Michigan Mirror

Michigan will spend $408,862.00 for a mental health program in 1957-58. This has always been a controversial program. The governor claims the needs are not being met. The legislature says they are. They claim that $3,575,114 more will be spent this year than last. That the Hawthorn center at the hospital gets $280,000 more than last year. The Lafayette Center in Detroit $278,000 more the neuro-psychiatric clinic at Ann Arbor $226,000 and that 579 employees have been added in two years. A start has been made on a new $1,230,000 hospital at Plymouth for retarded children.

George VanPeursdam, speaker of the house has taken on the role of Republican spokesman and is touring the state. He is said to have his eyes on governorship. He is a 44 year old small town lawyer from Zeeland, has served 4 terms in the house and was little heard of until elected speaker this year. George Wahr, Sallade of Ann Arbor is also reported receptive to the governorship. He refused to sign as a member of VanPeursdam's committee. A recent survey showed that industry is not the biggest taxpayer but the working man is. He pays 62 percent of the tax bill. Maybe VanPeursdam can build himself up over night into a state wide known figure and overturn Governor Williams 270,000 majority over the well known Mayor Cobo of Detroit who had never been beaten before.

CONSERVATION NOTES

The state of Wisconsin has ended bounty payments to hunters and trappers for foxes, coyotes, bobcats, lynx and wolves. They have been paying $2.50 for foxes, $1 for young, $5 for bobcats and lynx and $20 for coyotes and wolves. Payments averaged $130,000 a year. Game experts have long criticized the bounty system. They claim it only trims the excess predator population without decreasing basic population. Michigan paid out $209,000 in bounties in 1956.

11 fires burned over 21 acres last week.

SPECIAL DRIVER'S COURSE

The state is stressing driver's courses before issuing licenses to new drivers. Pinckney had one at the school last year with Garry Ledwidge as teacher. He had to take a special course at Michigan State University. His year to receive the license they are offering a special summer driver's course at the Pinckney school. It is taught by Mr. Waring who took the course at Michigan University. 20 are enrolled including Mrs. Lynn Hendon and Mrs. Peggy Jarvela. It is necessary to go an hour in the afternoon on Mondays and Thursdays and 2 hours at night on those days until 30 hours are in. Only those old enough to apply for a driver's license can enroll. The course will still be taught when school opens here in September.

Jack Doyle and R. W. Wyle enjoyed the cooling breezes at the Doyle cabin at Rose City over the week-end and visited the Indian mounds there.

Mrs. Alma Harris returned to Detroit for awhile Sunday.

The James Singer family spent last week in the Traverse City area.

St. Mary's Home Coming

St. Mary's Catholic Church of Pinckney will have a Home Coming at the church ground Sunday, August 11. The feature of the day will be an ox roast in which an ox will be roasted whole in an open door pit. In addition a regular dinner will be served and there will be booths in which different articles, soft drinks, ice cream etc. will be sold.

The entertainment features will be music by the Haines Family Orchestra of Pinckney who will play old time tunes. There will also be games and contests, including a tug of war, three legged race and a fly casting contest where anglers can show how far they can cast a lure. It will be similar to the old time picnics held by the church here for over 40 years but without the speaking program, ball game and dance which they always featured. ## Slavery, Civil Rights

The civil rights issue involving the fight for equal rights by the negro was one of the results of American Slavery and was 90 years coming to a head. It was bound to do so some day as the delaying and stalling tactics of congress became outmoded. The big reason is that the negro has advanced intellectually over the years and now holds many positions of influence. During the high wage periods of the two world wars thousands of negroes came north and settled in the cities where they have become a political power. In New York, Detroit, Chicago and other cities they cast the deciding vote. Negroes in these cities have been elected to judgeships, the legislature and to congress. The college and high school athletic teams have many negroes and so do the big league base ball and foot ball teams.

In order to understand the situation it is necessary to go back a few hundred years to the introduction of slavery in America. Slavery has always existed and still does in Arabia, Africa and Siberia. It is mentioned repeatedly in the Bible. The people were pastoral then and usually at war with other tribes. Their custom was to put the men of the conquered tribes to the sword and carry off the women and children captives. As they turned to agriculture slaves became of value and during the great building period of the middle ages thousands of slaves were used. At the building of the pyramids in Egypt they are said to have died like flies under the overseers lash.

The different tribes in Africa were always at war and the conquered tribes became slaves. When a chief died a number of slaves were killed and buried with him.

The first negro slaves came to America about 1517 when the settlers of Jamestown, Virginia, bought 18 negroes of Dutch slave ships. Tobacco was the main crop. They had tried using Indians but they died. They had been getting bond servants from England who worked so long to pay their passage over and King James sent over several shiploads of convicts for servants.

