Several Fall Weddings are Announced in Which People in This Section are the Principals.

FORCE - LAMB WEDDING

The marriage of James Lamb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Lamb of Pinckney to Miss Celia Force, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Force of Saugatuck took place on Saturday afternoon, Rev. James O'Day of Chicago, assisted by Rev. Horace Maycroft of Saugatuck, officiating.

The groom was attended by his brother, Gordon Lamb as best man and Miss Celia Powers acted as the bridesmaid.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white tulle. She wore a string of pearls and had lilies of the valley in her hair. Her corsage was of white gladiolas and lily of the valley. The bridesmaid wore a gold colored gown and carried gold colored flowers, chrysanthemums and syringas.

A reception was held to about 200 people at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Edgcomb, following the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white satin fashioned in princess style with a heart-shaped neckline. A finger tip tulle veil was held in place by a tiara of baby chrysanthemums and she carried a bouquet of white asters and white baby chrysanthemums.

Miss Marilyn Miller, the bride's sister, was her maid of honor and wore a gown of salmon pink tulle. Her flowers were orchid asters.

The company also have been taking farm scenes at the Louis Kourt farm. Some of the employees of the company are staying here and the balance at White Lodge where Mrs. Wm. Dillaway of Howell is cooking for them.

Michigan Mirror State News

Results of the Primary Election Are Analyzed. The Two Candidates for Governor are Discussed.

Another primary characteristic is seen in the Democratic nomination of Frank Fitzgerald and Frank Murphy for the office of United States senator and lieutenant governor, respectively.

Both men possess names famous in Michigan.

The Detroit Free Press comments: "A young lawyer by the name of Frank Fitzgerald, who has never been prominent in politics, walks away with the Democratic nomination for United States senator because of the similarity of his cognomen with that of the late governor. And a Frank Murphy easily wins the nomination for lieutenant governor."

Recalling the fact that Franklin D. Roosevelt was aided at the beginning of his career by the magic name of Roosevelt, observers note that history is repeating itself in the rise of the new Fitzgerald and Murphy. Each is 43 years of age.

Will the magic of Fitzgerald and Murphy attract voters to the Democratic ticket in November? On the basis of the primary vote, such appears to be quite possible.

In the coming weeks the personal popularity of Dickinson and Van Wagoner, each one a powerful leader in his own party, will be put to a new test. We make no prediction other than this: The campaign will be colorful and interesting.

Riding on a well advertised slogan, "Keyes for Good Government," Dr. Eugene C. Keyes, a darkhorse candidate from Dearborn, provided a surprise feature of Michigan's primary election this month.

He led a field of nine men for the Republican nomination of lieutenant governor.

Virtually unknown among party leaders, Dr. Keyes is today the coveted subject of attention by old-time politicians. Republican members of the State Senate are wondering "who" is next to Dr. Keyes and how they may fare in the next legislative appointment of committees. More than one senator is planning a trip soon to Dearborn, perhaps to visit Ford's Greenfield Village and then to "drop in" casually for a chat with the new state figure.

The Republican nominee has the distinction of being a three-in-one professionally licensed physician, dentist and lawyer, all at the same time. His popular-price medical clinic at the automobile town in Wayne county is envied by rival practitioners for its profitable operation. And yet Dr. Keyes has never been a member of the state or county medical societies.

Because of the apparent cost of Keyes' primary campaign, more than one Lansing observer has wondered how it was being financed. From the friends of the Dearborn physician-dentist-lawyer comes the assurance that Dr. Keyes, a business success has paid the bills himself. He made a vote appeal of the statement that he was independent of any group & hence was not pledged to factional commitments.

CALDWELL STOCK COMPANY OPENS SEASON

The Caldwell Stock Co. opened their fall and winter season at the Pinckney Community Hall Thursday night with the comedy "Let's Get Married". This Thursday they will put on the comedy entitled "A Modern Cinderella". High class specialties are put on between acts. The admission is 10 cents with merchants ticket.

SCHOOL BUS STARTS OPERATION

The first Pinckney school bus, driven and operated by Earl Baughn started last Friday when 80 children from the Harris and Hudson Corners school were brought to the Pinckney school in it. The bus has been painted red, white and blue to conform to school regulations.

CURRENT COMMENT

The results of the primary furnished few surprises. In a split field, Governor Dickinson is unbeatable. This has been proved repeatedly before. Murray Van Wagoner is the strongest candidate the Democrats in Michigan have. That was also proved. However there was one upset and that was the nomination of Dr. Keyes of Dearborn on the Republican ticket for lieutenant governor. He is practically unknown and has never held any office except that of city councilman. He is a dentist, doctor and a lawyer. He did little campaigning but spent $20,000 for newspaper and billboard advertising and that with his Wayne county strength pulled him through as the boss backed candidates and the anti-boss candidates cut each other to pieces. If Governor Dickinson is elected, on account of his advanced age this newcomer and unknown to politics, may be elevated to the governor's chair.

