Citizens Drive for New Constitution Slated June 10-19

Allied organizations seeking to place a constitutional convention proposal on the November 8 election ballot will throw their combined strength into an all-out petition drive June 10-19, designated as "Michigan Constitution Week."

The organizations, representing a cross section of Michigan's economic, political and social structure, plan a week-long series of events to focus public attention on the urgent necessity of securing 300,000 signatures by July 1. Deadline for filing petitions in Lansing is July 8.

Participating organizations include the Michigan League of Women Voters, the Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce, Citizens For Michigan, Michigan Education Association, Michigan Council of Churches, Detroit Council of Churches, Detroit Building Trades Council, United Church Women, Council of Catholic Women, American Association of University Women, Detroit Business Women's Club, Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the campaign organizations of candidates for state political offices.

County Wheat Support Is $1.80

The basic minimum price-support rate for 1960-crop wheat in Livingston County will be $1.80 a bushel, Mr. Clyde Yelland of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office announced today.

This rate is based on the minimum national average wheat support of $1.77 a bushel for the 1960 crop announced last summer. Loans will be available at the minimum rate early in the price-support period. The final national and county rates will be determined on the basis of supply and parity figures as of July 1, and any loans made at the minimum rate will be adjusted as necessary at that time.

In addition to the county rate, the ASC office now has information on minimum rates for support wheat stored in terminals. Farmers needing terminal rate information may obtain it at the county office. In general, the terminal rate exceeds the county rate by the amount of handling and freight charges necessary to get the wheat to the terminal.

To get wheat price support, Mr. Yelland points out, a farmer must have complied with his 1960 wheat acreage allotment.

This Worm Won't Squirm Says Expert

Never again will the female angler have to squirm with the worm she is trying to impale on a fishhook.

Plastic-bodied lures, a novelty not so long ago, are available now in worms "that feel more like real ones do—and catch fish too," reports Karl F. Lagler, chairman of the Department of Fisheries at the University of Michigan.

Lagler cites a number of other ways in which the age of plastic is increasing the pleasure of fishermen and hunters on "Conservation Report," a radio series produced by the U-M Broadcasting Service and carried around the state.

Fish lines of plastics in the nylon family are the strongest for their diameter of any that fishermen have ever used, he points out.

Another new wrinkle in bait merchandising is the packaging of minnows in plastic bags.

Fishery specialists are using the plastic sacs with great success to transport fish used in stocking lakes and streams, Lagler points out.

Properly packed with a bubble of oxygen in the bag, fish have excellent survival. University of Michigan scientists have air-shipped live fish for research this way from tropical Mexico to Ann Arbor saving great weight over old fashioned fish cans.

Inexpensive plastic waders, Lagler says, have put many a fisherman in waters previously too deep for him to tackle. Plastic jackets, pliable even when cold, keep him warm and dry above.

Lagler says that on a pigeon shoot in France, he first encountered shotgun shells with plastic casings. Not only are they very water proof, but shot size, along with primer, powder and wad, are clearly visible through the plastic casing.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I would like to compliment Mr. McCollum on the fine letter in last week's paper. I believe he has expressed the views of many parents too.

I hope the new school board realizes that many of us would like to see some changes made.

An interested parent,

Jack, who with his wife, Vicki, lives in Battle Creek, has completed his studies in associates in applied science in pharmacy research. He also received a state diploma in marketing.

On their way home the Pinckneyites stopped in Lansing to attend a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Cecil Hendee, honoring their two nephews, John Hendee and Walter Goetz, who were graduated with degrees in forestry and engineering, respectively, from Michigan State University. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Hendee of Chevy Chase, Maryland, and Walter is their son-in-law.

With wheat marketing quotas in effect for the 1960 crop, a farmer who exceeds his acreage allotment will be subject to a penalty at the announced rate on his excess production, unless he harvests 15 acres or less or has signed an agreement permitting him to produce up to 30 acres of wheat for food, feed, or seed on the farm.

In general, excess wheat production is the normal production or the actual production, whichever is smaller, of any acreage in excess of the acreage allotment. After penalty is paid on the excess, the entire wheat crop on the farm may be marketed. As an alternative, the excess production may be stored under bond or delivered to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Conservation Notes

Considerations in Michigan's parks permit law which goes in effect August 17, will be discussed during the Conservation Commission's June 9 meeting at the Higgins Lake conservation school.

Commissioners and Conservation Department officials will discuss when and at which parks or portions of parks the annual $2.00 and daily 50-cent sticker fees will be in effect. The Commission cannot charge fees nor formally adopt a bond resolution itemizing proposed land purchases and improvements until August 17. Other details involved in defining and formulating the sticker program will be studied.

