Mich. Mirror State News

Items of State and National News Briefly Given.

Michigan continues to hold the national spotlight in today's home front battle against inflation.

First it was Prentis M. Brown who sponsored the price fixing bill for the Administration while he was a member of the United States Senate. Brown is an able man, and his rise to leadership is proof of his talents. But when he ran for re-election, he was defeated by Michigan farmers.

Then Brown became the nation's price administrator. Fixing and controlling prices when the national income is almost twice the value of all available merchandise is tough job, its very best. Brown knew it. He said "No" to the President repeatedly until he finally submitted to the appointment on the war-time responsibility of obeying our commander-in-chief. And with the aid of selective subsidies, he was moderately successful in holding the line for three or four months and thus keeping the cost of living from further rises of the inflation spiral.

In the meanwhile, the Michigan farm revolt which resulted in Brown's defeat at the 1942 polls has continued and in fact has actually increased in intensity. The gap between the farmer and the worker has widened. This is interesting for a state which has received a greater percentage of government war contracts than any other state in the nation. It merely reflects the extreme difficulty which Gov. Kelly experiences in trying to deal with both farm and labor groups on matters of this kind. The milk situation was a recent illustration.

Also to illustrate how complex this inflation problem has become, the action of the House at Washington in defeating food subsidies is being interpreted by competent observers there as a coalition protest by southern Democrats and northern Republicans against a Fourth Term. And there you have the emotional situation of politics eclipsing economics.

Responsibility for the partisan vote can be argued indefinitely, like which came first, the chicken or the egg? The farmers' revolt based chiefly on a belief of economic inequality has become a congressional revolt on 1944 political issues. That food subsidies are inflationary to the degree

CURRENT COMMENT

By Ye Editor

President Roosevelt has now made his fifth trip outside the US since he became president giving him a total of 300,000 miles by land and air in the past 11 years. His latest trip is to North Africa where he conferred with Premier Churchill of England and Premier Chiang of China and to Iran where he conferred with Premier Churchill and Joe Stalin of Russia. Not much news has been given out of the Iran conference but in North Africa a definite set of Articles relating to Japan were worked out. In these Japan is to be stripped of all possessions and forced back to the small island of Japan from whence she came. As this can not be brought to pass in a day or so it can be seen that the war, especially the one with Japan has an indefinite period to run and even after victory is won there will be many problems to be worked out and it will require a large standing army and navy for many years to guarantee the world's peace.

Secretary of State Hull has denounced the peace rumors as German propaganda and says no peace will be possible until Germany has been crushed. The rumors were that the German army was willing to discard Hitler, put another figure head in his place and make peace with the Allies, providing the Allies would agree not to invade Germany. This is practically what happened at the end of World War I when Germany lost the war but won the peace. The isolationists and their press supporters who have always had a warm spot in their hearts for Germany eagerly seized upon these rumors to incite the false hopes of the people for the early return of their boys and the end of bloodshed in Europe. If this Nazi propaganda had not been refuted the Germans might have been able to put over their false peace bluff which they could prepare for World War III.

The county seat paper recently copied an editorial from another paper in which both old pensions and social security were derided on the grounds both tended to destroy initiative among the people and gave them no incentive to save money enough to tide them over in old age when they knew that they would be taken care of anyway by that state and nation in the form of old age pensions and social security. In other words the writer longed for the days of rugged individualism in which the strong round the weak into the dirt and the ultimate end of old age was the poor house, often times through no fault of their own. However we think the efforts of the writer of the article are as vain as those of the King of England who tried to sweep the ocean back with a broom. Old age pensions and social security are on the books to stay and was unto any one who tries to nullify them.

In order to prevent the sale of liquor to minors which has become widespread the state will issue liquor identification cards to all persons between the ages of 21 and 28 years of age. County Clerks will start issuing them about Dec. 15. The cards will be about 4 inches in size and contain a small photograph of the registrant together with his name and age. height etc. In order to buy liquor it will be necessary to show the card.

The shades of Lou Dockstader, George Primrose, Herb Thatcher, Billy West and L. G. Fields must have chuckled Friday night when the Kings Daughters put on their minstrel show at the high school. This form of entertainment which flourished in this country for years and reached its heyday in the gay nineties has languished in late years due to competition of motion pictures. The names mentioned above were all big timers and played the largest cities here and in Europe. We should like to see some local organizations attempt a revival of that famous old American classic, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" for at this present time there are few groups here below the age of 20 years who have witnessed Harriet Beecher Stowe's master piece.

THE FORGOTTEN LIGHT

There it shines, a forgotten porch light burning all night long at someone's door.
In normal times your porch light is a real convenience: It helps callers find your house number, it discourages prowlers, and it reduces accidents from falls on dark steps. The cost is only two or three cents a week—for electricity is cheap.

Today our country is at war . . . and that light burning needlessly is a serious matter, especially when it burns all night.
It uses vital coal and manpower and transportation. And today our Government is asking for the most careful saving of these critical resources. It is asking you to save VOLUNTARILY.

Remember that electricity is a WAR MATERIAL, even though it is cheap and unrationed. There is no shortage of facilities for making electricity. But thousands of tons of coal per day are required for its manufacture in Edison power plants.
Use it as carefully as you would rubber or gasoline or other critical resources.
Power saved at home means more power for the fighting fronts. The Detroit Edison Company.

"No, this is not O'Toolé's Garage!"

