Local Deer Hunters Return with Deer

Pinckney Deer Hunters Are Starting To Return with Deer

The Pinckney deer hunters are returning from the north. Messrs Geo Meabon Jr., son, Leon and Harold Galbraith returned Sunday with a deer shot by Galbraith. Leonard Cook and his brother and brother-in-law of Ann Arbor returned with three deer.

Wm. Meyer, Wm. Baughn and Frank Davis of Perry went to Little Hills near Houghton Lake. While there Davis's son was badly hurt in an auto wreck. There being no way of communicating with them. Davis was located by means of the police radio station at East Lansing.

Dr. Ray Duffy has also joined the ranks of the deer hunters and Don Swarthout and Victor Bourbonnais will go up over the Thanksgiving week end.

John Wise, Fritz and Russell Gardner returned Monday with a deer shot by Wise near Houghton Lake.

Curtis Chamberlain returned here Sunday with a deer.

A card from Stanley Dinkel from Lovells says his battalion are having a fine time and have shot one deer so far. He neglects to say who was the lucky hunter so we may as well give the credit to Ed. Spears Jr.

A card from Douglas Lake announces that three deer have been shot: Friday Haines, Clare Miller and L. J. Swarthout being the lucky ones.

Norman Reason, Edward Parker and Marshall Meabon also returned Tuesday from Escocomaun without a deer.

W. H. Meyer and party returned from near Houghton Lake Tuesday without any deer. They saw 25 deer one day but all were does.

ARE ARRESTED BY SHERIFF'S OFFICERS FOR THEFT

Leon Negus, 17, Dan Barber and Ed. Bennett of Pinckney were arrested last week and charged with taking sheep belonging to Ross Minchey of Pinckney which they sold at the Charlotte community auction. Negus was arrested Friday by Deputy Sheriff Murray Kennedy and is said to have confessed implicating the other two who were picked up in Detroit. All are held at the Howell jail.

Monday the three boys pled guilty and were each given 90 day sentences by Justice Francis Barron. They also admitted stealing sheep from Frank Buckalew of Hamburg and 24 bushel of beans of Lucien McCluskey of Pinckney on Nov. 11. Lester Negus Sr. of Jackson father of Leon Negus was brought in. He admitted selling some radiators the boys took near Gregory but denied that he knew that they were stolen. He was not held. In the McCluskey theft the boys implicated a boy from Chelsea named John Burch and he was brought in.

Dan Barber and Ed. Bennett are unmarried. Leon Negus was married to Miss Alice Murphy of Pinckney last summer and lives with her people on the Quinn farm east of town. The Neguses formerly owned the Markham or Det Swarthout farm on the Dexter road but moved onto a farm south of Jackson last summer.

C. Albert Frost Passes Away

Veteran Township Official and Business Man Passes Away Here Last Saturday

Albert Frost was born in England on April 8th, 1858 and died at his home in Pinckney on November 16th, 1940.

He came to this country with his parents, at the age of 12. He married Elizabeth Singleton February 20th, 1886.

To this union were born eight children. One daughter, Florence, died when but a baby, and Blanche died at the age of 25 years, 5 months, and 15 days.

Four sons, Charles, or Keego Harbor; Harry, of this place; Thomas and Walter, of Detroit; and Gertrude, of Clawson; along with their mother, twenty-five grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren are left to mourn their loss.

Mrs. Ruth Skinner, a niece, of Detroit, is the only child left of his brothers or sisters.

Funeral services will be held at the Congregational Church on Tuesday at two o'clock. The Masons had charge of the services.

Mr. Frost was a farmer for many years and also served this township as justice of the peace during which time he tried many cases here. His last enterprise was a grist mill which he operated in the old Potlatch building.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL

The annual Red Cross Roll Call, launched on Armistice Day, Nov. 11, will end Nov. 30, climaxing an intensive 19 day campaign under way in more than 3,000 Red Cross chapters throughout the country.

Thousands of volunteers are redoubling their efforts to make this the greatest peace-time Roll Call.

With the expansion of the Defense System, Red Cross has added duties under its congressional charter one of the primary duties of the Red Cross is to render aid to our armed forces and to act as a medium of communication between them and the people of the United States. The rapid expansion of our defense man power calls, therefore, for a corresponding increase in Red Cross service to our soldiers, sailors and their families.

However we must not forget, that even in time of special emergency the vast peace time work of Red Cross is equally important. Its health and educational services have special value at this time. Also, it must continue to be prepared to give instant help in the event of such calamities as famine, fire, flood and epidemics.

Rev. Ralph Karmey of Howell, the County Roll Call Chairman, has a well organized group of Roll Call workers calling at homes, business places throughout the county to receive Red Cross memberships. Roll Call solicitors are urged to make return calls, if necessary, in order to contact every adult person.

Roll Call contributions may be left at any of the banks of Livingston county, or may be sent direct to Mrs. Don VanWinkle, Treas., of Livingston County Red Cross 932 W. Grand River Avenue, Howell Michigan

Increased Employment, Business and Sales Leaves Michigan with Much To Be Thankful For

Michigan celebrates Thanksgiving this week with more than customary gratitude for its blessings.

Business is ahead of last year. The Business Week index at 138.6 a new high point for the year which dipped to 103 last April. Department store sales are 6 per cent higher; rural sales are up 5 per cent.

Because of heavy arms contracts Michigan industrial plants have a total of future orders well past the half-billion mark, and this amount is being swelled each week by new authorizations at Washington. Small plants are getting a fair share of the volume too.

Employment for the nation has already exceeded our 1929 peak, being 48,404,000 persons in 1940 as compared with 47,925,000 for the final boom year. Michigan automobile plants are operating at full speed in order that dealers field stocks may be built up in anticipation of the coming arms production. Farm prices are more firm too. The national average shows a 5 per cent rise in food prices.

