds could only pay for the material. Sewing machines hummed and here is a sketch of the miracle that was wrought. Here also are the dimensions that were used for making patterns for the graceful valance sections which were fastened over rods with snaps. For the looped section, cut paper 18 inches deep and half as wide as the window measured over the frame. From the upper right corner to point A is half of the window width less two inches. Point B is 6 inches below the upper left corner. Draw a diagonal line from A to B, and a curve from B to the lower right corner. Place the edge marked C on a fold of the goods. The diagonal ends are pleated and stitched into a band as at D.

For the end pieces, cut paper 15 inches wide and 24 inches deep. E is 3 inches below the upper left corner. F is 9 inches from the upper right corner. G is 6 inches down from the upper right corner. Finish the top as at H.

The offer of the two 25-cent sewing books containing 98 HOW TO SEW articles that have not appeared in the paper will be withdrawn soon. At present you can get both books for the price of one; but don't delay; send 25 cents with name and address to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill., and both books will be sent by return mail, postpaid.

Japan's Girls Replace Men In Industry

Women Fill Factory, Farm Jobs as Army Claims Manpower.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.
 When a Japanese soldier leaves his native soil to fight an "undeclared" war what happens to the job he left behind him? For just as important as a battle against some Chinese war lord is the battle on the nation's labor front. Japan, struggling for national self-sufficiency, is finding the answer to this problem by filling vacant jobs with its native girls and women.

In the large cities such as Tokyo, Osaka, and Nagoya, are many western-type factories. Some of these are thoroughly up to date—cement buildings, large windows, running water and modern toilets, clinics, and lunchrooms.

In a toothpaste factory in Tokyo, the majority of jobs are filled by girls—350 girls and only 70 men.

The girl workers fill tubes, paste on labels, and pack the cartons. On labels and pack the cartons. They stand at long tables from 7 in the morning until 5 in the afternoon. Forty minutes for lunch and two rest periods of ten minutes each are their only chances to sit down.

No. 2. MANUFACTURE. Because the army needs men factories of every type have been forced to replace male workers with young girls. Here is a Japanese maid bringing in wood to be made into charcoal. Other industries in which these girls find employment include the manufacture of shoes, clothing, glass, pottery, toothpaste and a host of others.

The manager who shows you around points proudly to the rooms where the employees change from street to work clothes, and to the laundry with running water where the uniforms are washed.

Outnumber Men 4 to 1.

In a stocking and rubber shoe factory near Osaka again the majority of workers are women and girls—4,000 girls to 1,000 men. Some work at sewing machines, others pack the finished product. The girls wear white cloths over their hair, but no masks to protect their lungs.

To questions as to age, hours of work, and living conditions, the proprietor answers that the girls live in the neighborhood and have lunch in the factory.

One of Japan's largest industries is the preparing of the raw silk (chains of silk thread) to be sent to Europe and America. This work is done in factories called silk filatures which are practically staffed with girls and young women.

To the customer, the job itself

No. 1. BUSINESS. The commercial field in Japan has claimed many young girls as stenographers and clerks. Some of these girls are educated in the United States and have adopted American office technique. However, the stenographer pictured here is using a typewriter with an oriental keyboard. This keyboard has 2,200 symbols and as a result is much slower than the western type machine.

seems most trying, since each girl has to watch constantly the silk feeding onto 20 spindles. To do this, she must stand all day, and her hands are continually in and out of basins of hot water, pulling the silk strands from the cocoons and directing them over the tiny wheels to the spindle above. The workers of the silk filature are on a contract basis and live in one part of the factory called the dormitory.

To any section suffering from famine managers of factories go and make contracts with the families of girls. The family receives a sum of cash to help them carry on until the next good harvest, and the girl pays for it by serving three or four years in the filature. After her contract is fulfilled, she goes home and is married to a young man whom her family has chosen.

By far the greater number of Japan's factories are small workshops manned perhaps by two or three workers, or at most by 10 to 25. Some of these are family concerns, in which the women and girls of the family help. Others are neighborhood enterprises, to which the local girls and women flock.

