Bagwell Club Boosters Meet In Howell

The Paul Bagwell for Governor in 1960 Boosters held their big state convention of Michigan Association of Bagwell Boosters at Howell Saturday and made plans to get 100,000 members by January 1, 1960. A whole ox was barbecued but only 400 of the 1,000 expected turned out. Those there were amateurs. There were no big names of prominent politicians present. The director of the affair was Dr. L. E. May, of Howell, former Democrat and originator of the Bagwell Boosters. Plans were made to organize every county in the state. Lloyd Johnson, Detroit attorney, was elected chairman. He said if they had started such an organization 15 months before the 1958 election they would have won.

Held For Arson

Lloyd Gehringer, 24, of Howell is held for arson in connection with three fires near there. One a barn burned but firemen put out the other two. He was arraigned before Justice Peoviak of Genoa and is held on $5000 bail. Efforts to connect him with the recent $100,000 fire in Howell failed. He had an alibi and took a lie detector test which indicated he was telling the truth.

★ CURRENT COMMENT ★ By PAUL W. CURLETT

Last weeks papers were filled with quotes from leading industrialists. Telling why they were against anymore taxes on industry. They all used the time worn arguments that industry can pay no further taxes as they are now taxed to the limit and more taxes will drive industry out of the state to other states where the tax burden is less. Last year during the political campaign against Gov. Williams they claimed it had already done so. Industrial lobbyists are behind the stand of the neaderthal state senate at Lansing in their stand for no new taxes except a state sales tax increase, a corporation profits tax they cannot pass on to the people, a sales tax they can. So the latter would not cost them anything. Hence their frenzied efforts to keep the 22 Republican state senators in line at Lansing. There was a break in their ranks last week and according to unofficial reports the compromise bill including a corporation profits tax only lacked 3 votes of passing. Hence their increased efforts to hold the 22 senators in line. The controlled press is also devoting hundreds of columns to prove Gov. Williams is all done and could not be elected to anything next year. We wonder if the writers believe the stuff themselves?

The heat is on the automatic vending machine sales of hot foods. These machines sales were started 5 years ago and last year increased 178 percent to more than $18.5 millions. The rate of growth was the fastest in the field. The vending machine idea is not new, 60 years ago there were vending machines. But they dispensed mostly gum and small chocolate bars. Then of course there were the nickle machines or gambling machines. It is only in recent years cigarettes, postage stamps were added and much more recent were the hot foods. Now today most all kinds of foods are available from these machines.

Gov. Lawrence of Pennsylvania has signed the bill banning the sale of certain items there on Sunday. The bill provides for a fine of $100. The items whose sales are barred on Sunday are clothing, wearing apparel, furniture, housewares, home, business and office furnishings, jewelry, silverware, watches, clocks, luggage, musical instruments, recordings, toys except novelties and souvenirs.

At the governors conference in 1957 President Eisenhower asked the states to take back from the federal government some of those states rights they claimed the federal government had usurped. Just how can this lack of action be reconciled with their persistent demand for states rights? One reason is that where the federal government has taken on powers involving public works, regulatory functions and social insurance, to return them to the state would be accompanied by a staggering tax burden which no state wants to assume. Another reason is that the role of the states as defenders of local initiative and bell weathers of local needs has been partially abdicated. Local communities now find in Washington a defender of the rights against the state governments. This is because most legislatures are stacked in favor of rural representation. Whether it is highway, school aid or unemployment these communities will continue to support power where they are most adequately represented. Taxation without representation is no more popular now than in 1773. This lack of action by the governors give eloquent testimony to the fact that few states are currently in position to better the services performed by the federal government for its citizens and they may never be in such position. So the Presidents offer will probably never be taken.

