BASKET BALL LEADS IN POPULARITY

Of all high school sports, basketball leads in popularity. There are 740 schools in the state having basketball teams with about 1,000 boys and girls competing. Baseball is next with 600 schools and 10,000 students competing. Football is third with 425 schools participating and 14,000 boys. 350 schools have track, 250 tennis, 150 golf, 50 swimming and 35 cross country.

These figures were released by Charles E. Forsythe, state director of athletics.

COURT SESSION THIS WEEK

Judge Collins will return to Howell on November 14, Friday, and hear the suit of William and Sarah Cooper vs Louis Fink. Both plaintiffs and defendant are Putnam residents. The Coopers own the mortgage on the Fink farm, better known as the Patrick Kennedy or Martin Harris farm. They seek to restrain Fink from selling wood and timber from the farm. Joe P. Gates is attorney for the plaintiffs and Don VanWinkle for Mr. Fink.

MRS. SUSANAH SANDS

Mrs. Susanah Sands, 74, died this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Dick Belz, in Pinckney after a short illness. She was the widow of the late John Sands who died seven years ago. Her home was in Warrenton, Ohio until a few weeks ago when she came to stay with her daughter. Mrs. Belz and a grandnephew, Thomas, are the sole surviving immediate relatives.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Deer Hunters Go North

The Usual Regiment of Deer Hunters From This Locality Prepare For Their Trek North

Pinckney, for its size, probably sends more hunters to the north every year than any other locality in Michigan, and in the past they have always managed to get their share of deer.

The largest number from here go to the Miller-Livermore log cabin at Douglas Lake: Those who leave this week and next for this place are Russell Livermore and son, John, several others from Dexter Friday Haines, Cliff Miller, Bill Baughn, L. J. Swarthout, Clare Miller, W. C. Miller, John Croupe and Norman Miller if he gets back from the army in time. Two years ago this bunch got seven deer.

George Meabon Jr. and sons, Marshall and Leon and Harold Farley will hunt in Roscommon county. Don Swarthout and Victor Bourbonnais will also go to Roscommon and also Henry and James Shirey Jr.

W. H. Meyer and son, Edsil, will hunt around Alpena and Hillman. Clare Swarthout and the Harris Bros. will go to Lovells.

Arthur Flintoft will go with a party from around Whitmore Lake to Drummond Island, where he is part owner of a camp.

Frank Brenningstall and three sons will hunt near West Branch.

Lynn Hendee and son Gail, and Orville Smith and son, Charles, Mar'ion Shirey and Wm. Loll go to Lovells.

Edward Parker will hunt in Roscommon county.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wm. Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Clare Swarthout will hunt at Lovells.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Swarthout and Mr. and Mrs. Merwin Fox will hunt at Lovells.

Others who will go but have not decided where are Reg Schaefer, Louis Wagoner, Erdley VanSickie, Stanley Dinkel and Edward Spears.

DO NOT HAVE THE POWER

Attorney General Rushton has handed down a ruling to the effect that township boards have no power to ban Sunday hunting. The legislature, he added, has enacted laws to regulate and control hunting and on the method to ban Sunday hunting. It has not conferred that right on any township.

"NAVY TRADE TRAINING GAVE ME MY START" SAYS PRESIDENT, SPERRY CORPORATION

THOMAS A. MORGAN (pictured in insert), president of the Sperry Corporation, world's largest manufacturers of aeronautical and marine instruments, received his early technical training in the U. S. Navy, in which he enlisted as a young man. "This has proved of great value to me in later years," said ex-sailor Morgan. Pictured above are new Navy recruits receiving electrical training at one Opportunities for advancement, to learn skilled trades, for travel and adventure are identical whether a man enlists in the regular Navy or the Naval Reserve—and his pay, food, clothing, medical and dental care are the same.

Pinckney Wins 6 Out of 8

Defeats Dexter There Friday to End One of Its Most Successful Seasons in Years

Pinckney won from Dexter there Friday on a rain-soaked field by a score of 7 to 0. The two teams evenly matched and the game was scoreless at half with Pinckney having a slight advantage as they kept the ball in Dexter territory. Pinckney reached the 35 yard line once but lost the ball on downs they tried only three plays and their gains were not big enough to score.

