

Candidates for Board of Education Must File Petitions No Later Than May 24th

Nominating petitions are now available for candidates for the annual school election. They may be secured at the office of the school superintendent and at the residence of the school board secretary Joseph Basylo, 8996 Pettysville road. Anyone wishing to run for election to the school board must file a petition with the secretary no later than 4 p.m. on May 24, 1960. Each petition must be signed by no less than 25 qualified school electors of the district. (No elector shall sign the petition of more candidates than are to be elected.)

In the school election on Monday, June 13, two trustees will be elected for three year terms, 1960-1963, and two trustees will be elected for a term of four years, 1960-64. The new 7-man board is being named in compliance with the new state law which calls for the increase in board membership in fourth class school districts. A bill making the seven-man board optional rather than mandatory died in committee last week.

No announcement has been received at this reporting of candidates planning to seek election. The terms of school board president, C. C. Hollingsworth and trustee, Lester McAfee expire this year.

Engagements Announced . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Lester McAfee of Pinckney announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Ellen, to I. Duane Waterbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Waterbury of Hamburg.

A graduate of Pinckney high school, Barbara is now a student at Eastern Michigan University. Mr. Waterbury, a graduate of Ann Arbor high school, is presently employed by the Hamburg Hardware. The wedding date is indefinite.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Sprague of E. Main St., announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Jean, to Gordon LaBelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver LaBelle. The groom-elect is now serving with the U. S. Army, at Fort Knox, Kentucky. A June wedding is planned.

A really good school board member should be able to subordinate his personal interests to the interests of the community, says Howard S. Bretsch (Ph. D.), University of Michigan professor of educational administration.

"He should refrain from acting on or speaking about board matters independently of board action," he adds. "Violation of this causes much trouble in school systems and communities. He should consider alternate solutions to problems without grasping the first plausible one that is proposed. He should make a special effort to develop sensitivity to community thinking."

Bretsch says a good school board member "refrains from engaging in matters which the board has reserved to the administration. Once the board has delegated functions to an executive officer, the school board member should support him in every reasonable way."

"In his relations to the community, he should seek to represent the community as a whole, and should not champion extremist positions. The ideal school board member usually seeks to learn the wishes of his constituency and acts thereon. However, he may at times possess information and understanding which would enable him to make a judgment in matters on which the community is not sufficiently informed."

According to Professor Bretsch, most board members come from the middle business-professional and farmer groups. The average tenure of school board members is four or five years. Probably 10 to 15 per cent are women. The majority of board members have children in school. Payment for board members in most states represents a token payment or an amount to cover expenses.

FARM WORK BARRED TO CHILDREN DURING SCHOOL

Farmers who are hiring workers for spring planting and harvesting were reminded today that Federal law prohibits children under 16 from working on farms during school hours.

"The place for children is in the classroom and not in the fields," said Regional Director William S. Singley of the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, the agency which enforces the Federal child-labor law.

Mr. Singley added that children of any age may do farm work before or after school hours, on the weekend, or on holidays. He stated, too, that farm children working exclusively for their parents or guardians are exempt from the Federal child-labor law.

"I also want to point out that the child-labor provisions apply equally to local children and to migrants," Singley said. "However, migrant children under 16 years may be employed in the spring if the school they last attended is closed for the summer, even though schools may still be open in the area where they now work."

In Michigan, farm areas and crops include: sugar beet and bean planting and pickle work in Lansing, Bay City, Saginaw, Port Huron and Flint areas; asparagus cutting, orchard work and vegetable planting in Benton Harbor; truck crops, orchard work, sugar beets and spring harvesting in Monroe and Pontiac regions; vegetable crops and orchard work in the Muskegon, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Jackson and Stockbridge area.

Additional information about the application of the Federal child-labor law to children working on farms is available at the local offices of the Wage and Hour Division in Michigan at:

Since Michigan water supplies are generally low in iodine and very few foods furnish any, iodized salt should be the seasoning whenever any salt is used. Home economists at Michigan State University point out that deep-sea fish are good sources of iodine.

They add that some authorities feel one of the common causes of fatigue among people of middle years is an iodine-deficient diet.

