PHS Band Performs at Spring Festival . . .

Highlighting the Spring Festival at the high school last Friday night was the first public appearance of the school band in the new uniforms. A capacity audience applauded the performance of the band and the songs of the high school Chorus, all under the direction of Lon McCollum. The occasion was saddened by the thought that it was Mr. McCollum's farewell appearance with the students of the music department.

This is Michigan Week, the seven days of the year, which for the past seven years have been set aside to take notice of the many things we the Citizens of Michigan just take for granted all the rest of the year.

It is also the time to tell other states about our pleasant peninsula of apple blossoms and white pine; about Michigan's tremendous potential for industry and progress and about the people who live in Michigan.

Yes, emphasis this year is on the People of Michigan, from the people who handed down our thrilling heritage to the people who to this day are striving to make Michigan an even better place in which to live, work and enjoy life.

TODAY IS EDUCATION DAY

In this seventh observance of Michigan Week, today had been set aside as Education Day. Today is dedicated to the schools, colleges and the universities of Michigan and to the teachers and to the students.

Schools throughout the state will hold special meetings, open house and in some cases, public functions in the evening.

Citizens should try to visit the schools and to observe the work of the classes, many of which have prepared special exhibits for visitors.

Education Day provides the citizens of the State with the opportunity to give recognition to our entire educational system.

Today is also a day for displaying and honoring Michigan's Flag. The state flag which was presented to the elementary school of Pinckney by the Parents Club three years ago is unfurled every day along with Old Glory.

State Constitution Now Indexed for Better Reference

A new edition of the Constitution of the State of Michigan has just been issued by the Department of State.

For the first time in history, this revised edition has been completely indexed and has been given descriptive "catch lines" which makes it easier for law-maker and layman to locate specific information he needs.

According to James M. Hare, Secretary of State, many more people are showing an interest in Michigan's Constitution this year than ever before. It is being discussed in schools, in homes, at club meetings, and in the columns of newspapers.

"This is due in large part," Hare said, "to the fact that the League of Women Voters and many units of the Junior Chamber of Commerce are circulating petitions to place the question of a Constitutional Convention on the ballot."

Hare announced that both public school and community libraries have been supplied with copies of this easy-to-read edition of the Constitution. He reminded citizens that local librarians can be of great help to teachers, students and citizens in suggesting other literature which can lead to a better understanding of the Constitution and the various pro and con arguments on the Constitutional Convention plan.

The "catch lines" in the revised edition are in bold type and serve as captions for the scores of sections under the seventeen major articles in Michigan's half-century-old Constitution.

The index, which was compiled by the Legislature Service Bureau, contains such subheads as almshouses, slavery, lotteries, insurrection, invasion, prison chaplains, cemeteries, treason, and widows.

A losing streak which last Friday pushed the P. H. S. Pirates into fifth place in the six-team Washtenaw Conference, seems to be dogging the local high baseball team. On May 5, they lost to Chelsea, 12-6 and last Wednesday to the Ypsilanti Rough Riders, 6-5. The result of their contest with Dexter on May 17, was not available in time for publication here. Today the Pirates go to Saline for a conference game with the Hornets who are at the top of the list with 5 wins and only one loss.

FISHING LICENSE FEES REMAIN THE SAME

Confusion over an earlier proposed hike in Michigan's fishing fees is causing some resistance to license sales this spring.

A number of dealers have reported that many fishermen are not buying licenses because they think fees have been raised. The Conservation Department's six-point proposal to upgrade the state's fishing license fee structure failed to rally support and was never introduced in the legislature. It was aimed at alleviating a critical situation in Michigan's Game and Fish Protection Fund.

The annual resident license remains at $2.00 while the annual nonresident fee is still $5.00. Also unchanged is the state's $2.00 trout stamp and the $4.00 nonresident 15-day license.

As was the case last year, no license is required for taking perch, catfish, bull heads, blue pike, sand pike, ciscoes and carp by hook and line from state waters of Lakes Superior, Michigan, Huron, St. Clair and Erie and the St. Marys, St. Clair and Detroit rivers.

Wives of all resident licensees may fish on their husbands' license and trout stamps.

Appointment of the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Jerome V. MacEachin, pastor of St. Thomas Aquinas church East Lansing, as a chaplain for the Michigan State Police has been announced by Commissioner Joseph A. Childs.

