FORTY HOURS DEVOTION AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

The Forty Hours Devotion will open in St. Mary's Church on Friday morning at the 8:00 o'clock Mass. The Forty Hours Adoration is a devotion to the Blessed Sacrament solemnly exposed on the altar. It extends over a period of forty hours, so arranged as to include portions of three days, to correspond to the time our Lord's Sacred Body remained in the Sepulchre.

During these three days, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the Blessed Sacrament remains exposed and the faithful come to adore in silence. Each person who comes into the church is alone with his own thoughts, meditations, and prayers. Rev. Vincent J. Horkan, Superintendent of the Archdiocesan Schools in Detroit, will preach at the services at 7:30 on Friday and Saturday evenings and at the solemn closing of the Forty Hours at 3:30 on Sunday afternoon with the procession of all the men and boys of the parish.

All Catholics are urged to participate in the Services of the Forty Hours Devotion and non-Catholics will be welcome.

She has been having a wonderful time, seen most of the famous places in Europe. She graduated from Pinckney High School last year.

One hundred teen-age singers - now on a European good-will concert tour, will be presented in a concert in Hill Auditorium Ann Arbor, on Sunday afternoon, September 13, at 3:00 o'clock. The concert will be under the auspices of the University Musical Society of the University of Michigan, in co-operation with the Michigan Council of Churches - sponsor of the MICHIGAN CHORALE in the Youth for Understanding Teen-

The Michigan Chorale, conducted by Lester McCoy of the University Musical Society, began their overseas itinerary on June 24, with a ten-day stay in Northern Ireland, where they enjoyed enthusiastic receptions in Belfast, Bangor, Ballymena and Coleraine. This was followed by another period in England, where stops in Keswick and Royal Tunbridge Wells earned further praise for "singing from their hearts". Concerts followed in Stolberg, Germany, and in Paris - where they performed at the American Cathedral - and in Amsterdam. Now, mid-tour, they continued interpreting world understanding through music by giving concerts throughout Germany, Sweden, then on to Helsinki, Finland, from where they will return to the United States about September 1.

In the largest aspect, this Teen-age Exchange Program involves over 500 young Americans, spending six to eight weeks visiting a number of countries with host families. In turn, youth from those countries are "exchanged" by visits to America. Forty communities of southern Michigan are represented in the singing members of the Michigan

MINERAL COLLECTION

An outstanding collection of over 170 minerals is now on display at the Nature Center building at Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford, Michigan.

The park, a unit of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, is located near Milford off the Grand River Expressway. (US-16) Displayed in attractive glass and wood cases, the minerals are from Michigan and many other parts of the world, including British Columbia, Africa, France, Nova Scotia, Mexico, England, Finland and Canada.

The minerals, some in their natural state and some highly polished, are natural chemical combinations of elements found from deposits in the ground and collected from the surface of the earth or from quarries and abandoned mines.

Some minerals are attractive; others become colorful, attractive and beautiful only after polishing and cutting. Sometimes minerals combine with each other to form rocks. There are a few rock in the collection.

In the collection are many smaller agate and mineral fragments which were placed in a barrel-like container and by first using grits and then a grinding compound were thus polished. How they are suitable and attractive for use in bracelets, cuff links, tie clasps and other items of jewelry. Collecting minerals for this purpose is a hobby of rapidly growing interest.

The collection was placed at the Nature Center by Mr. Perry Reynolds of 1312 Penobscot Building, Detroit, and presented in memory of his wife "Millie".

Chorale. The concert on September 13 will be their only post-European-tour concert.

Tickets (at 75 c main floor and 50 c balcony) are now available at the offices of the University Musical Society in Burton Tower, Ann Arbor, Michigan. On concert day, tickets will be sold at the Box Office, Hill Auditorium, one hour before concert time.

State Fair Art Show Deadline August 27

Michigan artists who have won an award at a regional or gallery exhibition during the past year are invited to participate in the annual art exhibition of the Michigan State Fair, September 4 through 13.

