THE PINCKNEY DISPATCH Wednesday, October 22, 1958

No. 41

About Michigan News

Poverty in the Michigan state government will have to wait until after the November 4 election.

Leaders of both parties are hoping the legislative committee will hold up its study until after that date. They know there will have to be new taxes in order to avoid a $50,000 to $80,000 deficit next June 30. The present tax system is a patchwork but any improvement will encounter great opposition. Parts of the new plan to be presented leaked out before the final weeks of the campaign.

The first leak was when Rollo Conlin, Republican chairman released a report favoring increasing the intangible tax. Gov. Williams supported it and the legislature gave it serious consideration but yielded to Conlin who wanted time to present a complete program. The committee worked all summer an income tax is said to be under consideration U. of M. Professor Harry Frazer says this is the fairest tax of all.

The committee says governmental agencies are looking for loopholes. The highway dept. spent $52,000 for a tourist bureau and the mental health dept. built a home for the superintendent at Ionia. They say nothing in the law barred them from doing it. The legislature had the items before them and did not disapprove them. Neither did they disapprove them. The Lodge committee says hereafter they will specify things for which money can not be spent.

NEW COUNTY ARMORY

A meeting was held at Howell on Thursday night to discuss the new armory to be built there in the near future. The state gives $100,000 federal government $235,000, board of supervisors $35,000, City of Howell $10,000, $33,000 more is required. A campaign is on to raise it. Edward Frisch is chairman, William McPherson, vice chairman, Harry Ginsburg, secretary and Albert Fredenburg, treasurer.

GOV. WILLIAMS HERE

Gov. G. Mennen Williams toured Livingston county Saturday. He was at Fowlerville at 9:00 a. m., Gregory at 9:40. Good crowds greeted him at both places. Tom Howlett introduced him at Gregory and Editor Dick Rudnicki at Fowlerville.

At Pinckney he stopped at the age square at 10:25 a. m. A sound car led his cavalcade followed by cars with banners carrying state and county candidates. The first few minutes were spent in shaking hands and introductions and numerous pictures were taken of him. John Burg snapped one of him with his young son and many women had their children pose with him for pictures.

Martin Lavan, county chairman introduced Don Hayworth, for congress. Joe Kurka for the legislature and the county candidates. Ye editors asked to introduce the governor. His introduction was brief. He introduced the governor as the next president of the United States. The governor thanked the people for their wonderful turnout out and asked them to be sure and vote Nov. 4. They went to Howell from here where they were met by the high school band and from there to Hamburg, Brighton, Whitmore Lake and Ann Arbor.

Quite a few visitors were here, Maurice Hoffman, Chelsea supervisor and candidate for the legislature and Supervisor John Stirling and Clerk William Clark from Dexter township. The governor had a talk with George Tansley, a friend of many years.

WILLIAM J. TIPLADY

William J. Tiplady, 82, son of James and Mary Lavey Tiplady of Pinckney died at the Stinson Nursing Home, Ypsilanti Sunday. In early life he taught school and was also supervisor. In 1901 he married Mary Dunlavy of Webster. She died in 1943. He farmed until 1927 then moving to Ann Arbor where he was in the insurance business.

Surviving are 4 sons, Edward and Lorenzo of Ypsilanti, James and Robert of Detroit and 2 daughters, Mrs. Patrick Sweeney of Garden City and Mrs. Clayton Davies of Pontiac and 2 sisters, Mrs. Dora Stackable of Detroit and Mrs. Joe Stackable of Garden City.

The funeral was at St. Thomas Church, Ann Arbor today. Burial was in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Dexter.

ARE STILL WINLESS

Pinckney's last chance of breaking into the win column probably vanished Friday when Hartland who has not won a game in 4 year overwhelmed them 39 to 0. All 3 seniors, Dennis Clark, Fred Barry and Don Clark were out with injuries and Hartland ran through the green team like they were a flock of sheep. Warren of Hartland who had done little in previous games scored 4 touchdowns. Pinckney's only touchdown was scored by 2 freshmen, a pass by Bob Williams to Gordy Hoyt.