He succeeds the late Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Gabriels, pastor of Resurrection church, Lansing, who served the department for 26 years. Monsignor Gabriels died New Year's Day of this year.

The department has five chaplains, three in the lower peninsula and two in the upper peninsula.

MICHIGAN STATE POLICE
Emphasizing that May begins a hazardous five-month outdoors period in water sports, the Michigan State Police in their first annual water safety report just issued disclosed that 325 persons were drowned and another 179 injured in 457 water accidents last year.

The report covers the first full year under the state's watercraft safety law which went into effect late in 1958. The law requires that reports on all water accidents involving loss of life, personal injury and property damage be filed with the State Police.

The May through September period accounted for 83 per cent of the accidents.

Included in the 325 drownings were 110 boat operators or passengers, 91 swimmers or waders, 37 who committed suicide, 39 children who strayed or slipped or fell into the water and 48 deaths due to various other causes.

The principal causes of swimming deaths included: Physical failure, 30; non-proficiency, 27; disregard of safety rules, 18, and unfamiliar waters, 15.

In boating, operator negligence was blamed for 55 drownings, fires, explosions and equipment failure contributed to 32, and boat upsets because of waves, wakes or weather accounted for 24.

University of Michigan students range in age from 16 to 79.

ABOUT YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Self-employed farmers who did not work under social security before 1955, should read this, according to W. Scott Hamlin, Manager of the Lansing, Michigan, Social Security Office.

Self-employed farmers who have or will have paid their social security self-employment tax for 5 years, now have disability protection. This is true because at least 5 years of social security credits out of the last ten years are necessary to protect and employed worker against disability. For self-employed farmers who were first covered by social security in 1955, their 5th year of coverage was acquired in 1959 in nearly all cases.

Farmers who become totally disabled after working at least five years under social security, should contact their local social security office for more information about benefit payments for themselves and their families.

You don't have to be an Atlas or Amazon to be in good physical condition, according to a pamphlet put out by the Michigan Department of Health.

The pamphlet, called "Keeping Fit," was prepared in cooperation with Dr. Janet A. Wessel, professor of Health and Physical Education at Michigan State University.

Copies of "Keeping Fit" may be obtained without charge by writing to the Michigan Department of Health, Lansing 4.

HEALTH INSURANCE BENEFITS INCREASE

Health insurance benefit payments by insurance companies to the people of Michigan climbed to a new high during 1959, the Health Insurance Institute reported today.

In the period from January 1 through December 31, 1959, said the Institute, an estimated $157 million was paid out to help cover the cost of doctor and hospital bills, and to replace income lost through sickness or disability.

This represents a gain of 2.2 per cent over the 1958 figure of $153 million, and is based on reports from insurance companies doing business in the state.

The rise in benefit payments in Michigan was reflected in the figures for the nation as a whole, the Institute declared.

4-H Council elects new officers.

At the last meeting of the county 4-H Council, Phil Gage of Kensington Road, Brighton was elected as 4-H Council Chairman for the coming year. Other officers elected were Mrs. Mildred Perkins, Vice Chairman; Mrs. Edward McKeon, secretary; and Mr. Kenneth Pekens, treasurer, all of Howell.

Dates for your Calendar

We have a number of dates for 4-H Club members to circle on their calendars for coming county 4-H events. They are May 21 for a 4-H dairy cattle judging and fitting and showing day and May 28 for a 4-H saddle horse field day. Both events are for 4-H dairy and saddle members respectively and their leaders and parents. The leaders meeting for the 4-H Foods adult and junior leaders will be held on Tuesday evening, June 7 at 8 p.m. in the Home Economics Room of the Howell High School.

M. M. P. A. Tour

The Michigan Milk Producers Association is providing an opportunity for 3 boys in the 4-H dairy project in Livingston County to attend a Milk Marketing Tour on June 15 and 16. The MMPA Milk Marketing Tour will give the young men an opportunity to view a marketing cooperative in action. Of special interest to the members will be learning how the price farmers receive for milk is established. They will also visit the Twin Pines Dairy to see the processing of milk and milk products. The two day tour in Detroit will conclude with the boys attending the Detroit-Boston baseball game on the 16th.