Artists must enter and ship paintings on or before August 27, according to Donald L. Swanson, State Fair general manager. One entry will be allowed from each eligible artist.

Prizes of $150, $125, $100 and $75 will be awarded in each of the oil painting and watercolor divisions. As in the past, the jury will be composed of experts in the art world.

For further information, artists may write to the director of the exhibition, Polly Leurs, at the Michigan State Fair, Detroit 3, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Parker, Fred Fish, W. H. Euler and Mrs. Marion Russell attended the funeral of Bruce Euler at Howell Thursday.

★ CURRENT COMMENT ★

By PAUL W. CURRETT

The big news last week was the invitation to Premier Krushchev of Russia to visit this country, his acceptance and the promise of President Eisenhower to visit Russia. The question naturally came up "Where do we go from here?" This is a right about face from the stand taken by the late Secretary of State Dulles who refused to have any dealings whatsoever with Russia. The president usually echoed Dulles thoughts but there has been a big change since the passing of Dulles, Vice President Nixon is now calling the signals and he is for negotiations with Russia. He was instrumental in the Geneva conference and now wants a summit conference. He accepted the invitation to open the American exhibit in Moscow and is there now. He is also touring the Russian controlled countries. This has given him thousands of columns of free newspaper space and made him the leading contender for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960. While we are not an admirer of Mr. Nixon we think his ideas have merit. Too long our foreign policy has been to refuse to recognize fact and is more like that of the ostrich who hides his head in the sand when danger comes. Russia may be all that its critics say of it, but the fact is it has worked there for 40 years and is liable to continue there indefinitely. We have got to learn to live with these people. Russia is not America and it would probably be impossible for a Democracy to exist there. The press also states the president has sent Krushchev 3 bulls and 3 cows from his farm. All this new trend has aroused opposition. The American Council of Churches has come out against it. Also Cardinal Cushing of New York, and many of the members of the house and senate at Washington. But they are powerless to stop it.

Rev. Dr. Blake of New York came up with a suggestion last week that has been voiced before but not very loud. He wants the tax exemptions of churches ended. They have always been tax exempt but still enjoy the benefits of sewers, water, fire protection, police protection, paved streets, etc. There was a time in their beginning when poor as a church mouse was an apt term for them. They had little money and their ministers were poorly paid. This no longer applies to many of them. Many of them own millions of dollars worth of property and even operate businesses which yield good incomes. Many small ones have struggled to exist. The Detroit News thinks all churches should be billed for taxes and the taxes forgiven in recognition of their public service. In Ann Arbor the University of Michigan properties are tax exempt because they are state owned. This has always been a sore spot there as the city thinks they should pay for some of the services they get free.

While Vice President Nixon was garnering headlines by his Russian visit, Gov. Rockefeller of New York proceeded to grab off a few himself. You might say they fell in on his lap free of charge. His son suddenly decided to go to Sweden and marry a Swedish girl, Ann Marie Raasmussen, who had worked as a maid in the Rockefeller home in New York. His father, politician that he is, was quick to take advantage of this break and gave them his blessing and they will be married August 22. This caused all the reporters to run pellmell to get copies of Cinderella—and the papers have been full of their romantic efforts ever since. Thus by one full stroke Gov. Rockefeller not only won the Swedish-American vote but also of all romantic inclined persons in the United States. The romance now takes its place alongside the Duke of Windsor and Wallie Simpson, and Grace Kelly and the Prince of Monaco.

Mrs. Esther Hall and children of Marion spent Sunday with Mrs. Merwin Campbell.

Earl Gary and wife and Dorothy Sutton of Traverse City were Saturday night guests of the Gus Hanneman's and the Clarence Kipens and Lorna Bassett of Grand Rapids called Saturday.

