TWO NEW TEACHERS FOR THE PINCKNEY SCHOOL

The Pinckney school will have two new teachers next year replacing John Burg and Miss Virginia Byington who have resigned. Mr. Burg, who has taught three years here as science teacher and has also been athletic coach, has accepted a position at Armada to teach manual training. Miss Byington, who has taught in the grades here for two years, has accepted a position as second grade teacher in the Kellogg's school at Grand Rapids. Both are good teachers and will be missed in the coming term. The board has a number of applications for their places and will probably hire successors to them in a week or so.

FORMER GREGORY WOMAN A SUICIDE

Mrs. Olive Wagonschultz, 35, who lived with her husband on the Back farm, a mile north of Gregory, until 8 years ago, was found hanged from an electric extension cord from a terpipe in the National Garage Co., at 1009 Cass, Detroit, on July 25. She leaves a 15 year old daughter. She had not been living with her husband for some time but had been working for a man named Walter Moore, who operates a repair shop on the 10th floor of the garage in which she was found hanged. Garage employees testified she had driven to the garage during the night looking for Moore but that he was not there at the time. The Wagonschultz family came from Plymouth to Gregory.

Pinckney Alley Once Center of Industry

Some 30 Years Ago This Was the Busiest Place in Pinckney. But All Industry Has Long Since Departed

When C. H. Kennedy bought the old Teeple & Caldwell carriage and wagon warehouse and tore it down for the lumber in it several weeks ago, he took about the last remaining building in what was once the busiest street in Pinckney.

This thoroughfare was located on Howell St., just north of Main St., and was a blind street ending at Unadilla. We often wondered at this and we have been told that it was expected that the depot would be built at the end of that street at the time the railroad came. However, it was not, being built at Pearl St. instead. Still Howell St. was close to the center of town and a number of industries located there. On the west George Sigler had a furniture store and a cabinet shop adjoining it. Next was the Perry Blunt Shoe Shop then the Teeple & Caldwell farm machine warehouse, next, the old Potlatch building, which housed many enterprises and was at one time used as a school. About 30 years John Sales had a wagon shop there. The last building, now occupied as a home by Mrs. Elizabeth Frost, was the first Pinckney Electric Light Plant, built some 30 years ago by Glenn Gardner, which furnished light and power to Pinckney for a number of years. Across the street was the Chris Brown blacksmith shop, later owned by his son, Emil, and also by Sheriff Kennedy. Then came the Pinckney Livery barn, operated by James Wilcox, later P. H. Swarthout and Horace Sales, W. C. Dunning and others. It was torn down 20 years ago and the Mennonite church now stands on the site. Just south of this building C. H. Kennedy has just torn down. The machine age forced most of them out of business. The auto was responsible for the demise of the livery stable, blacksmith shop and the wagon shop. The Detroit Edison Co. replaced the power plant and the house wreckers got the old potlatch building. The only building still standing is the farm machinery warehouse, now owned by Mrs. Roy Henry and used as a garage.

LIQUOR LICENSE DECREASE

Figures released by the Michigan Liquor Commission show a decrease in all liquor and beer licenses except those for sale by glass. The figures are as follows: In 1934 there were 974 saloon licenses, in 1941 the number was 3,659. The 1934 beer tavern licenses numbered 8,275, in 1941 there were 3,845. Hotel licenses in 1934 were 259, in 1941 they were 175. Store licenses dropped from 10,280 in 1934 to 9,036 in 1941. Club licenses decreased by 8, the total for 1941 being 405.

Michigan Mirror State News

News Taken at Random Around the State of Michigan

As a holiday from pressing problems, meritorious and deserving as they may be we present a medley of Michigan news oddities, gleaned from home-town newspapers and guaranteed positively not to solve a single thing.

Hamburger Train

Bill Brooks of Birmingham warns his customers at the door, "This is not a professional restaurant." After your order is taken, Bill disappears into the kitchen. On the L-shaped counter are two miniature railroad tracks. The first thing you know, a whirring sound commences and from a tunnel emerges a shaft of light followed by a locomotive and two flat cars.

The train stops in front of you. You grab your hamburger from a flat car. The train backs up and disappears into the kitchen.

Gay Nineties Epidemic

Future historians may record Michigan's summer season as "Gay Nineties" masquerades, a psychological escape from headline jitters.

Dexter citizen July 3 celebrated a Centennial. Men grow beards. Women wore bustles. The famous DeWitt Clinton train of 1871 was brought to Dexter. Result: A village of 1,100 persons was visited by 60,000 persons.

Ferry township, Shiawassee county held a centennial August July 25 and 26 with covered wagons, old time costumes, broad-brimmed hats.

Lawton held a "Gay Nineties" party July 26. Fifty business men grew beards and mustaches. Girls became "belles."

Mackinac Island July 24-26 relived history of 1820 with a pageant Governor Van Wagoner, as a territorial governor, wore a top hat.

Reclaiming the Desert

In Newago county is a 1,000-acre phenomenon, known as Big Prairie desert. Here is its story:
Back in 1852 a group of settler James Barton, Alexander Dalziel, William Barton and Benjamin P. Olney - located on a tract of prairie land in four township.

Because it was a prairie, the land was all under the plow the first year. The surface seemed to be dark loam. It required little labor to put it under cultivation. Many fine farm buildings were erected.

Late in the '30's sand began to tear up the beautiful farms, cover fences, undermine buildings. Farmers gradually vacated their lands.