The boys to attend are in the process of being selected, with local 4-H Club leaders nominating members of their clubs to attend.

A total of 111 corporations, 15 foundations and 846 alumni and friends of The University of Michigan have contributed to the campaign to operate the Michigan Memorial-Phoenix Project of atomic research for the next five years.

"HOT FURNACES AND COLD FACTS"

By Paul L. Adams

If a consumer has any worries about his furnace, now is the time to have it checked by an established, reputable heating concern.

As the weather cools, a swarm of door-to-door furnace repair and cleaning solicitors will be blanketing the state. A cold greeting for these salesmen may mean a warmer, more economical year for the consumer and his family.

My investigation indicates that a common tactic used is as follows:

The innocent consumer is first sold a furnace cleaning job complete with mothproofing of the ducts. Then when the company representative drops in later under the guise of inspecting the job, he expresses surprise at the state of the furnace and determines that it needs repairs.

Before the consumer can catch his breath, the furnace has been taken apart and the so-called expert says that a new heating unit is needed. This generally occurs in cold weather.

If the consumer balks at signing the contract for the purchase of a new furnace, the self-styled repairman starts to walk out with the parts still on the floor and the ouse getting colder by the minute. That once a salesman can gain access to examine the furnace under any guise, the customer is in trouble although he may not realize it.

Almost invariably in the cases involved, after examining the furnace, the so-called repairman has stated that the furnace is in a dangerous condition.

The following pitches have been used: The furnace is about to blow up. A house fire is imminent. The family is in immediate danger of asphyxiation from gas. The owner is sitting on a load of dynamite.

So don't be pressured or frightened into a rash act. If in doubt, compare estimates of competitors and have an established repairman check the furnace. If you have other questions consult the appropriate local governmental agency.

More than 10,000 persons have taken part in joint programs of The University of Michigan and Wayne State University this year.

Mich. Bell Makes Record Tax Payment

Michigan Bell Telephone Company announced its payment to the state primary school fund for 1959 was the largest in the company's history.

Amounting to a record $13,919,359, an increase of nearly $1,500,000 over 1958, the payment again placed Michigan Bell as the top contributor to the fund.

Russell H. Engelhardt, manager here for the company, reported that $9,727 of the total tax payment was allocated to the public school system of Pinckney.

Schools throughout Livingston County received from Michigan Bell's payment a total of $65,781. Payments were based on the county school census of 9,731, and the local school census of 1,439.

The tax payment amounted to $6.76 for each of the 2,058,028 youngsters in the state between the ages of 5 and 19 who were on the census rolls for the 1959 school year.

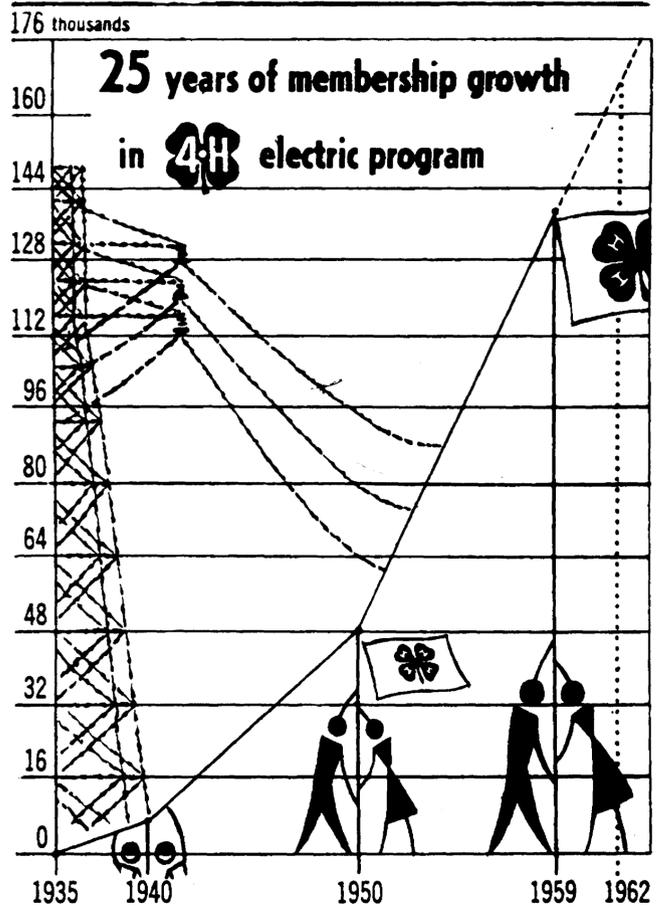

Citizens' Names New Officers

The Citizens' Mutual Automobile Insurance Company has elected two new vice presidents and several other new officers. The posts were created and individuals named to fill them at a board of direction meeting held at the company's home office in Howell on April 30.