Price Inflation In the judgement of leading Michigan industrialists, we are due for at least two years of record-breaking prosperity.

Reasons are two-fold: 1. Huge defense orders, highlighted by a Morgenthau post-election statement that the Treasury borrowing limit may be raised by 20 billion.

2. Growing orders from Britain for aircraft ordinance and ships. According to the United States News, whose editor was pro-Willkie, this "spells the greatest sustained boom in the history of this or any other country—as far as industrial volumes are concerned. The election cannot change that substantially."

A boom in production, even though maintained artificially by borrowing is likely to result in inflation of the prices. While the state will collect more in sales taxes when prices increase, it will also pay more to maintain public services. The spiraling effect becomes hard to control.

A rising market also brings inevitably a trail of increased labor difficulties. This condition will also be regarded as normal.

What then, after the boom? We can be thankful also that the future is unknown. The world is moving fast, and we must go with it for better or for worse. Shift To Small Towns Merchants in Michigan "small towns"—places with population under 10,000 have new reasons to be thankful.

The U. S. Census for 1940 shows that Michigan was second in 17 states with an increase in the percentage of inhabitants living in small towns and rural areas. Whereas the state was 31 per cent rural in 1930 today it is 42 per cent. Oklahoma had the greatest population shift advancing from 56 to 73 per cent rural in ten years.

Other states which show a greater population of small towns and rural population than in 1930 are: California, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Washington.

Thirty-seven of the 48 states are more than 50 per cent "small town". The spilling over of metropolitan population into suburban area has been a factor in this trend. Decentralization of industry has revitalized many communities; Henry Ford plants at the fringe of Detroit offer familiar example.

Coalition Control In these days of foreign crisis and national security, much talk is heard about "national unity."

To achieve a semblance of coalition government, President Roosevelt included four Republicans in his cabinet Harold Ickes, Francis Perkins, Frank Knox and Henry A. Stimson. A former Republican, Henry Wallace will be the next vice president. This same desire for in-

CURRENT COMMENT

"By Yo. Editor"

We got quite a thrill in reading the Greek war news. In a dispatch from those we read where a small army of 2,000 Greeks had in spite of flight and annihilated an army of 20,000 Italians. This brings back our school days when we read about the Greek victories at Thermopole and Marathon, where they won against overwhelming odds. However the day of miracles is past and as Napoleon said the victory belongs to the side with the heaviest artillery. We recollect that Poland fought Germany to a standstill in the first few weeks of the war and Finland did likewise to Russia but both lost to their opponents in the end on account of overwhelming numbers and greater resources. According to opinion the same fate is in store for Greece.

Soon after his successful non-stop flight to France, Col. Charles Lindbergh was about the most popular person in the nation. Now he seems to have lost much of it. He praised Hitler and his system, came out against aid to England and spoke against Roosevelt. A news item from Brownwood, Texas, states that at a recent meeting of the city council there it was voted to change the name of Lindbergh Ave. to Corrigan St. in honor of the "Wrong Way" flier. Such is fame today.

Gov. Dickinson appointed G. Donald Kennedy, state highway commissioner last week to succeed Murray D. Van Wagoner who was elected governor. Mr. Kennedy is a native of South Lyon and a cousin of Mrs. C. H. Kennedy of this place. Back in the days before the war he played on the South Lyon baseball team against Pinckney several times.

Wendell Willkie made his swan song over the radio last week but far from retiring his speech bore more of form of an announcement of his candidacy for president in 1940. According to news reports he seems to hang on to his present control of the Republican party and veto it into a party to fight for his principals during the next four years. In other words Willkie wants the party to form a strong, loyal opposition and support the president only on instances when he does not go against Republican principals enunciated by Willkie in his campaign and those followed by his party.

Willkie was for aid to the Allies in all ways short of intervention for sale of battle ships and material to Great Britain and for conscription of men. His party in Congress voted against all these measures. Other members of his party have different ideas about this. Tom Dewey of New York expects to run again for governor of that state in 1942 and if elected will be in strong position to make a bid for the Republican presidential nomination in 1944. The Democrats recognize his strength and are said to have selected Jim Farley to oppose him. In the past except in the case of Wm. Jennings Bryan, a defeated candidate for the office of president has never been given a second shot at it. Anyway the Astorley magazine says the stars say Willkie will never be elected president. So there.

The Michigan Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring an economy drive and will try to influence the next legislature to cut appropriations and kill all new ones asked. We doubt that they will get anywhere. Gov. Dickinson probably owes his defeat to the fact that he allowed the last legislature to cut old age pension and crippled children appropriations to the bone while at the same time the state payroll broke all previous records and reached a new high. School aid was also greatly cut. The legislators usually have their ears to the ground and with the national government spending new billions for defense it is not likely that the coming legislature will be parsimonious in the matter of expenditures.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features-WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Being deaf, and naturally shrewd and alert, little Ismet Inonu, president of Turkey developed various sensitivities to such an extent that he soon became known not only as a lip-reader, but a mind-reader.

Perhaps, making his frank address before the national assembly, he has a hole card which the juggernaut powers hadn't figured on.

Those who have played poker with the man, ingratiating little fighter and diplomat say that when he bets 'em he has 'em—all kibitzers gloomily shaking their heads, however, as they figure the Axis hand.

It was as Ismet Pasha that he made his career, changing his name in line with Kemal Ataturk's modernization program.

For the last two years, Germany's clever and resourceful Von Papen has been attending to political and diplomatic sabotage in Turkey.

TRAINING for the next war won't be just one-two, one-two and squads right or left.

Gen. Haskell for Twenty-seventh division Of Army Recruits starts his mobilization program, he lets it be known that recruits will be schooled in all the new tactics and disciplines of modern soldiering.

