Michigan will get $47,453 as its share of the federal Pittman-Robertson fund obtained by a special tax on guns and ammunition. This fund will be used to purchase game restoration land in Southern Michigan. Michigan matches this in the ratio of 25 percent to 75 percent from the money raised by the sale of hunting licenses. Mich. Mirror State News

News from Here and There and All Over the State of Michigan

It was threshing time at Tecumseh, Mich., last Saturday.

And the "Lord's wheat", planted by Perry Layden, Tecumseh, near miller, on land provided by Henry Ford, again demonstrated the truth of John 12:24 and its law of natural increase.

"It's the Lord's wheat, not mine," is Hayden's way of explaining why his planting had been built as thick as nearby "stands" and yet produce 50-fold which is about double the average annual Michigan yield.

Hayden, a Quaker, has dedicated the entire crop to a holy purpose. He remarks casually on the fact that he has been lucky enough to plant on low valley soil and get fat yield. In the drought and dry seasons when the highland crops burned up or blew down in high winds. And yet the next year or two he planted on highland, just in time to avoid a succession of valley floods that destroyed all crops along the streambeds.

When drought or floods threaten, Hayden finds peace in this philosophy: "I'm not worried. It's all the Lord's wheat. He can do what he wants with it."

Ex Gov. Chase S. Osborn, Michigan's Grand Old Man, had returned to Michigan from his winter home at in Pocomoke, Georgia.

In the Founder's Room, Cook-Cadillac Hotel, President Warren E. Osborn, of Wayne university, conferred upon Osborn, the honorary degree of doctor of science, the seventh honorary degree to be so presented to him by an institute of higher learning.

Marshall Frank L. Kenner of the university quoted W. A. Markland description of Osborn as "the friendliness of man yet he loves a fight; a true democrat, devoted to liberty, yet he is by instinct an absolute monarch, he depite the force of character, aggressiveness, his neighbors know him as an incurable seat-of-the-pants. Yet he is 84 years old, blind and paralyzed but still enjoys life.

Colon, Mich. is the wackiest town in the world. It is the home of the Percy Abbott Co., who are so famous for magicians. People who have their arms and legs cut off or are sawn in two yet they walk a way unharmed.

CURRENT COMMENT

By Ye Editor

President Roosevelt has been renominated for a fourth term the only man ever to be so honored. The result has been certain for some time as the old adage that your can't beat someone with no one always holds good. His only opposition the conservative Senator Byrd of Virginia got a mere handful of votes. Senator Byrd was a candidate for present back in 1932 and made about the same showing then, the remark of Malcolm Bingray of the Detroit Free Press that his popularity is chiefly among the Republicans sums up the situation. We note that the Roosevelt opponents are again rushing off the old arguments and getting them ready for reuse. The Brighton Argus said last week that the Democrats should renominate a young vigorous vice president as President Roosevelt would never live out a fourth term. This paper is strong for Dewey but evidently has doubts as to his success else why the anxiety over the Democrat nominee for vice president. Now this health argument has been used every year since 1932 but at the present time the president's health was never better according to his physicians.

Livingston county may enjoy deer hunts in fall without going north but there is a hitch to it. Only bows and arrows can be used. As far as we know there is not a bow and arrow hunter in the county and not even an archery club. For years the wild deer in the county have been increasing. This herd is said to have started 20 years ago from a few deer turned loose in Deerfield township. Now the farmers are complaining about the damage done by them and the conservation dept. has let the bars down slightly. Rifle hunting will probably never be allowed here as the county too thickly settled and too close to Detroit. Hunters flocking here with high powered rifles capable of killing at long range would be too dangerous.

The Democrat convention last week obscured the news of the attempted assassination of Adolf Hitler by group army officers. The German broadcast said a bomb was thrown which killed 7 of his officers and wounded Hitler, slightly. The conspirators were arrested and most of them executed. The broadcast added, so meager are the details that only a few work is possible. The people remember that a revolt of army officers in World War I ended the war and sent the Kaiser into exile and hope this uprising may produce similar results. However on the face of things it seems to have been premature as the conspirators were executed and the German armies are still fighting. Eventually if the German defeats continue to pile up a similar attempt will succeed.