Arthur V. Smith was elected vice president—claims and Whitfield T. Scarboro was elected vice president—underwriting. Mr. Smith began his employment with Citizens' in 1930. He became assistant claims manager in 1951 and claims manager in 1953. He was elected a director of the company in 1953. Mr. Scarboro joined Citizens' in 1957 after extensive executive experience with insurance companies and an insurance management consulting firm. Both are residents of Howell.

President Berthold Woodhams presided at the policyholders' meeting during which Joseph V. Brady, James A. Robb and Don W. VanWinkle, all of Howell, were re-elected to the board of directors for three-year terms.

This month marks the 25th anniversary of the 4-H Electric program sponsored by Westinghouse and the Cooperative Extension Service.

From a beginning of sporadic leadership and limited information in less than half the states, the program has developed into a highly successful activity in 50 states involving trained leaders and special educational materials.

During the last 10 years, enrollment has steadily risen from 48,000 boys and girls to the all-time high of 138,000 in 1959.

Teenagers' interest in electronics and engineering has undoubtedly spurred participation in the electric program, according to Extension surveys.

Next fall the top winner from each state will attend the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago as a guest of the Westinghouse Educational Foundation. The six cited for national honors will receive $400 Westinghouse scholarships.

Twelve different major areas are open to students interested in agriculture at Michigan State University.

"Modern agriculture needs people who can manage, process, distribute and sell agricultural products," says Vern Freeh, coordinator of student programs in the M. S. U. College of Agriculture. "It needs people who can give service to those who produce and consume these products; who can do research and teaching; who can communicate ideas and information; and who can farm."

Two years ago, the College of Agriculture reorganized its curriculum to better prepare students for the large number of career opportunities that exist off-the-farm as well as on-the-farm.

Both farm-reared and city-reared youth can find career opportunities in modern agriculture, states Freeh. Farm-reared youth can make especially good use of their backgrounds in jobs where they deal directly with farmers.

Students who are not interested in a four-year college program should consider one of the 13 short course programs in agriculture, agricultural industry or other specialized areas, Freeh points out.

love that tourist!

He's a fabulous fellow. He's a go-er and a do-er.

He's a fun-loving man with a wife and kids and a carload of maps, cameras, fishing rods, water skis, golf clubs, swimsuits and beach balls.

He's a Michigan fan, just itching to explore some of those 11,037 inland lakes . . . or part of that 3,251 miles of Great Lakes "seashore" in our beautiful Water Wonderland.

He loves to spend money, too. Matter of fact, he and his friends ring up over $650,000,000 a year on cash registers all over our home state.

How can you help your community get its slice of this tourist pie? Easy. Do a little more for vacationers. Show off your hospitality. Smile bigger. Then if you'd like to do still more, check with your local Chamber of Commerce or the Tourist Association in your area.

Moral: tourist travel is no nickel-and-dime affair. It's a dollars-and-sense proposition that means better living for all of us.

How Antique Thieves Operate

The letter of a Detroit woman published in a daily newspaper recently prompts a timely warning to area residents. A house-to-house thief, she states, about whom the Better Business Bureau has not yet spoken, is the antique dealer who visits the rural areas in the spring and summer months and "steals", usually from aged people living alone, antiques and family heirlooms for a mere fraction of their worth.

These buyers operate by belittling the article they want to get their hands on and offering to buy it "anyhow". About twenty years ago an elderly invalid in Pinckney lost two old clocks "which weren't worth fixing" to such a dealer. Each clock was worth much more than the price she was given for both. Her husband was away during the dealer's visit and his identity was not discovered.

Relatives, friends and neighbors should warn elderly house-holders of the possibility of such unscrupulous callers. A reputable antique dealer will properly identify himself and be in no hurry to close a deal for "a couple of dollars".

