

Pinckney Wins their Second Game

Defeat Hartland There Friday 12 to 6. Most Reserve Players See Action

Pinckney high school football team made it two straight wins when they took Hartland into camp last Friday, 12 to 6 in a game played there. Hartland kicked off it was a poor kick and hit Duke VanBlaricum in the chest and he fell on the ball near midfield. Pinckney used a series of line plays with Kuhn, Reynolds, Ludtke and Clawson carrying the ball and Kuhn went over for a touchdown. His attempt to kick the extra point was blocked.

Pinckney continued to hold Hartland to few gains that team making only one first down in the first half. Pinckney gained through the Hartland line but switched to forward passes and end runs and did not have so much luck here. Pinckney substitutes kept coming and going most of the second half. In the last half Bill Kuhn intercepted a Hartland pass and ran it back 40 yards, being stopped at the 20 yard line. Finally he took it over after a series of assaults on the Hartland line, going around end with perfect interference. Again Kuhn's attempt to kick for the extra point was blocked.

With seven minutes to go, the entire Pinckney reserve team was sent in with the exception of Jackie Haines. Sparks, the tall Hartland fullback, was given the ball and ran around this bunch of freshmen about 60 yards for a touchdown. However, the referee called the ball back because he had stepped out of bounds on the 20 yard line. Also a Hartland player was detected clipping and his team drew a 15 yard penalty. This brought the ball back to the 35 yard line. The Pinckney first stringers were sent back in and after some seesawing Sycal made a yard through the line for a touchdown. The attempt to kick the point failed. This ended the scoring although Pinckney made a couple of first downs after this.

Next Friday Pinckney plays New Hudson there. They beat this team 7 to 6 in a non-league game so they will have their hands full in this second encounter.

Let's have a good turnout on this opening session of the fall season.

Yours fraternally,

COUNTY SCHOOL ENROLLMENT

There has been much argument that the enrollment in the county schools has decreased on account of the boom in defense order in the cities and also that it has increased, on account of the population trend toward the rural districts. The following figures from the county commissioner should settle this dispute:

For the rural schools the figures are exactly the same this year as in 1940, the enrollment in both cases being 1818. Putnam schools showed an increase of 32 pupils, all districts showing increases except the Reeves. The figures are Reeves 10, Sprout 16, Hicks 28, Burgess 19, Marble 18, Hause 14. Unadilla showed a loss, dropping from 75 to 67. Hamburg, Brighton township, Cochoctah, Decfield, Genoa, Marion, and Oceola showed increases and the other townships showed losses, in most cases very slight. Of the city schools all showed small increases except Pinckney which fell from 206 in 1940 to 182 in 1941.

Milk Meeting Held Here Last Night

United Dairy Farmers Start Organization of a Local Here. Another Meeting Scheduled For Next Tuesday Night

About 100 attended the meeting sponsored by the United Dairy Farmers at the community hall last night. The Michigan Milk Producers Association was well represented, among its representatives present being Ernest Lawson, Burr Allen, C. D. Parsons and O. D. Wilson. Nick Rebel of the Rebel Creamery was also present. Harlan Hall, former resident and now employed by the Michigan Milk Producers Assoc., of St. Clair county was also present.

The speakers were Frank Ruzins and George Foster of Macomb county. They gave the history of the organization. These men denied that their association was affiliated or a part of the AFL or CIO, but said at various times they had worked with both. They gave the history of the Flint milk strike which made their organization prominent. According to the speakers the dairy-men around Flint were organized and at the stated time withheld their milk from the market. The Michigan Milk Producers Assoc. however, partially nullified this by sending milk in from the outside, paying as much as $5 per cwt. for it. Then the CIO offered to help them and at a mass meeting attended by 16,000, CIO members agreed not to accept any of this so-called scab milk. This won the strike. The object of the United Dairy Farmers is to form a corridor around Detroit and in a like manner control the price here. St. Clair and Macomb counties have been organized and Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw counties will be organized. The members pay 2 cents per cwt. into the association.

Questions were asked by Louis Wagoner, Harlan Hall, Earl Baughn M. J. Roche, Roy Dillingham, Lynn Hendee and others. Membership cards were passed around and about 14 joined the association. 20 are required to form a local. Another meeting will be held here next Tuesday night.

Following the session the meeting broke up into numerous discussion groups. The farmers seemed united on the idea that they should receive half of the purchase price for milk.