No. 3. FARMING. One of Japan's chief needs at the present time is food for its soldiers on China's war fronts. Now, as at no other time in history, Japanese women have turned to the fields to provide this food. Pictured here are young girls picking weeds from a field of rice.

ing and banging of heavy machinery. A few of these illustrate how vast numbers of Japan's women are employed.

In a glass factory in Tokyo, housed in fragile wooden buildings, women sort, wash, and pack the glassware. Floors are simply well-packed earth, and the window openings small. The furnaces make the heat insufferable even on a cool day.

Tokyo also has a concern which makes metal fixtures, heads for electric-light bulbs, tops for candy bottles and vanity cases—heavy machine work. Machinery is placed so close together that you fear to pass through a room lest you be caught by some part of your clothing. Women and girls with rounded shoulders squat before machines crudely made by the concern itself, fashioning the covers and bulb ends. Some of the girls are barely 14 or 15; some are middle-aged or old women. One woman with bad eyesight bends and squints over her work.

As you ascend the scale of employment, the Japanese woman is not missing. Telephone girls, typists, or copyists through the business offices. The telephone girls are, on the whole, older than the clerks. Many of them are married. The typists are higher school students, ranging in age from 18 to 28. Some use the active instrument; others, who know English, are trained to use the modern machine.

The oriental typewriter has a board containing more than 2,000 symbols, including some 2,000 Chinese ideographic characters, two kana, or syllabary systems of 51 symbols each, the English alphabet (both small and capital letters), and the Arabic numerals.

Smart Wool With Gold Accent Is Early Fall Style Formula

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF THERE is one theme more than another about which fashion interest centers this fall, that theme is the outstanding importance of fine, choice fabric. In assembling the autumn wardrobe the thought to keep uppermost in mind is that for the most part the style structure for the coming months is being built around the idea of handsome material made up with a studied simplicity that achieves classic lines which lead to well-balanced silhouettes bespeaking a new dignity in the mode.

The new wool weaves are adding a particularly exciting chapter to the current story of fabric elegance. In laying the foundation for the early fall wardrobe the idea of handsome wool styled to a nicety with emphasis on dramatic simplicity, is making widespread appeal.

What to offset the amazing simplicity of the dress or suit of swank wool? The answer is gold jewelry accents. Which is one of the startling items of news in the new season's trends. There is a "gold rush" on in fashion's realm. Black with gold is especially a message that is being flashed throughout the style centers of the world.

Black wool jersey, a particularly smart indication for early fall, is used for the fashion-right semi-tailored dress centered to right above in the illustration. Note, with the bracelet-length sleeves the unusually wide gold bracelet. This matter of the wider bracelet is in accordance with fashion's latest decree.

To further dramatize this modish daytime frock of black wool jersey there are gold clips that highspot the lapel. Flattering too, are the circle earrings.

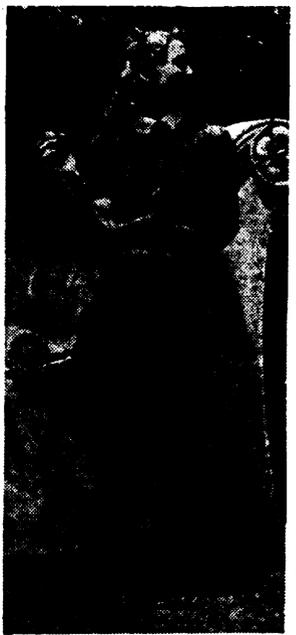

To the lower right in the picture, a princess model of billiard green fannel, beautifully fitted at the waist, breaks into pleats below the hips. The high round neck practically demands a necklace and a suitable one as here shown is of gold links with gold knobs. The wide link gold bracelet looks well with the necklace and a cunning gold clip climaxes this jewelry ensemble. The plaid hat crowns the entire with glory.

Gold jewelry as a smart accent to colorful tweeds has also become a hobby with fashion. To the left in the picture see a deep bright green tweed suit with a new collar treatment and stitched detail down the front of the jacket. The skirt is widely gored. Take particular notice of the gold and green tourmaline daisy pin with a diamond center worn on the jacket. The bracelets are of the new large gold link type. Gold stitched suede describes the hat.

