Michigan Bell Telephone Co. Announces Reduction in Long Distance Call Rates

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company announced today that reductions on long distance calls from any of its exchanges to any other Michigan point more than 42 miles distant will become effective at 12.01 a.m. Saturday, April 26.

George M. Welsh, president, said the company had filed the new tariffs with the Michigan Public Service Commission, which has granted authority to initiate the reduced rates at that time. The new rates follow the recent decision of the State Supreme Court upholding an order of the former Michigan Public Utilities Commission cutting intrastate rates to the level of interstate charges. Welsh estimated that the reductions will mean a savings of $700,800 a year to subscribers, based upon current usage of the long distance service.

Long distance operators of the company will be enabled to quote the new rate to any requested Michigan point.

Welsh also said that Judge Leland W. Carr of the Ingham Circuit Court will be asked, probably early next week, for a decree authorizing the procedure for refunding approximately $1,500,000, representing the difference between the two rate schedules on intrastate toll calls made since August 1, 1938, the effective date of the former commission's order. The money has been impounded, under bond and without interest, in a bank designated by the court.

Further information is not available at this time on the method of making the $1,500,000 refund, Welsh said. He also emphasized that it will take some time before the company can start refunding due to the size of the task. He pointed out that the company must check the records of 65,000,000 long distance calls on the accounts of approximately 700,000 telephone customers.

PASTOR RECEIVES CALL

At the congregational meeting held Sunday morning in the Community Congregational church at the close of the worship services, Rev. J. M. McLucas, pastor, received a call by vote of church to continue as pastor for the fourth year. Rev. McLucas concludes three years here in June. It is hoped and expected by the members and friends of the church that the Detroit Methodist Conference will re-appoint the Rev. McLucas to Pinckney at the Annual conferences held in Detroit June 19, 23.

ACQUITTED OF BROTHER'S MURDER

Beecher Osborne, 21, was acquitted of the murder of his brother, Price at Ann Arbor last Friday by a jury of 8 men and 4 women, who were out only one hour. Price Osborne lived in Unadilla. On last January 27, after returning from Camp Custer, the brothers quarrelled at Beecher's house at Chelsea over Price's wife and Price was killed by a knife wound. Beecher pleaded self-defense.

DEFENSE BONDS AND STAMPS

The sale of Defense Bonds and Stamps will be inaugurated tonight by a nation-wide address by President Roosevelt. The stamps will sell from 10c to $5 and albums will be provided for them. The bonds are in three classes. One class sells from $18.75 to $750, another from $74 to $7,400 and the third class from $100 to $10,000. All are 12 year bonds.

Michigan is one of the 6 states in which the sale will be first put on. The state will be completely organized by county and township like the Liberty Bond days of 1918-19 and a drive put on. In the old days such drives were highly successful here some persons taking as many as $5000 worth, the payment of which is guaranteed by the United States government.

Eugene T. McClear Passes Away

Former Livingston County Man Dies at Detroit Monday

Eugene T. McClear, 80, died at the home of his son, Roche, and daughter Eileen, in Detroit Monday. He was born in Unadilla township, being the son of Patrick McClear, a pioneer. He attended the schools in this county and taught district school for a number of years. On February 13, 1890, he was united in marriage to Miss Ella Roche of Putnam township. He served as Livingston county drain commissioner and lived in Gregory for a while. Later he became manager of the Stockbridge elevator at Anderson where he lived for some time and later went to Whitmore Lake, where he was manager of an elevator there for the same company. He lived at Whitmore Lake for 20 years. While there he was a member of the school board for nearly 20 years, served as justice of peace and was on the board of St. Patrick's church of Northfield and a member of the Holy Name Society. Failing health caused his retirement from business several years ago, and two years ago he went to Detroit to live with his children.

Surviving are his widow, two sons Roche of Detroit and Gerald of Owosso and three daughters, Eileen Muriel and Mrs. James Kerwin, all of Detroit; two grandchildren, Eugene and Ella Kerwin of Detroit; a sister, Mrs. Elda Kuhn of Gregory and three brothers, John of Albion, Leo of Howell and Ernest of Royal Oak.

The funeral services will be held from St. Patrick's church in Northfield Thursday morning with burial in St. Patrick's cemetery there.

There will be a dog and pony show here, together with aerial acts, trapeze performers and funny clowns on the nights of May 7-8. This will be the second performance after the season opens, the first being at Dexter May 5-6. Doors open at 7:30. Wilson, who puts on the Shine Circus every winter at Ann Arbor and other places is the proprietor of this show.

Philathea Notes

The class considered very helpfully the two passages for our Sunday lesson found in Acts 13:44-52, and Gal. 3:26-29, concerning the early church, and world missions "beginning at Jerusalem" in the "racing of human needs." We will see the further spread in the next lesson's topic, "The Church Enlarging Its Fellowship." Acts 8:1-8; 14:17, 25.

Our next monthly meeting is scheduled for the regular time, the second Wednesday in May, therefore week after next, with Mrs. Mae Daller. The Kings Daughters are meeting this Thursday, May 1st, in the church parlors.