According to Prosecutor Charles Wilson of Oakland county a school board has the right to expel pupils for failure to salute the flag. This case came up from District No. 4 of Royal Oak township where several pupils refused to salute the flag. The prosecutor in his opinion said "There is nothing unreasonable in a teacher requiring a flag salute and there is no infringement of freedom of worship. There is no uniform policy promulgated by the dept. of public instruction and each teacher should have a formal expression from the board of education as to the policy to be carried out. If expulsion is necessary this office will support the board or teacher. Refusal to salute the flag is a great publicity stunt of Jehovah's Witnesses. They carried this to the supreme court but were beaten as the court ruled that compelling the pupils to salute the flag was legal."

The Germans claim that the British have made use of a new and devastating weapon against them. It is no less than dropping millions of Colorado potato bugs on German potato fields to ruin the crops. As they were Colorado bugs they must have come from this country so besides shipping planes and destroyers to Great Britain without permission of Congress Roosevelt has also shipped potato bugs to them. Just wait until Wilkie, Vandenberg, Ham Fish and the other hecklers get started on this subject after they get over the shock. We expect them to assert that these bugs will be needed here to defend this country.

W. K. Kelsey, Detroit News commentator takes the result of the primary election, dissects it and states that Roosevelt will carry Michigan in November by 307,000 majority. He deducts this from two sets of figures. In 1932 the Republicans cast 64 per cent of the vote in the primaries and Roosevelt carried the state in November by 132,000. In 1936 the Republicans cast 55 per cent of the vote in the primaries and Roosevelt carried the state in November by 417,000. In 1932 the Republicans cast 716,000 in the primary but only 740,000 in the election. The Democrats cast 381,000 in the primary but had 871,000 in the election. In 1936 the Republicans cast 509,000 in the primary and 700,000 in the election while the Democrats cast 410,000 in the primary and 1,017,000 in the election. The only explanation is that the Democrats and independents are not interested in the primaries but turn out strong in November.

President Roosevelt seems to be beating Wilkie to the gun. He spoke in favor of the draft. So did Wilkie. The president spoke in favor of giving part of our navy to Great Britain. So did Wilkie. The President demanded the elimination of the 60 day wait in the draft bill. So likewise did Wilkie. This got the Republican members of congress by the ears as they voted overwhelmingly for the 60 days wait in the draft bill. They also think he stepped into a trap when he denounced the conscription of wealth and industry while favoring the conscription of youth.

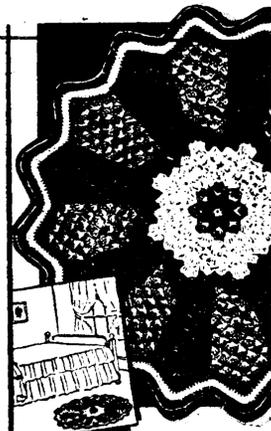

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Curlett and two sons of Mt. Clemens were callers at the Curlett home here Tuesday afternoon.

Armament Manufacturers Realize Plant Expansion Carries Risks

Reduced Military Appropriations Would Spell Ruin; U. S. Foreign Policy Unparalleled; German War Claims Appear Unsound.

By CARTER FIELD (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WASHINGTON—It is fairly simple for the government to commandeer any existing plant which it may deem necessary for the national defense program and the owners of which are unwilling to co-operate. But it is a bit difficult for the government to commandeer a plant for which the blueprints have not even been drawn.

Yet the ONLY fact behind the amazing public misconception of this whole picture of the alleged bogging down of the national defense program, which is blamed on greedy would-be war profiteers, concerns PROPOSED plants, not EXISTING plants.

And the truth even about that is that there is very little delaying on the part of concerns which the government wants to take war contracts. Dozens of big concerns are risking the shirts of their stockholders by constructing new plants for the manufacture of airplane engines, airplane propellers and what-not without knowing what the prices will be, without knowing what profits they will be allowed, and at the risk of having stark and idle plants on their hands two or three years hence.

Right now there seems to be danger. The public is aroused to it, and is behind the appropriating of billions for national defense. War rages in Europe, and there is eager demand for all sorts of war supplies. But who can tell what the picture will be even next summer, much less three years from now?

Disarmament Might Follow Peace in Europe

For example, there might be not only peace, but the sort of disarmament agreement for which the statesmen of the early 1920's were striving, a situation in which no nation would build another fighting ship or fighting plane, a tank or a big gun, for a considerable period of years.

At the moment this seems far-fetched, but consider the arguments which those who will be advocating this course will have, should there be peace a couple of years from now. Every nation in the world will be so deeply in debt that there will be serious doubt that they can ever pay the interest on it! A moment's thought about the present British debt and the rate at which it is being increased will show that this is not a totally impossible picture.

Taxation will be grinding, not only in Europe, but in the United States, whether we get into the war or not. For we are rapidly reaching a total of debt which will require heavy taxation merely to pay the government's annual interest bill.

Expansion of Plants Requires Real Nerve

So beyond any question, when peace does come, there is going to be a tremendous demand on the part of the taxpayers to cut down on military appropriations, if this can be done safely, and it will appeal to a number of statesmen then, as it did in 1921, to bring about disarmament by treaties.