Last June 26 a union hall at Dearborn was raided where a bingo game was being conducted by a Dearborn Catholic Church and some $1493.75 in equipment was confiscated by the state police. The church has filed suit in Wayne county circuit court, in the court of Judge Horace Gilmore, a negro judge asking return of this equipment. Eight hundred people were attending the game. Bingo was once used as a means of raising funds by many different organizations but it has been classed as gambling and of late years the authorities have been cracking down on it. Several years ago bingo raids were staged in this country. Judge Gilmore set the hearing on the petition for August 17.

The most notable thing about the impending Kruschew - Eisenhower visits is that they were forced by public opinion. The people of both countries are weary of the cold war and its race to build huge armments and likewise establish bases all over the world with their ever increasing tax burden. All nations claim they want peace and their assertions are repeated so much that the people are beginning to take stock in them. They know a friendlier attitude can be obtained if concessions are made to Moscow and Peking. These Kruschew - Eisenhower meetings express the common desire of the Russian and American people for peace and should give fresh information to the popular peace demand and there is hope as long as we are able to distinguish between peace and appeasement.

HAMBURG BEATS PINCKNEY 3 to 0

It was the same old story in the county league last week Hamburg who finished second and took the class "D" title defeated Pinckney 3 to 0. Jim Bennett holding them to 2 hits both by Chuck Hewlett. He issued 4 walks but Pinckney had all 6 men left stranded and they could not deliver any hits.

Scott Barrett for Pinckney allowed 6 hits and struck out 9 but walked 5. Hamburg's first run came the first inning all on short flies to right field which should have been caught. The fielder was playing back too far. The 2nd Hamburg run came on an error by Barrett, an out at first and long fly.

They got their last run the 6th on a walk.

For Pinckney Hewlett singled the 3rd but was left. He doubled the 5th and again was left. Both Dick Singer and Mrofska walked the 6th but 3 Pinckney batters went out in order. In the 7th Carl Johnson walked, went to 2nd on an out at first and to 3rd on a passed ball but Barrett and Reader both struck out.

Bennett has been the best pitcher in the league. He has 2 no hit games to his credit and in the last game against Citizens Mutual which he won 8 to 0 only faced 24 men.

Pinckney's team is inexperienced. Of the championship team of 2 years ago only Reader and Gentile are left.

History of Pinckney Post Office Reviewed

The first postmaster of Pinckney was James Standberry, brother of Mrs. William Kirkland, wife of the founder of the village.

He was appointed by President Martin Van Buren in 1838. The first post office was not much as there were few people. Standberry was also the first judge of probate in the county.

In 1841 Gen. William Harrison, a Whig, became president. He appointed Furman G. Rose postmaster. Stansbury refused to give up the office but Rose got possession by some hook or crook and loaded a cannon to celebrate the event. It never went off as some one wet the powder.

History does not say where the first post office was. Rose ran a hotel and bar which stood where Jack Hannett's house is. It was probably there. The first mail was carried on horseback from Dexter as there were no roads to speak of in those days. Later when roads were built a stage coach from Dexter carried the mail until the railroad was built in 1883. A man from Dexter by the name of Grandy operated it for many years. The road between Big and Little Portage was not built then and the coach had to go around Peach Mountain by Stinchfield Rd. All freight was hauled from Dexter by horse and wagon and the Dexter express man came here by horse and wagon a couple of days a week.

The Democrats went back in power again and George Reeves was named postmaster. He had taken over the hotel. He ably served three years and then to Hell where he started a distillery. James Stansbury was then appointed again. He served five years. Levi Smith was in a year and then James Stansbury again.

Jason Kellogg then served four years and then John Broughton who clerked in a store operated by Dr. C. W. Haze. Ed Coleman succeeded him.

Abraham Lincoln was elected president in 1861. Charles Young was appointed postmaster. He died in 1867 and his wife Sarah Wheeler Young replaced him. The two served a total of 32 years, the longest ever served by any one family. We have a picture of Mrs. Young in front of the post office taken in 1883. It was then in the Clark block, now occupied by Mary Higgs (Gentile) store.

The Democrats won in 1892 and Mike Fohey was named postmaster. He moved the post office to the store just west of the hotel.