After the regular church service on Sunday, our pastor was given a call to remain with us another year. We regret the illness of Mrs. McLucas on Sunday, which prevented her attendance at morning worship, and hope for a quick recovery.

We were glad to welcome Mrs. Buzzard's sister, Mrs. Robinson, of Fenton as a class guest in our Philathea Room on Sunday. Mrs. Mayme Sloan, who has been in our class in the winter, returned to Corunna on Thursday.

The Jackson Association of Congregational Christian churches meets at the Webster church on Wednesday, May 7. Mrs. Nelson Buzzard elected delegate from our church with Miss Clella Fish as alternate. Our Pastor hopes for the attendance of many others besides the delegate.

Fifth Draft Call Due in May

Fifth Draft Call Expected To Be the Fourth Week in May

Though no official call has come as yet, we understand the next draft call for this county will be the last week in May. 22 men will be called from this county at that time. As far as we can find out, no one from Pinckney is on this list. Edward Spears Jr. was one but he has been placed in I-B on account of physical disqualifications. For this draft the following have volunteered and been placed at the top of the list: Stillman Max Davenport, Warren Jack Cotes, Arthur Girder, Emery Harris, Arthur Pasinski, Wesley James Mosher, Larry Robert Houck, Roger Daniel Estes.

It is rumored that there will be another registration in July for those reaching 21 years of age since the last registration and that the age limit will be lowered to 18 years but no official notice of this has been received by the draft board as yet.

So far there have only been two draft evaders in the county and both have been turned over to the FBI.

A letter received from Ambrose Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Miller, who was inducted into the army last week states that the 36th division at Camp Grant, Ill., where he was sent has been ordered to Camp Livingston, Louisiana.

A letter received from Ambrose Kennedy this morning states that he has been transferred from Camp Grant to Camp Sheridan, Illinois. Richard E. Barron of Howell has been appointed to the Livingston county draft board to succeed Russell E. Woodruff.

Early Adjournment of Legislature's Rejected as Differences Approach Early Settlement

May 1 finds the Michigan legislature swamped with a traditional eleventh hour rush.

Steering committees of the House and Senate hope work may be completed within two or three weeks. The date of adjournment may depend on progress of the senate finance committee with house appropriation bills.

While accomplishments to date do not appear on the surface to be outstanding, the legislative session may be said to have the following benefits:

1. Time acts as a sieve to cull out much of the bad. A 60-day session, such as is constitutionally required in Indiana, invites rash action. And haste can be costly, if legislation is not preceded thoughtful deliberation.

You may fret over it, but an extended session covering five months as the Michigan session usually does, permits legislators to get their bearings and to "sleep" on new ideas.

2. The two-chamber legislature, in contrast to the unicameral chamber of Nebraska, is an effective system of checks and balances which tends to resist pressure groups rather than to encourage them.

For example, the house may vote for a dog racing bill with the tacit agreement that the senate will bury it in committee. Pressure can be relieved, faces "saved", and certain constituents appeased — all by diplomatic co-operation.

Democratic

This democratic method of government may not be streamlined. It does not meet the modern conception of business efficiency. Time and money apparently are wasted.

Furthermore, the lack of co-operation between house and senate is hard to explain at times, let alone to justify.

And yet, as one veteran lobbyist in a philosophic mood recently observed, the Michigan legislature does an exceedingly good job, on the whole, in keeping expenditure within reasonable bounds and in limiting the state debt.

Compared with many other states which have a high bonded indebtedness, Michigan is well off. We have money in the bank, so to speak. Except in Wayne, Genesee, Oakland and a few other populous counties, Michigan has no vexatious tax problem. The property tax is not a state burden; it is a local problem. State sales tax is a prolific source of revenue for state needs and local.

DETROIT NEWS HIKERS DINNER

Group unit 44 of the Detroit News Hikers, were entertained at a chicken dinner at the local town hall Sunday from 5 to 10 p.m. Following the dinner a program and concert was enjoyed by some 200 young people. The group was under the chapter, Mr. J. Childs, of Detroit, assisted by Dr. Zink of the Detroit most admirably throughout the hike. For several it was their first trip to Pinckney. The officers were loud in praise for the hospitalities, courtesies and dinner service, which they styled perfect. All were desirous of repeating the trip and dinner in some future date. The party has been planned since last January. The efforts and work of organizing to come here was our as well as their first attempt. The trip was made without a hitch. We are most grateful to the hikers, their captain aids as well as to the ladies, men and young ladies and young men of the parish who were so kind to help work and serve. To the good people of the community who also assisted the chairlady of the workers, we are indeed most grateful. Thanks to all. Report of proceeds will be given out as soon as all accounts to date are met.

COMMENT

The days of 1918-19 seem to be repeating themselves as a labor shortage is fast becoming acute. The help wanted columns are increasing in size and daily appeals are made over the radio for skilled mechanics.

farmers in this vicinity say it is impossible to get help. A housing shortage is also reported in many places. In 1918 this proved to have complications as factories working on time contracts were forced to pay higher wages in order to deliver the orders on time and this led to a big increase on the cost of living.