Boiled down, that is why manufacturers OUGHT to be worried about amortization. And that is why the public should really be appreciating the nerve of those companies which are building new plants because the government wants them to do it, without waiting to find out about profits, and whether the tax collectors will leave them anything with which to pay for the new plants. Put another way, without knowing whether they will ever get back 10 cents on the dollar of their new investments.

Incidentally, President Roosevelt is NOT responsible for these attacks on business. But certain senators and representatives have been showing either very poor logic, or rather contemptible politics.

U. S. Foreign Policy Is Unique in History

There may be some parallel in history for the course now being followed by the United States government, and the open expressions of so many nonofficial American speakers, and editors, but researchers seem unable to find it.

For example, the various moves which have been made in defiance of neutrality, moves which very obviously have the approval of a considerable majority—some of the polls estimate it as more than 80 per cent—of the American people, and yet which run absolutely counter to the supposed desire of a very large majority of the people to keep out of war.

Putting it bluntly, and undiplomatically, it would appear that nothing this country may do is likely either to get it into the war or keep it out. That decision, it would appear from all the known facts, will be made for us, not by us. It will be made by Adolf Hitler.

To put it another way, this country has already done so many things obviously hostile to Germany, and designed to aid her enemies, that if there were any purpose to be served, Hitler might feel himself justified in declaring war against the United States.

On the other hand, Denmark, Norway, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg never did the slightest thing to irritate the Germans, yet they were crushed without warning and in violation of the most solemn treaty promises.

Unneutral Acts Have Approval of Majority

All of which would seem to make the arguments of the isolationists rather technical. We are committing acts which in other times would be branded as acts of war. For example, the original idea of a "neutrality patrol," which justified the re-commissioning of the World War destroyers. For example, the repeal of the arms embargo while a war was actually in progress. For example, the more recent virtual alliance with Canada, which is at war with Germany.

And this is topped off with the delivery to the British of the 50 destroyers, with guns and ammunition aboard, which has long been predicted in these dispatches. Consider also the fact that a joint British and American committee will select the precise sites for the new military and air bases in British possessions!

And all this in the midst of a presidential campaign, with the candidates of both major parties actually approving the results accomplished—even if the opposition objects to the manner in which they are done—and with minorities in both parties very unhappy, but unable politically to do anything.

German War Claims Require Discounting

Nearly every news commentator is constantly telling the public that there is no way of being sure what is happening in Europe behind the veil of censorship. Naturally there is no denying the truth of this frequently repeated statement, but there are certain things which simply MUST be so.

The main point is, as this is written, that the Nazis have not yet conquered Britain. No censorship could hide that, if it were already an accomplished fact.

It is a matter of simple arithmetic, now that so much time has elapsed since the heavy air fighting over Britain began, that the German claims simply could not have been anything like accurate because their exaggeration is obvious.

This does not mean that the British are winning. Certainly the British censorship prevents our getting an accurate picture of that. For example, it may well be that the Nazi bombing of Britain is succeeding in destroying British airplane and munitions works. We do not know. We only know that the British contend that so far the bombings have not accomplished anything in slowing down the British war production.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house of commons several weeks ago that British airplane production, plus what they were bringing in, was now equal to German airplane production. He did not deny that the Germans still had great superiority in number of fighting and bombing planes, but predicted that this superiority would decline from then on.

This of course will depend on several factors. One is whether the German raiders are able to destroy British airplane plants. Another is whether submarines, mines and German planes can curb British imports of airplanes.

As long as the British can keep on fighting in the air, it is obvious that the Germans are not accomplishing their real objective.

Just recently there was a remarkable story from Britain. American newspaper men, from the cliffs in the vicinity of Dover, saw and reported an attack by British bombing planes on German gun emplacements between Boulogne and Calais. The amazing part of this story is that the German guns ceased firing, apparently so as not to have their flashes make targets for the British bombers, and resumed firing when the British planes left.

A little study of that picture will make one very dubious indeed about the German claims to date!

Wardrobe of College Girl Has Attractive, Pace-Setting Styles

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

OF ALL the highspots in a college girl's life, what adventure so charged with thrills and moments of excitement as the mad, merry quest for back-to-school "clothes" that recurs each fall of the year!

The college girl's what-to-wear problem certainly received the perfect answer recently in a preview of fashions presented in a series of style clinics held in the great, known far-and-wide Merchandise Mart of Chicago where gather semi-annual hundreds of merchants who are ever on the alert to sense fashion trends in advance. The two coats illustrated herewith were particularly stressed as types style-ambitious co-eds are sure to favor.

You can tell at a glance the message of the model to the right. Yes, it's most assuredly spotted fur! Leopard and ocelot and fur of kindred type will fairly stampede the spectator sport grandstand when the football season is on. It is a youthful fur and it's going to be the "rage" this season. In the picture it trims a zipper coat in olive green. The bag problem is solved with a muff bag of the ocelot worked with the self-wool that fashions the coat.