Today an estimated 1,000 acres is a lifeless desert. Not a blade of grass can be seen.

TEMPORARY AVIATION CENTER

Jackson will become a temporary aviation center for the opening two days of the Fourth Annual Cascades Festival, August 9th and 10th, with the arrival of at least 175 planes of the Dawn Patrol, Michigan sportsmen pilots organization, and one of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s fleet of blimps.

First arrival will be the blimp, scheduled to land at Reynolds field, the municipal airport, at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, August 9th. The blimp will be stationed at the field and will make flights over Jackson and vicinity throughout Saturday afternoon and all day Sunday. It will be a feature of "Ohio Day" at the Festival Sunday.

The Dawn Patrol planes, carrying their owner pilots and guests, will arrive early Sunday morning at Reynolds field. Dawn Patrol members will breakfast with city officials.

Performances of the Festival will be nightly at 7:30 August 9th to 16th inclusive, beginning with a band concert, followed at 8:40 by "Cascades Star Follies," $20,000 all-professional show, and concluding with "Cascades on Parade," a demonstration and explanation of the operation of the famous multi-colored waterfalls.

CURRENT COMMENT

"By Ye Editor"

For some time past, in fact, ever since the European war cloud gathered, the wise guys have been warning the nation that the greatest depression of all time will follow the conclusion of the present war. Just when these fellows are for this prophecy is not given, beyond the fact that such a depression followed the first world war. W. J. Cameron of Ford Motor Co. takes no stock in the dire forebodings of these prophets of doom. Instead he says that the United States will emerge from the present depression "Spiritually and materially." This nation never has produced enough of anything to fail at. He cited as evidence that Chicago has a water heater and the rest of a gasoline-hopper. When the emergency is over this country will make sure that we will never run short again and the experience of the past will be helpful in building a sounder nation.

The recent difficulty with Japan, who is the world's greatest silk producer, has cut off the silk supply and the office of Production Management will withdraw silk from the market and in 90 days silk history and in time will practically disappear from store shelves. This may mean a sudden boom in the sale of stockings, but here legs and cotton hosiery will predominate after October 1. In England women are painting their legs to resemble silk stockings, but it is unlikely that this method could be popular here.

The boom in defense industries and the draft is reported to have a special cottage in the teaching ranks especially in rural districts where wages are low. During the last war the same situation cropped up and the difficulty was met by getting retired teachers, some of them 60 years old, to return to teaching. This method is still available. This may mean a diminishing in the number of rural schools. Many of those who have less than a dozen pupils have had difficulty in carrying on in the past few years and with increased cost such difficulty will be increased.

Quaker stories come from the time when most of which were proved false. The story was told a long time ago that Hank Greenberg, former star baseball player, had joined a corporal, sergeant, lieutenant or captain. The rank of the officer varied each time the story was told and was in the end a sergeant. This was totally disproved. Then the story was broadened to include that soldiers had been prosecuted by the heat while enroute from Camp Knox to Camp Leonard Wood, Missouri. This story was also found false. Another story circulated was that the Louisiana and Alabama camps were full of malaria victims. Another falsehood. The latest story which was proved false was that the soldiers in southern camps were being taken to hospitals by the hundred, suffering from rat-bite fever and black widow spider bites. No one knows who starts these stories but their increasing frequency is giving rise to the suspicion that they may be part of the Nazi propaganda campaign.

At the latest reports there were over 100 committees organized to save America, differing in every detail except that they all want your membership fee. Some of these committees may have been organized for inaudible purposes but in our opinion most of them are on the racket street and their sole and only achievement will be the collection of the membership fee.

JOHN CARR

John Carr, 85, son of the late Darwin and Carolyn French Carr, died at the home of James Smith in Marion township Monday after an illness of several years. Mr. Carr was a well read and educated man and taught school for a number of years. For many years, however, he has been engaged in farming. He is the last member of his family, his brothers, Warren A. Zacheriah and his sister, Mrs. Carrie Hart, all having preceded him in death. Surviving are a number of nephews and nieces. The funeral will be held from the Swarthout Funeral home in Pinckney at 3:00 p. m. Friday, Rev. J. M. McClucas officiating. Burial will be in the Gilkes cemetery.

Impetus Added To U. S. Attack on 'Spies and Lies'

NEW YORK—The U. S. gets a quartette of political warriors on the job, to map and push forward a campaign of counter-espionage and aggressive propaganda. They are Col. William J. Donovan, J. Edgar Hoover, Brig. Gen. Sherman Miles, head of the military intelligence division of the war department, and Capt. Alan G. Kirk, head of the office of naval intelligence. All of them have highly specialized and unique schooling for the job. They will work together, the flying wedge of a quickening attack on spies and lies.

Captain Kirk, a veteran of 35 years' service in the navy, eases quietly into the picture, which is his usual procedure. It just happened the captain, a discreet and highly personable officer, was sent to London, as naval attaché, in May, 1939. His investigation and report on the sinking of the Athenia impressed the state department and, from his ringside seat, he was a keen observer of many important events of interest to this country. When the Germans were taunting the British about "Where is the Ark Royal?" Captain Kirk quietly reported that he had just had lunch aboard her.

WE MISS the garret inventor, but here's the penthouse inventor, doing just as well. Charles L. Lawrence, widening the bomber range by his tiny auxiliary aircraft engine, had what Elbert O. Hubbard might have put down as the handicap of wealth and social position, but he tinkered and schemed aviation over many a hump and now, crowding 60, he turns in another finished performance.