Before a crowd of 30,000 in New York City last week in which Nazi sympathizers predominated, Col. Charles Lindbergh again expounded his familiar thesis that Hitler has won the war. Great Britain is licked and the aiding of Great Britain by this country is only a waste of money and material. The press as a whole, even the rock-ribbed Detroit Free Press fails to agree with Lindbergh. They admit some of his points are well founded and certain circumstances at the present time appear to favor Hitler, but one and all they condemn his statement that Hitler's victory would be just as profitable as a British one.

The legislature must be kidding itself or the old people on the pension list if it would seem judging their action last week in raising the old age pension limit from $30 a month to $40. In the first place it is based on matching federal funds which this state has never yet received. So instead of paying an average pension of $30 per month the amount average is only $16 dollars. The big hearted gesture by the legislature means absolutely nothing to those who expect their pension check to jump up to $40 a month as a result of this action by the legislature. There are due for a big disappointment.

The British administration is said to be receiving much criticism over the failure of the Greek campaign. It is hard to see how they could do otherwise. They received equal credit for their failure to aid Poland and Holland et al and they were duty bound to aid the gallant Greeks. The only trouble is, they were not able to make that aid sufficient in number of men, planes or tanks to bring success and were outnumbered 10-1 by Nazis. They were forced to howl to retreat. It is improbable that they will win any great victories until they are able to match the Nazi tank for man, plane for plane and tank for tank. So, in all probability, the end of the present war is far, far in the future.

In order to account for the Nazi success and the apparent helplessness of Europe, it is necessary to go back to the last world war. After 4 years of warfare the people were disgusted with it and wished to wipe out every trace and vestige of it. So following the peace treaty they junked and wrecked their navies, dismantled their armies and dismantled their army camps. Then the pacifists and the peace at any price gang was supreme and by them the defense forces of the country were reduced to almost nothing. When the war clouds began to gather the appeasers still had enough power to block all preparedness efforts with the result that when the war broke out all these countries fell easy prey to this disarmament bunk.

Gen. Hugh (Ironpants) Johnson has this to say about the America First Committee under whose auspices Col. Lindbergh is making his speeches. The difficulty of the America First Committee is that because our flinging all that we have and are, with too little consideration, into bloody war happens to be distasteful also to Nazis, Fascists and Communists, its speakers and meetings are too enthusiastically clapped by some of our worst and most dangerous elements.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps who has just arrived in England to serve as an official observer of the war, is about the only officer remaining in active service who learned to fly under the personal supervision of Wilbur and Orville Wright at their school in Dayton, Ohio. Just two years previously the war department had accepted delivery of its first batch of airplanes and so his experience as a flier pretty nearly spans the complete period of army aviation.

Anyone who can recall the status of flying in 1911 will appreciate "Hap" Arnold's exploits in his first year of training as a young lieutenant, assigned to flight duty on the infantry, with a record of 140 flights, 29 hours in the air. In his second year of training he achieved honor as the first winner of the Mackay trophy awarded for excellence as a military pilot. In a day so blustery and cold as to keep all but 2 of 12 entrants out of the race he completed a 40-mile flight, originating at College Park, Md., at an average speed of 52 miles an hour.

Twenty-two years later he again won the trophy as leader of a flight of 10 twin-engined bombers from Washington, D. C., to Alaska and return. As early as 1911 he practiced aerial bombardment and war department records credit him with being the pioneer in the successful use of the radio for military purposes in an airplane.

Quite at variance with the outward semblance of this slightly built, silver-haired soldier with his diffident smile, is his forthright utterances and writings concerning the airplane as a war machine.

"The only way to prevent air invasion is to attack the invader with superior numbers and knock him out of the air." He has been preaching this for years, his concern having ever been for the constant procurement of thousands of new, improved combat craft, training of thousands of new pilots, enlistment of tens of thousands of ground crew men, swelling of aircraft plants and acquisition of vital raw material for future aircraft production.

Still an active pilot, mounting administrative duties have cut down his time in the air and restricted his activity in two hobbies—cooking and writing fiction. Boys who remember his "Bill Bruce" books, including "Bill Bruce at West Point," "Bill Bruce at Flying School," and other breath-taking juvenile works, will regret the recent idleness of his pen.

PRONOUNCED feeling of good-will toward a nation where she has been most hospitably received, sentiment born of local pride and a high sense of honorable pre-Christens Ship in formation, Spirit of Good-Will strength to die gesture which Senhora Peixoto employed in breaking the bottle containing champagne over the bow of the new Moore-McCormack passenger liner, Rio de Janeiro, as it slid down the ways in the shipyard at Chester, Pa., the other day. So acting, she represented her husband, Commander Ernani Do Amaral Peixoto, governor of the state of Rio de Janeiro—for which the vessel was named—as well as her father, Getulio Vargas, president of Brazil.