Fashion scouts looking for the ideal black coat this season will hail the model to the left as a real "find." It has a zipper fastening. You'll love the big pockets bound with Persian lamb (very smart again this season) and the hood is detachable. may be worn as a collar. Black is tremendously smart this season; keep this in mind when you go to look up new coats.

With almost uncanny wizardry designers are designing such ingenious contrivances as linings that zip in and out of coats in the twinkling of an eye, jackets, coats, and even dresses are made reversible and with a mere sleight of hand gesture of the wearer your garment is a monotone or a vivid plaid at your will. Hoods are convertible into collars, detachable pinafore skirts give you two dresses in one, and for more change this same double-duty skirt serves as a cape. A handbag is a handbag one moment and the next it develops into a muff; hats have removable brims, and so on this necromancy in wearing apparel continues. It behooves every college girl to seek out fashion's "latest improvements" for it means economy in dress as well as being first in your set to proudly flaunt the "new."

Just a word about the little pen-and-ink sketches in the background of our illustration. They are items gleaned from the aforesaid style preview that will "put you wise" as to a few of the fashion highlights that will enliven your college career.

Mentioning them briefly, there's the American jeweled flag pin at the top to the left that tells of the wide-spread vogue for patriotic jewelry. Wear it on your lapel. And the cunning fringed shawl of green jersey with hat to match. See it centered to the left? It's adorable. Below note the many-strand necklace and bracelet of large pearls. It's the latest. The sketch at the center top tells you that huge fur pockets on coats are tres chic. A triangle or square babushka head kerchief of multi-colored gleaming rayon satin worn peasant style you must have. You will not be able to resist a brush wool sweater with lacy crocheted hood as shown below to right. The snow-white house robe of fleecy texture as sketched center below is destined to become a college girl classic. This robe is "big news."

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Novelty Purse

New is the purse mounted on a wide shoulder band as pictured. In this instance the purse is really part of a jewelry ensemble. Bright gold and topaz are used for bracelet, earrings, purse clip and ring. Wings is the motif for the purse clip and small earrings. Both are jeweled with topaz which also is used for the finger ring. The jewelry ensemble is worn with a three-piece black wool crepe suit highlighted with earth green suede accessories. Very interesting is the hat which has a crocheted wool crown with black velvet brim and upright quill in black and white. Designers are enthusiastic over the use of hand crochet. Very new is the idea of a cloth jacket with crocheted sleeves of color-matched yarn, pockets of the crocheted added. A new feature also is insets of crochet, such as yarn-crocheted triangles worked into a cloth dress.

Two-Piece Dress Looks Like a Suit

One of the most successful fashions for early fall is the two-piece dress that looks like a suit. You will see the smartest models with the new two-piece look developed in wool, in satin and in velveteen this fall. This type dress makes you look thin, for there is absolutely no bulkiness round the waistline. Thus the long-torso line is accentuated.

In some instances skirts are seamed on to the new longer-length jackets, which actually gives impression of a two-piece. Often large flap pockets are added, the newest idea being for pockets made of flat fur.

Patriotism Theme Becoming Popular

Wear a bejeweled flag pin. Everybody's doing it. Perhaps you like the American eagle better and it is spreading its jeweled wings on many a suit lapel. The vogue for patriotic themes extends to every phase of fashion. The new star pattern prints are very attractive. Red, white and blue checked taffeta is being made up into children's dresses. Milliners are making hat and bag sets of red, white and blue jersey.

Pinafore Prettiness

Pinafore styles meant for play and sports occasions have lost none of their demurely decorative features. Many of them have lace edges on their pockets, collars and cuffs. Ruffles at hems and shoulder straps, shirring on pockets, and quaint matching bonnets that tie with a bow under the chin, are some of the favorite details.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worthwhile service which saves us many dollars a year.

It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.

When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. The advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

PINCKNEY WINS 8 TO 7

Pinckney beat the Howell Sportsmen here Sunday 8 to 7. This team won the city championship of Howell in a playoff last week from the Millsite team. Pinckney got a run in the first when Singer tripled with Meyer on second. Two more came in the 3rd on two Howell errors and a hit by Ledwidge and three more in the 5th when Singer came across with a double with the bases loaded. Ward scored in the 7th on Hendee's hit and Singer tripled and scored in the 8th on Ward's hit.

Howell had trouble hitting Dinkel. They got two runs in the 4th on a couple of errors and two hits and three in the 7th when Dinkel lost control and walked two men home.

In the 9th they made their big threat. Bishop and Hawkins both popped to Meyer. Shaw singled, and Patterson walked. Dinkel got two strikes on Warner then the batter reached up and hit a high one for two bases scoring both runners. E. Meyer ended the game by throwing out Sherwood.

This same team will play here again next Sunday at 3:30 p. m.

Philathea Notes

The postponed meeting of our class for this month is being held this Thursday afternoon at Mrs. Buzzard's. Through an error by the reporter, it was announced for this Wednesday afternoon. It is hoped that rug rugs will be brought for sewing during the afternoon.