May 15 Final Date for Corn Loans

Farmers expecting to apply for price support on loans on their 1959 corn crop should do so by May 15th, according to Irene L. Briggs, office manager of the Livingston ASC County Committee.

The final date for approval of loans and purchase agreements on 1959 crop corn is May 31, 1960. However, in the case of farm-stored loans a minimum of two weeks is required for inspection of storage structure and the grain by the loan inspector, and the obtaining of a sample of the grain to be forwarded to a grain grading laboratory before the loan documents can be completed. If the storage structure and the grain are found to be acceptable, the producer will be given an opportunity to complete the loan. The loan and chattel mortgage must be signed and on file in the county ASC office by June 1, 1960.

Price support may be obtained by the producers of corn through purchase agreements, by applying to the county ASC office on or before May 31, 1960. Purchase agreements differ from loans in that the producer receives no funds unless or until he delivers the corn to Commodity Credit Corporation after the maturity date for the loan program, which is July 31, 1960 for 1959 crop corn.

The bright and cheerful forsythia bush may soon be making its debut in floral shops as a flowering potted plant, according to floriculturists at Michigan State University.

MOTHER'S MARCH DOOR-COUNT REPORTED

The three crippling diseases now under attack by The National Foundation affect more than one-fourth of the Livingston County homes answering a questionnaire in the January Mothers' March for the New March of Dimes, Mr. Ralph L. Nauss, chairman of the National Foundation's county chapter, reported today.

The three cripples are birth defects, arthritis and polio.

In addition to seeking funds, the Marching Mothers bore small "Door Count" cards asking several basic questions about these cripples. Tabulation of the Door Count was completed today.

Of the 2,348 households reporting in the annual appeal, 481 had persons suffering from arthritis, 89 reported family members who had been stricken with polio and 92 had persons born with some defect. Nine-tenths of the patients reported the diagnosis has been made by a physician.

The Marching Mothers also found that nearly 2 out of 5 individuals in the households reporting had not yet completed their full series of three Salk polio vaccine shots.

"While the Door Count was not a scientific survey," the chairman said, "it does provide a good working estimate of the size of these problems in our county. It will be of great value to the chapter in planning its future program of assistance to individuals with these conditions."

The contrast between the McPherson State Bank's Howell facilities as pictured above is paralleled by just as great a change in banking needs and services. Since April of 1865 when Alexander McPherson and Company began business with two people on the payroll and $15,000.00 in deposits many changes have taken place. Today 34 are on the staff of the McPherson State Bank to serve you and deposits approximate $10,000,000 but many things about our bank have not changed. Let us look at some of these:

Service to depositors — Safety and availability of our depositor's funds have always been foremost. NO depositor in our 95 years has been asked to take a loss on a deposit.

Service to borrowers — We have tried at all times to furnish credit, consistent with sound banking practices, to businesses and individuals in the community whenever needed.

Service to the Community — We have always regarded this as a responsibility, not only through providing needed bank services, but by encouraging participation in community affairs and projects by directors, officers and staff. The list of memberships in churches and community organizations held by our staff numbers over 100.

Service to the Bank's Staff — Through the years our bank has attempted to provide for its staff the best possible in working conditions, salaries, promotion and educational opportunities. In the last two years our staff members have completed 30 courses and schools in banking to advance themselves and to enable them to serve you better.

Bank services — As time has passed the McPherson State Bank has constantly looked for and provided new, needed services for the community. We have also striven to provide these services in the best possible way, utilizing the most modern facilities, equipment and systems available. At the same time we have tried to retain the friendliness and helpfulness which has been the mark of our bank's personal relationships since 1865.

These are some of the things about the McPherson State Bank which have not changed a bit in the last 95 years and while changes will occur in the future we are going to keep these philosophies just as they are. In the meantime we wish to thank all of you who as customers have made our success possible. As the years go on, we pledge ourselves to continue to merit the confidence you have placed in us.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

Michigan's 30,000 state employees can look forward to a gradual—but not radical—change in operation of the state's civil service merit system.

The changes, some long overdue, will be made by Franklin K. DeWald, who recently succeeded Arthur G. Rasch as state personnel director.