Michigan Mirror State News

Michigan Press Members are Praised for National Defense Efforts by the Heads of the National Defense Departments

Another "first" for Michigan. Michigan newspapers, 345 of them strong, published daily and weekly, have sponsored the first all-media state committee for effective dissemination of national defense information. The Office of Civilian Defense at Washington has declared that the Michigan press program to be a model for general adoption by state councils of defense.

This announcement came today from the Michigan Press Association newspaper trade organization since 1875, which made public statement of congratulation received from the White House, Secretary of Navy Frank Knox, Secretary of War Henry Stimson, William S. Knudsen, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and many others, including Michigan congressmen.

In July the newspapers took the initiative in sponsoring a non-partisan advisory group for the newly formed Michigan Council of Defense. All media are represented on an equal basis - motion picture theatres, radio, outdoor advertising, graphic arts and periodicals. In addition are several advisory agencies representing industry and labor, governmental public relations and advertising.

President's Secretary

Stephen Early, secretary to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, wrote: "I congratulate the Michigan Press Association on its patriotic determination to put the whole weight of its influence behind the campaign for national defense. Foremost among our cherished freedoms is freedom of the press. Without that guarantee our other freedoms would languish and disappear. The example of the Michigan Press Association is one which I hope will be widely emulated."

Secretary of War Henry Stimson in commending Michigan newspapers, said:

"The coordinated efforts of your member publications will do much to assure a full public understanding of the defense program. The importance of Michigan as an industrial center makes your project of special interest at the present time. "Patriotic Public Service" Lieut. Colonel E. Ernest Dupuy, chief of the planning of the liaison branch of the war department, declared that the Michigan newspaper move was "a patriotic public service of high order."

"You may be interested to know that while there have been no other similar groups which have perfected the formal organization of your association, quite a number of state press associations have been directing combined efforts toward the same end. ## CURRENT COMMENT "By Ye Editor"

The nation-wide aluminum collection yielded 11,885,189 lbs. of scrap. This is equivalent to the aluminum needed in 1,900 fighter planes or 350 four-motored bombers. This fell below the 15,000,000 quota predicted, however. The aluminum, when melted down, will yield about 7,000,000 lbs. The remainder of the weight represents iron and steel mixed with the aluminum.

The University of Michigan authorities have again issued their usual manifesto concerning drinking at the football games. In this they threaten to throw out all persons attending the games who, through the use of liquor, become offensive to other persons at the game. In other words, those attending the games can drink all the whiskey they desire as long as they do not make a nuisance of themselves at the games. This drinking at football games at Ann Arbor has long been a difficult problem. To many who attend these games, a bottle of whiskey is standard equipment. We remember a few years back when a special train, containing mostly deluxe parlor cars, was wrecked on the railroad near Ann Arbor enroute to the game. This wreck caused the inmates of the deluxe train to cast their silver hip pockets flasks out the car window as they did not care to meet their Maker with them on their persons.

The America First Committee, in speeches by Senators Wheeler and Nye and a statement by the committee, backs up Col. Lindbergh in his recent anti-Jewish speech delivered in Des Moines, Iowa. It accuses the interventionists with dragg the anti-Jewish issue into the discussion and denies that Lindbergh is anti-Semitic. However, it fails to mention Lindbergh's Des Moines speech or attempt in any way to explain his meaning. In the meantime the F.B.I. department has seized the files of the America First Committee offices in Washington D. C. and will investigate the charge that the committee is being backed by pro-German interests.

In a stormy session at Ann Arbor last week Supt. Haisley of the Ann Arbor schools, recently dismissed by the school board, was rehired for a 19 month term by a 6 to 3 vote of the board. The shortened term for which he was rehired is in the nature of a compromise. In the recent school election the candidates in favor of renewing the contract of Supt. Haisley won by a vote of about 1900 to 1500. The new board stated that they will bend every effort to iron out difficulties existing and achieve harmony among patrons of the school. Haisley is charged with adding too many new features and frills to the school system.

The problem of migratory workers is a pressing one in Michigan at the present time and has cropped up in many places where people have flocked to work at war industries, especially construction. Most of them live in tents and camp trailers in places devoid of sewers or any sanitary arrangements. Their children swamp the schools which are unable to handle them and refuse to shoulder any tax burdens to educate children whose parents pay no taxes. Such an unfortunate situation exists in Norton twp. near Muskegon. The school there refused to accept the children from a trailer camp because Muskegon Heights had refused to pay tuition money. Walter Blanshire, treasurer of the Muskegon Heights stated that his district did not have to as the law passed by the last legislature was not given immediate effect and will not go into effect until 90 days after the legislature adjourns. The result was that the children of the trailer camp picketed the school, carrying signs reading, "We demand an education." Such situations as this one are unfortunate and should never be permitted to exist.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK—Although the answers to the famous inquiry of Pontius Pilate aren't all in yet, we assign a man to discover and tell us what is truth.