In the third quarter, both teams saw-sawed awhile and then Pinckney got a break. Hollis Swarthout blocked a Dexter punt on the 20 yard yard line and Duke VanBlaricum recovered for Pinckney. Line plays got Pinckney a first down and Reynolds caught a pass to the five yard line. Palmer went through tackle for a touchdown and then passed to Reynolds for the extra point.

In the last quarter Pinckney recovered a Dexter fumble and reached the 20 yard line again but lost the ball on downs. Then Dexter began a march and made three first downs in succession and the game ended with the ball on the Pinckney 20 yard line.

The game was cleanly played and there was little argument. It was not overly exciting as Pinckney showed little fighting spirit and strove mainly to protect their slender lead by which they won. The wet field undoubtedly had much to do with this.

Voters to Pass on Laws Recently Rejected by the Legislature, New Tax Levies to Hit All

Petitions to initiate an anti-branch banking law are being circulated this week throughout Michigan.

It portends a renewal of the legislative battle climaxed in 1941 when Governor Van Wagoner vetoed the branch bank bill and legislators retaliated with a 90-day recess.

According to the state law on initiative legislation, the voters themselves will have an opportunity to enact the bill if the legislators fail to act. The referendum is automatically invoked by negative action of the legislature, and thus the people themselves would have the last word in this controversy.

In this tug-of-war the battle lines are between urban and rural banks. Earl W. Delano, of Allegan, president of the Michigan Bankers' association, explains that the proposed law would prohibit branch banks outside the county in which the parent bank is located. This provision would prevent extension of branch banking, such as through the Michigan National Bank with branches in large cities such as Lansing and Battle Creek.

Reapportionment

Another issue between upstate and metropolitan interests appears to be headed for a showdown in the 1943 legislature in the revived demand for reapportionment.

Here is a case where the state constitution, stipulating how many legislators shall serve each area according to its population, is being conveniently ignored due to the rural fears of urban domination.

George R. Averill, Birmingham newspaper editor, points out that 27 per cent of Michigan's population actually elect a majority of the 100 state representatives and 32 state senators. Averill heads a steering committee to seek constitutional enforcement.

Ben Probe of Detroit, representing the Michigan Council of the C.I.O., said farmers had no reason to be apprehensive over organized labor. He said that "labor has learned its lesson" from the Lansing labor holiday, sit-down strikes and other events, and that "the

THE FOOTBALL TEAM

The Pinckney high school football team closed one of its most successful seasons in a number of years at Dexter Friday when they won from that team, 7 to 0. The team's record for the season is 6 victories and 2 defeats, the best in a number of years.

The seasons record is as follows:
Pinckney 7 New Hudson 6
Pinckney 12 Hartland 6
Pinckney 7 New Hudson 0
Pinckney 13 South Lyon 0
Pinckney 0 Stockbridge 26
Pinckney 6 A. A. Reserves 38
Pinckney 20 Hartland 7
Pinckney 7 Dexter 0

This gives Pinckney 72 points and their opponents 76. However, 61 of these points were scored against them by Ann Arbor and Stockbridge.

Pinckney started the season with Kuhn doing most of the ball carrying. In the Stockbridge game he injured his ankle and was out for the balance of the season. Palmer replaced him at quarterback and carried on very well in his place. The point scorers for the season are as follows:

- William Kuhn 27
- Herbert Palmer 19
- Levi Ludtke 12
- Paul Young 12
- Max Reynolds 2

Graduation will hit the team hard as the three Gregory boys who have performed so well for the team are all seniors. They are Kuhn Ludtke and Young. So is Max Reynolds and also Lawrence Baughn a tackle, is a senior. However Hollis Swarthout, Van Blaricum and Melnik, Palmer, Plummer, and Reid should form the nucleus of a good team and with the reserve players Lamb, Meyer, Vito, Green, Haines, Griffith, Singer, Doolittle, Carver and others will have another years growth by that time and should be ripe for steady duty.

COMMENT

The election next November will probably contain at least three amendments to be voted upon by the voters. All the laws which the legislature has failed to pass in previous sessions. These amendments, according to announcements are the bill to reapportion the legislative and senatorial districts, the bill prohibiting branch banking and the bill providing for a milk marketing commission to determine the price of milk. One might ask why the necessity of a legislature if their duties can be performed via the amendment route. The answer is that while hundreds of bills are introduced at a legislative session, never over five or six are placed on the ballot for enactment and as a rule these amendment laws are bills which, for some reason or other, the legislature has persistently turned thumbs down on.