The so-called Texas revolt in the Democrat convention was probably the most exciting event of that session although eventually most of them came back. The facts of the case are that certain policies of the Democrat party are not popular in the south. Among them are racial equality, abolishing the poll tax and abrogating the 15th amendment nominating rule in the national convention. This last was adopted in 1936 and deprived the south of power to veto presidential nominations. The Texas threat was that if the convention did not support their viewpoint on these issues the Texas electors would refuse to support Roosevelt even if he carried the state. After the Texas state convention adopted this resolution a group of Texas delegates in favor of Roosevelt broke away and held a convention nominating pro-Roosevelt delegates. The platform committee at Chicago turned down all their demands and the credentials committee seated both sets of Texas delegates with a half vote each. It was at this time some of the Texas delegates walked out but later returned when the roll was called for but 14 of the 48 delegates voted for Roosevelt.

Senator Truman of Missouri has been nominated for vice president by the Democrats on the second ballot largely through the aid of the southern states who ditched their favorite son candidates to support him. We wonder if this would have happened if Henry Wallace had not blasted the polltax when making his speech at the convention seconding the nomination of President Roosevelt.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Mary and I were just saying, Judge, how lucky we are here in America that we have so many natural resources to help win the war." "That's right, Jim. When war broke out we had oil, we had steel, we had food, lumber, aluminum...practically everything we needed. There's one thing we didn't have...rubber. The enemy had that." "But that didn't bother us for long. Soon American brains and industry had synthetic rubber by the tons rolling out of plants. That filled a critical need...you can't win a war without rubber."

"I was very much interested the other day in reading a statement made by a high government official on synthetic rubber. In it he said 'It is fair to regard the rubber manufactured to date as being almost solely the product of the beverage distilling industry.'" "He also said that in his estimation, the tremendous contribution of distillers' industrial alcohol to the synthetic rubber program had not received the recognition which it deserves." "We certainly learned something today, didn't we Mary?"

OUR Research Laboratory is constantly working on new and better ways of doing things at lower cost. For example, one piece of high voltage transmission cable has for some time been kept under high pressure, another identical piece in a vacuum. Cable in a vacuum usually ages rapidly. But this piece has been operating satisfactorily for three years! Even our experts don't know why. When we learn, valuable knowledge may be added to our "know-how."

HOW WILL WE TRAVEL and move goods after the war? Whether by road, rail, water or air, Michigan, located as it is in the heart of America and the Great Lakes waterways, can look confidently to the future. Rail and highway networks link us to all America.

THIS NEW RECIPE sounds appetizing, and its low point values are easy on the ration book:

Savory Meat Balls--Temp 375 degrees; Time 45 min. 2 cups macaroni and cheese 1/2 pound ground lean pork 1 pound ground smoked ham 1 egg, beaten Cut leftover macaroni and cheese into fine pieces. Mix with other ingredients. Pack in greased muffin pans. Bake. Makes 6 to 8 servings. Other meat may be substituted for the ham and pork. If cooked meat is used, add 1/4 cup milk.

WARTIME ESSENTIAL—YOUR OWN HOME-CANNED TOMATOES

Let there be no doubt about it, loss of home-canned tomatoes is unnecessary at any time and inexcusable in war-time, unnecessary because spoilage is caused by carelessness in selecting, preparing, packing, and canning, or by not following the manufacturer's instructions for using jars and caps, inexcusable because wasting food is wicked.

Gladys Kumbough, Home Service Director for Ball Brothers Company, advises home canners to put up large quantities of tomatoes and explain why failures can be avoided. First of all, use jars that were made for home canning and use them according to the simple step-by-step instructions furnished by the manufacturer. Commercial cast-offs are expensive and do not run. Get the jars and caps ready before preparing the tomatoes.

Next, get your water-bath canner ready. Any deep kettle, lard can, metal bucket or pot, or wash boiler will do if it has a cover and something to keep the jars from touching the bottom. A home-made wire or wooden rack will serve the latter purpose. The water in the canner must be steaming (not boiling) when the jars are lowered into it, and deep enough to cover the tops of the jars one or more inches.