Dr. James P. Baxter III, president of Williams college, takes on this office, for Col. William J. Donovan, co-ordinator of defense information. His job will be to screen out from the mine-run of world information the dubious, tricky or deceptive items of propaganda or distortion and deliver to the President and the state department the chemically pure raw material for policy-making. This "fact-filter" appears to be news in world statecraft.

In the midst of a long address which Dr. Baxter delivered in 1938 was the following pertinent utterance, foreshadowing his new undertaking:

"The first element of defense is truth. Inculcation of the zeal to get at the truth, no matter what the cost of time and effort, characterizes real education."

Is it possible that this led Colonel Donovan to his truth-seeker? In the above address and on several later occasions, Dr. Baxter denounced "defeatism," and has been a spirited advocate of a "militant democratic faith," which would not wait until it was enslaved before fighting back.

After his graduation from Williams college in 1914, Dr. Baxter tried Wall Street for two years, with the Industrial Finance corporation, and then returned to Williams and Harvard for master's and doctor's degrees. He taught history at Colorado college and Harvard and became president of Williams in 1937. With him on the new truth-filtering board are six other professors, all skilled researchers in the entomology of the propaganda bug. They have as an unofficial precedent the extensive researches of the Institute for Propaganda Analysis.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT would have approved highly of his fellow townsman of Oyster Bay, Col. Van Santford Merle-Smith, just now arriving at Sydney, Australia, as the newly appointed naval attaché. He is tall, handsome and physically impressive, always looking for action.

At Princeton, young Merle-Smith "hit the line hard," as a backfield football star; he was a hell-for-leather cavalry officer on the Mexican border, and in the World War, he mixed in the fighting wherever he could find an opening, was wounded three times and was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross; he had a fling at statecraft, at The Hague and in our state department; he engaged in the rough-and-tumble of Wall Street, winning every bout, and as a yachtsman could make more out of a hat full of wind than anybody on the Long Island shore.

All in all, his career would make T. R. flash a couple of octaves of teeth and yell "Bully!"

He is the son of the late Dr. Wilton Merle-Smith, who was pastor of the Brick Church of New York, and has long been active as one of the leading Presbyterian laymen. After his graduation from Princeton in 1911, he took his law degree at Harvard in 1914. He was a member of the American secretariat at the Paris peace conference, and in 1920 was appointed third assistant secretary of state.

For several years after 1935, his yacht, Seven Seas, was showing her heels to competing craft, but more recently Colonel Merle-Smith has been shore-bound by ill health.

He practiced law with a distinguished New York firm, in the immediate post-war years, and entered the investment banking field about a decade ago. He is now a member of the advisory committee of the New York Trust company.

Colonel Merle-Smith in all probability will find action even in the Australian navy.

GEN. JORGE UBICO is named by a "constitutional congress" for his tenth consecutive term as president of Guatemala, his incumbency to continue until 1949.

He was first elected for a one-year term, survived two revolutions, and then set aside the constitutional limitation against more than one term. He is hard-boiled and diligent, brilliantly educated and strongly pro-United States. He is startlingly like Napoleon in appearance, with a haircut like the little corporal's, understudying Napoleon in attitudes, dress,

Farm Land Speculation Is Threat to Agriculture

Government Warns Against Fever of Land Buying That Would Start Another 'Unhappy' Economic Cycle for U. S.

By BAUKHAGE

National Farm and Home Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Farm income—cash income—will be nearly $11,000,000,000 this year. That is two billions greater than last year.

Money to burn! And the burning question in Washington is how to stop the conflagration before it starts. The chief danger is another prairie fire of farm land speculation such as started out in Iowa in World War I. First there were wash sales. They were publicized. Real sales began which sent farm prices up to the blue skies and which ended by making a farm mortgage the cheapest form of wall paper.

Two years after that World war started, the prices of farm land rose 5 per cent. Not much later they leaped a hundred per cent and more. The eventual collapse was forerunner of the depression.