Others than the fair sex seem to be teekish about revealing their right ages. A total of 182 Detroit policemen are found to have given wrong ages in order to join the Detroit police force. Many of them have been in the force for years. Commissioner Eaman has stated that they will be reprimanded but allowed to hold their jobs. The same thing has happened during all the wars this country has been engaged in. Many of the soldiers of the civil war enlisted when they were 16, giving their ages as 18, and the same thing happened at the Spanish and World war time. Many also give wrong ages in order to get jobs in factories and in getting marriage licenses. This had repercussions the past year and caused a number to be listed as draft evaders until investigation revealed that they had falsified their ages.

The Anti-Saloon League discouraged by their failure to carry any local option elections the past year has announced that it will attempt no more the coming spring but will devote its efforts to abolishing the sale of liquor on Sunday. It has dropped the name of Anti-Saloon League and is now called the Michigan Temperance Foundation. E. C. Pettyman is superintendent.

An incident with sinister aspects seems to have happened at Port Huron. There Supt. Packard of the schools was found to have embezzled some $6000. However, the board voted to dismiss all charges against him on promises of restitution. Later, Packard was arrested on a criminal charge, pled guilty and was placed on probation for 2 years. This did not satisfy and a petition was circulated which received 500 signatures asking for a grand jury investigation of city and school matter. Judge Denke of Harrisville was sent in to conduct it and after investigation has ruled against the petitioner, and denied their request, stating no evidence to warrant one has been presented. Judge Denke is well thought of among the legal fraternity but his action is sure to leave a bad taste in the mouths of the people.

Brig. Gen. Lewis Hershey, national selective service chief, states that the draft boards will have to quit exempting so many men or the draft age will have to be lowered to 18 years. In many counties the draft boards have completed their work and no more class 1A candidates are available. In Livingston county there are only about 50 men left and with 42 called for December and January the list will be about exhausted. If the present defence plan is to be followed and there is little chance that it will not be, some such system must be adopted in order to obtain enough men.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK—We are quite certain that there is a chipping sparrow out our way which didn't stand still long enough to be counted, but at any rate Stuffed Bird Cuts rate Roger Peterson's Count Tory Peterson's national bird count of 5,750,000,000 receives respectful, even admiring attention, and no challenges or quibbles about it.

Concurrently the National Audubon society, of which Mr. Peterson is educational director, begins a drive for the protection of birds and other wild life in defense areas. At the age of 26, Mr. Peterson proved that bird lore can be made to yield a lot more than mere bird seed. That was in 1934, when he published his book, "Field Guide to the Birds." As bird books go it was a best-seller, warmly praised not only by the somewhat esoteric cult of bird-fanciers, but by a much wider public, which appreciated its clarity and simplicity. There came other editions and then his "Field Guide to Birds of the West," and his "Junior Book of Birds," of 1939. All in all, Mr. Peterson's books and magazine articles were so successful that he has had plenty of time to count birds—even five billions of them.

He not only writes but illustrates his books, having emerged from the New York Art Students' league as a highly qualified decorative artist. He is known as the best American authority on field identification of birds.

Mr. Peterson had an adventure at the convention of the society at Cape May last year, which, so far as we can learn, was not picked up by the news hawks at the time. It seems a group of ornithologists, Peterson included, got up at 4:30 to clock a scheduled hawk migration. It didn't come off and all were downhearted until a rumor got around that a black-necked stilt had been seen near the lighthouse pond. There had been no stilt in this section since 1870.

The party set out for the spot. Finally far across the pond, inaccessible to any dry land approach, the bird was sighted. Mr. Peterson said it would be necessary to approach as near as possible, disturb the bird, and then observe its flight carefully. He and William Fish volunteered to brave the mud and cold. They waded in, and at times were up to their armpits in slimy mud. Finally Peterson waded his arms at the stilt. It didn't move. Approaching nearer, they discovered it was as stiff as a plank.

The convention finally ran down the story. The National Academy of Sciences at Philadelphia had had a housecleaning and heaved out a lot of stuffed birds. Some rival bird fans of the Delaware valley had retrieved the stilt and set it up across the pond.