There are no loose ends or ravelings to anything he does. His "watch charm" engine is already in mass production for the navy. It is a supplementary power plant which will enable the bombers to venture high and far, as it takes care of the energy overhead of starting motors, feathering propellers, and powering head, light, radio and instrument board.

Mr. Lawrence, the first man to adapt air-cooled engines to air navigation, also contributed much to wing design. His is the Wright-Whirlwind motor and he was the designer of the engine that catapulted Charles Lindbergh to Paris—also the engines of the three Byrd polar flights, the Chamberlain flight and many other historic hops of airplane history.

When he was a Yale undergraduate, Phi Beta Kappa passed him by because he spent all his spare time scheming and dreaming about airplane engines. Out of Yale, he attended the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris, bringing through his first engine before he finished his three-year course. Returning home, he took up his profession of engineering and established the Lawrence Engineering corporation, of New York.

It was in 1917 that he perfected his first air-cooled engine. He is given to cautious understatement. When, in 1927, Adm. Richard E. Byrd said passenger planes would be flying the Atlantic in 10 years, he said we couldn't be too sure about that—mail possibly, but not passengers, for a long time to come.

HARPER SIBLEY, newly elected president of the United States Organizations, is the sign, symbol and substance of unifying, and never of disruptive forces. If agriculture and industry seem to have divided interests, he has farms scattered here and there and everywhere, and he also carries a nice line of lumber companies, banks, loan societies and coal companies.

New U. S. O. Head Is 'Business Man' Of Wide Interests

When the government and business are at odds, Mr. Sibley is the man in between, counselling a bit of give and take here. He was the successful intermediary in the automobile strike of 1937, and while, as a conservative business man, he was shelling the New Deal, he was backing up Secretary Hull's trade treaties and the President's foreign policy.

He has held forth steadily against class animosities. His career is a refutation of the philosopher Berkeley. He can see both sides of any object at a given instant. As a former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Sibley is an authoritative voice in American business and he is never happy unless he has 8 or 10 highly diversified jobs, with plenty of time for tennis and golf. He is a former Groton and Harvard schoolmate of President Roosevelt, and like the President an upstate country squire.

New U. S. Farm Policy Aims at High Production

Latest Campaign Represents Definite Shift From 'Plowing Under' Plan; Powder Makers Need Cotton Linters.

By BAUKHAGE
National Farm and Home Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

"This year and next the farmer is going places. There are certain indications that he will continue to see considerable new money. Indications based on conditions that affect the farmers' general outlook on life, as well as his cash income." That statement did not come from "official sources"—it didn't even come from a farmer, although he used to be one. It was made in my office by square-cut, square-jawed Conklin ("Pop") Mann, an editor and advertising man, keen student of rural matters, and a long-time friend of mine. Mann was down from New York, bursting with enthusiasm for his favorite theme—assured prosperity on the farm. Mann believes that business has a job ahead to interpret and readjust its marketing to meet the sweeping economic changes now taking place in American agriculture.

The farmer is now becoming a far more important factor in the distribution of both consumable and capital goods than ever before. That rise in the farmers' economic importance isn't just a matter of great cash income, according to Mann. It is due, rather, to the fact that the farmer now has a sound business platform under him and can plan and work on a basis comparable to any other business man. "Farmers," says Mann, "are both doing well and experiencing a new sense of economic security because of parity and guaranteed prices for farm products. There is a definite psychological response to their feeling of increased safety. When a farmer is doing well, and feeling secure, look for a strong upward surge in his buying psychology."

Mann interprets the farm in terms of modern industry—he sees the farm as a manufacturing plant, producing the raw materials for food, clothing and numerous other products. "Evolutionary changes, deep down in farm economics," says this agro-idealist, "have taken place which give us a stabilized economic base from which he can plan and work with a sense of security he never had before."

Farmer Psychology

I like the way this hard-hitting, successful business man and writer describes the psychology of the farmer as he grew up with him in other days. He asks this question of the industrialist:

"How would I feel about buying anything but necessities if my whole economic structure was a gamble? Suppose I owned a ten or fifteen thousand-dollar plant and a lot of livestock, and, once a year, I planted crops, not knowing if the price would make them worth harvesting; how would I feel?"

Mann has a deep inherited kinship for the man who works close to the soil and you cannot doubt his sincerity when he adds:

"Some day a saga will be sung about the courage that kept the farmers going through their darkest days."

I wish I might write that saga for I know it from brave letters that poured into me from radio listeners all through the worst of the depression. I can tell you that they gave me a renewed faith in America that has kept me from being cynical through these days of distrust and doubt.

By the time this column is read, the greatest concentrated drive to increase farm production, to assure the farmer a definite price for what he produces will be on. For the first time in history, milk and poultry producers will be asked to pledge themselves to raise as much of their product as they possibly can—and they will get all the co-operation, advice and assistance that the government can give them. Quite a different picture from "plowing under."

Cotton Linters And Powder Making

Cotton linters, the hair-like fibers that cling to the seed after the long, staple cotton is removed in ginning, is a vital ingredient in the manufacture of smokeless powder. Army officials are checking to see whether or not there is going to be a shortage of this product that will seriously interfere with the defense program. They have ringing in their ears the solemn warning of Rep. Wright Patman, of Texas, in the house of representatives, that there will be a linters shortage by the middle of 1942—or even as early as next February, depending upon how much the defense program is expanded, or whether or not the United States becomes involved in a "shooting war."