Today, two years after the present war started, farm land prices are up 1 per cent. That isn't so bad but the government is already worried enough to consider it worth while trying to start a back fire in the hope of preventing a recurrence of the unhappy cycle which began 25 years ago.

When Governor Black of the Farm Credit administration called in the farm mortgage bankers, the insurance people, farm organization representatives and others in the rural real estate field he simply reminded them that when the government loaned the farmers the money to bail them (the mortgagors) out last time, it was done on appraisals based on normal values. Now it is up to the real estate people to make their appraisals on normal values, too. That means on figures based on the relationship between farm products prices and other prices established for the years of 1914-1918.

A million farmers who were loaned money by the Farm Credit administration during the depression have repaid their mortgages. Those farmers are keenly aware of the danger to agriculture and to the whole economy if a fever of mad land-buying starts again. They will help stop it, if they can. The government will do all in its power in the way of education—meetings will be held—the house organ of the Farm Credit administration which has a million circulation will carry the warning. The real estate operators have indicated that they will cooperate.

Whether money to burn will burn the farmer is still uncertain. In the end, stopping another drunken orgy of land speculation and the terrible headache afterward depends on the word-of-mouth message of the individual. The burned child fears the fire but there is always someone to urge him to risk a blister for the delicious chestnut he sees roasting on the coals.

Policy—Orders—Action—Silence—

"As Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy I order the following policy carried out at once: our patrolling vessels and planes will protect all merchant ships—not only American ships but ships of any flag—engaged in commerce in waters which we deem necessary for our defense. American naval vessels and American planes will strike the first blow against Axis submarines or Axis raiders on the surface of the sea."

This communication in substance was transmitted to the office of the secretary of the navy from the White House a few weeks ago.

There it was immediately translated, first into naval language and then into code. Over land wires to the wireless towers near Annapolis it was flashed to ships of the United States navy on the seven seas.

It is early morning. A thin steely light spreads across the horizon as the U. S. destroyer "Blank," a part of the Atlantic patrol, rides the easy swells. On board, the smooth routine goes on with its clock-work monotony. But there is the ghost of a grim smile exchanged between the captain and the executive officer—they have both read the coded message recorded by the wireless operator a little while before.

Three minutes later the ship is galvanized from galley to crow's-nest.

A strident gong has sounded. The bos'n's whistle is trilling high above the wash of the waves and the whirr of the engines for the word has come down from the lookout: "Torpedo track sight. Starboard bow. —4-0!"

The gong sounds—that might mean any emergency but before there is time to wonder the order rings out—

"All hands to general quarters." Before the gun crews have ripped off the site covers, the executive officer has reported to the captain: "Battle stations manned, sir."

The "torpedo track," a ribbon of white moves forward toward the destroyer at the rate of 1,000 yards a minute. But the tube of high explosive itself, which is sending up the tell-tale "track" of bubbles is 40 yards ahead of the nearest one that shows—it takes some time before those bubbles can reach the surface.

The bearing of the torpedo is verified and the destroyer swings and leaps "full-speed-ahead" to meet it. Not because the captain wants to contact the whirring death-bolt head-on, but because there is less chance of a hit if the ship shows its beam instead of the length of its hull as a target. And the objective of the destroyer is a spot as nearly over the point where the submarine is submerged as it is possible to estimate it. That point is reached for the torpedo has missed its mark while ears are glued to the sound-detector straining for the noise of the sub's engines.

"Release depth charges." Down go the "ash-cans," one after another: mounds of water rise; the sound detector is deafened. The destroyer, turning sharply, returns to the spot and releases another series of charges.

The roar dies in the detectors. There is silence.

And that is the end of the story. Perhaps it is the end of the submarine. It is quite possible that no one will ever know what happened until after the war—perhaps not then. And even if some tell-tale piece of equipment is blown from the inside of the sub and reaches the surface, that does not mean that the public will know. At least not for a long time.

Seasonal Glory In National Capital

Washington is standing on the threshold of its seasonal glory—"October's bright blue weather," the month of beauty in the capital.

Already the early morning sun comes down in soft blue bars and August's heavy carpet of shadow on pavement and lawn is thinned to a lacework pattern as the leaves shrivel and drop.

Gardens have faded but there is one hardy bush (Rose of Sharon?) which blooms before the more modest doorways. A cross between a hollyhock and a morning glory it is harder than either.