Big, bluff, ruddy, iron-jawed General Haskell appointed to the command of the New York National Guard by Gov. Alfred E. Smith in 1926, is a West Pointer who has preached stiff discipline and long yelled for more and better fighting tools for the army.

IN THE groping for more fruitful cultural relations with South America, Nelson A. Rockefeller seems to have made a shrewd choice in adding to his committee Don Francisco, president of the Lord and Thomas Advertising Agency.

Farmers Face New Problems As Use of Machines Increases

Technological Advances Change Life on U. S. Farms; Greek Nation Completely Unified in Crisis; Government Buys More Land.

By BAUKHAGE (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

What's next? With the frost on the pumpkin, fodder in the shock, the world settling down to a hard winter and a long war, those of us who aren't in the first draft or just elected to office have a chance to look two ways from Christmas.

The industrial tail is about to wag the agricultural dog again the experts tell us, surplus labor is about to be syphoned off the farm which is fine for the man who has too many mouths to feed and too few acres to divide up, but not so good for the farmer who needs a few extra hands.

In that short span for a man or a mule, 35 years, 10,000,000 mules and horses and thousands of men have been pushed off the farm by the machine. And, according to the prognosticators in Washington, a million and a half more mules and horses will be replaced by tractors in the next 10 years, and more than 8,000,000 acres of land now used to raise feed for work stock will be put to other uses.

Farmer Has Long Utilized Machines

We've been hearing a lot about man versus the machine, especially since the smash of 1929 that made unemployment the big issue, and again since the smash of 1940 when the Nazis with their tanks and motorized equipment went through France like a plow through loam.

Along with the tractor came a lot more "technological developments" including not only farm machinery like the combine and the corn-picker but other scientific advances such as testing and breeding and feeding of animals and plants, soil conservation, disease prevention and other things.

One thing that interested me particularly in this interesting book, aside from its excellent and detailed information, was an editorial opinion it expressed on the way the use of machines has changed farming for a living to farming for cash.

Of course when you have to buy a lot of machinery you need hard money but there are disadvantages in simply raising products with the one purpose of turning them into money.

Increased Investment Reduces Security

First, it reduces security. If you raise your own food you need never starve in a panic.

A family with a low income and plenty of food growing right on the place is more likely to get a continuously healthful diet than one which has to buy what it eats.

Raising one's own food helps divide up responsibility for the family welfare because young children and old folks can tend a garden or feed the chickens. If the eggs and vegetables and milk are purchased, the children's interests are removed from the interests of their parents and older brothers and sisters.

Another disadvantage of farming for money only, with the greater use of machines, is that it makes it harder to own a farm. The money goes into perishable things instead of into the solid title to land.

FARM MACHINERY

Life on American farms is being changed by technological advances, Baukhage reports. He finds that the trend toward growing products primarily for sale instead of home consumption raises many new problems.

farmer tends to become a renter and if times are bad and a renter can't pay his rent he loses everything.

This is just one of the farm problems that the farmer can think over during the long winter evenings. Like many other good things machinery can be too much of a good thing.

Greek People Wholly United

The war came close to me again the other day when I stepped on the soil of another belligerent. It was shortly after the Italians had crossed the border from Albania, and the Greeks had met this new invasion from the west as they met the Persian invasion from the east 450 years before.

I say I stepped on foreign soil because the embassies and legations of a foreign power are considered a part of the territory of that power no matter where they are located.

As I sat in the attractive cubby-hole that is his study, pouring over a map of the country he knows so well, I had a strange feeling.

The minister looked up. "Greece has never been as united as it is today," he said.

When the Persian hordes came to Marathon it was because their ruler hated the democratic spirit which he feared would spread to his own slave states.

Winter Comes To Washington

Washington in the autumn moves from a bright water-color to a soft-pastel, and then the foliage fades to a dark oil painting of rich browns.

We are now between the oil painting and the steel engraving. The burning yellow of the Gingkoes (the maiden-hair tree, some call it) have laid their last golden carpet on the west side of Lafayette square.

A few sturdy oaks cling to their rich, saddle-leather brown. The Gingkoes are now bare. There are many of these attractive trees in Washington.

I have a leaf from one planted in the city of Weimar by the poet Goethe. His city of study and reflection—the city that gave birth to the ill-fated German Republic after the last war.

That tree I hope still blooms. It does unless the Nazis have uprooted its beauty because it is non-Aryan. Nature knows no politics, and laughs at our fickle changes.

History repeats but it also reverses itself. Once the American settlers were given or could buy government land. Now Uncle Sam buys 500,000 acres from his citizens.

As part of the defense program the war department through the soil conservation service has purchased great tracts for the Seventh corps army training center in Iowa; a new aircraft firing center near Hinesville, Ga.; and lands for expansion of Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont; Fort Sill, Oklahoma; Fort Devens, Massachusetts; and Fort Bliss, Texas.

From now on you'll be able to SEE American history.

In the National Archives in Washington there is the greatest collection of moving pictures of American events that exists. In a series, "See America First," you can see history (some re-made, of course) relating to Colonial days down to 1874. The later ones are news reels and among them is the only official picture in existence showing the celebration of the transfer of the Virgin islands.

CONSERVATION NOTES

For Michigan's 170,000 deer hunters now snug in cabins and warm tents, the cold spell with its light snowfall as a critical factor. It makes tracking deer easier and deadens the sound of the crackle of leaves and sticks. On account of the warm spell it is hoped that bears will stay out later. Last year 600 were set.

So far four hunters have been killed. One was a trapper who was carrying a coyote over his shoulder.

At the Drawton Plains fish hatchery two million bluegill fry had shrunk to 450,000 under the voracious raids of 750 perch who had made an amazing growth. Next year the two fry will be separated.