Use locally grown, garden-fresh, red-ripe tomatoes. Examine every tomato. Those having small spots or raw weather cracks may be set aside to use in chili sauce but should not be used for canning. Wash the tomatoes clean before they are scalded for skinning and scald enough at a time to fill two quart jars and no more.

Scalding takes from one-half to one minute and the easiest way is to put the tomatoes in the center of a square of cheese cloth, then gather up the cloth by its four corners and lower the tomatoes into a kettle of boiling water. Suit your own pleasure about dipping the scalded tomatoes into cold water. They are a bit more comfortable to handle if cold dipped. Cut all the core and any healed weather cracks out of a tomato, then slip off the skin, remove the black spot at the blossom end and any green or white spots that may show after the skin is off.

Drop the tomato into a clean hot jar. Cut it into two or more pieces if it is too large to go through the mouth of the jar. After two or three tomatoes are in the jar, press them gently with a wooden spoon until they crack and their juice fills the space between them. Continue skinning, packing, and pressing the tomatoes until the jar is filled to within one inch of the top, then add one or two teaspoons salt, and close the jar according to the manufacturer's instructions.

Work quickly until you have enough jars packed to fill the canner, then put them in the canner slowly. Bring the water to boiling as quickly as possible. When bubbles are dancing all over the top of the water, begin counting canning or processing time and lower heat. Keep the water boiling steadily but quietly for forty-five minutes, then take the jars out and set them several inches apart and out of a draft to cool.

This is known as the cold pack method and gives a canned product of superior flavor, but the tomatoes tend to shrink a good bit in cooking and there is usually some waste space in the jars. If you object to wasting a small amount of jar space, you should select and prepare the tomatoes as suggested, then cook them in a covered pan until they are boiling hot before putting them into clean hot jars for processing fifteen minutes at boiling in a water bath canner.

Although the water bath is the preferred method, cold packed tomatoes may be processed in a steam pressure cooker for ten minutes at five pounds pressure. It is best to forget about the old-fashioned open kettle method, but if you must use it, remember to work at the stove so that everything—jars, caps, lids, rubbers, and food—can be kept boiling hot and every jar filled and sealed in double quick time.

Don't risk canning tomatoes in an oven and do, please, remember that trick methods such as the 'blanket' are likely to trick you.

The proudest title in the Army

IT CONSISTS of two simple words. Yet every soldier who's worth his salt covets it. This title is simply: "Good Soldier."

It isn't just happenstance that so many women in the WAC have earned this title—the proudest in the Army.

For wherever Wacs are working, both here and overseas, there you find a job well done. And done with a spirit so gallant and fine that high Army officers everywhere say of the WAC...

"They're soldiers. Good soldiers!"

YOUR STAKE IN THE FUTURE

STATZ BACTERIA BATTALIONS BY FOLLOWING SIMPLE RULES

Victory on the home-canning front is easily won by those who understand the ruthless nature of the enemies—yeasts, moulds, and bacteria—that sneak into jars of food to cause spoilage. Usually they go into the jar on the food. Decayed spots and crevices or broken places in the skin of fruits and vegetables serve as their favorite footholds.

Sometimes they float in on the air and at others steal a ride on a spoon or dirty dish cloth. A small battalion is easier to destroy than a large one so the first thing to consider is how to keep a jar of food from being occupied by a huge army of these detestable, microscopic organisms.

The soil of the earth, and fruits and vegetables which are stale, or over-ripe, or bruised, or broken, or dirty, or decayed, serve as headquarters for yeasts and moulds and bacteria. That is why sound, strictly fresh, home-grown produce must be chosen for canning.

Bacteria, the hardest-to-kill of the enemy group, multiply rapidly in vegetables, such as corn, peas, lima, and other shell-out beans, and are hard to kill once they are established, because the vegetables contain no natural acid to help make it easier for heat to destroy the bacteria.

Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director for Ball Brothers Company, gives 13 rules which, if followed in every detail, will insure victory for the home canner all along the line. They are:

1. Use jars made for home-canning purposes. All home-canning jars have a name molded in the side. Jars with names or letters on the bottom only are intended as one-trip containers for factory-packed foods. They are made as thin as possible in order to hold down shipping costs. Because of this, their reuse is doubtful economy.
2. Examine every jar, cap, lid, of some foods is better when they are canned in fresh boiling water.