The city wakes with a new vigor now that the tropic days are over. Women government workers are out with a brisk step for a last stroll with dogs or babies, whichever they possess, before they go off to the "office." Landladies straggle homeward cheerfully with their bags and parcels. But trolley cars still lag and jerk, packed to the doors with the new thousands who crowd the sagging city with the clerks of Mars.

Suez Canal Symbol Of British Power

Symbols are often more powerful than facts or things in influencing the public. The Suez canal has always been considered Britain's lifeline. It is the symbol of Britain's sea-power, of the bonds that hold the Empire together, of British achievement.

And yet the canal is as much French as British, both in construction and control. What is more, months ago it became of highly questionable value because for weeks at a time it has had to be closed as a result of attacks from the air.

Long ago shrewd Britons realized that they must prepare for the eventuality of the loss of the Suez. At least five years ago a book was published pointing out that in case of war Britain must be prepared to protect ship routes around Africa.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

☐ A high government official said the other day (privately, of course): "If 50 per cent of the people working on defense in Washington were fired the work of the remainder would be more efficient." Oh, make it 33 1/3 per cent!

☐ Some 8,700,000 pounds of pots and pans collected in the aluminum drive are now being processed into fighting planes.

☐ "My colleagues have undoubtedly observed that the color of the walls of the senate chamber is the same as that of caskets."—Senator Andrews.

☐ Warning to politicians: Nobody has ever been elected on his opponent's platform.

☐ The big brass bell on fire engines is doomed. The brass is needed for defense.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its busy and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling, feet constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

St. Mary's Church

October 1, is the Feast of St. Michael the Archangel; October 2, the feast of the Guardian Angel, and Saturday, the feast of St. Francis, the founder of the well known Franciscan order.

Next Sunday is Communion Sunday for the women of the parish and the Altar Society.

Among the intentions offered this week in the holy sacrifice of the Mass were for the souls of George W. Clark, requested by his devoted widow; the late George Schuller of Toledo, Ohio, requested by his devoted niece, Miss Redding of Lakeland; also for the benefactors and devotees of this parish.

Among those visiting here over Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vanderveer of Detroit, Mr. Arthur Coash of Romulus, Mich., Mr. James Connon and daughter, Mary, of River Rouge and Mr. and Mrs. Frank York and family of St. Agnes parish, Detroit, who are visiting at Gregory. Also Mr. Raymond Downey and Mr. J. Hartway of Toledo, Ohio, and Eleanor and Barbara York of Detroit.

The feast of St. Michael the Archangel, or "who is like to God" such was the cry of the great Archangel when he smote the rebel Lucifer in the conflict of the heavenly hosts and from that hour he has been known as "Michael", the captain of the armies of God, the type of divine fortitude, the champion of every faithful soul in strife with the powers of evil. Thus he appears in Holy Scripture as the guardian of the children of Israel, their comfort and protector in times of sorrow or conflict. He it is who prepares for their return from the Persian captivity, who leads the valiant Maccabees to victory and who rescues the body of Moses from the envious grasp of the evil one. And since Christ's coming the church has ever venerated St. Michael and her special patron and protector. She invokes him by name in her confession of sin, summons him to the side of her children in the agony of death, and chooses him as their escort from the chastening flames of purgatory to the realms of holy light. Lastly, when anti-Christ shall have set up his kingdom on earth it is Michael who will unfurl once more the standard of the Cross, sound the last trumpet, and binding together the false prophet and the beast, hurl them for all eternity into the burning pool. Reflections: St. Bernard says, "Whenever any grievous temptation or vehement sorrow oppresses thee, invoke thy guardian, thy leader, cry out to Him and say, 'Lord save us, lest we perish!'"

PHILATHEA NOTES

Next week Wednesday, October 1, is the regular time for the October meeting of our class. Bear it in mind, and watch for further particulars. October 20 is the 51st birthday of Baruch Philathea.

Next Sunday is Missionary Day in our school. A generous offering will be appreciated.

The last of this quarter's lessons, "The Fulfillment of History: The New Jerusalem" was taught by Mrs. Buzzard, his passage in Revelations is a graphic picture of our Heavenly Abode. Beginning the new quarter we have a lesson from Genesis 1:1-26, "God, Our Heavenly Father."

The Annual Church Meeting with potluck supper at 7 o'clock, was announced for Monday evening, October 6. Business to follow supper. We are advised that the records do not show a vote on the maintenance proposition, so $1.16 cents per member is to be paid the committee or treasurer as soon as possible.