A petite, vivid woman, who has made a delightful impression upon those concerned in making the current visit of the distinguished Brazilian pair an important hands-across-the-sphere event, the senhora holds a degree in law, the result of study at the University of Brazil, a profession, however, in which she has never practiced. Marrying soon after graduation she eventually became secretary to her father, a position she now holds. Her hosts in New York have found her a fluent speaker of English.

This acquirement has made her of value to her husband as an interpreter when our idiom and more involved diction carry him beyond his depth. No one, it seems, has yet found her at a loss on economic, social, or political questions—in fine she is a brilliantly accomplished woman. Practical, too. When it became clear that certain handwork arts in Europe no longer would be available to American buyers she founded the Fundacao Anchieta in Rio de Janeiro which gives free training in fine needlework to Brazilian women.

Prints Teamed With Plain Wools Tell Fascinating Fashion Story

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

DESIGNERS are in a mood to play with prints this season. Never in the history of fashion have prints been put to such different and fascinating uses. Anything and everything that can be made of printed fabric is being made. Perhaps the biggest splurge prints are making at present is their teaming up with monotone wools.

This teaming of print with plain is dramatically interpreted throughout all costume design but most notably in jacket suits, redingote ensembles and in capes. While splashy huge-patterned prints play an important role in formal evening apparel and play clothes, neat, small prints are featured in smart daytime ensembles.

However, what these prints of tiny motifs and checks lack in size is made up in color. For instance, the latest fashion is to top red prints of neat design with red wool coats, jackets or capes—a fashion that is being used to a great extent in teenage frocks.

Red prints are the rage this season. Made up in dresses, they are variously teamed with black, navy, or as mentioned above, red. This trend is illustrated in the model shown to the right in the photograph. This dress featured by the Style Creators of Chicago in a recent display, is topped by a flower print red crepe with a thin black wool jacket, tailored to perfection. The pleated skirt and the hat that repeats the print of the dress are smart accents.

The youthful cape coat in dark wool, centered in the group, is made outstanding by the introduction of a silk print lining in the newly important fine check print, repeating the silk print check of the slim, pleated dress with which it is worn.

A youthful interpretation of the print with plain vogue is pictured to the left. This ingenue dress is of delft blue and white print crepe. The jacket, wearable over other things, is of blue rabbit's hair. Note that the sleeves are short, in keeping with the girlishness of the ensemble. There is a cunning little handkerchief of the print. This is one of those casual, intriguingly styled dress-plus-jacket outfits that is so universally likeable for general wear.

There is a new use of prints this season that is challenging the creative genius of designers. It is the idea of trimming with gay prints. You will see it carried out in pipings, bindings, appliques of print motifs, also bow trims of print bands. There is, for example, the dress with pleated skirt that is topped with a monotone jacket that is bound with an inch bordering of print, or possibly a mere binding—just enough to relate it to the dress with which it is worn. Another way of arriving at a "touch of print" for your costume is to have a hat and bag of print that will enliven monotone dresses and coats to the nth degree.

Plaid Accents

Here's how to add a note of gaiety to a navy suit that boasts an extreme mannish cut. Wear a plaid taffeta hat and carry matching accessories! Choose a wide-brimmed hat of plaid taffeta in red and soft blues. Over your shoulder, sling a matching pouch bag. Climb the plaid program with a handkerchief of matching plaid. It is the better part of wisdom to buy a simple one-color suit or coat, than depend on accessories to give it eye-dazzling chic.

Hair Styles Reveal

New Flower Motifs
A new vogue that probably will spread like wildfire is a cluster of flowers worn at each side of the head, balanced symmetrically. The flowers are caught to a ribbon band or to one of the new hairbands that fit to the head.

Roses Take Spotlight In Many Fabric Designs

It's rosetime in fashionland. The most featured flower in fabric design, in hat trimmings and in smart corsages is the rose.

It is going to be a particularly "rosy" summer in cottons, because cottons this year are reminiscent of weaves that were favorites in the early 1900s. You will find roses blooming on waffle piques, on unbleached muslins, in mezzotint, on glazed chintz and on lawns and percales.

For party frocks, the newest materials are hand-painted sheers. A huge American Beauty rose, one painted on the bodice, one on the skirt, enhances the beauty of these sheers.

Don't overlook the cunning little sailor hats that are made to wear with the new tailored suits or cape costumes. You will be charmed with single rose trim that mounts right from the very front of the crown.

The latest evening corsage is a single long-stem rose.

Cotton Fabrics Essential To Wardrobes, Supplies

A surplus commodity without which homemakers would be lost is cotton.

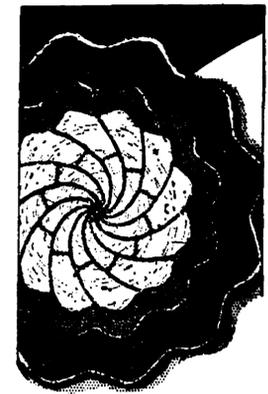

There are probably more cotton fabrics suited for more varied uses than fabrics made from any other fiber or combination of fibers. Cottons make up into at least 30 different fabrics suitable for dresses for women, girls and infants.