At any rate, three plans are being considered in order to meet such an emergency.

First, there is the substitution of alpha pulp. This is the wood product that Germany has been using in its smokeless powder since cotton imports have been shut off as a result of the war. This is the same ingredient, too, on which rayon and cellulose industries depend.

Second, the department of agriculture is experimenting with a machine for chopping up staple cotton into short lengths and breaking down the fiber so as to make it usable in place of linters. Within the near future the machine will be given a trial run at the Hopewell bleachery.

Third, a process has been developed for making wood linters out of the southern gum tree—the familiar sweet gum, black, or Tupelo gum. Already one plant in the Midwest is turning out these wood linters which are being used interchangeably with cotton linters in powder which is going to England.

Washington Residents And Car Luxury

Midtown Washingtonians—that's most of them—provide no sheltering roof for their servants, either human or wheeled. And so, early in the morning, nose to tail, the parked cars patiently huff the curb, awaiting their masters' will. As the day begins, there is a little knot of colored girls and other servants who are on their way to wake the missus and get breakfast, lunch and dinner and then depart for their own mysterious habitations.

Of course, there are more cars than girls, for, here as elsewhere, the car is the No. 1 luxury. Better walk up three flights to a hall-bedroom than be car-less.

Of course, there are many government employee families which have settled down as contented bourgeoisie, the unambitious but secure beneficiaries of bureaucracy. They eventually own their own neat homes, on which there is plenty of time to work, after four-thirty. There is the 26-day leave each year and 14-day sick leave, occasional furloughs (without pay), retirement and pension to which to look forward. And there is always that semi-monthly salary check, not high in proportion to commercial wages but always there, in good times or bad, for the classified civil servant.

In boom times the salaries of government workers do not go up along with prices, and you cannot strike against the government. Prices are high in normal times in Washington, compared with other cities of its size; clerks and shopkeepers tend to be a little bored and snooty in the capital, and collectors are relentless. But Uncle Sam's pay check is always there, even if, in days of depression, a sizeable share may have to be mailed back to rugged relatives at home who are out of jobs—but even so there is usually enough left for the garage-less car.

Filing of Documents Is Serious Problem

In the public mind, the word "waste" is frequently associated with the word "government." If you will look up the word "waste" in the dictionary, you will also find that it is connected with the word "vast" (the Latin "vastus").

There is, of course, a vast waste in all governments and not the least is waste paper. As a matter of fact, the Congress of the United States recognizes this fact for it has created a joint select committee on the disposition of papers in the executive departments. Before papers and documents of any department can be thrown away, the Archives Council passes upon whether or not they have historical value. If not, the council advises the joint committee, which in turn reports to congress on what action that body should take in disposing of them.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, pusiness under the eyes—red, weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

Impetus Added To U.S. Attack on 'Spies and Lies'

J. Donovan, J. Edgar Hoover, Brig. Gen. Sherman Miles, head of the military intelligence division of the war department, and Capt. Alan G. Kirk, head of the office of naval intelligence. All of them have highly specialized and unique schooling for the job. They will work together, the flying wedge of a quickening attack on spies and lies.

Captain Kirk, a veteran of 35 years' service in the navy, eases quietly into the picture, which is his usual procedure. It just happened the captain, a discreet and highly personable officer, was sent to London, as naval attaché, in May, 1939. His investigation and report on the sinking of the Athenia impressed the state department and, from his ringside seat, he was a keen observer of many important events of interest to this country. When the Germans were taunting the British about "Where is the Ark Royal?" Captain Kirk quietly reported that he had just had lunch aboard her.

WE MISS the garret inventor, but here's the penthouse inventor, doing just as well. Charles L. Lawrance, widening the bomber range by his tiny auxiliary aircraft engine, had what Elbert O. Hubbard might have put down as the handicap of wealth and social position, but he tinkered and schemed aviation over many a hump and now, crowding 60, he turns in another finished performance.

Wealth 'Handicap' Fails to Prevent Ideas Developing

There are no loose ends or ravelings to anything he does. His "watch charm" engine is already in mass production for the navy. It is a supplementary power plant which will enable the bombers to venture high and far, as it takes care of the energy overhead of starting motors, feathering propellers, and powering heat, light, radio and instrument board.

Mr. Lawrance, the first man to adapt air-cooled engines to air navigation, also contributed much to wing design. His is the Wright Whirlwind motor and he was the designer of the engine that catapulted Charles Lindbergh to Paris—also the engines of the three Byrd polar flights, the Chamberlain flight and many other historic hops of airplane history.

When he was a Yale undergraduate, Phi Beta Kappa passed him by because he spent all his spare time scheming and dreaming about airplane engines. Out of Yale, he attended the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris, bringing through his first engine before he finished his three-year course. Returning home, he took up his profession of engineering and established the Lawrance Engineering corporation, of New York.

It was in 1917 that he perfected his first air-cooled engine. He is given to cautious understatement. When, in 1927, Adm. Richard E. Byrd said passenger planes would be flying the Atlantic in 10 years, he said we couldn't be too sure about that—mail possibly but not passengers, for a long time to come.