This is the first time in some 20 years Hartland ever beat Pinckney. Also Pinckney has never had a season in which they lost all games but it could happen. Like the Detroit Lions they cannot get going.

South Lyon clinched the title by beating Manchester 20 to 0. Boysville beat Dexter 12 to 7.

Friday guests of Mrs. Ethel Sprout were Mrs. Josephine Cunningham, Mrs. Mary McCabe and Rose Garity. They were at Dexter and Mrs. Iva Koon.

Current Comment

We learn something every day. We read that Nelson Rockefeller, grand son of John D who is Republican candidate for governor of New York has gotten calluses from shaking hands with people. He averages 2000 handshakes a day. Somehow we never associated this with causing calluses. We thought that they were principally derived by those who labored with pick and shovel or other tools.

Paul Bagwell principal platform plank is a constitutional convention but his party is not united behind him on this. In a speech at a Republican meeting last week William Vehnler, Washenaw county treasurer came out against it. He does not like the many proposals that would come before it. Such as apportionment of house and senate on population basis, 4 yr. terms for state and county oficers, Appointment of judges, replacing county board of supervisors with a county commission, the township board by township mgr. and abolishing justices of the peace. The State Farm Bureau, long a Republican stronghold has gotten out a pamphlet against it. It denies the constitution is out of date. Says it has been amended 63 times, and that such a convention would cost $1,500,000 and at a time when the state treasury is empty. Also that the method of electing delegates is not settled. The legislature voted to elect them by senatorial district but the governor vetoed it. If a population basis was adopted the rural districts would lose the advantages they have enjoyed so many years.

The schools all claim to be broke because the legislature refused to give them any money or let them draw from next years funds but there are exceptions. In the Sumpter Township in Wayne county it developed they were making personal loans out of school funds to school personal. One school principal got $1500. 25 other loans were uncovered. This was discovered by a Citizen's School Committee. Their secretary Mrs. McKee who had a part time job with the school board has since been discharged.

The Episcopal church has never ranked high as a temperance body. At their convention in Florida last week they condoned social drinking. It said it was a gift of God if used properly but a horror if not. It added there is no scriptural command requiring total abstinence and a Christian who drinks moderately with due regard to the feelings and needs of his brothers and a conscientious care for the claims of God can drink with thanksgiving to him for this blessing. In regard to school segregation a resolution in favor of it backed by southern churchmen lost in committee 57 to 25.

We read in the papers the recession is over and everything is lovely again. We wonder who is kidding who? In Detroit there were 265,000 unemployed in Sept. 57,266 families there received free welfare food. New York state has 400,000 unemployed. The factories here in this area had big layoffs last year and so far have called few back. Some have been off 7 and 8 months.

The cause of the bombings of the Jewish synagogue in the south is due to the breakdown of law and order there following the desegregation. The south has been allowed to defy the supreme court and get away with it. Gov. Faubus backs in a halo of lawlessness because the powers at Washington are afraid to act.

Sec. Dulles is brink hopping again and consequently changed his Formosa policy. He now favors holding the off shore islands. He says he has no power to make Chang give them, up and besides Red China has found them too tough a nut to crack. That means we will continue to wage an undeclared war against Red China for years to come and Chang will remain our non-paying star-bourne.

bringing merchandise and materials from every part of the world to Michigan are the only common carriers which serve all of Michigan every Michigan household, farm and business concern.

In fact, for hundreds of Michigan communities motor vehicles are the sole means of transportation—autos and buses for passengers, trucks for freight. These communities are not served by any other transportation system!

So, you see because trucks can and do go wherever there are roads ample supplies, food furniture, medical supplies, tools and machinery—necessities and luxuries from everywhere—are available anytime to people in all of Michigan.

Those in small out-of-the-way communities are as well fed, well and well clothed as the people of Michigan's largest metropolitan centers—thanks to trucks.

RATS? Gone for Good!
After Eating Diphacin
Kills Rats and Mice—Fast!