Without cotton, sheets, pillowcases, ticking and linings of comforters, curtains, draperies, upholstery materials, bath towels, hand towels and dish towels would disappear.

Frisly Accents

Everybody's doing it! Wear the frilliest frilly-frilly neckwear ever. Regency frills, jabots, big sailor collars with frilled edges, yokes that are frilled.

TIPS to Gardeners

BULB SUBSTITUTES

WITH the supply of many popular spring-flowering bulbs cut off because of the war in Europe, gardeners are seeking certain substitutes.

The color and form of many annual flowers makes them excellent choices for replacing the bulb favorites. As in the case of bulbs, the seed of these annuals may be planted in the early fall, for blossoming early the following summer.

The fresh yellow color of Daffodils, for instance, may be captured nearly as well in the petals of Sunshine Calendula, or in the rich hues of California Poppy (Extra Golden). The shape of the California Poppy and the Shirley Poppy closely approaches the typical Tulip shape.

The soft colors associated with the Tulip may be replaced best by Larkspur, with its tints of white, blue, pink, rose, lilac, and carmine. The newer, tall-growing Super Majestic Larkspurs are most desirable.

The blossom-crowded spikes of Snapdragons are likened by many to the Hyacinth. It is best to grow the dwarf rust-resistant strains of Snapdragon, with attractive varieties such as Compact Bedding Bronze, and Salmon Pink adaptable also because of their suitability for massed bedding, as Tulips are so often used.

REDUCED
Long Distance Rates
Effective
Saturday, April 26

● Reduced rates on long distance calls from any Michigan Bell exchange to any other Michigan point more than 42 miles distant became effective on Saturday, April 26. Based on current volume of usage, that will mean savings of $700,000 annually to the company's customers.

Your Long Distance Operator will quote the new rate to any point requested.

As soon as possible after authorization by the Courts, refunds or credits, totaling $1,500,000, will be made for the difference between the old and new rates on such long distance calls made between August 1, 1938, and April 26, 1941. It will be some time before such refunds or credits can be made because of the great volume of work involved in checking more than 65,000,000 long distance calls in the accounts of 700,000 users.

Until the work of checking your account is completed, further information with respect to specific refunds or credits will be unavailable.

PINCKNEY SOFTBALL LEAGUE

In the local soft ball league last week, the Married Men strengthened their hold on first place by beating Ledwidge 3 to 2. Don Swarthout, pitching for the winners, allowed 4 hits of which Reader got 2. Steve Aschenbrenner also allowed 4, pitching for Ledwidge, but was wild.

In the Wednesday night game after trailing through the early innings the Singer team came from behind to score 6 runs in the 4th inning and defeat the Miller team 9 to 7. In this inning, Lefty Reason hit a homer with the bases loaded. He was the only home run hitter of the week.

St. Mary's Church

Rev. Father Mark Hoskins C. P. who has been assisting here since Palm Sunday, having conducted the mission, Forty Hours and children's mission, returned to St. Paul's Monastery, Detroit Sunday afternoon.

While in the east, visiting a brother who is seriously ill, I was a guest of Rt. Rev. Bishop Walsh, who recently returned to the east from Japan and China. Bishop Walsh is the Superior of the missionary order from the east, where my cousin, the Rt. Rev. Vicar Apostolic P. J. Byrne is missioned in Japan, and whom I seldom contact. The Bishop visited Rev. Byrne only three months ago in Japan. In May he will return to the Orient, and again be with him. This was a wonderful opportunity to have direct information from one whom I have seldom seen in the past 29 years. While in the east Bishop Walsh presided at the solemn religious profession of a niece of Father Byrne. The missionary is building and organizing 11 missions in Japan. Previous to his labors in Japan he had built 6 missions in Korea. Laboring with him are three former associates and friends of seminary days at St. Mary's Seminary at Baltimore. The seminary for the training of missionaries in this country, located at Maryknoll, N. Y., is unique. The stone is quarried from their own grounds, and much of the style is that of the Orient. All Ecclesiastical church vestments are also of this style, and most of the materials are woven goods made by the students. The valet who served at our rectory is from the South Sea Islands, and the porter is from Japan now teaching Oriental languages to students and studying to some day return to his native country as a missionary. He, as well as all the students, is in the university, course. For our American boys to see how hard these splendid young men apply and work to enter the missionary field is certainly most edifying.

During the month of May we will recite each day at Mass the Litany of the Blessed Virgin and the "Memorare", by request of the Bishop. All are invited to do the same in their homes each evening. Each week we visited on our trip reported marvelous attendance at daily Mass and at the Novena. Children and adults are frequently seen at Holy Communion and daily visits to the Blessed Sacrament. Many are up each day to attend Mass at 6. Even at the 12 o'clock Mass there are whole communion rails of communicants. One community has 24 hours of adoration to the Blessed Sacrament. It is not uncommon for men to be enrolled in nocturnal adoration. Groups of men serve each hour of the night.

A private war: Recently a falling bomb narrowly missed a London bus. One of the passengers, an elderly man, exclaimed indignantly: "I wish that Hitler would settle down and marry."