HARPER SIBLEY, newly elected president of the United Service Organizations, is the sign, symbol and substance of unifying, and never of disruptive forces. If agriculture and industry seem to have divided interests, he has farms scattered here and there and everywhere, and he also carries a nice line of lumber companies, banks, loan societies and coal companies.

New U.S.O. Head Is 'Business Man' Of Wide Interests

When the government and business are at odds, Mr. Sibley is the man in between, counselling a bit of give and take here. He was the successful intermediary in the automobile strike of 1937, and while, as a conservative business man, he was shelling the New Deal, he was backing up Secretary Hull's trade treaties and the President's foreign policy.

He has held forth steadily against class animosities. His career is a refutation of the philosopher Berkeley. He can see both sides of any object at a given instant. As a former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Sibley is an authoritative voice in American business and he is never happy unless he has 8 or 10 highly diversified jobs, with plenty of time for tennis and golf. He is a former Groton and Harvard schoolmate of President Roosevelt, and like the President an upstate country squire.

New U. S. Farm Policy Aims at High Production

Latest Campaign Represents Definite Shift From 'Plowing Under' Plan; Powder Makers Need Cotton Linters.

By BAUKHAGE
National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

"This year and next the farmer is going places. There are certain indications that he will continue to see considerable new money. Indications based on conditions that affect the farmers' general outlook on life, as well as his cash income."

That statement did not come from "official sources"—it didn't even come from a farmer, although he used to be one. It was made in my office by square-cut, square-jawed Conklin ("Pop") Mann, an editor and advertising man, keen student of rural matters, and a long-time friend of mine. Mann was down from New York, bursting with enthusiasm for his favorite theme—assured prosperity on the farm. Mann believes that business has a job ahead to interpret and readjust its marketing to meet the sweeping economic changes now taking place in American agriculture.

The farmer is now becoming a far more important factor in the distribution of both consumable and capital goods than ever before. That rise in the farmers' economic importance isn't just a matter of great cash income, according to Mann. It is due, rather, to the fact that the farmer now has a sound business platform under him and can plan and work on a basis comparable to any other business man.

"Farmers," says Mann, "are both doing well and experiencing a new sense of economic security because of parity and guaranteed prices for farm products. There is a definite psychological response to their feeling of increased safety. When a farmer is doing well, and feeling secure, look for a strong upward surge in his buying psychology."

Mann interprets the farm in terms of modern industry—he sees the farm as a manufacturing plant, producing the raw materials for food, clothing and numerous other products. "Evolutionary changes, deep down in farm economics," says this agro-idealist, "have taken place which give the farmer a stabilized economic base from which he can plan and work with a sense of security he never had before."

Farmer Psychology

I like the way this hard-hitting, successful business man and writer describes the psychology of the farmer as he grew up with him in other days. He asks this question of the industrialist:

"How would I feel about buying anything but necessities if my whole economic structure was a gamble? Suppose I owned a ten or fifteen thousand-dollar plant and a lot of livestock, and, once a year, I planted crops, not knowing if the price would make them worth harvesting; how would I feel?"

Mann has a deep inherited kinship for the man who works close to the soil and you cannot doubt his sincerity when he adds:

"Some day a saga will be sung about the courage that kept the farmers going through their darkest days."

I wish I might write that saga for I know it from radio listeners all through the worst of the depression. I can tell you that they gave me a renewed faith in America that has kept me from being cynical through these days of distrust and doubt.

By the time this column is read, the greatest concentrated drive to increase farm production, to assure the farmer a definite price for what he produces will be on. For the first time in history, milk and poultry producers will be asked to pledge themselves to raise as much of their product as they possibly can—and they will get all the cooperation, advice and assistance that the government can give them. Quite a different picture from "plowing under."

Washington Residents And Car Luxury

Midtown Washingtonians—that's most of them—provide no sheltering roof for their servants, either human or wheeled. And so, early in the morning, nose to tail, the parked cars patiently hug the curb, awaiting their masters' will. As the day begins, there is a little knot of colored girls and other servants who are on their way to wake the missus and get breakfast, lunch and dinner and then depart for their own mysterious habitations.

Of course, there are more cars than girls, for, here as elsewhere, the car is the No. 1 luxury. Better walk up three flights to a hall-bedroom than be car-less.

Of course, there are many government employee families which have settled down as contented bourgeoisie, the unambitious but secure beneficiaries of bureaucracy. They eventually own their own neat homes, on which there is plenty of time to work, after four-thirty. There is the 26-day leave each year and 14-day sick leave, occasional furloughs (without pay), retirement and pension to which to look forward. And there is always that semi-monthly salary check, not high in proportion to commercial wages but always there, in good times or bad, for the classified civil servant.

In boom times the salaries of government workers do not go up along with prices, and you cannot strike against the government. Prices are high in normal times in Washington, compared with other cities of its size; clerks and shopkeepers tend to be a little bored and snooty in the capital, and collectors are relentless. But Uncle Sam's pay check is always there, even if, in days of depression, a sizeable share may have to be mailed back to rugged relatives at home who are out of jobs—but even so there is usually enough left for the garage-less car.

Filing of Documents Is Serious Problem

In the public mind, the word "waste" is frequently associated with the word "government." If you will look up the word "waste" in the dictionary, you will also find that it is connected with the word "vast" (the Latin "vastus").