We have such helpful discussion periods in our class which is at present under the leadership of Mrs. Peck, and a cordial welcome is yours if you meet with us.

The class extends sincere sympathy to the homes left sorrowing since our last issue. We are also saddened by the passing of a well known evangelist and mission worker. Mel Trotter. His brother, Mr. George Trotter, will be remembered as having assisted in services here during the pastorate of Rev. Berquist.

Church members are being reminded that the maintenance fund of 18 cents per member is being made up now so that the amount due from our church may be fully paid at the Jackson Association meeting on October 2nd. The pastor appointed the following committee to receive these payments: The church treasurer, Mrs. Rose Hendee, and Mrs. Millie Elliott and Clella Fish.

Proverbs 4:10-17 is the passage selected for our church School lesson for next Sunday with "The Voice of Wisdom" or "Living Intelligently," as the topic.

Rev. Fr. Murphy visited Rev. Fr. James Carolan at Providence Hospital in Detroit Tuesday. He remains about the same.

CONGRESSIONAL WEEKLY LETTER
 By Congressman Blackney

At the time this letter is written, the Burke-Wadsworth Conscription Bill is nearing completion. The conferees of the House and Senate finally adopted the age limits for conscription of 21 to 35 inclusive.

This would affect approximately 16,500,000 men. It is estimated that about five million will be eligible for military service.

The bill provides that the conscript force consist of not more than 900,000 at any one time.

Following adoption of the conference report it will then be necessary to raise, by taxes, the money necessary to carry it into execution. It is generally understood that a deficiency bill for approximately $1,750,000,000 will be necessary to finance the pending draft of manpower. Of this amount $800,000,000 will be used to provide housing and other facilities for the proposed draft army. Another twenty to twenty-five million dollars will be needed to administer the selective service program.

It is estimated that the cost of caring for the conscript army will be about $1,200,000,000 for each of the next five years and that the cost to the government for each conscript would be $1000. This would include the draftee's pay of $21 a month for the first four months of training and $30 a month for the remaining eight months.

The so-called Fish amendment throughout the Sixth District. This 297 to 200 and which provided for a sixty-day period for volunteering before the conscription act went into effect, was eliminated by the conferees of the Senate and the House.

A provision of this bill will also provide for a conscription of wealth under certain conditions.

It is still my judgment, as it has been for some time, that this conscription bill was not necessary and the volunteer system had not failed but the proponents of the bill, in the Senate and House, predominated.

It is certainly my hope that the powers that be, will not use this conscription law as a means of getting the United States into the European war.

I was certainly gratified by the splendid vote that was given me which passed the House by a vote of expression of loyalty and confidence by my constituents, greatly encourages me in the performance of my duties as congressman.

NEW TICKET TAX LAW

There is a change in the ticket tax law. Under the new defense act all tickets selling for over 21c are liable for a federal tax. Formerly the exemption was 41c. The tax is one cent for each ten cents admission. All tickets must have printed on them the amount of admission, the amount of federal tax and the total. Only school tickets are exempt, and banquets where the price of the ticket goes to defray the cost of the food. All printers must make a report to the internal revenue dept. and send a sample of the ticket printed.

Ambrose Eichman of Detroit spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Reason.

Who Issues Money?

There is widespread but incorrect belief that banks issue money. They do not. Money is issued only by the Federal Reserve banks and the United States Treasury under powers delegated to them by Congress.

Federal Reserve banks issue Federal Reserve notes which are our most common type of currency.

The Treasury issues silver certificates, silver dollars, subsidiary silver coin, minor coin, and United States notes, most of which is placed in circulation through the Federal Reserve banks.

All U. S. paper currency is printed at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, D. C. and all U. S. coins are made at the Philadelphia, Denver, and San Francisco mints.

Fertilizer Prices Low Despite War

Contrary to the sharp advance in price of fertilizer during the last World War, demands of the present war and national defense program have not so far boosted the cost of fertilizer to the farmer.

"New developments in science and technology such as the production of synthetic nitrogen have reduced production costs and prices," says the United States Department of Agriculture in a report which also points out that according to 1910-1914 average the price of fertilizer is considerably lower than the prices of most commodities bought by farmers.

Farmers in the eastern part of the United States in 1939 spent on the average only 4.4 cents of each dollar of farm cash income for fertilizer. If the price of fertilizer had been the same as in 1929 it would have taken 5.8 cents, while if farmers were paying 1920 prices their fertilizer purchases would have taken 8.2 cents of each dollar.

Spanish Prisoner letters are again appearing in various places only this time the prisoner is in a Mexican jail. The letters read that the writer is imprisoned in a Mexican jail for debt. Before this happened the prisoner converted his wealth into banknotes which he placed in a trunk and sent to the United States custom house. If the one to whom the letter is addressed will send him sufficient money to get out of jail he will receive one-third of the contents of the trunk. This swindle is 40 years old having started right after the Spanish war. It is evidently successful as it has endured since its inception.