A new type of picketing was organized by Frank Milligan of Loyola Academy Chicago when he walked about the campus recently "Unfair Unless You Go to Benediction Today, (Inserting the time of the devotions). The plan was effective in getting students to assist at Benediction and the Novena each Friday.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of R. F. D. Gregory on the arrival of a little son about one week ago. The baptismal ceremony will take place next Sunday. Relatives from Chicago will act as sponsors.

Mrs. Merle Markham and daughter returned to Coopersville this week after spending a week with her sister Mrs. Roy Reason.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Martin of Grass Lake and Mrs. Eugene Smith of Chelsea were Sunday visitors at the home of rs. Villa Richards and Miss Blanche Martin.

Life in New Army Camps Different From Days of '17

Many Features of Civilian Life Are Retained; U. S. to Require Fortifying Bread With Vitamin B Complex.

By BAUKHAGE

National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

(WNU Service, 1343 E. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

WASHINGTON. — There is dry, white mud on my feet and white dust in my eyes. My nose has taken on a slightly more roseate tinge than usual.

From early this morning I watched a segment of Uncle Sam's new army through a driving mist of memories which are all that is left of the "young army" with which I marched 25 years ago.

I heard that irritatingly familiar cadence of reveille come floating across a Virginia parade ground—a once green field now scarred with thousands of hob-nailed boots. I saw the sleepy-eyed youths pile out of fresh, wooden barracks, looking no younger in their neat slacks and canvas leggings than we looked to each other in our lumpy wrap leggings and baggy breeches. I saw the ones in blue denim, ready for fatigue duty, looking just as we did.

Did we snap a more precise salute?

Did our middle-fingers stretch down a little straighter along the seam of our trousers, and our chests puff out a little farther when we came to "shun"? Were we a little more solemnly important when we changed guard, with our sentries at a stiff "port" barking "special orders" at each other in our best imitation of the way the sergeant barked at us?

Well, maybe. And maybe the sun shone brighter than it does today, too.

Visit Fort Belvoir.

The camp I visited is Fort Belvoir, down the road a bit from Mount Vernon, and the highway there divides the old and the new. Belvoir has been a permanent engineering camp since the last war and now, across the road, is a new soldier-city of fresh-cut pine, which stands where the pine trees themselves stood, only a few months ago. This replacement camp eventually will accommodate 10,000 men who, like the Sultan, in Omar Khayyam, take their one day's rest—only instead of a day, it is 13 weeks and it is no rest.

Here the boys, classified for the Engineer corps, get their first taste of army life, drill and discipline. On this spot I saw familiar sights and others, strangely unfamiliar to a soldier of the emergency of 1917-1919.

There was the Post Exchange, an institution as old as an army post itself. But in one corner was a fountain dispensing ice cream sodas, and in another, a taproom dispensing the amber fluid—Both beverages unknown in the camps of my soldiering days.

I saw the familiar barracks—but these were equipped with an air-circulating system.

I saw the neatly made cots—but I also saw a hostess house—at that moment housing a bevy of chorus girls who were putting on a Broadway review for the boys that night.

I met the hostess, a motherly woman and two junior hostesses—but not so junior that the girls back home need to be jealous.

Civilian 'Trimmings' Retained.

Frankly, I went to the camp looking for signs of a "cream puff" atmosphere that some of the old-timers hinted were turning military life into a sort of prolonged college reunion. Perhaps that is happening. But the officers in charge of recreation with whom I talked were typical, serious military men. They said it was necessary to provide diversion and entertainment. We are not at war. Important as the defense of democracy may be, so far the spirit of the crusade has not touched the people. The people—in uniform and out—must not be allowed to feel that this period before the colors is an interruption in citizen life, but rather a part of it. And the normal habits of the civilian must not be cut off from the boys in camp. That seems to be the theory of the "trimmings" which the selectee is being offered by Uncle Sam.

I saw work, too! Men shouldering shovels, as well as rifles; swinging pick-axes as well as doing sentry duty.

I went over a military road that had been cut out of forest and swamp, crossed a bridge strong enough to carry a tank, all built between morning and mid-afternoon—the work of the engineer officers and men. Most of the boys who did the actual work had had only a few weeks' training in the expert business of construction and destruction which is the engineer's task.

Government to Require Fortifying Bread Flour

When the Bible succinctly compressed the material needs of man into a single sentence—"give us this day our daily bread"—it put a world of meaning into a few short words. Unfortunately, while man still has needs which his daily bread once occupied, the modern loaf does not satisfy them.

So there is going to be a law—or at least a regulation by the Federal Security administrator which will have the force of law. This regulation will require standard bread flour to contain some of the ingredients vital to man's present needs, namely the "vitamin B complex." The Food and Drug Administration has already promulgated a tentative standard. To meet it, certain properties which bread flour contained before modern refining processes removed them will be artificially restored. A new milling process which removes the indigestible hulls but not the health-giving qualities—the thiamin chloride, the nicotinic acid, the riboflavin and the iron—has just been invented also.