UP IN Maine, on last summer's holiday, this writer talked with an old road-side philosopher who was concerned with problems arising from lengthening life-span in England.

Prof. Perry Boldly Trumpets an 'Old New England Movement'

"They don't do much dyn' up here," he said. "Down at West Newton, they had to shoot an old feller, just to start a graveyard."
Professor Ralph Barton Perry, of the faculty of philosophy of Harvard university, is similarly concerned about old age, but for a different reason. In a brilliant essay in a recent issue of the Princeton Alumni Weekly, he rallies the oldsters against being "hustled around by their juniors in politics; he notes the capitulation of wise old age to bumptious youth, and challenges Rabbi Ben Ezra by insisting that there's no use growing old with him, or anybody else, if old-age is to be merely a tolerated short-ender in the life sweepstakes. "The most striking evidence of the downfall of the aged," writes Professor Perry, "is to be found in the domestic circle."

"The authority of the father was first broken by the mother, and the children poured through the breach. The last remnant of paternal authority was the period in which the father was an ogre, who came home at the end of the day to deal with major offenses. He was no longer magistrate, only executioner. "But even this role disappeared when domestic criminology was modernized and the child's insubordination was regarded as a personality problem, to be solved by love, hygiene and psychoanalysis."

Agriculture Has a Role In Post-War Planning

Government Gives Serious Consideration to Problems of the Farmer When 'Reconstruction' Period Begins.

By BAUKHAGE
National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

The people of the United States, through their representatives in Washington, have just begun spending another six billion dollars for tanks, guns, shells, and ships. When these products are used up for the purpose for which they are produced, what will the world have to show for it? Just what the farmer has when he is done fighting a blitz of grasshoppers, beetles or other varmints—a lot of ruined property and a lot of dead things to bury, burn, or plow under—the result of wholesale destruction.

But along with all this spending to kill and destroy, the nation is also planning to build and create. Currently thousands of Americans are gathering in state capitals, county seats and rural communities to talk over some brass-tack ideas for reconstruction after destruction. Post-war planning, it's called.

"We visualize a post-war world," says Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, "in which we will make full use of our manpower and our resources for the benefit of the American people."

That's a nice visualization. What's being done to make the vision real? The National Resources Planning board in Washington is centralizing post-defense planning efforts, not only of the federal government but of the country as a whole. In September Secretary Wickard set up an inter-bureau committee in the department of agriculture on post-defense problems to help work out some of these plans. The committee has three jobs:

1. Keeping in touch with and making what contribution it can to the developments that affect the national economy as a whole.
2. Developing rural works programs in the capital improvement field. (That means improving the farmer's "plant.")
3. Developing publicly sponsored programs of rural welfare ("services").

Mediums of Action
How does this committee get action? Through state and local land-use planning committees already set up, with the co-operation of department field representatives. These are state committees, county committees and committees of neighborhood groups. The latter are made up of farmers; the others are mixed farmers and federal and state officials.

What are the general problems the American farmer has to face in the post-war world as the department of agriculture sees them today?

First, there is likely to be a great demand for foodstuffs as the United States feeds a starving Europe after the war. Secondly, there will be an effect on the domestic market when military service and defense work ends, for the farmer's income swells and shrinks in direct proportion to the size of the employee's pay envelope. Of course, every effort will be made to create jobs on public works projects while industry is changing over from defense to civilian production. But it is freely admitted that the tremendous defense effort in the industrial world cannot be duplicated by "made" work. Therefore, the emphasis in planning is to be placed on jobs that will produce jobs, and agriculture must expand to carry its share of the effort, say the planners.

Rural Works' Program
The first job which the department of agriculture is concerned with right now under "capital improvement" is a rural works program which will provide work in rural areas to improve the farmer's physical plant. And that is what the committees are now considering—"rural housing." When these committees have studied the question and given their suggestions, they will be reported back to the inter-bureau committee and the department will build its policy under the influence of these suggestions. Then the department will report to the National Resources Planning board which in turn will submit its program to congress whose duty it is to carry out the wishes of the people. Thus the democratic cycle is completed.