Conservation officers will be on guard this against Christmas tree poachers. The fine is from $25 to $500.

This year some six million trees and 8,000 acres have been planted to trees by CCC enrollees.

Portable tank units are being used in fish planting operations in southern Michigan.

In 1918, 30 elk from Wyoming were released in Roscommon, Montmorency and Otsego counties.

Alarmed by a growing scarcity of minnows, the 1416 licensed minnow dealers of Michigan are giving thought to growing their own. Several million dollars worth of minnows were sold by them the past year.

With foreign imports curtailed an increase in Michigan's peat production is considered likely. In 1939 76,611 tons of peat was imported. The United States produced 55,483. Most of this peat is used for soil improvement but some is also used for stable and poultry litter.

Annual growth of Michigan forests now exceeds the annual cut.

The conservation commission has acquired 10 more miles of lake and stream frontage.

Michigan's coal basin comprises an area including 6,500 to 11,000 square miles. One third of this bed is workable.

($1.55 a month—average— for a family of 3 persons)

"It costs me less than 40c a week to cook on my electric range. Before I got my range, my cooking bill used to run a little lower.

"But for a matter of a few cents a week, an electric range is worth every bit of the difference! Just think: I enjoy electric cooking for less than the price of a loaf of bread or a quart of milk.

"We have a small family—there are three of us—but my neighbor next door cooks for five persons, and HER bill for electric cooking runs about 45c a week. So you see, an electric range costs less than you think. I wish I'd known that long ago... I'd have bought my electric range much sooner."

Another electric servant worth "discovering" is the automatic electric water heater. It provides hot water at all hours—and it is so fully automatic you simply install it and forget it. Electric water heating costs less than 10c a day (for an average family of three). The Detroit Edison Company.

With so much bad weather this year the pick is expected to be very high, with a crop about a million bags short of last year. Michigan leads the world in bean production.

WINDOW FOGGING CONTROLLED BY DOUBLE GLASS

Here is one way to control that annoying fogging and condensation on the windows in your new home. Shown here are three casement windows. Notice that two of them are entirely clear because of inside double glazing. The other window has had the inside double glazing removed, with the result that it is fogged up almost immediately. When this picture was taken the inside room temperature was 71 degrees, while outside the thermometer stood at 15 degrees above zero.

IF YOU DON'T KNOW YOUR VITAMINS—

Know the Maker

To those who have not made a special study of vitamins, their manufacture and standardization, one vitamin product may look like another. But the effectiveness and merit of each product depends on its actual vitamin content. Your major protection is the skill and integrity of the maker who is able to take vitamin-containing materials which may vary widely in potency and concentrate them by complicated procedures to the final form (liquid, capsules, etc.) you procure from your druggist. The actual vitamin potency of the finished products and the quality of the vitamins depend largely on the experience and laboratory facilities of the maker.

The rich background of experience developed by Parke, Davis & Company, and the reputation for integrity which Parke, Davis & Company Products enjoy are your best protection and assurance of the vitamin content claimed on the labels.

Parke, Davis and Company supplies various vitamin products to meet the needs of each and every person, as recommended by the physician. When continued treatment is desirable, and when several members of the family are using the same vitamin product, the larger sized packages will be found most economical. In all instances ample intake of the various vitamin factors can be provided for a few cents a day.

PREPARED... They Beat the Gale's Destruction

The value of this company's preparedness to protect your telephone service in emergencies was proven once more last week while storm-broken trees and branches smashed great gaps through Michigan's long distance telephone lines. Riding a 60-mile gale from the western plains, the shrieking blasts caused wide-spread destruction throughout Michigan. But a well-built, well-protected plant minimized damage to telephone service. And experienced telephone men.

1500 of them... ready when needed, and where... patrolled the lines, repaired the breaks, even as the storm raged.

Only because of their experience, and long, careful training in standardized methods and with standardized tools and equipment, were these motorized and mechanized forces enabled to beat the storm's damage and restore service rapidly.

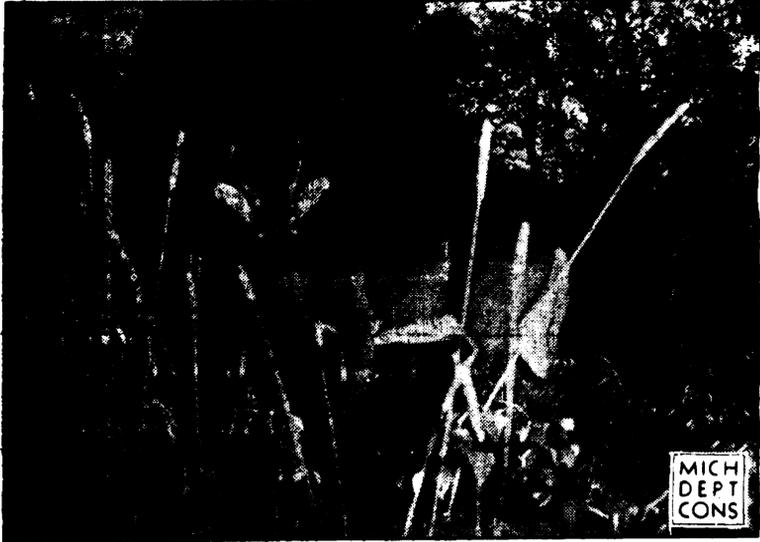

This company's preparedness is an asset to Michigan's telephone service.

Philathea Notes

The Philathea Class was pleasantly entertained for the November regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Villa Richards and Miss Blanche Martin, on last Wednesday afternoon. About 18 ladies enjoyed the business and social hour, and an interesting Bible Quiz was presented by Mrs. Carrie Swarthout.