There is a long scientific explanation of why we need the "vitamin B complex" in our daily bread. To a layman this is the way a member of the department of agriculture explained it:

Thiamin Increases Courage. "Thiamin," he said, "keeps you from growing jittery and nervous; it calms your nerves and provides a wider path between irascibility and uncertainty on one side and calmness and certainty on the other. It gives you courage."

"And that," he added, "is one reason, they tell us, for the bravery of the German troops under the terrific strain of modern warfare. We understand that beside giving the soldiers bread enriched with vitamins, the German army has a ration of vitamin pills for its men."

The nicotinic acid in the so-called enriched flour, prevents the dread pellagra.

Unfortunately, enriching the flour does not help those people who do not get the white bread at all. Where people eat corn bread instead of bread from wheat flour, the new rules and regulations will have no effect. It is in such areas where pellagra flourishes.

An expert dietician tells me that one way to tell a person who lacks thiamin is to tell him a real good joke. He will not laugh. But think of how easy to make a joke if everybody has enough of this remarkable elixir!

Declining Tourist Trade Costly to Canada

In America there is a man who, purely as a hobby, has constituted himself as a sort of one-man travel and publicity agent for Canada. His name is Schuyler Baldwin Terry. He started out to be a historian with a Ph. D. at the University of Chicago, took a course at the University of London, wrote an authoritative book, entitled "The Financing of the Hundred Years War," quoted in debates in parliament. Then he suddenly decided that he was more interested in economics than history and got a job as office boy in an old New England banking firm. He accumulated a comfortable fortune, retired, and ever since has devoted his time to travel and talking and writing about the development of a closer bond between this nation and our sister-nation to the north.

Mr. Terry is particularly disturbed about the falling off of American visitors to Canada of late which he says, has cost Canada a hundred million dollars. False and malicious rumors, concerning conditions resulting from the war and alleged difficulties which might be encountered in returning to this country, he declares are causing Americans to stay away from Canada. The dollars which Canada has lost, he points out, mean just that many fewer purchases Canada can make in the United States.

Farm and Hom-ilies . . . by Baukhage

With summer coming on probably a lot of the less energetic lads who join the army will apply for service with the ski troops. There is a report that one pale young ski-trooper did such a good job of camouflage during himself during practice maneuvers with the army last winter that his fellow soldiers could not find him until after the snow melted.

The federal department of justice in Washington reports that during 1940 there was a major crime committed every 21 seconds, a robbery every 10 minutes, a burglary every 1 1/2 minutes and a larceny every 35 seconds. The rate of minor crimes was much greater than this. Looks as though the national "offense" program is not slowing down.

Brightening a Flagstone Floor.

QUESTION: How can I brighten up a new broken flag floor that we have just had put down on our porch? Could I take off its dusty look with a polishing of liquid wax?

ANSWER: After brick, stone or tile is laid in cement mortar, it should be scrubbed with a solution of muriatic acid, to remove any cement that may have been smeared on the surface. Use one part muriatic acid in twenty parts of water; allow to act for a few minutes, then rinse with clear water. Work on a small area at a time. When mixing the solution, pour the water slowly into the acid, stirring constantly. As this acid is highly corrosive, wear rubber gloves and old clothes; be careful not to get any of it on your skin. You can enrich the color of the stone by applying a liberal coat of raw linseed oil, mixed half-and-half with turpentine. After several hours of soaking, wipe off the excess oil. Try the oil first on some hidden part of the floor, to see how you like the effect.

'Crazing' Varnish.

QUESTION: Is it a usual condition, in all highly figured mahogany, to develop surface scratches, known as "crazing"? This condition has developed in my bedroom suite, which is English Chippendale, crotch mahogany. Can this condition be remedied at home, and will it recur after it has been repaired?

ANSWER: Crazing in the varnish finish is not natural on any wood. This condition is usually caused by the drying out of the varnish. If the crazing is not very deep, light sandpapering will remove it, followed by a wiping with turpentine to clean the surface; after this, apply a thin coat of varnish. Deeply crazed varnish must be removed and the furniture refinished.

Water-Soaked Floors.

QUESTION: We have just purchased and have moved to the mainland a house that has been standing in salt water for some time; for about a year water covered the floors at high tide. What solution can we use for washing the floors that will remove the salt from the wood?

ANSWER: Nothing will be more effective than plain water, in which salt is soluble. Even with this, however, I greatly doubt if all of the salt can be removed. I should live in the house for a year or two, to study the effect, with the idea of replacing the floors if necessary. Mildew is not to be feared.

Washing Down Paint.

QUESTION: Is there a liquid with which I can wash down painted walls to take off dirt, but not the paint?

ANSWER: There is on general sale at most paint stores a powder made of a cereal compound, which is very satisfactory for washing painted surfaces. Or, you can dissolve a teaspoonful of trisodium phosphate in a gallon of tepid water. After the wall has been washed with this solution, rinse with clear water. Start working at the floor level and wash up toward the ceiling, to avoid making dirty streaks.