9. Vegetables usually have better flavor if a small amount of salt is added at the time of canning, but they keep as well without it.

10. Remember that every minute wasted between the steps of preparing, packing, and processing is a minute in which bacteria grow stronger. This is particularly true of the bacteria which cause flat-sour. Flat-soured food may look good but tastes bad and often smells that way. Flat-sour can and does begin before processing if the vegetables are stale or over-ripe, or left standing two or three hours in a hot kitchen, or if the food is not cleaned, prepared, and packed right.

11. When possible, use a steam pressure cooker for processing all vegetables except tomatoes, and even use it for tomatoes if you like. But the use of a pressure cooker will not guarantee success unless it is in good condition and operated according to the manufacturer's instructions.

12. If you have no pressure cooker, process vegetables by boiling in a water-bath canner. Yes, the vegetables will keep if all rules are kept, and they will be safe to eat if they are boiled for fifteen minutes before they are tasted.

13. Never taste canned vegetables, regardless of how processed, until they have been boiled fifteen minutes. There is one type of bacterium that may get into the jar and cause spoilage which is odorless, tasteless and dangerous. The toxin caused by these bacteria is destroyed by the fifteen minutes boiling. The boiling doesn't necessarily destroy the bacteria but causes the toxin to left-over canned vegetables should be reboiled before serving.

Facing the Future

AN INTERESTING account in the thirtieth chapter of the book of Numbers relates the experiences of a group of people who were called upon by their leader to have faith in their future. These people, the Israelites, led by Moses had in the course of their journey away from the bondage of Egypt finally reached the Land of Canaan. Spies were sent ahead to find out what kind of land it was. They learned many good things about it—that it flowed "with milk and honey," and that it was a place very much to be desired. But one conclusion of the land loomed up as a fearful thing in the eyes of the spies: "All the people that we saw in it are men of a great stature, and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers," they reported.

How often we, too, belittle our capacities and are "in our own sight as grasshoppers." And how much better to recognize the truth clearly stated on page 304 of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, namely this: "Divine Principle is the Life of man. Man's happiness is not, therefore, at the disposal of physical sense."

The Israelites had experienced God's care for them many times in their journey to the promised land. They had seen the barriers of the impassable sea before them and the hordes of the armies of Pharaoh behind them; but the sea had parted and the armies had perished. They had been sustained with food and clothing in the wilderness, and had been kept free from disease, through God's ceaseless providence. They had indeed proved that man's happiness and well-being are not subject to the whims of physical sense testimony but are spiritual and spiritually maintained. But now, with the end of their journey at hand, they were doubting their further guidance and protection.

OUR BOYS must keep on fighting—we must keep on buying WAR BONDS until victory is won. Keep on BACKING THE ATTACK.

Putting the Folks Back Home on the Party Line With Their University

WHERE'S THE FLIT? . . . The School of Public Health at the U of M is truly an interesting place and one that is visited by doctors, sanitary engineers, nurses, dentists, milk handlers, plumbers, personnel directors and safety engineers wishing to learn better ways of serving the citizens of their communities. Also, the School is doing a wonderful work for our soldiers, sailors and marines. There is a room doubly screened and guarded in which thousands of malaria mosquitoes are housed. Here research men and army sanitary engineers are at work testing new drugs to prevent the dreaded tropical disease for our men out there.

PAGING HIGH SCHOOL JUNIORS

. . . This is the time of the year that high school faculties are studying the girls in the Junior classes in the Statz. They will select four of them, and from these American Legion Auxiliaries will select one. The girl will join others at the University to participate in the 1944 Girls' State Annual Meet. This program is dedicated to the training and development of girls possessing outstanding leadership. They will be shown the opportunities open to women in the fields of home-making, home economics, household arts, nursing, occupational and physio-therapy, dietetics and drama, as well as stimulating an interest in the development of home and community life.