25th ANNIVERSARY

Over 600 Agents and friends of the Citizen's Mutual Automobile Insurance Company celebrated the Silver Anniversary of the company at Howell on August 29. The afternoon was spent at the country club and a banquet was served in St. Joseph's Hall at 6:30 in the evening.

Col. John G. Emery, Commissioner of Insurance, paid a fine tribute to the company and its record for 25 years in which they had paid $12,000,000 in claims and had assets in excess of $1,000,000 and had built up a reputation of public service to the State. George E. Bushnell and Edw. M. Sharpe, Justices of the Supreme Court, both complimented Mr. Robb, the founder, on the record of the company in settling claims, in which 200,000 claim checks had been sent out and yet only 2,081 law-suits had been started, of which 1,513 had been adjusted and 568 tried out, the company winning 384 and losing 184. They stated that Mr. Robb was known among the lawyers and judges for his fairness and good judgment on legal matters and his wide acquaintance throughout the state and the good will established would be a valuable asset to the company in the future. Judge Joseph Collins said that when he came to Howell 23 years ago and was a candidate for Circuit judge, the insurance company was doing business in the back part of Mr. Robb's law office, that he had watched its growth until it had become a state-wide company, serving the public in every part of Michigan. That he had watched the office force grow from a few until now 63 were on the payroll in Howell and 177 young men and women had worked for the company during the 25 years. He congratulated the company upon its success in being a valuable asset of the community and state.

George J. Burke, President of the company, spoke feelingly on his 25 years of association with Mr. Robb and the company and on behalf of the office force, agents and close friends, presented Mr. Robb with a silver loving cup overflowing with 500 silver dollars. He stated that Mr. Robb had established many friendships and contacts with all classes of people and had kept in close touch and he felt that the company would continue its success.

COOL LIGHT IN A TUBE

Fluorescent lighting is increasing in popularity by leaps and bounds . . . one reason being that you get DOUBLE THE LIGHT for the same amount of electricity.

But fluorescent lighting is so new, and the demand for it so great, that the average buyer is bewildered when he sets out to buy the proper fixtures. There are so many fixtures on the market, so many erroneous and exaggerated claims being made for fluorescent lighting, that it is not surprising to find incorrect applications . . . with a complete disregard for the rules of good lighting. As a result, the buyer is often disappointed with his fluorescent installation.

For your protection, and to help you get your money's worth, a STANDARD has been set up by the Mazda lamp manufacturers to assure dependability and high quality in fluorescent fixtures. These approved fixtures (in commercial styles for stores, offices, etc.) are called certified Fleur-O-Liers, and conform to rigid specifications checked by Electrical Testing Laboratories. They are now being made by over 17 companies. When you buy fluorescent fixtures, insist on certified Fleur-O-Liers—and look for the label. Corresponding fixtures for industrial use are identified by the name "R. L. M. Fluorescent."

Our experienced lighting staff will be glad to give you full information about this revolutionary new lighting. Call your Detroit Edison office. The Detroit Edison Company does not sell fluorescent fixtures or lamps. See your electrical contractor or lighting fixture dealer. The Detroit Edison Company.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

THERE were two of these old bent-wood chairs — both with cane seats gone and a badly scarred varnish finish. "Get them out of my sight!" their owner said, "I can't stand the thought of wood bent and forced into unnatural curves." In the end she did get them out of sight and used them too. The trick was done with slip covers made, as shown here. The one you see in the sketch became a side chair for the living room dressed in richly colored cretonne in soft red and blue-green tones with deep wine bindings. The legs of the chair were sandpapered and stained mahogany to tone in with the cover. The cane seat was inexpensively repaired with a ready-made seat of plywood reshaped to fit by first cutting a paper pattern to fit the seat of the chair and then using the pattern as a guide as indicated here. Next week I will show you how the other one of these old chairs was used.

AROUND THE HOUSE

It is a good plan to disinfect sinks and other drains once each week.

Potatoes that are to be French fried should stand in cold water at least an hour before cooking.

One soon learns by handling pots when managing house plants that if pots are light the plants are dry; if heavy they may be left without water for a time.

A teaspoon of salt and dessert-spoon of lemon juice answer the same purpose as "salts of Lemon" for removing iron mold from linen. It is not a poison and will not prove injurious to the linen.

Dogs having access to the house should be kept thoroughly clean and free from fleas. Serious damage may be done if fleas enter rugs or upholstered furniture.

A rug sometimes becomes badly creased. To remedy this, turn it upside down and wet the crease with a moistened broom, until the rug is quite wet; stretch the rug tight and let it remain overnight after fastening it with tacks which do not rust.

Underweight Child Needs More Exercise

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

I HAVE spoken before of the number of recruits who were rejected for war service because the chest was too small. Practically every one of these young fellows, on questioning, stated that they had never played games because their parents were afraid they would get hurt.

When parents see that their children are not as others, underweight, tall for their age, round or drooping shoulders, it is only natural that they are somewhat alarmed at the thought of games or vigorous exercise. The result is that these youngsters do not get any exercise and properly directed exercise at this "growing" age is exactly what the body, including heart and lungs, greatly needs.