William McKinley was elected in 1896 and Sheridan Swarthout was appointed post master. There were two other applicants, Charles Teeple and William Crofoot. An election was held and Swarthout won. He held the office 16 years. It was in several locations. First in the Swarthout block, now occupied by Gentile Home Center, next in Gene Campbell's building and then in the place he built occupied by King's Barber shop.

Woodrow Wilson was elected president in 1912 and he named William E. Murphy post master. He had it in the same location as

Mr. Swarthout. When Harding was named president William C. Miller was named. He had the office in the Murphy location and later in the bank building for 12 years. Harry Murphy succeeded him and he also used the bank building. He transferred to a rural mail route. Murray Kennedy was acting postmaster a year and then Lawrence Baughn was appointed in 1949.

He bought the building where the office is now located and completely modernized it with new equipment, making it an up to date office.

There was no rural mail delivery until around 1900. Before that the farmers had to come to the post office for their mail. There was no machinery for clearing snow from the roads then and often in the winter they would go weeks without mail. It was the custom then for a farmer if he got through to get the mail for everybody on his road. Frank Newman and Goody Dinkel were the first rural carriers appointed. As the routes were extended Aubrey Gilchrist and H. H. Swarthout were added and Pinckney had four carriers for a number of years. When the auto came into use they were cut down to two. In the old days carriers were out until dark in the winter.

The present clerks in the post office are Mrs. Clifford Miller, Mrs. G. V. Howell and Merlin Amburgey.

The following are the Pinckney postmaster and the dates they were appointed.

James Stansbury, Feb. 5, 1837; George Reeves, Dec. 8, 1838; James Stansbury, May 31, 1841; Furman G. Rose, Dec. 21, 1846; Levi Smith, Nov. 14, 1848; James Stansbury, Dec. 12, 1849; Jason Kellogg, May 11, 1853; John Broughton, March 6, 1857; Eric Coleman, April 16, 1857; Charles Young, April 16, 1861; Sarah Young, March 27, 1867; Michael Fohey, 1893; Sherdian Swarthout, 1897; W. E. Murphy, 1913; W. C. Miller, 1921; Harry Murphy, 1933; and Lawrence Baughn, 1949.

Donald Winger Heads Sports Publicity Dept. at Olivet College

DONALD M. WINGER

Donald M. Winger son of Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Winger and a 1958 graduate of Pinckney High School has just been named Director of Sports Publicity at Olivet College where he is now a second year student.

Don has been active in sports activities, not as a participant, but as a writer, scorekeeper, and public address announcer for the past five years. At the conclusion of his senior year in high school Don was presented with an athletic award for his public address announcing by Superintendent Wesley Reader.

Last year while a freshman at Olivet, Don was active in the athletic department doing the same things he had done at Pinckney High School. He was public address announcer for both the Olivet High School and the college besides being football statistician, and baseball scorekeeper.

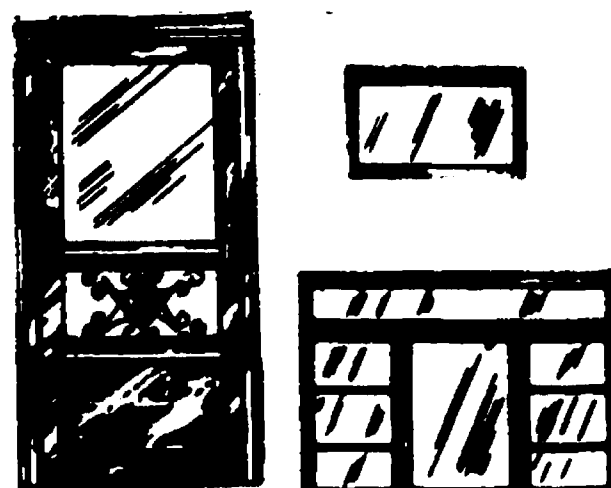

Don is very happy about his new appointment and he wants to thank all of the people in the community who encouraged him to continue his work with public address announcing and athletic publicity.