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES

The Gregory congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will send about 25 delegates to the educational Bible Forum being held in Albion May 27 through 29, said Mr. Miller, presiding minister.

The keynote discourse, as well as the principal lecture, "Finding Peace in a Troubled World", will be delivered by district minister, P. D. D'Mura, who heads Witness' activity in Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. He will appear on each days program.

Said Mr. Miller, "Our ministry is practical for it meets the everyday needs of life seekers. While much of the world gives in to the influence of greed, hate, lust and violence we are learning "New World" living. That's another way of saying we practice in daily living what Christ taught. Affairs like this one in Albion", he stated, give us additional information on how the Bible is being fulfilled and what our conduct should be in these last days".

Mr. Miller said convention officials have arranged a modest cafeteria to care for the expected 1,800 attenders.

A water baptism of new ministers Saturday will be the most colorful feature of the three-day meet.

Modern Mermaids Wear White

Perkily poised on a rock, this modern Lorelei needs neither golden comb nor seductive song to capture attention at the beach, lake, or river's edge. Modestly covered, yet provocative, she is the essence of allure in her dainty one-piece bathing suit of white dotted swiss. The matching beach jacket of the same cotton fabric will do little to repel either the sun or any mother's son!

White cotton in varying weights and types of weave will be a big feature in bathing suits this year, according to the fashion experts. They point out how flattering sparkling white is to sun-bronzed skin, and how practical it is to keep looking pretty all season even though it needs frequent laundering.

The best way to make sure that white cotton suits stay beguiling is to add chlorine bleach beads to the sudsy wash water. These quick-dissolving little beads lift out ingrained soil that can make white fabric look dingy unless it is removed regularly and completely. Chlorine bleach beads are safe, too. Unlike traditional chlorines, they cannot damage any bleachable fabric no matter how long or how often the garment is given this special cleansing treatment.

STRAWBERRY CROP IN STATE SOON

A Michigan strawberry crop estimated to be equal to last year's 32.3 million pound crop is expected to be reaching retail outlets in the state by late May or early June depending on weather.

The Crop Reporting Service of the Michigan Department of Agriculture believes production will be slightly under the 10-year-average, but the state will still be the largest producer harvesting at this time of year. The value of last year's yield to the grower was $5,388,000.

Most Michigan berries reach retail markets in crates containing 16 one-quart tins. The crate or outside container must contain the name and address of the grower or packer, the variety and net contents in letters not less than 5/16 of an inch tall.

The fruit on the shown surface of a container or quart box must be representative of the size and quality of the fruit beneath. Enforcement of these requirements are a responsibility of the Michigan Department of Agriculture's foods and standards division whose main office is in Lansing.

Michigan residents have a keen appetite for fresh strawberries. Last year about two-thirds of the crop was sold on the fresh fruit market with the rest going to processors.

The chief production area in the state is in Berrien and Van Buren counties, but there also are substantial plantations of strawberries at Alpena, the Traverse City region, and at Chassel in the Upper Peninsula.

Most common varieties grown are the Premier, an old favorite, and the newer and larger Robinson.

Sour cream opens the door to new adventures in meal planning and cookery. It's not a new product. In fact, our grandmothers and their mothers relied on sour cream to add full fine flavor to their cooking and baking.

The word "sour" may be misleading. Sour cream today is a far superior product to that used in Grandma's day. Today's product is made from fresh sweet cream treated to produce a rich tangy flavor.

Win a "good cook" reputation by using sour cream - it adds that "something special" to appetizers, dishes, salads, dressings, soups, vegetables, cakes and desserts.

Whip sour cream slightly to increase thickness. Overwhipping turns it to butter.

Conservation Notes

The time has again arrived this spring for the European Pine Sawfly to start chewing up the needles of Red and Scotch Pines. The larvae, or worm stage of this sawfly, have emerged and they will feed in clusters on previous years needles and may completely defoliate the tree. The loss of needles from trees intended of Christmas trees could be a serious blow to managers of plantations, but fortunately this insect is easy to control by spraying directly on the larvae as they are feeding. The smaller the larvae, the easier they are to kill, District Forester Victor Horvath of Ann Arbor, responsible for forest activities for the Michigan Department of Conservation in the 5 southeastern counties, recommends spraying with DDT 50 percent wettable powder.