The Spanish and Portuguese were the first to engage in the slave trade and by 1517 they were carrying them from Africa to their plantations in the Caribbean. Then the English, Dutch and French got into it and by 1530 the American ships. They established forts along the Gold Coast and bought slaves of the African chiefs who became wealthy.

There were moral reactions against it and it might have ended much sooner except for the invention of the cotton gin in 1793 by Eli Whitney. Before this it took a slave two hours to clean the seeds from a lb. of cotton. The gin did it in minutes. Cotton became the nations No. 1 crop and with it a demand for cheap labor. From 1793 to the civil war some 20,000,000 slaves were landed and sold in America. The American slave traders were mostly New England captains and at one time 200 slave ships were based at Newport, Rhode Island. They were called blackbirders. They gave 150 gallons of rum worth about $80 for a slave, between 18 and 35 years old. Older ones cost less. Some sold for $300, others $1000. They sold half their slaves in the West Indies and took on a cargo of molasses. After selling the rest of their slaves they went to New England where the molasses was made into rum. Then back to Africa. The profit on a trip was about $40,000.

A schooner carried 250 slaves on 5 decks. Some of the big ships 500. They were allowed 16 inches of space and chained to benches. Those who died were thrown overboard. The stench was frightful and a slave ship could be smelled miles away. Later efforts were made to fumigate and swab the decks and treat the drinking water as the insurance companies refused to pay for slaves who died of disease.

The truck was also badly smashed. Chire Miller, a fireman was caught between the truck and bridge and bruised from his shoulder to his knees. X-ray showed no broken bones. Robert Vedder another fireman was knocked off the bridge into the creek. Merlin Lavey was knocked off the seat of the fire truck but was not injured. Ledwidge says he was blinded by the lights of the fire truck.

Current Comment

The press is beginning to wonder why Governor Williams has not come out in rebuttal of the charges being broadcast by George VanPeursan, Republican candidate for governor and State Chairman Lindemore, are shedding bitter tears over the plight of Michigan industry that they say is taxed to death but nothing to say about the working man who pays 62 percent of the tax and whom the high cost of living hits hardest. The silence on the governor's part is making them suspicious. The Ann Arbor News says the tax issue is a 2 edged sword that will cut both ways. That the governor may be letting them get out on a limb and when they get out far enough he will saw it off. All ready they are labelled as big business men opposed to the working man. It further adds the taxes they claim are driving industry out of the state were all passed and put on the books by Republican legislatures. The state has to raise so much money every year for state purposes and the place to get it is where it is. General Motors, Ford and Chrysler claim they had the best years in their history last year.

The schools can expect no aid from the federal government this year as the federal school aid bill was killed 208 to 203 with conservative Republicans and southern Democrats voted solidly against it. The conservatives do not like the president's New Deal policies and do not like federal money for state aid. The southern voters voted against it because an anti-segregation amendment was attached to it. Those congressmen who went all the way down the line for the bill are inclined to blame the president for not coming out 100 percent for the bill and issuing a strong statement in favor of it. This they claim would have whipped enough stragglers in line to pass the bill. This school aid bill was in the Republican platform last year.

The all white jury at Clinton, Tenn. found 7 of the 11 defendants there guilty last week guilty of conspiracy to violate the school anti-segregation act. An acquittal was predicted. The jury was drawn from mountain men where slavery never was. According to the editor of the Clinton paper the verdict does not mean they are for anti-segregation but abhor mob rule and violence and for this reason brought in a guilty verdict. The defendants were led by John Hasper, a northerner who went into the state to stir up violence against the supreme court anti-segregation decision. The result of the verdict is that more schools have voted to accept anti-segregation.

In the meantime the Civil Rights bill is having hard sledding. The south has managed to strip it of all enforcement provisions including the president's right to send troops there to enforce the law and also the clause providing for enforcement by court injunction. They are now attacking the section which would do away with jury trials for those accused of violating civil rights laws. About the only part of the bill liable to pass is the section guaranteeing the negroes the right to vote. In most of the deep south not over a fourth of the negroes vote. They are deprived of this right by poll tax laws and educational tests which are pretty stringent. There have been numerous amendments presented to the bill. One by Senator McNamara of Michigan would penalize states which deprive their citizens of the right to vote by cutting down their representation in congress. The 14th amendment specifies this but it never has been enforced. Again the congressmen blame the president for not coming out strongly in favor of the bill. They say if he had it might have passed without having its enforcement powers stripped from it.

This would prove handy in case of traffic arrests in this or other states. The cost was $1.00. We did not bite. We did not care to be classed with a lot of persistent traffic violators as we noticed the list was headed by Col. M. H. Chalker, globe trotter who has probably run more red lights in more different states than any other person in Michigan. Note: Sheriff Finley later disclaimed any knowledge of such an honor roll.