Pvt. Phillip Murphy is home from Camp Leonard Wood on 2 weeks furlough.

MICHIGAN MIRROR . . .

Michigan's cash crisis focused almost unprecedented attention on the State Administration Board this year.

Except for the Secretary of State's signature on drivers licenses, the public usually is not directly aware of Administrative Board actions.

This year, the Board has been to Michigan what the Joint Chiefs of Staff is to the Pentagon.

Urgency and secrecy prevail when the Board meets to decide how to meet the pressing problems it faces.

These are the men who, with Williams, exercise control over all state agencies and institutions:

Lt. Gov. John B. Swanson. He is acting governor when Williams is out of town and presides over the Administrative Board meetings when the Governor is absent.

Although he carries no vote as President and presiding officer in the GOP dominated Senate, Swanson has been a valuable liaison man between the Executive and Legislative branches.

Swanson, a World War II double-amputee, directed much of the effort to cash in the 50-million-dollar Veterans' Trust Fund.

Of all "cabinet members," the Lieutenant Governor has the least fulltime duties.

Sec. of State James M. Hare. Although he directs a far-flung agency operation, Hare's role in the cash crisis has been confined primarily to committee sessions within the Administrative Board. He was assigned to help look out for employee welfare during periods of payless paydays.

Hare feels he has made an indirect contribution to easing the cash crisis through his efforts to inaugurate programs of government economy and efficiency.

His non-crisis duties include operation of elections and motor vehicle services. His 225 branch offices throughout the state provide the bulk of the patronage jobs available in state government.

Hare's primary interest has been in the field of traffic safety.

Atty. General Paul L. Adams. The legality of the Board's unprecedented action in halting pay checks was carefully screened by Adams. He also has been called upon to review proposals to ease the cash crisis.

As chief legal enforcement officer of the state, his duties have been greatly increased during a time when the state has had to stall off creditors.

When contractors, suppliers and other vendors began demanding interest on money owed by the state, it was Adams who said they could take their cases to the State Court of Claims, where he is the "defense attorney" for the state.

Treasurer Sanford A. Brown. He's had the worst of the headaches. Brown supplies the figures that determine administration policies on rationing of money.

He has the constitutional obligation to make distribution of earmarked funds for schools, cities and villages and other units.

As the top fiscal officer in a state plagued with fiscal difficulties, it follows that Brown would have a difficult job.

One of Brown's toughest jobs has been to correct the misconception about Michigan's reputation and credit on the national money market.

Auditor General Frank Szymanski. The Auditor General's office releases the checks for payrolls, welfare bills and other obligations. When there isn't enough money, Szymanski has to impound the checks. More than 30,000 checks were impounded late in July.

A few vendors with extreme hardship cases were able to get their money. Szymanski made the decisions.

Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie. As in Hare's case, Mackie's cash crisis role has been confined to joint action as a voting member of the Administrative Board.

But as chief of the largest agency in state government, Mackie has had a direct interest in impact of the cash crisis.

However, most of his employees are paid from earmarked funds and did not suffer payless paydays.

Mackie directs a Board subcommittee considered with maintaining safety and defense measures should there be a collapse of state services.

Lynn M. Bartlett, superintendent of public instruction. Bartlett's efforts have been directed toward helping school districts live with the state school aid deficit that reached about 30 million dollars late in July.

As a member of the Municipal Finance Commission, he helps review the thousands of requests for borrowing received from districts throughout the state.

Government Seizes Products of Chelsea Milling Co.

The following is a dispatch from Portland, Maine. That is where the action was taken by the Maine board of health. Officials of the Chelsea Milling Co. say they have always taken the utmost precautions to insure cleanliness and purity of their products.

More than 450 cases of widely known prepared pastry mixes were seized Tuesday by Federal officials because they are alleged to contain "insect fragments" and "rodent hairs."

The products were those of the Chelsea Milling Co. of Chelsea, Mich., packagers of "Jiffy" cake, muffin, biscuit and pie crust mixes.