A few notes in general in regard to the new wool weaves follow. The trend to smoother versions of the velvety duvetyn order is apparent. There are also many ribbed woolens. While black woolens are having a widespread initial call, there is also a big movement going on among richly colorful tweeds and other wool weaves gorgeously toned in new shades of blue green and flower reds with rust tones greatly in favor for sports and travel wear. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Gored Skirt

It's going to be a banner season for sweaters. From the practical single skirt-and-sweater idea has no peer. Essential to the joy of a sweater is the skirt that is snugly gored as is the one worn by the little girl in the picture. There is something very fashion-wise about this model. Sewn seam detail alternates with pressed creases to create added interest in the styling of this skirt which is fashioned of naphthalene wool gabardine. The soft angora sweater assembled with it may be in contrasting shade or matching shade of the skirt. Either way you will be right in style.

Season of Luxury In Fabrics Seen

All signs point to a season of luxury especially in matter of fabric elegance. The tendency is toward dignified trends rather than the much-exploited "little girl" fashions that have been centering the stage during past months.

Suits of stiff faille, rich brocades for evening wear, imposing jewelry accents emphasizing wide bracelets, necklaces that have a broad collarlike spread and massive gold effects in belts, and in clips all indicate return to elegance.

The play being made on fur borderings that is being lavished on coat, suit and frock, the revival of old-fashioned passementerie, the elaborate hand-embroidery and countless such trends are reminiscent of the Victorian age of pomp and glory. The fact of sleek fitted dresses with in many instances the long sleeves, the quaint back-fullness treatments that modernize bustle effects, fitted basques, laced-in corsets all portend the trend to greater dignity in fashions.

Hats Show Wealth Of Ostrich Trims

A definite revival of ostrich is announced for this fall and winter. Many of the new hats show a wealth of ostrich trims. Evening wraps are trimmed with ostrich, little boleros are all of ostrich, and there are bags, and fans, and fanciful mauls to match.

COOLER, milder smoking in longer-burning Camels. Entire smoking, too, as shown by the following results of a recent impartial laboratory comparison of 16 of the largest-selling brands:

1 CAMELS were found to contain 1 MORE TOBACCO BY WEIGHT than the average for the 15 other of the largest-selling brands.

2 CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

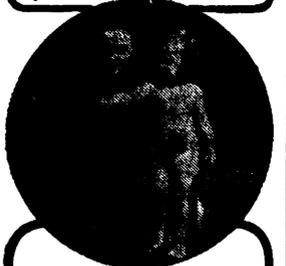

3 In the same test, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER than the average time for all the other brands.

Yes, Camel's fine, slow-burning, more expensive tobaccos do make a difference. Delicious taste...fragrant aroma...smoking pleasure at its best, and more of it! Camels is the quality cigarette every smoker can afford.

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to cure it afterward—you can avoid having it.

Common sense tells you you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "fiber" in your diet. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestine.

It tells you to eat less fat, try crisp crisp wheat, eat "Join the Bowel" to make your bowels just the way you want.

Get it done every day, drink plenty of water, eat "Join the Bowel" to make your bowels just the way you want.

1940 WHEAT CROPS

ARE BEING INSURED

Insurance on the 1940 Michigan wheat crop is now being offered to all farmers in the State. Representatives of the Livingston County Agricultural Conservation Committee are now calling on all wheat growers discussing with them their 1940 wheat acreage allotments and offering them the opportunity to insure their next year's wheat.

Farmers in Livingston County can be guaranteed 75 per cent of their normal yields by taking out insurance according to Earl Grubb, the Chairman of the Livingston County Triple A Committee. Premiums run as low as 0.5 bushels per acre. Farmers who have cooperated with the farm program this year may pay for their insurance by simply having their premiums deducted from their Triple A Payments.

Through this insurance program, Earl Grubb says, the Triple A is helping farmers get a more uniform income from year to year. Even in years when wheat crops are seriously damaged or totally destroyed, farmers will have at least 75 per cent of their normal yields on which they can depend. A new regulation permits the insured farmers to assign their crop insurance policies as security for loans, the proceeds of which may be used without restrictions.