Intriguing plans were made for our second annual "Christmas Party". This is to be held in December at the Parsonage, with Mrs. J. M. McClucas as our hostess. The entertainment committee will be Mrs. Graves and Mrs. Isham.

The sympathy of the Philatheas goes out to the family of Mr. Albert Frost in his recent passing from our midst.

Religious services were planned by our pastor for the last Tuesday afternoon at the home of one of our shut-ins, Mrs. William Docking. Also for this Wednesday evening at the church, when a Thanksgiving service will be held.

Following the interesting lesson of last Sunday, we have the topic for November 24th, "Attitudes Towards the Gospel Message." Luke 8: 4-15. In connection with this, read John 15: 1-6. This lesson is the well known story of the sowing of the seed and bringing us the Golden Text: "Take heed therefore how ye hear." Luke 8: 18.

Remember the coming Ladies' Aid Pazar on Saturday, Nov. 23rd, and contribute as generously as possible. We may also help to advertise, so there may be many purchasers for the interesting annual event of the Women's Society of the Congregational Church.
"And be ye also thankful."

PRIMARY ROOM

Those on the siccock list this week are Judy Aschenbrenner, Jerry and Albert Mrofska.

Mr. Jeffrey's made six triangles for our rhythm band. We would like to have several more instruments for our band.

Posters are being made, "Thanksgiving Dinner Preparation" and "Going to Church"

We have started our Christmas operetta.

MISS BYINTON'S ROOM

This week both the fourth and fifth graders have finished their November magazines for English. The fourth graders are playing a game for health class. In this game the contestants have five health rules. Every day that they keep all five rules, a small figure of a boy or girl, representing each boy and girl is moved up to the top of the chart. If at the end of the week a child is at the top of the chart, he gets a red star. And at the end of a perfect month, a gold star. Those who kept the health rules this week: Leona Campbell, Donald Clark, Gerald Clark, Geraldine Feiner, Ruth Gallup, Sam Gentile, Eddie Hartman, Dean McLaughlin, Patsy Mauk, Wesley Palmer, Shirley Reason, Lois Shirley and Dick Singer.

We have received two packages from the South. One from Poplarsville, Mississippi and one from Cushing, Oklahoma. Now we know what cotton looks like when it is growing.

On the sick list this week are Jimmy Meyer Patsy Mauk and Geraldine Feiner.

Fanny Shirey and Robert Aschenbrenner had birthdays this week.

The Sophomore class of Pinckney High School enjoyed a winter roast at woods northeast of Pinckney, owned by Baughns.

The Sophomore History Class of Pinckney High School, will go on a trip to the museums at Ann Arbor, Michigan, Wednesday A. M. The main purpose of the trip is to visit the Archeological Museum to see and study old Roman and Greek remains.

SOPHOMORE NEWS

The Sophomore class had the first of a series of outdoor parties Thursday night, November 14. Although the weather was quite cold everyone had a good time and were kept warm by the big bon-fire. As the fire went down ghost stories were told. Outdoor games were played and refreshments consisted of hot-dogs, marshmallows, and apples. The Sophomores want to thank Mr. and Mrs. Baughn for the use of the woods.

SENIOR NOTES

When the curtain rises on the first act of "High Pressure Homer" the evening of December 6 at the Pinckney High School Auditorium, the Woodruff family will be revealed in all their mad glory. For each and every member of said Woodruff family has a hobby, and nobody will be able to resist howling with glee at their mad pranks.

Bruce Brandon, who wrote the play, was asked recently how he came to put such a mad family into a play. "It all happened by accident," Mr. Brandon smiled. "I was taken for a weekend trip up in Connecticut by an old friend and he told me what lovable folks we were going to stay with. I had been in their home only half an hour when I realized that these people were different from any family I'd ever met. The entire week-end was just one long scramble. It was so strenuous that when I arrived back in New York, I went to bed for 24 hours to get thoroughly rested. A few days later the friend who had insisted that I accompany him on the week-end visit, laughingly asked if I would like to make another trip to visit his friends. He was astonished when I was eager to pay another visit and a few weeks later we started out again, only this time I had plenty of pencils and a notebook and took down everything our hostess and her prankish family did. You see by this time I had decided to write a play about them.

Their names weren't Woodruff and I've disguised them completely but all of their antics went in "High Pressure Homer". We are sure you will enjoy the results.

Tickets will be on sale the first of this week so get your seats early and get aboard the fun wagon. You'll have one of the most amusing and entertaining evenings you've ever spent

BASKET BALL NEWS

Boy's basketball season got under way last week when about twenty candidates reported for practice. Prospects for a winning team are not too bright as only four members of last year's District Championship team are now in school and one of these, Max Reynolds, is handicapped by a broken arm.

On the basis of the first week of practice one might feel safe in saying no candidate has cinched a position on the starting five. There are about twelve boys of fairly equal ability, anyone of whom may find a place in the starting lineup.

The complete list of candidates is as follows: Max Reynolds, Joe Lewis, Ken Lamont, Earl Berquist, Beryl Amburgey, Levi Ludtke, Phillip Gentile, Gerald Vedder, George Aschenbrenner, Doug Plummer, Edwin Sprout, Grant Cass, Duke VanBlaricum, Bill Kuhn and Walt Barbour.

The boys are quite optimistic and promise loyal fans many interesting evenings throughout the season. It is hoped that local fans will turn out in greater numbers than last year as possible.

the boys are playing one of the toughest schedules in recent years and will need all the moral support they can get.

The complete schedule is as follows:

- Dec. 10, Saline there.
- Dec. 13, Hartland here.
- Dec. 20, Chelsea there.
- Jan. 10, Dexter there.

