Mare Emphasis Being Placed on Aid for Aged

Many wonder why more aid for the aged in the way of medical and hospital treatment is being stressed and supported now. The reason is that the aged are becoming a political power. Back in 1890 there were only 92,257 people living in Michigan over 65 years of age, representing 4.4 per cent of the population. Today there are 600,-000 representing 7.7 per cent of the population. The aged have become a political power and are worth cultivating. So everybody is for aiding them. All three Democrat candidates for president and also vice president Nixon although they are not all agreed as to how much.

The present unrest in South Africa where there has been almost armed rebellion and hundreds of natives have been shot down is a manifestaion of the nationalist feeling sweeping the world which has so far resulted in the freedom of India, VietNam, China, Morroco, Ghana and other subjugated nations. In South Africa there are 3,000,000 white people and 10,000,000 black mostly Kaffirs. These Kaffirs do all the work. They get about 10 shillings a month plus food. This labor is indispensable to the white people as that of the negro slaves was to the south before the civil war. The Kaffir is just becoming aware of his strength and wants education and opportunity for advancement which had always been denied to him. It is another case of oppression of the majority by the minority.

One thing that is seldom seen any more is the shawl. The younger generation probably does not know the meaning of the word. Up until about 1910 they were an indispensible item in every household. You wrapped the baby in one when you took him out. The housewife threw one over her head when she went over to the neighbors or to the store. You wrapped one around you when you went out riding in the horse and buggy or cutter. Men also used them. There are pictures of Abraham Lincoln with a shawl wrapped around him. Most of the shawls were imported and came from India or Persia. They were made of wool. Paisley and Cashmere were the two most popular brands. The auto made the shawl unnecessary and now they are found only in attics or in collectors items. Some shawls were 12 feet long and had fringes on the border. S. E. Leonardson of Decatur, Ind., had a large display of shawls at the Great Lakes Antique show in Detroit last week. So if you have a shawl in your attic, don't hrow it away. It may be worth $25 to $40 to some collector.

Frank Morris who writes a column for the conservative republicans condemns the welfare situation which exists in Michigan and more particularly in the city of Detroit. During the labor shortage which existed during World War II thousands of negroes came up from the south and got jobs. With the end of the war the soldiers were demobilized. Many factories had, their war orders cancelled and thousands have since been out of work. Today the unemployed in the Detroit area total 95,000 . . . 75 per cent are migrants and 80 per cent are negroes. The cost of supporting them comes to $30 million a year. Another $30 million goes to general relief and dependent children support. The total cost in the state is about $114 million a year. The negroes have political power and public welfare is one way to cultivate it. In Michigan migrants must live here a year to get assistance but the law provides they may be given temporary assistance. This can be extended for years. The solution is not in sight. You cannot let them starve to death. You cannot transport them back where they came from if they do not want to go. They are citizens.

The three Democrat candidates in Detroit last week all came out in favor of medical and hospital care for the aged. The Michigan state senate voted 31 to 0 to set up a committee to draw up a bill providing for it. Both Democrats and Republicans have bills providing for such care in congress. They differ slightly. The Democrat bill would provide it by increasing the social security tax. The Republican or Fleming bill would accomplish it by voluntary health insurance but help aged dependents drawing social security to make the insurance payments. The industrialists are against it as they brand it an extension of the welfare state. The American Medical Society is against it as they class is as an opening wedge for socialized medicine.

You probably think that gasoline is gasoline wherever you buy it. You are mistaken. A tankful of gasoline bought in wintery Chicago differs from a tankful bought in balmy Miami, Florida. Summer gasoline bought in Chicago is unfike the winter fuel bought there. The reason is that the dealers vary the volatility or rate at which it will vaporize in the carburetor. It has divided the country into four zones each with a different vaporizing rate. It makes the gasoline match the weather. Chemicals prevent carburetor icing. Another takes care of the moisture the gasoline gets from the air. This is all an example of the industry's research program.