There has probably been more discussion of the inflation problem than of anything else except the international situation. Much of the discussion has been informed and wise. But almost all of it suffers from a big weakness. It is carried on in statistical terms—billions, tens of billions, and hundreds of billions of dollars—that only a tiny, specially educated minority of the people can even begin to comprehend. In other words, it just doesn't come down to life and living as we understand it.

President Eisenhower realizes this. Some time ago he spoke, extemporaneously to a group of magazine editors. His subject was saving the dollar. And in the course of his remarks he said: "... Today, think of the man at the lathe, the drill press, who is earning money which he is putting away in his pension with his company or into an insurance policy. If we today cannot assure him that forty years from now he is going to be able to have a good living left, then I say, sooner or later, he will quit buying insurance policies; he will not have any confidence in the government bond; and he will not think very much of his pension."

Later on, the President added, if we have more and more inflation, "it won't be the rich that will be suffering. Instead it will be all those millions who with their hands and brains, typewriters, shovels, and all the rest, are producing the wealth of the United States . . ."

Inflation destroys material values, as everyone knows. But infinitely more important is the destruction of human values.

The daylight saving idea comes from an old Indian who cut off one end of his blanket and sewed it on the other to make it longer.

The prison camp at Chilson near here has inaugurated a new honor system started two weeks ago. It released 48 boys for two day week end visits and all of them came back at the end of three days. This and the other prison camps are unique as they are founded on the honor system. There are no fences around them or guards. Occasionally there are a few runaways but in the main the system has worked out very well.

The nation was saddened last week by the death of Edgar Guest, Michigan's best loved poet. Probably no poet has ever captured the admiration of the people as he did. His book of poems "Heap of Living" edition, ran into the millions and was translated into many foreign languages. We can say that we once ate at the same banquet with him. At the Masonic Grand Lodge program in Detroit three years ago he was on the program, and gave a fine entertainment. No, we did not rush up to get his autograph as many others did. There were 1000 people at that banquet.

The late Rudyard Kipling by his poem "The Road to Mandalay" made that place famous. It was later set to music and a movie made of it. This country has just given Burma, India $37,000,000 to build a modern highway to that place out of the goodness of her heart. Some 15 million will be realized by sale of U. S. surplus food stuff to Burma. This is the first grant to Burma since 1952.

The Chelsea Standard carried a picture of a German Day parade there in 1894. Now these German Day celebrations were peculiar to Washtenaw county and other counties with a large German population. They were to commemorate the formation of the German nation after their winning the war with France in 1870. We remember the one held in Dexter in 1897. The railroad trains carried huge banners fastened to the engines reading German-American Day and the date. The parade there in the morning was probably a mile long. It contained seven bands. Alex Dancer headed the parade on horseback. There were many floats, all horse drawn. Every business place had one. We remember one entered by Pat McCabe, a saloon keeper. He sat in a large cage with his pet owls smoking a pipe. The festivities after the parade were in the grove. Beer was served at the stands and the age limit was generally ignored. We heard our first phonograph there, for a price, one with ear phones. These German Day celebrations were discontinued after World War I. A society known as the arbiters sponsored them.

Estate Values
Show Increase

Farm real estate costs more per acre now than ever before, according to William H. Heneberry, agricultural economist at Michigan State University.

Michigan's total farm real estate value reached $2.9 billion in March — an average of $174 per acre including farm buildings, Heneberry notes from a recent survey by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The state's per-acre farm real estate value has gone up 70 per cent since 1950, 33 per cent since 1954, the economist relates. Nation-wide values have followed the same trend.

"Increasing real estate values boost a farmer's dollar assets," says Heneberry. "But a farmer can't cash in on this increase until he sells his land. And he usually won't sell unless he's getting out of farming."

Heneberry gives three reasons why increasing farm real estate values hurt farmers:

1. High real estate costs leave less money for fertilizer, lime and other inputs that allow more efficient land use.

2. Higher real estate values usually mean higher property taxes. Property tax assessment values tend to go up when land and building prices increase.