- Feb. 7, Dexter here.
- Feb. 11, Saline here.
- Feb. 14, New Hudson there.
- Feb. 21, Brighton here.
- Feb. 28, League games at Dexter.

"ETIQUETTE"

For a small town Pinckney has many telephones. Many of these telephones are in the homes of school children. Even those that haven't a telephone should be able to carry on a telephone conversation properly because the use of the telephone is becoming more essential to the lives of the American people. Yet there are some high school students that carry on a telephone conversation like a kindergarten child does.

We will say that Sally Summers is five years old, a little girl in the kindergarten. When Jane Crabapple talks over the phone she talks about like little Sally does. Jane says "hah?" "yeah" "kid" and "solong". You can expect Sally to say that but to hear one of our high school students say these words is a little too much. Sally will probably have her mouth full of gum and as far away from the mouth piece as she can get because she must see those children outside playing.

When a person is talking on the phone their mind should be centered on their talking and not on some thing else else. If you are on a party line be considerate enough of others to make your conversation as short as possible. Your lips should be directly facing the mouth-piece; your voice should be soft; your tone pleasant; and your words should be spoken distinctly.

Have you a question you would like to ask us? Drop your question into the public letter box and we will try to answer them as soon as possible.

Is your child a NOSE PICKER?

It may be just a nasty habit, but sometimes nose picking is a sign of something nastier. It may mean that your child has round worms—especially if there are other symptoms, such as fretting, anicky appetite, restless sleep and itching in certain parts.

Many mothers don't realize how easy it is to "catch" the dreaded infection and how many children have it. If you even suspect that your child has round worms get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE right away! Drive out those ugly, crawling things before they can grow and cause serious distress.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE is the best known worm expeller in America. It is backed by modern scientific study and has been used by millions for over a century. JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE has been found to drive out large round worms, yet it tastes good and acts gently. It does not contain any harmful substances. If there are no worms it works merely as a mild laxative. Ask for JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE at any drug store.

South Has Vital Defense Role

Many Projects Under Way To Aid in Expansion of Army and Navy.

ATLANTA.—The South is preparing to take a big part in the program for the development of the army and navy to meet defense demands.

The federal government, realizing the strategically important geographic location of the southern and southeastern states, has made huge appropriations for the development of military and naval bases in the area.

In every southern state, chambers of commerce, National Guard officers and patriotic organizations are working to insure the best locations for training camps, air fields for naval aviation bases—to be used when and if needed.

The government has authorized or begun construction in the South of these projects:

A 525,000-acre anti-aircraft training center near Savannah, Ga. The cost has been estimated at $25,000,000, including an outlay of $3,500,000 for land in seven counties.

Enlarge Training Facilities.
Enlargement of Fort McPherson at Atlanta, for which $1,500,000 was authorized by the house military affairs committee.

Expansion of Fort Benning, at Columbus, Ga., to allow additional personnel to use the facilities of what is already the world's largest training school for infantry.

Expansion of the Opa-locka naval air base at Miami, at a cost of $3,500,000, intended to increase the navy's control over the Caribbean sea and the Central American zone—an obvious point of attack.

Construction of an even larger air base at Jacksonville, Fla., near the Georgia border, primarily designed for huge flying boats. The base will cost some $10,000,000, while an additional $3,000,000 has been proposed for a school for aviation mechanics at the base.

Selection of Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala., and Barksdale field, Shreveport, La., as army air training schools. Both are used now for combat training of army pilots.

May Add Aviation Units.
Recent completion of an army bombing base at MacDill field, near Tampa. It will serve as southeastern headquarters for army squadrons.

Possible addition of aviation units to National Guards. The Georgia National Guard has been selected as one of eight in the country to incorporate a bombardment squadron, while the entire force is mechanized.

Nearly all of the projects listed were under construction or being constructed at the time of President Roosevelt's announcement of his plan for national defense. When the vast program does get under way, even more development of southern resources is predicted.

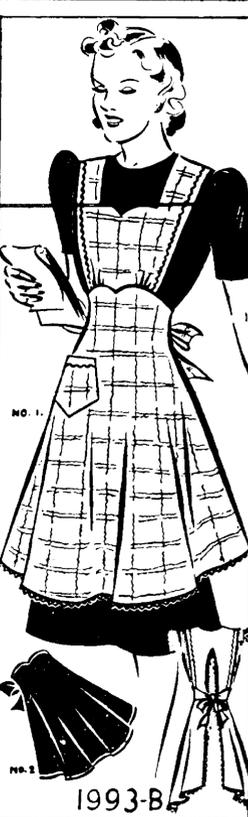

In addition to actual work under way, authorities have pointed out that the southern climate is ideal for year-round training of all branches of the service; that northern Alabama is a great producer of iron ore and finished steel; that the mountains of Kentucky and West Virginia are full of coal necessary to war industries, and that Georgia's mineral wealth is extensive.

Trim Coverall and Smart Tie-Around

1993-B

TWO of the most useful aprons in the world are yours in this one simple pattern (No. 1993-B). One is the all-protective type that you rely on to keep your dresses clean while preparing supper. The other is the more or less decorative little tie-around that you wear when serving afternoon tea.

Notice the special virtues of the coverall. It protects the top as well as the skirt of your dress; it goes over your head and ties in a jiffy. It's so cut that it can't slip from your shoulders.

Just leave off the bib part of the coverall, and you have the high-cut, saucy little tie-around. Baste, gingham, linen, percale and seersucker are pretty apron materials.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1993-B is designed for sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 34 requires for #1, 2 1/2 yards of 35-inch material without nap and 6 yards rickrack; 1 1/2 yards for #2, and 3 1/4 yards rickrack. Send order to:

DOAN'S PILLS

by Thornton W. Burgess
BOWSER THE HOUND CRIES FOR HELP

FARMER BROWN'S BOY was very much excited. Yes, sir, he was. You see, he never before had set a trap for a wolf, and somehow it seemed to him it would be a great thing to catch Old Man Coyote. So he was up very early that morning to visit the traps he had set.