Instant sweet potato flakes are a food of the future. Just add hot water or milk and have mashed sweet potatoes in 60 seconds. The process is being developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and may take another year of testing and improving.

FIRE CHANCES CUT BY SPRING 'FARM CLEANING'

Spring cleaning on a farm does not stop with the house. It includes the entire farmstead.

"Fire rarely strikes a well-kept farm," observes Richard Pfister, agricultural engineering safety specialist at Michigan State University. "Pride in appearance usually goes along with a litter-free layout."

First step in spring "farm cleaning" is to check the farm shop. Dispose of all shavings, rags and other trash. Then put all the tools in order for spring and summer use.

Next, get rid of dead grass and weeds around buildings. Pfister has found that tall weeds often act as a fuse when set off by grass fires. This danger is greatest in spring when many people burn trash.

Third, make sure the cables of your lightning rods are securely fastened to the ground rods.

Fourth, clean up the outbuildings. "String saving" can prove costly if it provides kindling to help burn down a barn or tool shed.

"Don't put off the cleanup too long," Pfister advises. "Spring field work will soon take up most of your time if it isn't already doing so."

Tray-Ready Picnic

"Trayed" for travel is a land 'n sea meal, ready to ride with picnickers who take to the road or waves. At home, individual lunches are packed in cutlery trays and fitted with plastic covers, then carried afloat or a'wheel in a portable cooler.

Ideal for out-of-hand eating is the frankfurter bun with a filling featuring cottage cheese, Bleu cheese, and cooked bacon bits. Packet partners are fried chicken, deviled eggs, tomato wedges, relishes, and chocolate cake.

CHEESE-BACON SANDWICH FILLING

1/2 cup chopped, cooked bacon
1 cup cottage cheese
1/4 cup crumbled Bleu cheese
1 tablespoon chopped stuffed olives
3 tablespoons chopped celery
1 tablespoon mayonnaise or salad dressing

Combine bacon, cottage cheese, Bleu cheese, olives, celery, and mayonnaise.

Yield: 1 1/2 cups, or filling for 8 sandwiches.

Treat For Graduates!

Top off the Graduation exercises with a party... and let these clever ice cream "graduates" serve as dessert! So easy on the hostess, too! For the main course, the boys and girls would love having both frankfurters and hamburgers on toasted, mustard-spread rolls, served with sliced dill pickles and a salad. Serve pitchers of milk, a fruit punch — and then surprise and delight them with this easy-to-make dessert. For a special touch, roll the napkins diploma-style and tie with the school colors.

Ice Cream Graduation Dessert

- 1 quart vanilla ice cream
- 2 cans (about 2-2/3 cups) Angel Flake Coconut
- 12 chocolate-coated graham crackers
- Maraschino cherries
- Chocolate chips
- Jam

Scoop ice cream into balls and place in a "ruff" of flaked coconut on serving plate. Press a chocolate-coated graham cracker on top of each ball for the "mortarboards." With a bit of jam fasten short tassels of ribbon on top of "mortarboards." Cut a slice of maraschino cherry for the mouth; use chocolate chips for eyes. Serve at once. Makes 12 servings.

"Economic climate," a political football for two election campaigns in a row, is going to be booted around in a third.

It was a central theme of the 1958 fall campaign, it was an issue during the 1959 spring election, and it will be paramount from now until the Nov. 8 balloting.

The two candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, Paul D. Bagwell and Sen. Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo), have questioned Michigan's qualifications as a place to do business.

Democrats have fanned the fire. Lt. Gov. John B. Swainson, for one, challenged Bagwell to debate the economic climate issue. "Mr. Bagwell shouldn't be allowed to drag Michigan through the mud again," said Swainson, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Many of those concerned with Michigan's economic destiny—those on both sides of the political fence—have been doing some soul-searching about the wisdom of knocking Michigan.

Crawford H. Greenwalt, president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., said during a recent visit to a Michigan plant that the state's troubles was "politics, not poverty."

"We know that Michigan is basically healthy financially, and industrially wealthy," Greenwalt said.