Many of the suggestions which the inter-bureau committee is throwing out for consideration are not new. Under the head of improving the farm plant, and back of it the resources on which the plant has to draw—are the well-known activities in soil conservation, flood control, water development. Many of these activities are now being carried on but, says Secretary Wickard, "not on a scale commensurate with the need."
These are the things that can be done. The defense effort has demonstrated here, as it has in England, that the United States has today a potential national income much greater than ever achieved before. It is stimulated by the forced creation of destructive products. There is no reason why the resources of this vast and rich nation cannot be utilized to create just as large an income derived from constructive endeavor whose benefits can be shared by all.
If it is not, then we servants of democracy have buried our talents and we may as well get ready to be banished, along with another certain "wicked and slothful servant," into outer darkness where, it is said on excellent authority, there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

Attic Ventilation
A HOME owner has just written me of having had his old shingle roof covered with prepared shingles. He expected that the greater thickness of the roof would make his attic cooler, and he was much troubled to find that the attic was much hotter with the added roof thickness than it had been before. The reason was in the greater tightness of the new roof. The old wood shingle roof was probably none too tight, and air could circulate through it. This circulation carried off heated air in the attic, and air circulation in an attic is, of course, one of the best methods for keeping an attic cool. The new roof shut off this circulation, so that heated air could not escape. One good move would be to put louvers in the attic walk, as high up toward the peak of the roof as possible. My own attic has three peaks, and a year or two ago I put a louver high up in each one; a kind that has slanting slats to keep out rain, and protected with insect screening. These stay open all summer. They can be closed in winter by hinged doors. If the owner who wrote me would do something of the sort in his own attic I am sure that his difficulty would be overcome.

Old Floor Finish
Question: During the years, the floors of our school have accumulated a thick coating of dirt, oil, seals, wax, etc., that we now wish to remove. A floor machine would cut off too much wood. Would some chemical do the job without injuring the wood, which is maple? As we have found floor finishes to be unsatisfactory, we are inclined to use the floor bare. What do you think?
Answer: If your floors have never been scraped, one scraping with a sanding machine should not weaken them, and would be the best treatment. At a hardware store you can get an alkali paint remover and floor cleaner that will take off all the old finish. I would not recommend bare wood for such use. You can get excellent results with shellac when properly used. Shellac should be pure and of top quality and should not be more than six months old. Age can be told by a date or a code mark on the label. Thin it with good quality denatured alcohol in the proportion of 2 parts of alcohol to 3 parts of shellac. Apply in two coats to bare wood; it will penetrate and the final finish will be hard and resistant.

Casement Windows
Question: Will you tell me if casement windows are practical? Are they better than the wood frame type, which have weatherstrips?
Answer: Casement windows are made in steel or wood. One advantage of a casement type of window is that it may be opened to the full extent of its area, which may be particularly desirable in the summer. A possible disadvantage of a window of this kind may have in the winter is that it may be difficult to open a small enough area for ventilation during very cold weather. Otherwise, there is no particular advantage or disadvantage in either types of windows. All of them can be weatherstripped. For certain architectural effects it may be more desirable to use a casement than a double hung window.

Basement Wall Finish
Question: Some time ago you spoke of a finish containing salt, used for basement walls. Would this be suitable for the walls of a basement apartment, which sometimes are damp?
Answer: You probably refer to the use of salt in whitewash, by which ordinary whitewash is improved and made less likely to rub. Use 15 pounds of salt to 50 pounds of lime for a basement apartment, especially with damp walls, this would not be suitable. It would be much better to remove all present finish and to apply cement paint, which is intended for masonry, and resists dampness. It can be had in white and in colors.

Refinishing Furniture
Question: I have an old birdseye maple dresser and chest of drawers that I should like to refinish in pale green enamel. How?
Answer: Go over the surfaces first with medium coarse sandpaper wrapped around a block of wood, and then with fine sandpaper. With all of the gloss thus removed, and the surface smoothed, put on one or two coats of enamel undercoater, and follow with a finish coat of enamel. The undercoater and the enamel should be made by the same manufacturer. If the present finish is chipped and marred, take it all off to the barewood with a varnish remover. Directions on the label should be carefully followed.

CONGREGATIONAL NOTES

Albert Einstein, the great scientist, made the following statement after the rise of Hitler in Germany: "Being a lover of freedom, when revolution came to Germany I looked to the universities to defend it, knowing that they had always boasted of their devotion to the cause of truth; but, no, the universities immediately were silenced. Then I looked to the great editors of the great papers, whose flaming editorials in days gone by had proclaimed their love of freedom; but they, like the universities, were silenced in a few short weeks. Then I looked to the individual writers who as literary guides of Germany, had written much and often concerning the place of freedom in modern life; but they, too, were mute. Only the church stood squarely across the path of Hitler's program for suppressing the truth. I never had any special interest in the church before, but now I feel a great affection and admiration because the church alone has had the courage and persistence to stand for intellectual truth and moral and spiritual freedom."