There is, of course, a vast waste in all governments and not the least is waste paper. As a matter of fact, the Congress of the United States recognizes this fact for it has created a joint select committee on the disposition of papers in the executive departments. Before papers and documents of any department can be thrown away, the Archives Council passes upon whether or not they have historical value. If not, the council advises the joint committee, which in turn reports to congress on what action that body should take in disposing of them.

The question of storing papers in Washington, the filing case for the emergency, to say nothing of the office, is becoming as serious as the need for providing space for human beings.

Documents of historical value are kept in the great Archives building on Constitution avenue where moth and rust do not corrupt nor can thieves break through and steal.

Papers of no historical value can be sold for waste, on direction of congress, and the money received therefor turned into the treasury.

Cotton Linters And Powder Making

Cotton linters, the hair-like fibers that cling to the seed after the long, staple cotton is removed in ginning, is a vital ingredient in the manufacture of smokeless powder. Army officials are checking to see whether or not there is going to be a shortage of this product that will seriously interfere with the defense program. They have ringing in their

NOT THE GREGORY SCHOOL

The Detroit News one day last week carried the report that the Gregory school would be closed the coming year on account of an insufficient number of pupils. Of course this caused doubt and investigation proved that it was not the Gregory school but the Wright school in Unadilla township near Gregory. Mrs. Lillian Wylie has taught there for the past 8 years but the attendance has been dwindling. Last year only 9 pupils were enrolled. This year the number would have been still smaller so the school has been closed and the pupils will be taken to Gregory. Mrs. Wylie will teach in the Burgess district in Putnam township.

TO HELP THE TANKS START ROLLING!

The first tank from the U. S. Army Arsenal's production line "comes out fighting"—ready to put teeth in American defense.

ON THE outskirts of Detroit, the Army Tank Arsenal, the Navy Arsenal and the Dodge Truck Addition—all new plants—are rushing production of fighting equipment.

In January, Michigan Bell was asked to plan telephone service for those projected defense centers. That required, among other things, the construction of 4 miles of subway, and 7½ miles of large underground cable in conduit. Manufacture and delivery of the cable alone normally would not be expected in less than 4 months.

But defense must not wait. Western Electric produced the cable and began delivery in 5 weeks! In spite of frozen ground, and with a great part of the cable laid under concrete streets, the job was ready for service in 14 weeks.

Plans under way to date involve expenditures by this Company of $11,000,000 to serve camps, arsenals, factories and others engaged directly in defense work. In addition, business and home telephone demands are growing at the fastest rate in history. To meet all those needs, the Company this year will expend more than $26,000,000.

The telephone has a little part in almost every National Defense effort. And a little part in every effort adds up to pretty big figures.

Capt. Gus Ledwidge's Invincibles went out to Camp Robinson last Thursday night and took the short end of a 7 to 9 score. ### PINCKNEY WINS TWO GAMES

The Lansing team did not furnish very strong opposition Sunday and Pinckney took both ends of a double header, 11 to 8 and 16 to 6. In the first game Lansing led up to the 4th when Pinckney scored 3 runs on Reason's triple and singles by Hulce and Joe Singer. They added 5 more in the 5th and 3 more in the 6th when Reason hit a home run with 2 on. Paul Singer, pitching for Pinckney, allowed only 5 hits.

Batteries: Pinckney - Singer and Ward; Lansing - Alexander and Jakovar.

In the second contest, Dinkel, pitching for Pinckney, was hit freely and the teams went into the 6th with Pinckney leading 8 to 6. Then Pinckney went on a rampage, scoring 8 runs and making the contest rather one sided.

Batteries: Pinckney - Dinkel and Ward; Lansing - Yercuzra and Jakovar.

- "I'm glad I came out for football"—Stanley Dinkel

FIRST AID AILING HOUSE
by Roger B. Whitman

(© Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.)

Condensation on Walls
QUESTION: My small bungalow is built on cinder block foundations. The edges of my floors along the walls have become spotted, and the inside walls to a height of three or four feet are continually damp. What is the cause and what is the remedy?

ANSWER: There are openings between the top of your foundation wall and the house walls, through which outside air blows in at the floor level. As this air is cold the edges of the floor and the lower parts of the inside walls are chilled and condensation occurs against them. You can probably feel the draft through the crack between flooring and baseboard, and if you lay a thermometer there, you will find that the temperature is low. The remedy is to close all open joints above and below the sill, and any other joints through which cold air can leak in at the level of the floor.

Smoky Fireplace
QUESTION: My fireplace, which I just tried to use for the first time since occupying the house eight years ago, I find draws badly. Its dimensions are 24 inches deep, 35 inches wide and 24 1/2 inches high. Is this too small? Is it possible for a nest to be in the flue?

ANSWER: The size of the opening in a fireplace should be governed by the area of the flue. The opening should not be more than 10 to 12 times the area of the flue. There are many causes for poor draft in a fireplace, such as: two fireplaces connected to one flue; with this construction, each fire kills the draft of the other; an obstruction in the flue; lack of wind shelf and damper; improper construction of smoke chamber. For a good draft the top of the chimney should be at least two feet above the highest ridge of the roof and should not be blanketed by nearby tall trees or buildings.

Poor Plastering Job
QUESTION: I paid $55 for replastering a ceiling. The plasterer said he would not take down the picture moulding, for he could do a good job with it in place. It is now impossible to get a picture hook on, for the space is filled with plaster. Am I justified in deducting something from his bill? He also splashed plaster on a large mahogany bed. I have wiped it off and used polish, but I fear that when the polish wears off the damage will show.