The federal food and drug division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare libeled 466 cases of biscuit and muffin mix which allegedly were packaged under unsanitary conditions.

A libel is the process by which the Government moves against an inanimate thing rather than against an individual. In effect it is a seizure.

Company officials said they were checking the report and could not comment immediately.

DOG NOT INFREQUENT SNAKE BITE VICTIM

An estimated 10,000 animals, with dogs as the most frequent victims, are bitten by poisonous snakes in the United States each year, states the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York.

This number is several times the number of human cases, and the percentage of resulting fatalities are also vastly greater than in man. This is no doubt due to delays in obtaining treatment, frequency of bites in head and neck, and the higher ratio of venom to body weight in smaller animals.

Treatment of bitten animals should follow the pattern of human therapy, and is best given by a veterinarian. Application of a tourniquet with incision and suction is commonly recommended. The latter can be particularly effective if applied within the hour. Appropriate antitoxins and antibiotics may also be of value in serious cases, and fluid therapy, including calcium gluconate and whole blood, may be required.

DESERTION OF "SUMMER PETS" TERMED SHABBY

Summer pet owners should make arrangements to turn over their temporary pets to an animal shelter or other home before the day to pack up and return to the city arrives, states the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York.

This shabby practice of deserting dogs, cats and other animals after vacation is over is both inhumane and inconsiderate. Many of the animals meet death on the highways, some are poisoned and still others become predators and marauders that scrounge for food, destroy property and injure or kill livestock.

If you have acquired a summer pet that cannot be taken home, spend a little time in locating a new home for the animal or arrange to leave it at a shelter. It is small payment for the pleasure a pet offers.

Permanent residents of a vacation or resort area might stave off future trouble by cautioning their summer neighbors about hurrying home and "forgetting" to take along their pets or making provisions for a new home, adds the Center.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

A Real "Novel" Idea

Had a call from Whitey Fisher, head of the Town Library's Emergency Committee. He's asked me to explain the situation.

This is the "emergency." The Library's moving into its new building next week—over on Bridge Street. Moving all those books will cost more than $200. At that rate we won't be able to afford any new books for a couple of years.

Whitey's got the solution—have everyone in town borrow at least five books, keep them a week, and return them to the new address!

From where I sit, cooperation among neighbors is the lifeblood of a town. People should work together... whether it's to help a library or fight intolerance. For instance, if you'll respect my right to an occasional glass of beer—and I respect the beverage of your choice... that kind of cooperation will do lots to help wipe intolerance "off the books."

Flint Singing Cop Retires After 25 Years Service

Lt. William Legree of the Flint police force has retired after 25 years. He was given a farewell party last week. He joined the dept. in 1934 as a stenographer. Appalled by the number of auto accidents in which school children were injured he suggested a program of safety in the schools, and was appointed director of it. He found it hard to attract the attention of small children on safety so he hit upon slogans that could be sung. Before long he had school children all over the city singing them. His songs have since been published in book form and have been sung in many other cities and abroad.

A $12,000 fire destroyed the barn on the Ross Needles farm near Howell last Wednesday. A gasoline engine they were using to load straw in a barn exploded. The tractor and live stock were saved.

Conservation Notes

The department has hiked the special deer hunting areas and a number of shooting permits. The upper peninsula area has been increased from 3600 to 7200 square miles, the northern lower peninsula from 10,000 to 11,200 square miles and Allegan area from 88 to 217 miles.

60,500 permits will be offered in the lower peninsula and 35,000 in the upper compared to 19,000 and 14,000 last year.

Forty-eight acres has been added to the Portland game area and 550 acres to the Alpena, Thunder Bay and Mackinac areas.

The department wants to exchange 55 acres of forest for 900 feet of frontage on Lake Huron with the U. S. Air Force.

A rash of hepatitis infection has sprung up in Presque Isle county and has been traced to impure wells. This often happens in limestone country where infected water travels for miles in limestone fractures.