CHOP SUEY . . . Commencement Day at the University of Michigan will be June 24, instead of June 17, as was originally planned. . . In the two years of operation, the U of M Michigan campus life pool has saved Michigan taxpayers approximately $5,000, according to Edward C. Pardon, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds. Rarely does a University car leave the campus with less than two persons in it, thus reducing the expense and wear on the automobile as well as saving gasoline.

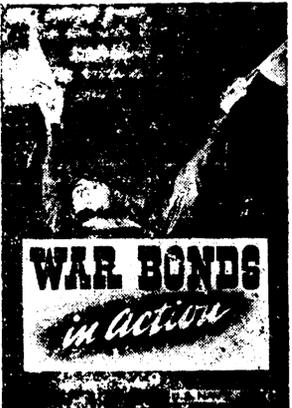

A SONG WRITER . . . A waltz, "Au Revoir," has been written by a soldier boy on the U of M campus and has been dedicated to the University. He is Cliff Lila Figandio of Company A, 4th Art Bn, 1st Cavalry, 2nd Army. A Choir will introduce the song to the campus. . . Spring blossoms are not only seen on trees on campus, but deck the trees of the coeds. Everyone is wearing flowers. On rainy days the popular headgear is a feminine "sou-wester," copied from the fishermen. Made from oilskin, treated canvas, or rain repellent rubber, the hats have a long, low back, which permits the girls to venture out in the damp with their curls well protected.

MAKE YOUR OWN CANNING EQUIPMENT

Be determined to do your part toward saving food, canning equipment or no canning equipment. Don't glibly use the shortage of equipment as an excuse for not getting busy and filling those pantry shelves with jars of non-rationed food, put up just the way your family likes it best.

You will do well to follow the advice of Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director for Ball Brothers Company. To all who lament the lack of canning conveniences she suggests: "It is true that a skilled workman requires good tools but when he can't buy what he needs, he makes the best use of what he has and makes what he hasn't."

A few of Miss Kimbrough's suggestions for home-made canning equipment are illustrated in the photograph above. They are:

1. A lard can to use as a water-bath canner. A pail, sirup bucket, wash boiler, or any other container in which water can be boiled, will serve, provided it is twelve or more inches deep.
2. Funnel. This was made from a tin can to fit in the lacking strips of odorless wood together.

4. Coal tongs (part of fire set) make good jar lifter.

5. Strong string looped (slip hitch) around neck of jar. Use when neither jar lifter nor tongs can be found.

7. Wire basket to hold the jars while they are in the canner. Made from a scrap of wire mesh. (Poultry wire will do.)

7. Wooden paddle for stirring apple butter, chili sauce, etc. Whittled from hard wood. Wooden spoons can be made in same manner.

This year the government is releasing more metal for the manufacture of canning equipment. Production and distribution may make it unnecessary for the housewife to assemble home-made equipment, which can be done and done easily.

Because of this, their reuse is doubtful economy.
2. Examine every jar, cap, lid, and rubber before using. True, these are inspected before they leave the factory but many things can happen to them before (and after) they reach the home kitchen.

3. Remember that people who make things know more about them than anybody else; so use jars, caps, lids, and rubbers by the manufacturer's instructions.

4. Unless vegetables grow in your own garden or can be bought from a grocer who will gather them early in the morning of the day they are to be canned, forget about canning them. Vegetables that have had a night out of the garden are not in fit condition for canning.

5. Don't expect good results unless the vegetables are right for canning.

6. Every vegetable should be washed clean before its skin is broken. Washing away particles of dust and soil also washes away bacteria, yeasts, and moulds. Green beans and okra require special attention because the short thick nap or fuzz on them holds dust. The blossom end of okra may hold both dust and insects.

7. All non-acid vegetables should be precooked and packed hot for processing.

8. Vegetables should be packed in jars loosely enough to permit the liquid to circulate between the pieces. Food values are higher when vegetables are canned with the water in which they were precooked, provided the water is not wasted when the food is used, but the flavor, and possibly the keeping qualities, of some foods is better when they are canned in fresh boiling water.

9. Vegetables usually have better flavor if a small amount of salt is added at the time of canning, but they keep as well without it.

10. Remember that every minute wasted between the steps of preparing, packing, and processing is a minute in which bacteria grow stronger.