Cong'l Chu.ch Notes, Con't

The budget committee, consisting of a number of workers under the direction of Mr. Percy Swarouth, chairman and Mr. Wm. Euler, secretary, will make the annual parish canvass during the first two weeks in October. The church and pastor wish to express their sincere appreciation for the pledges in the past and hop that each one will continue their financial support in the future. With rising prices, the cost of operating the church increases and we need the loyal support of all members and friends of our church.

This church endeavors to serve the whole Protestant community. When a large part of the world is bleeding to death, the church in America must go forward. The church makes life safe and property valuable in our community. No one wants to live in a community void of Christianity. So let us all in return for the blessing the Christian church has rendered to us, give as unto the Lord, and be thankful we are enjoying our freedom of religion in this great democracy.

SCOUT SCRIBBLES

Our business meeting was called to order by Mr. Reader, our scoutmaster. The meeting was opened by the Pledge of Allegiance and the Scout Oath. We discussed plans for attending the next home game of the U. of M. We made out a subscription blank for "Boy's Life". We made plans for gathering old papers on Saturday. Our business meeting was closed and we played scout games until time to close our meeting with the scout benediction.

NOTES OF THE GAME

Pinckney defeated Hartland 12 to 6 last Friday. Pinckney received the opening kickoff and promptly marched 50 yards for a touchdown. However, the boys did not show as good football as they did against New Hudson. After the first 10 or 15 minutes the Hartland team outplayed Pinckney up to the half. Kuhn scored the first touchdown but the kick for the point was blocked. Hartland would make several first downs then would lose the ball to Pinckney. Hartland was on the Pinckney 45 when the half ended.

Pinckney received again and the ball changed hands several times. Hartland had the ball on their 40 when they threw a pass which was intercepted by Kuhn, who brought it back to Hartland's 30. Pinckney ran it back to the Hartland 9 yard line and from there Kuhn scored for the second time early in the 4th quarter. One again the attempt for the extra point was blocked.

The Pinckney team kicked off and stopped Hartland on their 40. Then the Pinckney line was taken out and the reserve line put in. On 1st down Sparks of Hartland ran for a touchdown. The regular line was sent back in and the touchdown was no good because one of the Hartland men was penalized for holding. However, the Hartland team went over again after a hard fight. Their extra point was no good, Sparks being tackled behind the line of scrimmage.

Pinckney received again and started on another march when the game ended.

Friday, Oct. 3, Pinckney will play New Hudson and if they win from New Hudson the following Wednesday they will play South Lyon for the league championship and if Pinckney wins Pinckney high school will get the football trophy and all out for football will get a gold football.

NOTES ON THE GAME

Just why the Pinckney team bogged down after the first quarter is a question. After gaining through the Hartland line at will, the line stiffened or else Pinckney lost their steam.

Pinckney's forward passing attack still failed to click. Out of a number of attempts only one Reynolds' caught was completed. Kuhn is a good passer but seems handicapped by lack of receivers.

If Duke VanBlaricum keeps on he may make the All-Owl league team. After blocking the opening kickoff, he later made the first tackle of the game.

The Pinckney reserves tried hard to stop the Hartland team for the few minutes they were in but had neither the weight nor experience.

Hartland has always been a forward passing team and tried many passes in this game. They completed three but were unable to pass twice in succession successfully.

Zit Tessmer who refereed, is a former U. of M. football player. He is also a star softball pitcher. The large Pinckney delegation which accompanied the team to Hartland reminds one of old times when such delegations were the rule. The Hartland band, usually a feature of these games, failed to make an appearance at this game.

The Pinckney yell squad, under their leaders were there in force.

SOCIAL NEWS

Girls' recreation is still going in full swing, every Tuesday night. By the way, it seems that one of our freshmen girls, who has promise of being a good basketball player, had better change her plans about Tuesday night, and come to recreation and practice basketball.

We understand her plans concern a sophomore and the roller skating party of the sophomores Tuesday night. Being only a freshman, Jean, you will be home much earlier if you go to recreation.

The senior class, starting Wednesday are putting on private dances every week on Wednesday nights. A high school student may invite a guest and all student's parents are invited. Come on parents, show the younger generation how to shake a leg.

JUNIOR NEWS

The Juniors of Pinckney high school have received their class rings. The rings were ordered in the 10th grade and received in the 11th grade. This made it convenient for the students to earn the money to pay for their rings during the summer months.

Last year the students of the 10th were given pins to wear while they waited for their rings.