The Bible for both sides of the economic climate debate is the so-called Haber Report, a study sponsored by the W. E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research and conducted by two institute specialists and Prof. William Haber, University of Michigan

Democrats emphasize the chapter on Michigan's potentials.

Republicans emphasize the chapter on Michigan's problems.

Most-quoted section of the Michigan needs 100,000 new jobs Haber report is the one indicating that says:

Most ignored section is the one "Guard zealously the good name of the state. Stop undermining its reputation by exaggerating its problems and minimizing its virtues. We have short-changed the state long enough."

Action programs recommended last year by the Haber report generally were ignored by the 1960 Legislature. Study programs made out better.

The major recommendations, adoption of an economic growth act, was proposed by the administration but rejected by the Legislature.

The Legislature also declined to provide funds for a stepped-up industrial promotion program.

But many of the recommendations for committees to study reasons for plant movements, existing business conditions and other aspects have been included among the missions of some legislature interim committees, including the Committee on Jobs organized by Morris.

The lowest paying job on the State Administrative Board is the most-sought.

In 1958 there were two Democrats and one Republican in the primary race for lieutenant governor.

This year, at least three Republicans and at least five Democrats have made various moves to get their party's nominations.

Former Lt. Gov. Clarence Reid one of the last Republicans to serve on the Administrative Board, would like to return. Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville) would like to preside, as the lieutenant governor does, over the chamber in which he once was a page boy. Rep. George Sallade (R-Ann Arbor) has been waging by far the most lively campaign for the post.

Democratic candidates include Richard F. Vander Veen, Grand Rapids lawyer and 1958 Democratic candidate for congress from the 5th district; Rep T. John Lesinski (D-Detroit); William Coughlin, Wayne County assistant prosecutor; George H. Doherty, Flint labor leader; and Flint Mayor Robert J. Egan.

The job as lieutenant governor was a part time position until a few years ago. Pay has been more than a legislator's salary plus a token payment for expenses.

Phillip A. Hart, who didn't need the money anyway, made it a fulltime job and a springboard to the U. S. Senate.

Swainson is trying to step from the Senate rostrum to the governor's chair this year.

Michigan Democrats have increased their voice in their party's national convention.

When Democrats gather July 11 in Los Angeles, the Michigan delegation will have 51 of the 4,521 votes, compared with 44 votes in 1956.

Republicans added delegate strength to seven states. Michigan was not among them and will have 46 votes again.

Surviving are her husband and a cousin, Mrs. Willard Wiltse, of Pinckney. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the Swarthout Funeral Home with the Reverend Ranseyer of Gregory officiating. Burial was in Plainfield cemetery.

"What does a college education cost?"

Parents wonder, too! Well, first there are fixed costs (tuition, room and board, etc.), which can be learned from the individual college under consideration. Then there are extra costs — books and supplies, and so on — a representative total for which, experts say, runs about $500. . . . Few families can meet such expense from current income. Best bet: Apply the "college savings formula." Divide estimated gross cost by number of months until first year of college — to determine amount of monthly savings necessary; then start saving, here! We'll welcome your account.

Michigan Rich In Tourist Attraction

The tourist who is interested in wilderness forest, a real ghost town, lakes like blue jewels in rocky settings, sand dunes, shipwrecked hulls and "wildlife thicker than mosquitos" may see them all in Michigan this summer.

Karl F. Lagler, chairman of the Department of Fisheries at The University of Michigan and commentator on "Conservation Report," radio series produced by the U-M Broadcasting Service, picks these and more among his favorite Michigan spots.

For "wind-driven forest cleanliness," Lagler suggests the tourist visit Wilderness State Park at the northwestern tip of the Lower Peninsula.

Something unusual if offered by a trip to the ghost town at Fayette at Bay de Noc, about a half-hour drive from Manistique. Legend has it that buried treasure lurks somewhere in the vicinity.

For seekers after solitude, Lagler recommends the roadless areas of Porcupine Mt. State Park near Ontonagon on Lake Superior's shore, which he first saw on snowshoes.

"Summer visitors will find its lakes blue jewels in emerald settings, with stark margins of steep, bare rock faces," he says. "What a place for easel, canvas and paint brush."

Need some luck? Lagler suggest "You can probably find a Blarney Stone in the Irish Hills along U.S. - 112 near Tecumseh."

The average University of Michigan student is 23.5 years old.