Although DeWald is expected to do some overhauling and modernizing of civil service operations, he will not be the "strong" Director that Rasch was prior to his retirement.

In that respect, Rasch's retirement marked the end of an era that began Jan. 1, 1941, when civil service became a constitutional agency following approval of a constitutional amendment by the voters.

Thomas J. Wilson was the first director under constitutional civil service and he named Rasch his

"Were we to consider Michigan as a place to locate a plant just now we would not be frightened off by a financial situation which will very likely prove temporary.

He said his firm knows Michigan is basically healthy financially and industrially wealthy. But, he added, it would be concerned about the "political climate" that caused the state's reputation to be damaged.

Although the number of traffic fatalities increased in Michigan last year, a report shows traffic deaths per vehicle have been steadily declining in Detroit during the last 30 years.

The Traffic Safety Association of Detroit reported that during the 1920's, an average of 316 persons were killed each year on Detroit streets and highways when an average of only 373,000 cars were operating.

During the 1930's, the traffic death rate dropped to 302 per year and the average number of cars rose to 501,000.

Traffic deaths plunged to an average of 206 in the 1940's and number of cars averaged 659,000.

During the 1950's, an average of 201 persons lost their lives every year in Detroit traffic mishaps although auto registrations rose to an average of 1,094,000.

The report said there was an average of one traffic death for every 1,100 motor vehicles on the road during the 1920's.

"If this ratio had been maintained through subsequent decades, Detroit would have recorded nearly 1,000 traffic deaths last year instead of 184," the report said.

Detroit's experience disproves the theory that the number of motor vehicle deaths in a community is directly related to the number of cars. But it does prove that a determined and co-ordinated attack on traffic accidents, such as Detroit launched 20 years ago, does pay off.

top assistant a year later.

Both men had been auto dealers in Grand Rapids and were good friends. Together, they safely guided civil service through its early years when many politicians tried to scuttle the system and replace it with the "spoils system."

Rasch stepped into the No. 1 spot in 1948 following Wilson's death and continued most of the policies he and Wilson had developed together.

"Many politicians will never understand the merit system chiefly because they don't want to," Rasch says.

DeWald, who came to Michigan from a top government personnel post in Washington, brings with him many new ideas which he is expected to initiate in an effort to streamline the agency's operations.

However, the basic philosophy of civil service will be the same as it was during the nearly 20 years that Wilson and Rasch were at the helm.

The one big difference from now on will be that the four-member civil service commission will exercise greater policy control than ever before. The era of the "strong" director has ended.

DeWald, a native of Fort Wayne, Ind., has been in government personnel work since 1938 after receiving a Doctor's degree in law.

His most recent post has been as Director of Civilian Personnel for the U.S. Navy. The Navy's personnel program is considered one of the best in the country.

A blue-ribbon board, made up of top personnel executives from industry and government, conducted the examination for the new personnel director. The civil service commission named DeWald after he finished first among 23 persons who took the exam.

The president of one of the world's biggest corporations says "politics, not poverty" has hurt Michigan's potential for attracting new industry.

Crawford H. Greenwalt, president of the E. I. duPont de Nemours and Co., one of the world's few billion dollar corporations, made the comment during a recent visit to the firm's plant in Montague.

"Michigan's financial problems certainly aren't unique," Greenwalt said. "But the fact the state seems to advertise them probably is." Crawford said many other states have just as many fiscal problems as Michigan has.

USE COLOR CONTRASTS TO ADVANTAGE IN HOME

Don't worry about "fashion" when you consider whether or not to make one wall in your living room contrast with the other three walls. The one consideration is "What will it do for the room?"

Home economists at Michigan State University note that a contrast with color or wallpaper creates a center of interest. The principle can be used to emphasize a fireplace wall or the wall behind a furniture grouping. There is little point in emphasizing a wall which offers nothing of interest to look at.

Color contrast can help "re-shape" a room. If the living room is very long and narrow, consider painting all walls the same color, but use a darker value on the end walls. This will make the room appear less long.