About one out of every ten Michigan farmers who took out crop insurance on their wheat last Fall will receive at least partial indemnity this year, Earl Grubb says. Although weather conditions have been generally good in Michigan this year, rust, winterkill, Fall and Spring dry periods, hail, and insects have taken their toll of wheat.

Last year 5,077 Michigan wheat growers took out insurance policies with the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. These policies insured 54,492 acres, guaranteeing a minimum yield of 805,662 bushels of wheat. The total amount of wheat paid into the Crop Insurance Corporation for premiums was $1,979 bushels.

110TH ANNIVERSARY

August 8, 1939, marked a significant anniversary in the history of our American industrial civilization. For on that day, 110 years ago, a locomotive ran on a track for the first time in the Western Hemisphere.

The locomotive was imported from England and was known as the "Stourbridge Lion", though, according to an account, it looked more like a gigantic grasshopper than the King of Beasts. Before an excited cheering crowd, it made a daring run of a mile and a half without exploding, or destroying the hemlock rails, as skeptics had predicted. And history was made. Native inventors were stirred, and from then on we built our own locomotives.

Since those pioneer days of a little more than a century ago, the locomotive has thundered down the years. And our country has thundered along with it. Out of the humble "Stourbridge Lion" in whose future only a few zealots had faith, has come a gigantic industry, with which our economic destiny is inextricably related. It gives jobs to hundreds of thousands of workers directly, and to millions indirectly in those other industries which depend on the railroads for all or part of their business. It represents the invested capital of hundreds of thousands of people, most of them of small means and of thousands of institutions such as banks, universities, insurance companies and charitable organizations. It spends more than a billion a year for the supplies it needs to keep going, and this money is distributed in every state, and finds its way into little hamlets as well as the great cities. It is one of the largest of the nation's taxpayers, and many a county and school district gets the bulk of its revenue from railroads in its territory.

Furthermore, fast, low-cost, certain rail transportation is the backbone of our nation's industry, commerce and agriculture. It is stopped for 24 hours chaos would rule. The iron horse must be given much of the credit for the epochal progress that has taken place since the "Stourbridge Lion" chugged along its crude wooden track.

"In planning the rotation, the matter of fertilizer will be extremely important. Because of its high yield per acre, corn makes heavy demands on the plant food resources of the soil, particularly nitrogen. The only practical alternative to replenish the extra amounts of plant food removed from the soil is to use commercial fertilizers."

PINCKNEY & TIMBERS TIE

Pinckney and the Timbers softball team from Howell played a 2 to 2 tie game here Tuesday night. Both pitchers were in excellent form. Dinkel for Pinckney allowed 4 hits and Mutter for Howell only 5. Ed. Myers scored Pinckney's first run in the second on a walk, Ward's hit and Reason's out at first. Dinkel blanked the visitors until the 6th when they scored twice. Hess bunted and was safe when Dinkels throw was wide. Daniels singled. Fulkerson hit one through third both men scoring. Pinckney went into the last half of the 7th a run behind. N. Miller singled, Reason struck out. Hendee batted for Van and also struck out. Dinkel walked. Miller had a big lead off second. Hesse's throw to get him went wide and Miller took third and scored when Adesh who retrieved the ball threw wide to third. Howell nearly scored in their half of the 7th. N. Cook got to first on Lamb's high throw. He stole second. Kerr hit to Van who threw wide to third to get Cook. The ball hit a car and bounded back to Darrow who threw Cook out at home. Haine's dropped Ledwidge's fly but Horton was the third out popping to Van.

PROFITABLE CROP ROTATION LIES IN CAREFUL PLANNING

CHICAGO.—How to make crop rotation pay farmers more dividends in increased yields per acre and lowered production costs was explained by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"The key to successful rotation is careful planning," a report says. "If crop rotation had more definite beginnings and endings, farmers generally would do more planning at the start of a three, four or six year cycle, and they would be more likely to take stock of the results."

"In most rotation programs starting this spring corn will be the basic crop, largely because of the amazing production records of 'Hybrid'