Paint or Stain for Shingle.

QUESTION: Which is the more enduring, shingle stain or paint?

ANSWER: Wood shingles on a roof should never be painted. They will last longer if stained with a good quality shingle stain. Wood shingles used as a wall siding can either be painted or stained. The lasting properties of paint or stain will be about equal if they are of a good quality.

Digger Wasps.

QUESTION: My lawn is covered with round holes, about the size of a half-dollar, which I think must be from moles. Is there any simple way to get rid of them?

ANSWER: Moles do not make such holes as you describe. Much more likely the holes are made by digger wasps. Two or three moth balls dropped into each hole, and the hole closed, should end the trouble.

Waterproof Glue.

QUESTION: How can glue for wood be made waterproof?

ANSWER: That will not be an easy job to do at home. It will be far simpler to buy waterproof glue. One excellent variety is a glue made of casein that can be had at a hardware store. While this is mixed with water, it becomes highly water resistant when it dries.

Making Things.

QUESTION: I am interested in making small objects, such as decorative shelves, plant stands, etc. How should I go about it? Are there any books for novices?

ANSWER: A book by Julian Starr, called "Make It Yourself," should give you all the information you want. It is published by Whitlessey House, and is on sale at book stores.

Man of Destruction

For it would have been better that man should have been born dumb, nay, void of all reason, rather than that he should employ the gifts of Providence to the destruction of his neighbor—Quintilian.

Where Days Are Born

The International Date Line, which, like the Equator, is an imaginary line, runs between two islands known as Big Diomedes and Little Diomedes, situated almost halfway between the mainlands of Asia and Alaska. It is here, between the Old World and the New, that each new day is born, and when it is New Year's day on Big Diomedes, it is still a full 24 hours behind on Little Diomedes.

The selection of this particular spot to decide the beginning of each day was decided by an international committee of scientists, who took every other possible site into consideration.

and. We can be thankful that the legislature is largely rural and small town in its membership. Believe me, when you get an appropriation through the House with John Espie's approval, you've done something. And deliberative Don Vander Weep of the senate finance committee isn't throwing money away, either."

(In the opinion of this observer, who is a city man, the above tax situation largely accounts for a lagging zeal in the "ax the tax" crusade. As commendable as was Lansing's 1941 anti-spending rally, a state-wide attendance of around 400 taxpayers was not altogether flattering to the cause.)

$34,000 "deficit"
Puzzling at first, and now apparently solved, was a recent attempt by the unemployment compensation commission to sponsor an amendment to the state act whereby any deficit would be payable out of the state general fund.

When an item of $34,000 was inserted in a house deficiency bill, Chairman Espie was told of a ruling by the social security board at Washington.

From reliable sources we hear that the commission last year fired a batch of employees and hired a couple of a Wayne county politician. Then the civil service commission ordered the ousted workers to be re-stored with back pay! Hence the deficiency.

Lumber "Shortage"?
According to carpenters who recently joined the C.I.O. union at Fort Custer, a recurring "shortage" of lumber caused many newly hired workers to be dismissed after three or four weeks of high wages.

One young attorney from a nearby small town, whose practice was disappointingly small, earned close to $80 a week including overtime pay as a carpenter at the new army camp, until a "shortage" of lumber suddenly developed.

But only after he paid the $50 membership fee!
Congressman Engels of Michigan, who has been pressing an investigation into army cantonment construction and purchase of land, may strike pay dirt when he digs into this Fort Custer situation.

30 Day Curb
While insisting on the right of labor to collective bargaining which favors unionization, Governor Van Wagener is said to be convinced that governmental curbs are needed to slow down strikes in national defense industries and a resultant loss of vital arms production.

Furthermore, as a result of the Ford plant trouble, he favors a two-year increase of 200 troopers in the state police force. He supports an appropriation of $200,000 annually for support of 3,500 home guard troops. (The home guard would not be used for strike duty, however; its organization is required by federal law, the governor points out.)

The Sandy-Decker "anti-strike" bill in the House, which was a direct result of the Ford strike, is being revised with considerable bi-partisan support.

Changes would include:
(1) A strike vote of union members in a plant would be held under auspices of the state labor mediation board. A bare majority of 51 per cent would be needed to make a strike legal. (Sponsors say this safeguard would halt wildcat walk-outs.)

(2) Give legislative sanction to the present 30-day negotiating period required for strikes in national defense plants. A month's notice for strikes of this type is at present only an administrative ruling of the state board, supported by the attorney general.

Will these restrictions be enacted into law?
Time is short. Legislators must run for re-election in 1942. Figure it out for yourself!

Last Saturday Livingston County experienced a real tornado. The loss in buildings, livestock, and trees was large though the path of the storm was only six hundred feet wide.

However, this is not the only loss. Personal property was scattered for miles. It may have been in the form of important letters, deeds, abstracts stock certificates, bonds, insurance policies or even jewelry. Losses of this type are replaced with difficulty and expense or not at all.

A Safety Deposit Box protects such personal property at small annual cost. We have boxes available in convenient sizes in our vaults.