Be careful of color contrasts where rooms and halls open into each other. The home economists suggest coordinating the areas by using one color as a central theme and following it throughout the various rooms. If green is your choice for the living room, a lighter shade of the same green can be used in a dark hall. For emphasis, one wall in the dining alcove might be papered with a blending green and white pattern. Bedrooms opening from the green hall can be painted or papered in colors that harmonize with the hall, allowing use of green accents.

The Real Truth About Spinach

What's the real truth about spinach?

Most kids, who generally over the ages haven't particularly cared for the vegetable recommended as "good for them" by parents, now seem to have gotten the impression that "spinach isn't what it used to be."

This impression probably is a result of television programs or newspaper and magazine articles which have pointed out there are many other vegetables which may be even more nutritious than spinach.

This may be true, but nutritionists at the Michigan Department of Health still say spinach is a good vegetable to eat.

Even though Popeye the Sailor has "thrived" on spinach for as long as cartoons featuring him have existed, children for some reason haven't been swayed too much. Generally they don't relish its taste and, in some cases, have probably rebelled against its being "forced down their throats."

Nutritionists point out that spinach, with its dark green leaves, is really a good looking, tasty addition to any plate of food. And, what's more, it is highly nutritious with a high iron and calcium content as well as an abundance of vitamins A and C. It also contains large quantities of water-soluble B vitamins, including thiamine and riboflavin.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brunton attended the confirmation of their grandson, Michael, in a Livonia church Sunday and were dinner guests at the L. Szczepanowski home.

HELD THIS WEEK OPEN ALERT 1960

Following President Eisenhower's direction for periodic testing of Civil Defense planning, the nation held its annual Operation Alert 1960 from May 3 to May 5.

With the exception of a few local communities, the Michigan public was not asked to participate during this test exercise. Participation was by Federal, state and local agencies and departments of government, testing their various emergency plans and facilities.

On May 3, the radio broadcasting industry tested emergency broadcasting facilities by switching stations with special equipment to the CONELRAD frequencies of 640 and 1240. FM radio, television stations, and all AM radio stations without the special CONELRAD equipment went off the air by direction of the Federal Communications Commission.

The drill, planned to increase the public knowledge of the Civil Defense emergency broadcasting system, also tested the system of priorities established for presidential and local use of the CONELRAD stations. In a national emergency, only the Chief Executive or his spokesman could pre-empt CONELRAD time. CONELRAD is primarily assigned to local governments for local broadcasting of life—protecting and survival instructions to the public.

Conservation Notes

Approximately 92,000 yearling lake trout will be released in Lake Michigan early next week by workers of the Conservation Department and the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife to kick off Michigan's first plantings for 1960.

Michigan residents are urged to report color - marked whistling swans, including the locations and dates of their sightings, to local Conservation Department game men or officers.

The migrating birds were banded and marked this spring to learn more about the relationship between populations wintering on the Atlantic Coast, concentration areas for breeding in the North Central states and Canada, and other patterns of distribution.

Swans trapped at the Shiawassee Refuge in Michigan are colored red on their bodies and lower neck regions. Those taken in the Lake Erie marshes of Ohio are colored green while wings and tails of swans from Maryland are yellow or purple. The purple markings may appear black.

Department game men request that all observations be reported by June 10 so that this information may be forwarded according to schedule to the Mississippi Flyway Council which is conducting the survey.

CHILDRENS' PLAY

Rainy spring days bring the familiar question, "Mommy, what can I do?" You can suggest finger painting. Children can even mix up their own paints.

For children, it's a recipe for hours of fascinating play. First there's the joy of "messing". Second is the vast pleasure derived from combining colors and creating designs.

For Mom, it's a simple activity to plan. Supplies are a bottle of liquid laundry starch and food coloring. Children can add food coloring to the amount of starch they will want to use.

BACKWARD TIPS DEADLIEST OF TRACTOR MISHAPS

Michigan's late spring it putting a lot of pressure on farmers to hurry in handling farm equipment.

This hurrying often causes an epidemic of backward tractor tips, warns a Michigan State University farm safety specialist.

"Backward tips are the deadliest kind," points out Richard Pfister. "Our continuing survey of newspaper clippings shows about 50 Michigan deaths from these tips in the 1950's."