"There are children who show pallor, excessive growth, muscular weakness, bad posture—sitting and standing. There are rapid fatigue, palpitation of the heart, stitches in the side, stomach ache, headache, dizziness and fainting spells."

Dr. L. F. Meyer, in Oriental Journal of Internal Medicine, reports that the general test of circulation by exercise (10 deep bends of the knees) shows that this group reacts otherwise than completely healthy children. The pulse remains fast in one-third of the children for longer than five minutes after exercise. The blood pressure differs from normal for it also remains high for more than five minutes. These two tests—heart beat and blood pressure—increased for longer than five minutes show insufficiency of circulation and inability to react properly from exercise.

Group Games Improve Circulation. Dr. Meyer suggests that as these children are nearing puberty, the circulation may improve and be equal to the demands made upon it. However, the treatment recommended is: "Invigoration of the body by gymnastics and sport, especially by breathing exercises."

The point that parents is to have these stunted, gangling, pale, overgrown children attend a gymnasium where exercise and group games are supervised. All group games not only strengthen the circulation by calling on the heart and lungs for more blood, but develop self-reliance in these delicate children.

Liver Extract Is Good for Pimples

IT WOULD now appear that another use for liver extract has been discovered which may mean much to the appearance and thus the happiness of many girls and boys and young men and women.

Until recently, acne—pimples—was considered a distressing ailment which often came with puberty and had to be endured for 10 or 15 years—the most important years in life from the appearance standpoint.

Some skin specialists were able to help many patients by prescribing a diet. Then X-ray treatment was found effective. Recently, the injection of pituitary extract has given splendid results, as has also the use of viosterol by mouth. Now comes liver extract.

Boiling Increases Efficiency.
Dr. W. Marshall Appleton, Wis., in the Journal of Investigative Dermatology (skin diseases), reports his use of boiled liver extract in the treatment of 14 cases of acne in which he obtained satisfactory results. The injection of liver extract—six drops—is given so that a sufficient amount of the specific (or needed) vitamin may be had. When injectable liver extract is boiled for 30 minutes, its acne-improving factor seems to increase. "When this boiled extract is given to patients already taking liver extract regularly, their improvement appears more rapid."

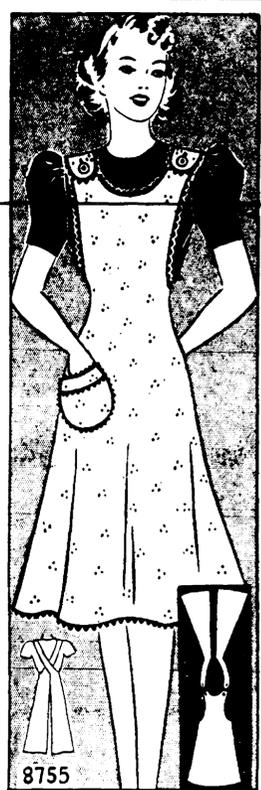

This means then that to our present knowledge of the beneficial effects of X-rays, injection of pituitary extract and taking viosterol by mouth, is added the further knowledge that the use of liver extract boiled for 30 minutes and injected under the skin also cures many cases of acne.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—How many thyroid glands does one have? After the removal of the thyroid gland, is medicine substituted for the lost secretion? Is X-ray a successful way to treat a goiter?

A.—1. There is only one thyroid gland but it is in two sections.
2. If there is a great increase in weight after removal of thyroid gland, thyroid extract is given.
3. X-ray is an effective method of removing a goiter but takes a long time.

Is your child a NOSE PICKER?

It may be just a nasty habit, but sometimes nose picking is a sign of something nastier. It may mean that your child has round worms—especially if there are other symptoms, such as fidgeting, finicky appetite, restless sleep and itching in certain parts.

Many mothers don't realize how easy it is to "catch" this dreadful infection and how many children have it. If you even suspect that your child has round worms, get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE right away! Drive out those ugly, crawling things before they can grow and cause serious distress. JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE is the best known worm expellant in America. It is backed by modern scientific study and has been used by millions for over a century. JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE has the ability to drive out large round worms, yet it tastes good and acts gently. It does not contain castor oil. If there are no worms it works merely as a mild laxative. Ask for JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE at any drugstore.

A BIG HELP TO HEALTH!

Note the benefits of delicious oranges
Government nutritionists say: Fully half our families get too few vitamins and minerals to enjoy the best of health! So make it your family rule to enjoy oranges every day.
Just peel and eat them for grand daily refreshment. Or keep a big pitcher full of fresh orangeade handy.
An 8-ounce glass of juice gives you all the vitamin C you normally need each day. Also adds vitamins A, B₁ and G, and the minerals calcium, phosphorus and iron.
This season the wonderfully juicy California oranges are plentiful in all sizes. Those stamped "Sunkist" on the skin are Best for Juice and Every use! Order them next time you buy groceries.