This class is deciding on which play they will put on for the annual Junior play. Keep this in mind and watch for the date.

President George Aschebrenner came back Monday after two weeks absence because of an operation.

Tuesday night the class is having a roller skating party at Howell for about 25 invited members and guests. It is the first sophomore party of the year and it promises to be a good one.

PAPER COLLECTING DRIVE

The Boy Scouts of Pinckney will start to collect papers every Saturday this fall between eight o'clock and ten thirty. The Boy Scouts of Pinckney wish to thank all who contributed papers last spring. We collected a total of forty eight hundred pounds.

OFFER EXTENSION COURSE

Michigan State Normal College will offer an extension course in Howell. Requests were equally divided between Sociology 201 and Introduction to prose. Either course can be offered. Will those interested meet at 8 o'clock on Friday evening, October 3, at the high school? Mr. Wilbur will be there and make definite plans.

First Coalman

The popular legend is that coal was discovered by Joseph of Arimathea who, near Glastonbury in A. D. 67, found a black lump and took it to the monastery where it was thought to be a stone and thrown on the fire. It became known as "seacoals," and was first used generally as fuel in 1228. It is now established that coal was used in Great Britain much earlier. Sir Cyril Fox, director of the National Museum of Wales, while excavating in the neighborhood of Bridgend, England, came across two cairns, both of the Bronze age. One had buried in it two adults and a child, and fragments of coal found with each set of remains show that coal was used in these cremation burials. It was also established that the burials took place about 1600 B. C.

Heat Pipe Underground

QUESTION: My property consists of two parts, front and rear. Oil burner has to furnish heat for the two. Heating plant is in front and connected to rear by two pipes, two inches in diameter. The pipes are sunk 3 1/2 feet deep and run 24 feet to the rear. These pipes were insulated with plain asbestos covering when they were laid four years ago. I was told if I insulated the underground pipe correctly there would be less oil consumption. How can I do this correctly?

Answer: Ordinary asbestos pipe covering should not be used for underground work unless it is placed in a waterproof box, or covered with a heavy asphalt-saturated felt, over which a heavy coat of liquid tar or asphalt is applied. Most of the well-known manufacturers of insulating pipe covering make one that is suitable for underground work. Your local heating contractor should be able to get information for you on this type of covering.

Cold House
Question: My six-room house is heated with warm air. I get no heat in the upstairs rooms; can barely feel heat coming out of the register with my hand. Other rooms are no better. Furnace is in good condition, and I always run a good fire. What is wrong?

Answer: Warm air cannot flow into a room unless the cool air ahead of it is permitted to escape. There should be means by which cool air from the rooms can get back to the furnace for re-heating. Cool air intake of the furnace jacket should be connected to a large register in the floor of the downstairs hall, or some other central location, so that the furnace is supplied with air from the house instead of cold outdoor air. Any good heating contractor can do what is necessary. There should be at least an inch of space under all inside doors through which room air can flow out and back to the furnace.

Damp Walls
Question: My sun-porch was built last summer with bricks on under block and plastered inside. It was finished with wallpaper. These walls are always wet. Can you help me out?

Answer: The moisture on the walls is from condensation. If you will put your hands on those walls you will find that they are very cold, compared to the inside walls of the sun porch. Condensation takes place when the damp house air is cooled by contact with them. The only remedy is to cover the walls with something that will not be cold; insulating board, for example, or plaster on lath on furring strips. Condensation will continue as long as those walls remain cold.

Noisy Oil Burner
Question: How can I lessen the noise made by my oil burner? The cellar floor is concrete.

Answer: Your first move should be to have the burner examined by the people who installed it to locate the cause of the noise, which may be worn and loose parts, or something that is set in vibration when the burner is in action. Rubber or cork supports under the burner may reduce the noise. In some cases stiff insulating board on the cellar ceiling will absorb the sound. But this can be determined only when you have learned where the noise originates.

Cold Rooms
Question: Last summer I replaced my furnace with a larger one, but a large hall and an upstairs room are still cold. Heat begins to come when we open the living-room door downstairs. What can you suggest?

Answer: It may be that the cold air return to the furnace is in the living-room, and does not act when the living-room door is closed. You should have the installation inspected by the company that put in the furnace, for it is evident that something is wrong with the layout of the piping. If the company cannot figure out what is wrong get someone who is more expert.