ANSWER: By rights you should have the picture moulding taken off and replaced, charging the plasterer for the expense, or giving him the chance to do the job himself. As to the bed, if it is now in good condition, it will undoubtedly remain so, or can be kept in shape with occasional polishing.

Cistern Repair
QUESTION: How can I refinish a cistern that has become rotted and soft from age and wear?

ANSWER: You should look forward to replacing the cistern; for any repair would be only temporary. One treatment would be to coat the interior with asphalt paint. You should do the job at a time when the walls are thoroughly dry, and should first brush off all loose particles. Get a kind of paint that will not give the water a taste.

Bathroom Wall Finish
QUESTION: Our bathroom walls and ceiling are smooth plaster and have never been painted. How should we fill the cracks and then finish with enamel?

ANSWER: Fill the cracks with patching plaster; get it at a hardware store. Instructions are on the label. For the first coat, thin enamel undercoater with one-eighth as much linseed oil. Allow to dry thoroughly. Then apply a coat of undercoater, and finish with enamel.

Laundry Floor Surface
QUESTION: What kind of flooring that will not be slippery when wet can be used to resurface a wood floor in a room used as a laundry? Linoleum breaks and wears through quickly.

ANSWER: Asphalt tiling should be excellent, for it is waterproof and will not rot. You can get it from any dealer in linoleum. Linoleum should not be used in laundries or similar places where the flooring would be wet.

Worn Stair Finish
QUESTION: My front stairs are oak finished in a "golden oak" shade. The finish in the center of the treads has worn, showing white spots, while the outer sides of the treads are still in good condition. How can I treat them?

ANSWER: Refinish the center parts with oak varnish stain. You can get a color sample card at a paint store to match the shades. Do not make sharp edges when you varnish; blend the new part into the old.

Jackets! They Play Important Role in the Fashion Picture

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

ACCORDING to fashion's say-so, you must be smartly jacketed everywhere you go. Your play suits, your daytime ensembles, evening dresses and afternoon frocks are all supposed to have complementary jackets, with a few "extras" to be held in readiness to report for duty at the beck and call of time and occasion. So no matter how many jackets you have they will be none too many to include in a fashionable wardrobe.

In a program of interchangeable jackets the secret's out, as to how to go victoriously through the mid-season stretch between summer and actual fall with "flying colors" so far as keeping a well-dressed appearance is concerned. Every woman wants to maintain a refreshing up-to-the-moment look in summer hangover apparel until autumn styles are set. This is quite a "trick" in the art of dressing. Interchangeable jackets that flaunt "the latest" in styling details is an answer.

With the thought in mind that the attractiveness of the jacket fashions pictured might inspire you in a sewing spree venture, we are especially calling your attention to the several pen and ink sketches, selected because the numbers are really very easy to make. You can buy up such pretty remnants at this time of year, so reasonable and with the investment of a little time and effort you will find yourself the happy possessor of jackets that, ingeniously interchanged, will set new tempo for your frocks in keeping with every move of fashion.

Referring to the pen-and-ink sketches, the ones at top to right and left, are of the casual type for town and travel wear. For these remnants of tweed will work up to good advantage and if you want to give them a "last word" touch, embroider a big scroll monogram somewhere about them—on pocket or sleeve or some other strategic point.

Outstanding on the season's program is the sleeveless long-torso jacket, known as the jerkin. It is the schoolgirl's idol and adored by sportswomen. The jerkin sketched at lower right, is easy to make, easy to wear! Use bright corduroy or suede cloth. Jerkin patterns are available anywhere they sell patterns.

Coolie coats, the popular choice for evening wear, are ever so easy to make for they require little or no fitting. The "coolie" sketched at lower left, is a "perfect little treasure." The material used in this instance is prettily embroidered in quaint little poses. Handsome brocade or metal cloth yields beautifully to the coolie treatment. Women of discriminating taste love coolie wraps made of fine wool or silk crepe in subtle pastel greens, violet shades, or Chinese reds. The newest thing is to embellish them with a restricted amount of sequin or bead embroidery. Note the model in the lower oval inset. In this instance the sheer crepe is in a soft stone blue, the embroidery done in silver threads and beadwork.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Sun-Hat and Bag

Here is a practical sun-hat and bag that should interest beach strollers who want to protect their complexion from burning sun rays. The large sun hat worn so appealingly by the young lady as she poses in the picture at the top acts as a perfect "freckle fender."

In the pose below you see how this huge brim folds to pancake size so as to fit into the outer pocket of a made-to-match rubber-lined beach bag. This hat has a navy blue brim with red and white striped crown and the color combination is repeated in the bag.

Accent Is on Luxury Blouse Type for Fall

The blouse program as mapped out for fall and winter will use much luxurious fabric. Pastel metal cloth made up in classic simplicity is one of the happy outlooks. Matching the pastel of the metal weave with crepe in identical tone presents endless possibilities for achieving charming effect. In some instances a bit of the crepe used for the skirt is repeated in stylizing accents on the metal blouse.

Wide use will be made of deep-toned satins and they will be made up similar to the manner suggested above for metal weaves. Silk jersey is also a favored medium. Used in vivid reds, greens or blues to wear with black suits, the new jersey blouses are stunning.