In this statement Mr. Einstein gives the world a picture of the Christian church that work to defend and maintain freedom of thought, which is the basis of democracy. Something to think about indeed. The Christian church is 'America's first line of defense'; all other institutions are secondary. What are you doing to assist the church in preserving Democracy, that which all true Americans hold near and dear?

We invite you to worship with us. The church needs you and you need the church. Ask yourself this question, "What kind of a church would this church be, if everyone were just like me?" PHILATHEA NOTES

This is the week for the class Missionary meeting at Mrs. W. C. Hendee's as noted in our last issue.

The familiar lesson of last Sunday. "The Prodigal Son" will be followed next Sunday by the equally well-remembered passage concerning the vine and the branches with the topic, "Union with Christ". John 15:1-10. Golden Text "Abide in me and I in you." John 15:4.

THIS LITTLE MOTOR DOES

THREE BIG JOBS

"SINCE I bought this 1/2 hp hammer mill in April 1937, I have ground more than 200 tons of grain fine enough for chickens and pigs.

"Grain is dumped into the large hopper on the barn floor, and it runs down the grain spout to the grinder in the basement. Each day I just turn on the grinder and let it run long enough to fill the feed box.

"This same motor runs my corn sheller and a tool grinder. I don't have to move anything: Just put the belt on the pulleys and it's ready to go. It has paid for itself many times over in savings on feed grinding bills, and it saves me the labor of handling the grain over again.

"I don't see how any farmer can afford to be without one of these small hammer mills."

MICHIGAN STATE MIRROR NEWS

farmer need not fear labor." From Patrick MacNamara, representing the Detroit and Wayne county A.F. of L., came a flat assertion that labor would get "tough" if necessary. "If it requires mob scenes to get the reapportionment, let's give them mob scenes," he is quoted by the Associated Press.

From present signs, the reapportionment issue is already involved in labor vs. farm prejudices, overshadowing the basic issue of constitutional representation.

Special Session?
As financial worries began to multiply at Lansing, suggestions are being made again that the state legislature be summoned to meet in special session early in 1942.

Three state agencies are over-running their budgets:

1. Labor mediation board, upon which is being placed the burden of peaceful settlement of numerous disagreements between labor and management. When the load is light, the mediation board easily lives within its budgeted appropriation. However, Michigan's labor troubles continue to be very numerous, and the board is due to incur a deficit, according to Leo J. Nowicki, state budget director.

2. State council of defense, Michigan's own clearing house for all national defense activities. The council was running well within its budget until the priority bottleneck developed and immediate relief became imperative from Washington in the form of national defense contracts. This resulted in the council's employment of Varnum Steinbaugh as its Washington liaison man at an estimated cost, salary and expenses, of around $15,000 a year, or one-third of the council's entire budget for a year.

Here again, according to the governor's office, is a case of an unforeseen emergency that defied immediate action in the interest of the entire state. But it created a financial deficit on paper.

3. Michigan military establishments, including the newly formed home guard. Obviously, this is another case of a defense need.

Little Legislature
The state administrative board, however, was given an annual appropriation of $500,000 for emergency needs.

Budget Director Nowicki is confident that the above three agencies can be financed adequately from this contingency fund.

The annoying problem is how to finance increased salaries which the state civil service commission have ordered after the legislators fixed appropriations on the basis of lower pay scale.

The question is to be held over until January when state officials and legislative leaders will meet to review the situation and map out plans for meeting 1942 needs.

Payroll Taxes
Of main concern to both management and labor are the new tax proposals of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. Besides stepping up income taxes to yield 15 per cent on taxable income, the program would double the present old age annuity payroll tax on both employees and employers and impose a one per cent payroll tax on employees for unemployment compensation for which management is already paying three per cent.

Michigan's state compensation law would create individual reserve accounts effective Jan. 1, 1942, based on employment experience of the past three years.