3. Rising costs let fewer young people climb the "agricultural ladder" from hired man to tenant, part owner, and finally full owner.

Real estate values vary widely within the state, says the economist. Values in some urbanized counties average nearly $400 per acre. Other areas in the state averaged less than $100 per acre.

MICHIGAN MIRROR . . .

The great exodus of industry from Michigan painted in black colors a year ago by the Hate Soapy Williams gang seems to have reversed and now industry is flowing back to the state. You hear no more now of industry leaving the state. The two horrible examples of a year ago were the Brown-McLaren Co. of Hamburg and the Daisy Air Rifle Co. of Plymouth. Brown-McLaren is still operating at Hamburg.

The Daisy Co. moved to Arkansas but fell on evil days there and a Texas oil millionaire has taken over the concern.

The Consumers Power Co. have announced they will construct an atomic power generating plant on a 600 acre tract in Hayes township, Charlevoix county. "We look forward to the future with great confidence," said James Campbell, senior vice president of the company. "We believe Michigan will continue to be an industrial leader and that its population will grow and prosper."

Campbell said the utility thinks "that prudent foresightedness requires that we engage in the development of atomic-powered electric generating plants in order to meet the challenge in the future as Michigan continues to grow industrially and otherwise."

Northern Michigan's future looks especially bright to Consumers. The kilowatt-hour consumption in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula has been growing at a faster rate than in any other area in the system," Campbell said. "Numerous small manufacturing companies have located in the area. The growth of this territory as a vacationland, both summer and winter, is adding load in the territory."

Campbell cited the "improved economic conditions of the area, and the impact of the Mackinac Bridge and the St. Lawrence Seaway."

Pioneering by another utility has helped pave the way for the Consumers project, at least in the mind of one key state official.

"I am convinced these things can be made safely," said State Insurance Commissioner Frank Blackford, a member of a special committee established to study atomic power in Michigan.

Blackford and other officials recently inspected the Detroit Edison A- power plant near Monroe.

Consumers officials told the Public Service Commission they would incorporate "every possible safeguard to eliminate any known danger to the public, to our employees or to the equipment."

The utility thinks all of Michigan will ultimately benefit from the project, primarily because of the research that will be conducted.

"We believe that the construction of a boiling water reactor at Big Rock Point will be a sound means of meeting the growth of electric demand in that part of the state," Consumers President Dan E. Karn said. "It will also be an important step toward our goal of producing electric energy at reasonable cost by means of nuclear fuel."

The Northern Michigan plan will use a boiling water type of reactor.

In this type of reactor, heat produced through nuclear fission converts water into steam. The steam then spins the blades of a conventional turbine-generator, producing electricity.

Consumers also participates in the Enrico Fermi atomic power plant project near Monroe, where Detroit Edison and other utility and industrial companies are working on a "fast breeder" reactor, which produces plutonium as a byproduct.

Campbell was asked by the Public Service Commission if the utility would seek an electric rate as a result of the development of the Northern Michigan plant.

PINCKNEY DISPATCH
Thursday, August 13, 1959

"No," he said. "We have nothing of the sort in mind. This nuclear project alone will not give rise to an electric rate case."

The Consumers project makes Michigan somewhat of a proving ground.

"What we are endeavoring is to build an atomic plant of a comparatively known and tested design," said Consumers attorney Don T. McKone, "but with features aimed to further bring us along the road of the production of electric energy by nuclear fuels on a commercial basis."

The Michigan utility has gone through what McKone calls "almost a complete process of evolution from a hydro plant company to a steam generation company."

McKone told Public Service Commission "we may well be on the verge of a similar transition from coal-fueled plants to nuclear-fueled plants."

The Michigan Legislature appeared this year to be on the verge of passing legislation to prepare for the atomic age. But two bills on atomic energy died in the Senate State Affairs Committee.