Drastic Changes Seen In New Fall Silhouette

Here are changes you will find as the new silhouettes make their debut this fall. There will be very few if any set-in sleeves. The trend is to deep armhole effects in dolman sleeves, cut all in one with the bodice or blouse top. Bulk above the waistline and slimming of skirts is noted.

Everything is being done to accent lower waistlines, especially with inset belts. Beltless dresses are very new in style stressing sophisticated simplicity.

There will be hosts of pleated fashions that emerge from long-torso lines with pleats manipulated to retain slenderizing lines.

Chiffon House Coats

Torrid days call for cool apparel, a need which is filled in very lovely house coats made of pastel chiffons. You can bring the summer to a very happy conclusion wearing one of the very lovely chiffon creations.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

design (No. 1360-B) is simple to make and it really is necessary to a busy day.

Checked gingham, flowered percale, plain-colored chambray or seersucker all look very attractive made up like this, with braid and buttons to match or contrast. You'll enjoy following the pattern which includes a sew chart.

Lockless Suez Canal

The Suez canal is a sea-level "ditch" requiring no locks. The narrow ditch in the sand runs for 104.5 miles through desert and marshy land from Port Said on the Mediterranean to Port Taufiq on the Gulf of Suez. Its channel depth is now 45 feet, and its narrowest width is 70 yards. Although it has been concreted at some places to halt erosion, the banks are chiefly sand or gravel.

The northern half of the canal cuts straight through the desert; the southern half leads through a chain of small lakes which act as "expansion chambers" to help take up the flow of the four-foot tide from the Red sea.

HERE'S one of those very satisfying everyday dresses that's decidedly out of the ordinary in charm and practicality. The lines are really as good as those of your favorite afternoon dress. The skirt sweeps, from a high, small waistline, to a flare that ensures working comfort and looks pretty besides. You can draw the waistline in as slim as you please, by means of the back-tied sash belt—and adjust it to give yourself plenty of leeway for reaching, stretching, sweeping, dusting and so on. This

Drafting Bills

Many bills presented in the senate and the house of representatives are not written by the congressmen or the congressional committee whose names they bear, but by one or more of the 10 lawyers in the office of the legislative counsel, an organization set up more than 20 years ago for this purpose and which costs the government about $75,000 a year.

He was an Englishman and a high-speed salesman who had joined the army, gone into action, and had been seriously wounded. For several days he lay delirious at the base hospital, but eventually he turned the corner, and slowly started the climb back to health.

On the first day of his recovery he was surprised to see all the nurses standing around his bed, offering him money.

"Why, what is this for?" he asked. "I do not understand." "This is for the radios, refrigerators and vacuum sweepers you sold us while you were unconscious," they chorused.

Wild Life Notes
 Art Moote and Ted Ingalls, both of Munising, parked their car near Cusineu and started walking down a trail. A half mile away they came suddenly upon two bear cubs, each one about 90 pounds in weight. Art and Ted then heard a growl. Behind them was the mother bear. Wholly unarmed, the men started running.

"That is a good deer and rabbit country," related Art afterwards. "We caught up to and passed a dozen of the critters getting away from that bear."

Mrs. William E. Mori, of North Canton, Ohio, went fishing for trout in Lake Superior off Munising. Her catch: a 35-pound, 2-ounce trout; 45 1/2 inches long.

Pop Bottle Starts Fire
 From Three River comes this tale: Fire destroyed the straw stack of Elmer Pulver near Corey Lake.

The blaze is believed to have been started when the intense rays of the sun focused through a pop bottle. Girls Run Own Farm

The red-headed Williams sisters - Arlene, Hazel, and Belle - have run their own farm of 120 acres near Quincy since their father, Frank Williams, died in 1930.

Last year they raised 1,000 leghorn chickens. They paint and repair their farm buildings.

Hazel teaches school in the winter. Asked how she likes farming, Arlene said: "I'd rather do it than anything else in the world."

Catch a Dog
 Fishing on Six Mile Lake near East Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Berkert caught a three-pound bass on the first cast; a two-pound bass on the eleventh cast.

Suddenly the wind started, and a bad storm threatened. The Berkerts started for shore, a half mile away, letting the plug troll behind the boat. "Look at the beaver following us!" exclaimed Mr. Berkert. Just then there was a "strike" on the line.

Scottie dog, "Wags" who had swan the half mile, had been hooked in the leg with the bass plug. "Wags" was promptly rescued.

 The roller skating fad, which flourished about 40 or more years ago, has struck the county again and is becoming a rage," notes Frank M. Weber, country editor at Atlanta up in Montmorency county.

"Leviston and Hillman have both had skating rinks for some time and now Atlanta will furnish a place for you to break your neck if you want to."

Open air motion pictures is another small town vogue. Lester M. Rogers, country publisher at Camden (Hillsdale county) reports: "It is estimated that 700 people attended the street pictures Wednesday evening. There were seats for 500. Many bring their own chairs and others sit in their cars while many use the standing room."

TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES

There is an old parlor game called Truth or Consequences. Almost everyone has played it sometime during their life. Let us apply it to everyday existence.

First ask the question, "How will I meet another depression?"

Remember the game. If you can't answer, then you must take the consequences as determined by the others playing. We know from past experience that the trials and troubles rising out of failure to have an answer for our question are many, severe, and well-nigh insurmountable.

Now is the time to prepare an answer.

Put a portion of your pay check in Defense Savings Bonds. In this way you provide future security for your country and yourself. You answer the question and need not fear the consequences.