Employers whose employment conditions are stable would save up, ward to $25,000,000 a year under the Michigan law. A legislative commission is now studying possible changes which could be made a subject of consideration of a special session of lawmakers. Labor desires more compensation, more weeks; employers desire relief from burdensome taxes when individual unemployment load is light.

Because of pressure for action on branch banking, reapportionment finances and unemployment compensation, the special session talk persists. Yet it is predicted that the governor will seek to avoid involvement in a 1942 legislative battle if he possible can. After all, he will be the Democratic nominee for reelection.

Ocean Their Mail Box

Because St. Kilda, an island off Scotland, was inaccessible most of the year, its citizens, before their evacuation about a decade ago, used to "post" their letters in wooden bags and toss them into the ocean. Some were picked up by ships, others were carried by a current 500 miles across the North sea to the coast of Norway, where they were found and their contents mailed.

When the shopping list is long, and the purse none too full, cigarettes and smoking tobacco come to the front as ideal gifts for the holiday season. The welcome they get from any smoker is all out of proportion to their modest cost. That's why Camel—America's favorite cigarette, and Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco—the National Joy Smoke—rank as leading gifts on the Christmas shopping lists. Dealers are featuring the Camel carton—ten packs of "20's"—and a novel Camel package of four "flat fifties," also Prince Albert in the pound tin and the pound glass humidor—all specially gift packaged.—Adv.

Rayon Fabric Patterns Show New Emphasis on Originality

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

NO LONGER are fine fabrics the exclusive property of the few people who can disregard cost. There's luxury for everybody these days, because of the advancement of rayon as a textile fiber during the last few years. Rayon has made possible the reproduction of all the magnificence of traditional quality cloths at prices well within the reach of modest budgets.

To the evening wear field, where luxury has always been the keynote, are contributed gorgeous fabrics worked with all the lavishness and richness the feminine heart could ask. Exquisite, for evening, is crisp rayon taffeta in enchanting colors and new effects. Such novel taffeta finishes as gleaming satin stripes, metal stripes and striking plaid effects with metal stripes and unusual color designs are seen in stunning bouffant gowns like the model pictured in the foreground of our illustration.

Beautifully adapted to the fluid molded lines of the current evening season, sleek rayon jersey brings its lovely draping quality to sophisticated dinner and evening inspirations. Jewel-toned rayon jersey falls in sleek gleaming folds for the skirt and wide bishop sleeves of the glamorous dinner gown centered in this group.

The vogue for street-length informal dinner gowns has inspired the long-torso style which combines a rich black rayon crepe skirt with a smartly contrasting shaded rayon and metal striped bodice, as shown to the right. The long sleeves and low V-neck of the bodice are excellent fashion points, as is the graceful all-round pleated skirt.

Indispensable in the dinner and evening wardrobe are the rayon crepe frocks. Lovely versatile types, such as matelasse patternings, tree-bark effects and mossy finishes give pleasing variety. The exquisite grace of line expressed in the slender tiered frock to the left in the group interprets the beautiful draping qualities of mossy rayon crepe. In this instance the crepe is in a dusty rose, with the refined brilliance of cut steel at the draped neckline.

Large Patch Pockets

Extend the 'New Look'

Dresses and suits are very pocket-conscious this fall. Four seems to be the magic number for pockets and sometimes six—four on the long-torso jacket, distributed in two breast pockets and two hip pockets, with the skirt sporting two pockets on its own account.

Ingenious pocket arrangements are also expressed in connection with peplum flares: There are separate stole scarf affairs made to wear with practical daytime dresses that are finished off at each end with huge pockets. They have zip fastenings, all very practical and usable.

Tip to Toe—You'll

Be Wearing One Color

The latest turn of fashion is to carry out the costume ensemble in one color from head to foot. Very handsome indeed is an outfit that created quite a sensation in the grandstand parade at one of the important games this fall. This stunning ensemble, done in the new gold tone so smartly in fashion, included a fleece boxy topper, a perfectly matched handknit two-piece dress and a turban. Costumes all in the widely heralded "black plum" are also outstanding in the autumn-winter collections. Brown and topaz colors are also very effective developed in single tones throughout.

Bangle Bracelets

Young girls are going in for a new hobby. It is the collection of bangles for their bracelets which are for the most part in silver. You can buy cunning little trinkets galore at the jewelry counters, and a most thriving business is going on in their sale. However, it makes it far more interesting to add the personal touch of dropping a hint to dotting relatives and friends that you would rather have a bangle to add to your collection than any other gift they could make to you.