High bids for oil and gas leases to nearly 84,000 acres of state owned lands totaled more than $142,000 during a two-day public auction held in Lansing last week by the Conservation Department. More than 101,000 acres were offered.

The total bonus is the third highest recorded since the auction form of leasing was introduced in 1929. Acreage-wise, the sale was the largest since 1951 when the average bid per acre was only 16 cents. Bids during last week's auction averaged $1.69 per acre.

All bids will receive formal action by the Conservation Commission during its June 9 meeting at the Higgins Lake conservation school. Bonuses from oil and gas leasing of state lands go to Michigan's general fund.

Last week's sale reflects a revival of interest in Michigan triggered for the most part by production in the relatively new Albion - Scipio field which yielded approximately 30 percent of the state's oil output in 1959.

With most of the lands in this southern Michigan area already leased, interest has spread to other sectors of the state. Lease bids were made for lands in 31 counties of the lower peninsula with Charlevoix and Montmorency counties leading the list in acreage. Approximately 12, 562 and 9,613 acres drew bids in these counties, respectively.

Most of the 43 successful bidders are already active in the oil and gas industry of Michigan; about half a dozen are new to the state scene.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Amburgey and children visited at the Ray Moriarty home in Deerfield Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shirley were Sunday guests at the Doyle Templeton home at Keego Harbor.

Pvt. Reece O. Gudith, son of Mrs. Gaynell Gudith, has completed his 8 week typing and clerical procedures course at the Armor School, Fort Knox, Kentucky. Gudith, 22, entered the Army last January. He is a 1957 graduate of Pinckney High School.

State Police Tell of May Accidents

May became the second successive month this year in Michigan to show a sharp drop in highway traffic deaths, with a loss of 98 lives compared to 126 in the same month a year ago, a reduction of 28, or 22 percent, according to provisional State Police figures.

Included were 18 fatalities during the 78-hour Memorial weekend but delayed deaths are expected to increase that figure and the month's total. Twelve died in the 54-hour holiday last year, while 13 were recorded in the 78-hour period in 1958.

Though there were fewer deaths in May and April, the total for the first five months still exceeds the toll for the comparable 1959 period, or 515 to 489, and increase of 26, or five per cent.

The downward trend in the last two months despite an increase in travel gives traffic officials some basis for optimism following a long period of increases which many feared would continue without interruption.

Complete figures for the first four months of the year show there were 417 deaths and 25,258 injuries in 68,757 accidents.

Mr. and Mrs. Winston Baughn and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Miller spent the weekend at Windy-Cliff cabin at Lovells.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tasch and son, John, and his guests, Duane Knapp and Dennis Reynolds enjoyed a weekend trip to Niagara Falls.

Area Folks Attend Christmas Display

There's a little corner of Christmas in Frankenmuth, Michigan.

It's perennially abloom with the bright and spirited Yuletide decorations that most of us see during only a few weeks of the year.

Wally Bronner, who presides over it, calls it the largest display of outdoor Christmas trimmings this side of the North Pole. He estimates that about 95 percent of all outdoor Christmas decorative items manufactured in the U. S. are on display in his showrooms.

Among those who saw a preview of this Christmas season's decorations at a special showing conducted by the Bronner Display and Sign Advertising Company were: Mr. and Mrs. Max Russell, of Pinckney, who visited Frankenmuth on the 5th of June.

Mrs. Russell was delegated by the council to purchase additional street decorations for next Christmas for the village. The visitors are representatives of cities and towns, stores, churches and private citizens. They come from many states and Canada.

A delicious Frankenmuth family-style Chicken dinner, which Frankenmuth is famous for, was enjoyed by the local folks that attended the showing.

The private showing this week precedes by about two months a display of this year's Christmas creations for the general public.

Mrs. Joseph Hachey attended a stork shower Saturday evening honoring Mrs. Les Bryant at the home of Mrs. Betty Witters of Tiplady road. There were twenty guests.

Mrs. William Hill entertained Sunday at a family dinner party honoring her house guest, Mr. William Cowan of Scotland, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Tom Hill of Garden City, on their birthdays. Mr. and Mrs. A. Andrew of Detroit were among the guests. On Thursday, dinner guests, at the Hill home were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sopcak and family, Wally Otto, all of Howell and Mrs. W. Blanch Asparagus Before Freezing

It takes boiling water and ice water to get fresh asparagus ready for the freezer. A dip in scalding water blanches the asparagus, and a dip in ice water quickly cools it.