POOR LADY! This morning she got a call for Ben's Men's Haberdashery. And yesterday one for Larry's Bowling Alley. Judging from the piece of her mind she gave the last caller, her peace of mind is definitely disturbed. Unfortunately, mix-ups like these are bound to occur when people trust to memory in calling telephone numbers. Even more unfortunately, a wrong number means an extra call on the already overburdened telephone system to correct the mistake. You will get fewer wrong numbers—and every one will benefit—if you will follow these practices:

- 1 If you are not absolutely sure of a number, check it in your telephone directory.
- 2 If you compile and use your own telephone list, go over it once in a while and eliminate obsolete numbers . . . write in the correct ones.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Never knew that before, Judge... I would have sworn it was just the other way 'round."

"No, Arthur, the grain used in distilling war-alcohol is not wasted. In an efficient distillery up to 29% of it is reprocessed and is returned to farms like yours in the form of premium-quality livestock feed.

"Remember, this nourishing remainder is plumb full of protein, vitamins and carbohydrates and becomes a highly-prized feed concentrate.

"By developing new products from this processed grain, the modern distilling industry has taken a leading part in solving the vital shortage of cattle and poultry feed ingredients which are rich in vitamins B-1 and B-2, so essential to satisfactory growth and production.

"And what I have told you about the absence of grain waste in making war-alcohol, Arthur, also applies in the making of whiskey, although not a drop has been made in this country for over a year."

Vitamins To Keep You Fit

No man lives by Vitamins alone, but no man lives without Vitamins. To avoid certain diseases, we must have enough of all the necessary Vitamins. With plenty of essential Vitamins, we are full of vim, vigor and vitality.

Naturally, we require calorie foods, proteins and minerals. However even with adequate amounts of each of these in our diet, but lacking any one of the essential Vitamins, we may find ourselves in difficulties with regard to health and that feeling of well-being.

Vitamins are definite chemical substances essential for the maintenance of normal body functions. This means that they are indispensable to the proper utilization of foods and the maintenance of the various organs and tissues. Vitamins are also necessary to normal growth and development of children, and to the continued health and vigor of persons of all ages.

Vitamins are not foods, as are carbohydrates (starch), proteins, minerals, and fats. They resemble more closely that class of substances that chemists call enzymes—substances which though needed in very small amounts are none the less absolutely essential to the complex reactions involved in the transformation of food for body growth and repair.

Vitamins are present in plant and animal foods in very small quantities. Cooking and many other processes involved in preparing foods tend to decrease the Vitamin content. The unrefined vegetable foods of our forefathers with richer with respect to Vitamins than the refined or processed foods consumed by most of us today. Recognition of the inadequacy of modern dietaries and the disturbances of health, which are caused by Vitamin deficiency, has led to the extensive use of Vitamins for medicinal purposes.

THE MICHIGAN MIRROR
that they are financed by the U. S. Treasury and hence are payable out of taxes of some kind, tomorrow or a 100 years from now, there can be no question. That the removal of food subsidies would start a rise of food prices that would lead inevitably to higher wages for the city war worker is conceded and that the great middle class, the so-called white collar folk- would be hurt worst of all is also generally conceded. Try to reconcile these statements!

What, then, is the solution, if any? Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, who enjoys a national reputation for sound leadership, believes that the basic trouble lies in the Washington policy of trying to control wages by Presidential directives and prices by legislative restrictions. The two are like oil and water, they don't mix, and won't work

Senator Vandenberg is of the opinion that we should follow the example of England and Canada in linking together wages and prices, even at this late hour in a war that has gone more than 2 years. If the administration were required to hold wages along with prices, then the John L. Lewis type of irresponsible labor leader, and he is in a minority-could be restrained from raiding the consumers pocketbook in the form of higher coal prices that have already followed the granting of higher wages to the coal miners. Then the cost of living could be stabilized through limited and selected food subsidies, and the expense of these subsidies to the coal miners. The cost of higher prices which become, in reality hidden taxes. And since the government itself is the greatest consumer of commodities today, food or munitions, the public would ultimately benefit through a brake on the national indebtedness. So goes the logic.

Senator Vandenberg has pointed out that inflation is the deadliest menace today on our home front. He warns that unless something is done at Washington with wisdom and courage, putting national interests ahead of selfish interests a lot of Americans are going to be hurt when inflation gets out of control.

We are inclined to believe that Vandenberg has something worth thinking about. The Michigan senator may have the answer.

CONSERVATION NOTES

In answer to queries as to where to take deer hides so they will go for military use, the answer is to the nearest fur dealer who will sell them to the government.

Feb. 15 is the deadline for game kill report cards. Be sure and fill yours out and avoid trouble in getting your license next year.

Brush heaps left after tree cuttings are still serviceable as rabbit shelters after five years it has been found.

The fatalities of the deer hunting season have now reached a total of 18.

Only 11 deer were killed in Allegan county the first day. The season closes Dec. 10. Last year the kill was 79 deer. Bow and arrow hunters killed 20 this year there, twice as many as last year.

Attendance at state parks the last year was the lowest on record, 3,941, 588, a drop of 3 and one half million over that of 1942.

WANT A NEW WASHING MACHINE

From the demand we see at auctions for washing machines, we believe they are very necessary pieces of household equipment. If your washing machine is not working well or perhaps you have never used one, now is the time to start saving for one.

There are two good ways to do this. One is to buy war bonds and stamps from your present income; the second way is to put a certain amount of your income in some good bank every pay day.

When the war is over you will have built up a surplus of cash which can be used to buy this labor saving equipment. You can pay cash for it and save the high service charge which is customary when equipment of this character is purchased on time.

Learn to buy for cash and pay yourself good dividends in the savings you can make for yourself by this method.