"I almost know I have got him," said he, as he started forth with his terrible gun over his shoulder. "I know he was in his house when I set those traps, and with a trap hidden at each entrance he couldn't possibly get out without stepping in one. I think I'll have his skin made into a mat for my room. Hello, Bowser, old fellow! Shall we go get him now?"

As he spoke he stooped and unchained Bowser the Hound. Bowser shook himself, licked his master's hand, and then started to trot ahead on the way to the Green Meadows, for he knew perfectly well where they were going. It was just at that very minute that there was a frightened squawking and cackling of the ducks and chickens in the henhouse.

"Hello!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "Something is bothering them. We'll have to see if Mr. Skunk or Reddy Fox is around." With that he led the way in the direction of the henhouse. Of course, Bowser raced ahead and disappeared around the corner of the house. A second later his great voice rolled out so excitedly that Farmer Brown's Boy knew he had discovered something.

"Sounds as if Bowser had found a fresh fox track," muttered Farmer Brown's Boy, and began to run. When he reached the henhouse and turned the corner Bowser was already well on his way to the Green Meadows, and from the noise he was making it was very clear that he was following a fresh trail.

"Bow, wow, wow! Bow, wow, wow!" roared Bowser, and his master knew that meant, "Come on! come on! I've found a track!"

Bowser soon left Farmer Brown's Boy far behind, and his voice grew fainter and fainter in the direction of the far corner of the Green Meadows. Farmer Brown's Boy tramped along in the same direction for, you know, it was there that he had set his traps for Old Man Coyote. He smiled as he listened to Bowser's deep voice, for when he is following a trail Bowser's voice is very musical and good to hear. It was full of excitement, was Bowser's voice, the excitement of the hunt. You know, no one loves to hunt more than does Bowser. And because he loves the chase so, there is always a note of joy in his voice. Farmer Brown's Boy listened and he smiled. Suddenly he stopped and a queer expression came over his face as he listened harder than ever. Bowser's voice was faint because he was so far away, but it was loud enough for Farmer Brown's Boy to notice that there was a great difference in it. All the joy was gone out of it. Indeed, it expressed surprise and pain and fright all together. In a minute it became a howl which was all pain and fright.

"O-o-h, o-o-h, o-o-h!" howled Bowser. "Help! Help! Help! Oh-o-o-o-o-o!"

Farmer Brown's Boy began to run. What could have happened to make Bowser howl like that? Something had happened, that was sure. Could he have tried to fight that wolf and Old Man Coyote to be having the best of it?

"Poor old Bowser! He is in real trouble of some sort and is calling for me," panted Farmer Brown's Boy. He was quite right. Bowser was in trouble.

School Teacher Is Paid; Yet She Has No Pupils
LITTLE ROCK, ARK.—For three months a young woman kept a rural school open and received pay under her contract though no students appeared.

Then she decided to attend college and inquired of Arkansas' legal department if her pay would continue provided she held herself in readiness to return if any students showed up.

Opinion of Assistant Attorney General J. F. Koone:
1.—It is a bad policy to conduct a student-less school.
2.—The teacher could not be paid unless she continued to present herself at the school daily to teach if pupils appear.

Weddings Provide Swallows' Banquet

RENO, NEV.—When the Reno courthouse sparrows returned this year from their annual migration there was an awful hubbub. They showed up on the day that 325 couples—a record at that time for Reno—also showed up to be married, and the rice that blanketed the courthouse greens kept the sparrows well fed.

Now Men of Italy Wear Shorts to Be Patriotic

ROME.—The Italian government started a campaign to get Italian men out of trousers and into shorts. The campaign, pressed in newspapers and by special posters, is part of Italy's effort to become self-sustaining despite the British blockade.

The commission on autarchy, presided over by Premier Benito Mussolini, also ruled out hats, ties and other cloth-consuming items of apparel and decided in favor of V-necked, short sleeve shirts.

Promoters of the campaign feared Italian men might think shorts and the new shirts were "sissy-ish." So the morning newspapers emphasized what they called the "new virile style" and said it was "not only hygienic, but masculine and patriotic."

This winter, it was said, the shorts may be lengthened a trifle.

Former Miner Devises New Dust-Type Explosive

MILLERSVILLE, W. VA.—Alva Rivers, ex-coal miner, believes he has invented an explosive sufficiently powerful to end the European war in 30 days.

"My invention is a special explosive combined with a dust which is more effective than poison gas," said Rivers, who claims his mining experience has made him familiar with explosives. "This gas-dust remains four or five days in the vicinity of the explosion."

Groundhog and Spaniel Share Dinner

Fit, a groundhog, and Moe, a cocker spaniel, are the best of friends during the summer at Chimney Rock, N. C., but when their mistress, Mrs. Harry E. Nash, leaves for the winter, Fit returns to hibernate while Moe goes along with the family. The very first day the Nashes returned this year, Fit came waddling up the steps to greet them—and stayed for dinner.

LIGHT, LOW PRICED AIRPLANE ENGINE OFFERED U. S. ARMY

TEKEMAH, NEB.—In this little agricultural town far removed from the nation's great aviation factories, a Catholic priest and the son of a Methodist minister believe they have perfected an engine that will revolutionize aeronautics.

Its unique features include, they say, a drive arm of secret design that eliminates the necessity of connecting rods.

For four years, behind locked doors and shuttered windows of an old building they purchased when their equipment became too large for their homes, they worked laboriously on the engine.