Ostrich Trim

The much-beloved little pillbox hat is taking on new glory this season. Picturesque ostrich goes trailing down one side over the hair in a glamorous "portrait of a lady" manner. The huge profile berets are also dramatically ostrich-adorned.

Be Lovelier

"Only the brave deserve the fair"—and "only the fair deserve the brave." In these times when men are so occupied with defense, women and girls can maintain national morale only if they look their best. Just as soldiers, sailors and marines are required to keep their uniforms neat, to shave every day, to keep their nails in order, and to have good haircuts, so should women be especially careful of their clothes, their complexions, their hands and hair. The selection of stylish, becoming dresses and the use of cold cream, powder, lipstick and nail polish and attention to the hair are more important than ever before. Here is a lovely New York creation that carries out the trend of "dressier dresses" and feminine elegance with its smooth, slenderizing pockets and antique filigree gift buttons.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

cially successful as it offers the new longer top, with darts fitting it smoothly through the waistline. There are three buttons closing the top and four patch pockets.

This new length jacket fits well down over the hips and the skirt follows a gently flaring line below. It's a frock to make now in plaid wools, it will be suit-like in gabardine or corduroy, especially when worn with the crisp white dickey.

Meditations on devotions to the suffering souls, for which this month is dedicated, teaches us that God is just. He demands works of penance for our sins. He will reward these works. "For God is not unjust that He should forget your work, and the love which you have shown in His name." (St. Paul to the Hebrews 6:10.) God forgives those who turn to Him (St. Zacharias 1:3). A man may lead a life of sin and crime, yet in his last hour he may turn to God and be saved. It would not seem just for God to take this man straight to Heaven together with another who has spent a long life of penance and good works. The sinner must suffer for his sins. He must wipe out the temporal punishment due to them. If the sinner does not do penance in this world he shall pay the price in purgatory. Justice demands that it should be so. Every man's works shall be manifested. says the Apostle, St. Paul, to the Corinthians 3:13-15, "for the day of the Lord shall declare it, because it shall be revealed in fire; and the fire shall try every man's work, of what sort it is. If any man's work abide, which he has built thereupon he shall receive a reward. If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss; but he, himself, shall be saved yet so by fire." Again in St. Mathew 12:36, we read, "But I say unto you, that every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account for it on the day of judgement." Now, God could not condemn the just man to Hell for one slight sin. He could not cast one into eternal perdition for some little offense. He could not impose the sentence of everlasting damnation on us for an idle word. Yet, we must render an account for these slight faults on the day of judgements. We can not enter into Heaven with even this slight taint upon our soul. Heaven is intended for those alone who are spotless. The Apocalypse of St. John 21-27 we read, "There shall not enter into it anything defiled." Hence, no one entering Heaven with the slightest stain upon the soul, there remains purgatory where he may atone for slight transgressions or the unpaid penalty of sin. Reason demands that there be a place or state in which men who serve God may be cleansed from their slight transgressions. St. Matthew 12:32 has certain definite references to certain sins which will not be forgiven in Heaven or Hell. "He that shall speak against the Holy Ghost," says Christ, "It shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world or the world to come." Other atoning of slight transgressions he refers to may be wiped out or forgiven in Purgatory.

Word was received of the marriage last Saturday in Detroit at the church of the Nativity of Our Lord of the former local girl Miss Zita Thompson, formerly of this parish, to Leonard Brown, of Detroit, formerly of Manitoba, Canada. The marriage ceremony was attested by the Rev. Father Merwin Lenk, assistant pastor of said church.

Among those who recently visited here were Miss Virginia Stringham and brother, Walter, and an associate worker from Battle Creek. The Stringham children were formerly residents here. They are now employed in Battle Creek.

Our neighbor, Rev. Father F. X. O'Riordan of St. Patrick's of North field, is reported to be regaining strength after a severe accident. The report of the X-Rays the past week show that the fractures are making progress. It will be several months before the casts will be removed. Father is most appreciative of your prayers for his welfare. Your prayers are also requested for the intentions of two devoted sisters of the Pastor's, whose anniversaries occurred this week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hulce and son, Larry, spent the week end in Chelsea.