Farmers are working a lot of soft ground this spring, Pfister observes, leading to more times of getting stuck. Then it's a temptation to rock back and forth violently rather than take time to ask a neighbor for a pull.

"The neighbor can pull you out in a few minutes," Pfister points out. "If you don't call him, he may wind up doing all your work while you lie in a hospital bed."

Backing up is the only safe way out when the rear tires become mired more than 12 inches deep.

At about that depth, the tractor's weight is no longer supported by the bottom of the tire. It shifts to the point where the tire's leading edge hits the ground. The leading edge would then be near the tractor's center of gravity, making a backward tip quite easy.

"Don't kid yourself that you can disengage the clutch in time," Pfister warns. "You have less than two-fifths of a second to prevent a tip once it starts."

He advises using a low drawbar for all pulling. Some people feel a higher hitch gives more traction, but it often causes a backward tip.

Driving over small ditches also causes a lot of tractor tips at this time of year. A steep bank is dangerous even if it's shallow.

Buyers Told To Read Labels

Michigan's maple products rate among the highest in the nation, but purchasers should read carefully labels to be sure they are getting what they think they are buying.

This is the suggestion of J. L. Littlefield, chief of the Michigan Department of Agriculture's foods and standards division, whose in-spectors are constantly on the watch for adulteration and mis-branding of maple products.

Last year Michigan produced 51,000 gallons of maple syrup valued at $280,000.

"Pure maple syrup," said Mr. Littlefield, "can be labeled exactly that. The container must carry the name and address of the manu-facturer and the net contents. The standard for maple syrup requires that it contain not more than 35 per cent water and weigh at least 11 pounds per gallon."

It is unlawful for any person to manufacture and sell maple sugar, maple molasses or maple syrup that is in any way adulterated with com-mon sugar, glucose or other foreign substances without distinctly label-ing the package with the true and appropriate name of the article and the percentage that foreign sub-stances enter into the composition of the product.

The penalty is imprisonment up to a year or a fine of not more than $500 for the person who knowin-gly sells or misrepresents any maple syrup.

If maple products appear not to be up to the quality or quantity represented, buyers may enter a complaint with the Michigan De-partment of Agriculture's food and standards division at Lansing.

Michigan has at least 2,000 farm ponds or about one pond for every 75 farms, report soil con-servation specialists at Michigan State University.

Lettuce, parsley and radish com-bined with sweet alyssum, dwarf marigolds, ageratum and dwarf petunias can make a very decor-a-tive border for a small kitchen gar-den.

Farmers' price-cost squeeze will extend well into the 1960's, fore-cast agricultural economists at Michigan State University.

First step in control of annoy-ing box elder bugs is to get rid of seed-bearing female box elder trees, suggest entomologists at Michigan State University. Planting only male trees won't solve the problem entirely but it will help.

Issues Warning to Vacuum Buyers

By PAUL L. ADAMS

Presently in Michigan certain un-scrupulous salesmen are clean-ing up by the door-to-door sale of va-cuum cleaners.

No money exchanges hands. The victims are generally smooth-talk-ed into signing a chattel mortgage and note usually in excess of $200 for the purchase of a vacuum cleaner. The papers are then as-signed to a finance company and the buyer is hooked.

The cleaner itself may wholesale for slightly less than $200.00. A comparable one could probably be purchased from a reputable local merchant for slightly less than $50.

The salesman comes equipped with the usual gimmick. The standard patter is to tell the pur-chaser that he will receive a $25.00 credit on his account for each pros-pective prospect recommended who purchases a cleaner. When the account is paid up, the purchaser is supposed to get the money in cash. An official looking certificate con-taining such statements is present-ed to the purchaser.

The only difficulty is that the certificates are of doubtful legal validity. Further, there are enough loopholes involved so that the in-nocent purchaser usually receives no credits or money even if he does recommend purchasers.

It's a gimmick, nothing more. Yet the volume of Michigan con-sumers who are taken daily by this scheme continues to grow.

There is only one safe way to be sure when purchasing applian-ces. Know what you're signing and, if in doubt, consult a lawyer. Bet-ter yet, patronize established, re-putable dealers who will stand be-hind their products and promises.