One, sponsored by Sen. Perry W. Greene (R-Grand Rapids). Another sponsored by Sens. Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield) and Lewis Christman (R-Ann Arbor), would establish a radiation standards safety board. It would prescribe rules and regulations on atomic energy activities and promote "safety and progress."

Much more is expected to be heard about atomic energy in the future in Michigan.

48 Convicts 'Walk Out'

Forty-eight convicts have walked away from the state's prison camp near here in recent weeks.

Camp officials watched them go. Nobody tried to stop them. And, they all returned within three days.

Their departure was part of a daring penal experiment launched at the Brighton youth camp this spring.

Some of the convicts left on three-day furloughs. Others carried 12-hour passes.

Unusual? Yes. Risky? Yes, again.

But state corrections men believe the risks are more than offset by the advantages.

The Brighton facility is an open-type camp where prisoners are trusted to stay on the premises. Most of them are under 25 years of age, serving short terms and rated as good security risks.

Furloughs and passes are tightly controlled by the camp staff and issued to carefully selected prisoners.

The three-day furloughs go only to men who have been granted a parole and are sweating out the usual 30-day waiting period before release.

Many such prisoners are caught in a dilemma as the time for their release nears.

State law bans release of parolees who do not have a promise of an outside job. On the other hand, very few employers will hire a parolee without a personal interview.

A furlough often ends this dilemma. It also allows a potential parolee to secure outside living accommodations and take care of any special problem that might crop up before his release.

Seek Woman to Drive Arctic Circle Trip

WILMINGTON, DEL.—As every gal knows, women drivers have come in for more than their share of criticism. But now a nationwide search is being conducted for an "average" woman to drive a car to the Arctic Circle, gathering the answers to such questions as:

Is the Alaska Highway dangerous for a woman to drive? How are the restaurants and hotels?

Should children go along? What happens in case of a breakdown?

What does a woman wear on the trip?

The driver, a housewife and mother, will make the trip alone, over 2,500 miles of desolate, winding roads from Seattle, Wash. to the Arctic Circle.

The trip is being sponsored by the Du Pont Co., in conjunction with the Seattle and Fairbanks Chambers of Commerce, and various Canadian Chambers of Commerce to test Zerex anti-freeze and to provide prospective tourists with practical information about travel to Alaska, our 49th state.

The driver will study the route and accommodations from the standpoint of family travel. Following her return, plans call for her to report the details of the trip through newspapers and television.

The driver, according to the "Zerex" sponsors, should be a full-time homemaker, competent at the wheel, but not a professional driver. She should be a woman whose outlook is much the same as millions of other housewives and mothers.

Rupert Garner of Detroit called on the Earl Baughns and George VanNormans Sunday.

Mrs. Florence Baughn and Mrs. Betty Seefield called on Mrs. Beulan Miller last week at St. Joe Hospital.

The woman selected should have a once-in-a-lifetime adventure. The land she'll see is bigger, vaster, more magnificent than most can imagine. It's a beautiful world of rolling hills and dense forests, full of grandeur.

She'll cross more than 100 rivers, drive over many mountain ranges, twist and turn through swamps and forests. She'll be doing what no other woman has ever done alone before.

Although she'll be without company for extended periods of time, she'll receive a good deal of special attention — a pleasant prospect for most women.

She will be a guest of honor at a special Seattle luncheon prior to her departure in mid-September. Other ceremonies are planned for her in Vancouver and Dawson Creek, British Columbia, Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, and Fairbanks.

From Fairbanks, known as the "Golden Heart of the North," she will continue 162 miles northwest to Circle, Alaska, an Indian village almost squarely on the Arctic Circle. Following the trip, she will be flown back to Seattle.

The Du Pont Co. will pay all expenses involved in making the trip, including special cold-weather clothing, and a salary. They'll even pick up the tab for the baby-sitter.

The Alaska Highway was completed as a military necessity in 1942, after 11 months of frantic labor by more than 10,000 men. At that time, the road crossed an uncharted, primitive land.