Sticking Zipper
Question: The zippers on my arctic stick so badly that I can hardly move them. Is there any way to loosen them up so that they will run easily? S.O.S.!

Answer: You can loosen up those zippers with graphite. I rubbed powdered graphite on mine, and now they work almost with one finger. If you have no graphite, rub the zippers with the lead of a soft pencil.

Dust-Cloth
Question: How can I make a dustless dust-cloth?

Answer: Soak flannel or thick flannel in a mixture of 2 parts paraffin oil and 1 part turpentine; wring out, and hang up to dry.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Sliced apples browned in bacon fat, slightly sweetened and spiced make a delicious topping for a browned slice of ham.

A serve yourself center piece for the table is a time saver. Gaily decorate a large platter of cold meat, salads and hard cooked eggs, with relishes, buttered bread slices and dabs of jelly or jam.

Pongee must be dry when ironed. It will spot and streak if ironed when damp.

Put a drop or two of oil or some soap on those squeaky door hinges.

Half a teaspoonful of soda added to boiling frosting will keep it from being runny.

To get the best service from felt hats, brush them frequently with a soft brush (not a stiff whisk broom) with the grain of the felt.

If your family likes variety, add a little spice to your piecrusts. A quarter teaspoon each of cinnamon and cloves will be enough for each 1 1/2 cups of flour. It is very good with fresh fruit or berry pies.

MICHIGAN STATE MIRROR NEWS

tradition of the American press, and is of particular value in this emergency."

Likewise, Senator Arthur R. Vandenberg sent commendations for the "splendid arrangements that have been made by Michigan journalism to coordinate its labors in behalf of effective national defense. This is a real public service, and I congratulate all of you upon this fine enterprise."

Secretary Knox Lauds

Secretary of Navy Frank Knox who served as president of the state newspaper association in 1904 while publisher of the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News, wrote:

"I got the same satisfaction out of hearing about the fine cooperation of the Michigan press in our defense program that anyone gets out of hearing about a good job done by the people back home with whom he has lived and worked. I know from first hand experience of the tradition which Michigan newspapers are carrying on today. And I know too, that at no time has there been greater need for such cooperative action on the part of the press than there is today."

Another excerpt: "Democracy depends upon the wide dissemination of information about our national problems and free discussion of the best way to meet and master them."

Knudsen on Reporting

William S. Knudsen, director general of the Office of Emergency Management, put emphasis on "sound, thorough and objective newspapers for their non-partisan stand. He wrote:

"The public depends in large measure upon the press for its understanding of the defense effort. Sound, thorough and objective reporting is of increasing importance in these days of national and international emergency."

"If the people know the facts, they will, as always in a democratic country, arise promptly to the defense of their liberties."

"I hope that the (newspapers) concerted non-partisan effort to perform a vital public service of keeping American citizens better informed of defense activities will serve a san example to its colleague elsewhere."

Michigan Congressmen

Typical of statements received from Michigan representatives to Congress is this comment by Albert J. Engel, Muskegon, congressman from the Michigan ninth district: "The press is on firm ground when it offers to cooperate in the defense program but reserves its constitutional right to print the news compatible with military necessities and to offer constructive criticism of the government's foreign policy and program."

Jesse P. Wolcott, Port Huron congressman, urged Michigan editors to "separate factual matter from pure propaganda", while Clare E. Hoffman, Allegan congressman, admonished the press to "go all out" for national defense and not for intervention."

The newspaper division of the state defense committee, headed by W. S. Gilmore of the Detroit News and Schuyler Marshall of the Clinton County Republican-News at St. Johns, will meet in Lansing Friday night (Oct. 3) to confer with Governor Van Wagoner and officials of the state defense council.

Among the freedoms which we cherish in the United States for preservation of our liberties is freedom of the press.

Without a free press, disseminating the truth as editors and reporters see it and providing a forum for public discussion, our democracy could not survive.

Along with freedom of religion, and freedom of speech, it is a basic guarantee of individual liberty, given to us in the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States, better known as the "bill of rights."

In special tribute to Michigan newspapers which have declared anew their patriotic determination to serve the people with information of national defense, I hereby proclaim October 1 to 8, 1941, to be National Newspaper week in Michigan. Let it be a special commemoration of the constitutional right, enjoyed by every citizen and safeguarded by our newspapers, of freedom of the press.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, Governor National Newspaperboy Day will be observed on Saturday Oct. 4, 1941, at which time the newspapers of America will honor the youths who deliver the nation's daily and weekly papers.