UNLIKE other baits new to rats, Diphacin is vacuum-packed to stay fresh and appealing. Rats eat it right from the opened can. Kicks them from the chemical bait. Kills them at drug, hardware, grocery and farm stores.

Fertilizer Put on This Fall Saves Time, Work Next Spring

Trucks and machinery have an easier time getting onto fields with fertilizer in the fall.

FALL is an ideal time to plug the gaps in a soil fertility program, reports Marshall Christy, University of Missouri extension soils specialist. "Lime and fertilizer applied this fall can save you time and labor next spring when every minute counts in the planting season," says Christy in a statement summarized by the Midwest division of the National Plant Food Institute. "Plant food applied now will be just right for plowing deep this fall. The nutrients can be more useful to crops next season than fertilizer disked in next spring," he says. Christy points out that a fall dressing adds to the life span of legume-grass mixtures.

Plant Food Lives Farmer More "Take Home" Pay per Acre

FARMERS can get much more profitable returns per hour for their crop labor by using fertilizer on their present acre than by purchasing more land that they won't improve, says Dr. Ermond H. ... University of Minnesota ...

Higher yields from plant food use give farmer more profits per bushel, per hour and per acre.

marized here by the Midwest division of the National Plant Food Institute. As an example of this, he points out that a 120-acre "good yielding farm" with a heavier fertilizer program might produce 70-bushel corn yields, 80-bushel oat yields and three tons of alfalfa per acre. An "average yielding" 160-acre farm where less fertilizer is used, might yield only 50 bushels of corn, 40 bushels of oats and two tons of alfalfa per acre, he says. On the basis of present prices, the crop labor return from the smaller farm would be $2,700 per year, after deducting the cost of fertilizer and operating expenses. On the larger farm, the crop labor return would be $2,800. The farmer working the 120-acre farm would average $3.70 per acre, compared to only $2.87 for the operator of the larger farm. And, figured another way, the farmer on the larger acreage would have 350 more work hours, but make only $100 additional in crop labor return.

Renovating Pastures Doubles Yields, Cuts Costs, Ups Profits

Renovating and fertilizing rundown pastures this fall can put more dollars in farmers' pockets next year through lower feed costs, higher forage yields and more cow-carrying capacity per acre, reports the Midwest Division of the National Plant Food Institute. "Missouri soil specialists say pasture yields were doubled and sometimes tripled by renovating and fertilizing according to soil tests," says a statement by the Institute. "Rebuilt pastures can often carry twice as many livestock per acre as formerly, according to Purdue University agronomists." The job of pasture renovation means replacing weak, weedy sods with high producing stands of legumes and grasses, the Institute points out. Pasture renovation also means using fertilizer to build up fertility so the soil can support high yields of grasses and legumes. Agronomists suggest three steps in renovating rundown pasture, according to the Institute: 1—Kill out the old sod; 2—Lime the soil where needed and add fertilizer carrying nitrogen, phosphate, and potash, on the basis of soil tests; 3—Reseed the pasture with high yielding, well adapted strains of legumes and grasses. The entire pasture renovating job, including seeding, can be completed this fall over most of the Southern Corn Belt, says the Institute. But in the more Northern areas, it is wise to kill out the old sod this fall, leave the field rough over the winter and then work it down, and seed it next spring. By leaving the field rough and cloddy, you can keep runoff to a minimum and prevent erosion, says the Institute.

Fertilizer "Very Favorably Priced" At Present Time

FERTILIZER is "very favorably priced" at present, reports Dr. S. T. Aldrich, University of Illinois agronomist. "Now is a good time to fertilize liberally where nutrients are needed," says Aldrich, in a statement summarized here by the Midwest division of the National Plant Food Institute. "Fertilization on a sound economic basis will always lead to soil improvement," he adds. Another Illinois agronomist, Dr. R. T. Odell, points out that as crop yields per acre go up, the net costs of production go down. Illinois tests indicated a corn yield increased from 40 to 90 bushels per acre, the net cost per bushel decreased one cent with each bushel increase in yield. Odell's studies are based on production records of 100,000 acres of corn.