"The Best for Less"

Detroit, many-term state senator; Elton R. Eaton of Plymouth, a state representative, former sheriff of Kalamazoo county and also executive secretary to Governor Grosbeck; James Thomson of Jackson, past chairman of the Republican State Central committee and former commissioner of agriculture under Governor Fitzgerald.

True, Dr. Keyes was elected one year ago to the city council of Dearborn. But that is a long ways down the ladder from the office of its governor, glorified somewhat by the 1939 legislature which made it a $5,000-a-year job. The sudden death of Governor Fitzgerald had demonstrated the possibilities which this office offered, automatically elevating Luren D. Dickinson into the governor's chair. Because Mr. Dickinson is 81 years of age, it is inevitable that interest will center to a great degree on his running mate for it. Governor. This is not to allude that the governor isn't in the best of health; in fact, his physician pronounces him to be sound physically for the office's responsibilities. It is merely recognizing the fact that life is more uncertain at 81 than it is at 42, the age of Dickinson's opponent, Murray D. Van Wagoner.

A Primary Trait
If the nomination of lieutenant governor were to be made at a party convention, such as is the case for state treasurer, attorney general, secretary of state and auditor general, an independent candidate of the type of Mr. Keyes wouldn't have had the proverbial snowball's chance.

The organization custom is to recognize the loyal party worker whom the leaders feel can be trusted. Or perhaps the "powers that be" weigh the geographic, class and possibly religious factors at the ballot box and cut a deal which is henceforth relayed down to the rank and file. In the latter process the unknown may be given an opportunity but it is usually for a reason known only to a select few.

But in the state primary the dark horse is the equal of the favorite. At least, his chances of winning are as good as his rival's.

"Keyes for good government" emblazoned on a myriad of newspaper advertisements, billboards, and direct mailing pieces, did what no party convention would have done for the Dearborn newcomer. The boys at Lansing are still scratching their heads and wondering how it could have happened!

One answer is: It could take place only in a primary election.

And so, if you aspire for state office, take comfort. If you deplore the breakdown of party organization and party responsibilities, read the news and weep.

Van Wagoner
No one doubted for a minute that the Democratic primary would produce any other nominee for governor than Murray D. Van Wagoner. In party circles his nomination was conceded six months ago.

In fact, the Van Wagoner band wagon was being oiled up since the spring thaws in anticipation of a fall race with Dickinson. G. Donald Kennedy, his campaign manager, who resigned as deputy highway commissioner because of the Hatch act, indicated weeks ago that the contest against Dickinson would be fought cleanly on issues arising from the Republican administration's record.

To those who have observed the efficient functioning of the highway department as nearly every state legislator will readily concede, the Democratic state campaign is expected to follow the established Van Wagoner lines of intense organization.

Charles Porritt, Van Wagoner's choice for state chairman, has a headquarters staff that even includes a publicity writer (something that the Republican staff does not have at present). Regardless of your party inclination, put it down in the books that the Democratic campaign will be waged vigorously. And that despite the following observation made by the Associated press bureau at Lansing:

"Political observers who scanned the returns for a straw to show which way the wind may blow in November found little that was conclusive save that the outstate, traditionally Republican save for its bolt to Roosevelt and the New Deal again appeared to be safely within the G. O. P. fold."

Van Wagoner's aids would probably challenge this. They would merely recall that Michigan Republicans outvoted the Democrats two to one in the 1936 primary. After all, the chickens won't be matched until November!

It is the second full week of school and we have finally resumed our regular routine. School activities have begun in earnest. There are several evidences. One: the red-helmeted players jogging to the football field. It looks as though we have an exceedingly promising lineup this year.

More evidence in the form of the enthusiasm displayed over the arrival of the Junior's class rings Monday morning.

And undoubtedly you have seen the seniors walking around with small books and pencils. You've guessed it. They're selling magazines to help defray expenses for their senior trip. They are attempting to reach everyone in and out of town to their best of their ability. The sale has been going on for six days now and the amount taken in has fallen only $1.50 short of the 1939 average which was $106.50 for the whole two week period. They hope to match if not exceed last year's receipts of $228.20.

Tuesday at noon the football boys held election for football team captain. Joe Lavey and Earl Berquist were elected co-captains. The first game will be played September 27 at Hartland. This is the date of the Hartland Community Festival, and the football game will be held in the afternoon as high-light of the activities, however it is not a regular league game.

Due to the increased enrollment several of the high school students are assisting Miss Byington in her teaching of the third, fourth and fifth grades. These girls volunteered for the purpose of helping Miss Byington and also to get an idea as to what teaching is like. There is no financial reimbursement, but the experience makes up for everything. They do not do actual teaching work but check papers and answer questions of the two other grades while Miss Byington holds lessons and recitations for the third group.

The High School has a new plan this year for a recreational night for both boys and girls. The boys will be Tuesday night and the girls' Wednesday beginning this week. So far the only activity will be sports, but we are hoping to be able to include hobby clubs, some manual works, etc. However, sports will still be included. Definite plans have not been made yet for either the boys or girls activities outside of sports.