E. George, a University of Nebraska graduate engineer, whose father holds a small Methodist pastorate. The model of the engine represents a cost in time, materials and labor of approximately $33,000. The inventors estimate that with the efficiency of mass production it can be manufactured for aerial craft at a cost of only $25.

The model is a 10-cylinder internal combustion type. It is adaptable to powering tanks and to motorboats but is primarily intended for air service. Cigar-shaped, it is only 20 inches long, weighs 36 pounds, but develops five horsepower at 4,000 revolutions a minute.

LAVEY HARDWARE

MICHIGAN STATE MIRROR NEWS ter-party strength prompted the choice of a Democrat, Wendell L. Willkie, by the Republicans as their nominee for president.

Michigan's new state government will also be bi-partisan. Its governor lieutenant governor and the state treasurer and highway commissioner will be Democrats. Secretary of state, attorney general, auditor general and state superintendent of public instruction will be Republicans.

The state legislature will remain under Republican control.

The above situation, however, has its complications. An opportunity exists for evading of responsibility, r in plain words, for "buck passing".

If the state deficit is not reduced, if pressure groups are denied promised increases in state appropriations, who will be blamed—the governor or the legislature?

New Economy Drive

Almost in anticipation of this situation, a new economy drive is being launched by the Michigan Public Expenditure Survey, an affiliate of the Chamber of Commerce of Michigan.

Expecting that better times in Michigan will increase sales tax revenues substantially, the tax payers program, as announced, presents demands:

1. Reduction of state budget at least 5 per cent for the next biennium.
2. Enactment of state budget control system, including standardizing reporting between local units and the state.
3. Centralized tax collection system.

The economy platform runs counter to these Michigan trends:

1. Every recent state administration has augmented powers at Lansing—new bureaus, new commissions and new increases in payrolls.
2. The state legislature is usually susceptible to pressure groups.
3. Home taxing units favor more rather than less state aid.

Civil Service

The civil service amendment, which becomes a part of the state constitution, has rigid provisions that are far-reaching in effect. They will put Michigan into the front rank of merit system states.

According to a commonly accepted interpretation of the amendment, a state officer will be limited to two appointments—presumably a deputy and a personal secretary.

All other employees will be hired and fired by the civil service commission, whose director is a czar beyond reach of the legislature.

Furthermore, funds for operating the system are automatically provided for by the amendment. Again legislators are powerless to interfere.

The prospect of Governor-elect Murray D. VanWagoner being unable to bring more than a legal advisor and a personal secretary to the executive office on January 2 is astonishingly unorthodox, to say the least. Politicians can hardly believe it will happen.

Mr. VanWagoner is studying selection of the commission, and it is possible that Governor Dickinson may go through the legality of naming his successor's appointments on the commission in order that advance preparations can be started at once.

THANKSGIVING DAY. WHY BE THANKFUL?

Thanksgiving Day will soon be here, and though the world is full of fear, and some folks, worried by the war, thing nothings to be thankful for I feel that I must needs express the reasons for my thankfulness. I've got a wife who's cooking in the best in this here land, gawwhiz, she keeps me feeling young and pert and sews the buttons on my shirt. My hired man sint very good, don't always work the way he should, but he is always on the job. He don't take time off to hobnob around the store and have his fun when there is milking pay or kick at mowing back the hay.

My neighbors too are pretty good, they gossip maybe, when they should be working, but in time of need they are mighty helpful folks indeed. There aint a thing they won't do to help another neighbor through. They will loan their mower or their plow, and stick up for you in a row, it makes a feller feel right glad to live in such a neighborhood. I'm thankful too for the U. S. A. a place where we can have our say and criticize the government, without fear that we will be sent to concentration camp or shot for what we say, as like as not. There's lots of things that's out of fix but I ain't got so many kicks, I'm pretty happy with my lot, and satisfied with what I've got.—Contributed

Our Thanksgiving Thought

World conditions more than ever impress upon us the benefits of living in this part of the world. Even with prospects of the largest military expansion program in our history we have still the rights of free speech, assembly, press and religion.

For these rights we unite with the rest of the United States of America in giving thanks, both as individuals and as a business enterprise privileged to serve our community and fellow citizens.

McPherson State Bank is thankful also for the confidence reposed in it by Howell and Livingston County. Upon this confidence we have completed seventy-five years of banking and upon its continuance rests our ability to serve in the future.

THE REAL MAN

In a haunting error of any sort, we start with the scientifically correct premise that God, Mind, is good, and that the real man, Mind's reflection, is also good. Whatever wrong we see in others is but a manifestation of the carnal mind, and our part in the correction must begin with ourselves—we must destroy the wrong image in our own consciousness. This was Jesus' method of destroying error. He saw it as unreal, as no part of man's true selfhood, because he ever held to the truth of being, namely, that the real man is God's reflection.

As we progress in our ability to distinguish between the real and the unreal, our sense of the beauty, utility, and permanence of all that is good is enhanced. This is illustrated by a story of three men who once took a walk in a forest. One was a botanist, one a business man, and one a poet. As they went along, each asked the other what he saw in the forest. The botanist answered, "Interesting specimens;" the business man, "Thousands of feet of lumber rolling off the saws;" the poet, "Endless inspiration." They all saw the same objects with their physical eyes, yet their reactions were vastly different, and each vision was right and useful in its place.

One is false to himself when he permits evil to handle him, or when he sees evil as something belonging to persons. Evil is a negation, nothing, and he must therefore not see it as something real. To magnify human weaknesses, either in individuals or in groups of individuals, is in itself an evil. The one Mind, which man reflects, knows only good. When we classify all wrongdoing as impersonal error, then we shall be able to destroy it as Jesus destroyed it. This attitude of spiritual thinking will bring about a peaceful settlement in any controversy.—The Christian Science Monitor.