Roberta Hershey, foods and nutrition specialist at Michigan State University, says this blanching is a step homemakers often snub. But tests show that the asparagus will snub you right back to losing quality in the freezer. The longer the vegetable is stored, the more noticeable is the quality loss, in texture, flavor and color.

Timing is important for both blanching and cooling steps. It takes two to four minutes for the blanching, depending on the size of the asparagus. Cooling should be done in the same amount of time.

Work quickly, but don't "short change" the process. Blanching destroys food enzymes which would otherwise over-ripen the asparagus, causing undesirable changes in the food. Miss Hershey adds that all vegetables commonly frozen require blanching to keep the best quality possible.

State Police Warn On Use of Illegal Fireworks

Giant sparklers, one of the most hazardous devices appearing in Michigan, are singled out in a warning on illegal fireworks to merchants and residents by the fire marshal division of the State Police.

Reports of unlawful and dangerous fireworks being stocked up by merchants prompted the caution by Captain Glenroy Walker, chief of the division at East Lansing headquarters.

Risks of arrest and personal injury confront those who involve themselves in the sale, possession or use of illegal fireworks. Violation of the law is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $100 or 90 days in jail, or both.

Virtually all fireworks are illegal in Michigan, regardless of type and size, except that qualified organizations, upon proper application for the issue of a permit, can possess and exhibit fireworks for public display, Walker said.

Legal only for individual use are the caps for cap pistols and the small sparklers containing not more than .0125 of a pound of burning elements. The oversize sparklers burn fiercely, are unpredictable and constitute a definite fire and injury danger.

With 64 water accidents claiming 35 lives and injuring 28 so far this year, the State Police are urging extra care as the water sports season gets into full stride.

Of the accidents, 33 were fatalities, 17 involved personal injury and 14 were property damage only. The information is based on reports received through June 9.

The 35 persons drowned included eight boat operators, five boat passengers, one swimmer or wader, one skin diver, four children who strayed from their parents and into water, five suicides, and five who fell through ice, four into rivers, one from a bridge and one from a dredge.

Water sports activity is expected to begin reaching its peak in the three-day July 4 weekend and the State Police urge vigilant attention to safety precautions.

Under state law, all water accidents involving death, injury or property damage in excess of $50 must be reported to enforcement agencies which in turn send this information to the State Police.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

Michigan's Tourist attractions are the product for a year-around hard-sell campaign. The Michigan Tourist Council uses all the media of communications plus numerous general information techniques to promote the state's vacation spots both within the state and throughout the nation.

And the council gets good cooperation from commercial groups within the state.

The Council divides its commercial advertising program into three parts to coincide with the three major vacation seasons in the state: Winter, Spring-Summer and Autumn.

Advertisements timed to exert the greatest possible sales influence just prior to the time when vacationers make their plans for each season are placed with magazines, newspapers and radio-television.

A comprehensive array of informative and attractive literature is also prepared by the Council.

The whole package is aimed at helping people pick the right spot for their vacation from among the practically numberless recreation facilities in Michigan.

In addition to the advertising that is bought and paid for, the Council prepares news-type press releases and pictures that are passed out to newspapers, magazines, radio and TV.

Underlying the whole program is a personal-contact public relations program that has two major purposes.

First, it must keep in touch with resort operators, tourist services and vacation spots so they can best take advantage of the Council program, and second, it must continually deal with potential users of Michigan's vacation spots and stimulate renewed and expanded interest.

This part of the Council's program includes a whole range of appearances at outdoor and travel shows, both in Michigan and out of state; personal service information dispensed by mail and in face-to-face meetings with vacationers and potential vacationers; contacts with transportation companies, industries, wholesale and retail firms and social and professional organizations; showing of films and giving of lectures on Michigan attractions, and preparations of public service announcements by radio and TV.

In addition, the public relations part of the program involves participation in tourist industry improvement programs.

DISTINGUISHED-LOOKING Paul Adams, the Michigan Attorney General, recently completed a task that a shy man might have shunned.

The staid old state of Massachusetts wanted to know whether Michigan law prohibited the wearing of "slacks, shorts or trousers" by women when appearing in public.

A legislative researcher in Boston threw the task to Adams as part of a survey program.

"We can learn on no occasion on which a woman was convicted of disorderly conduct or indecent exposure by reason of the fact that she was attired in slacks, shorts or trousers," Adams said in a letter to the Massachusetts official who asked the question.

Furthermore, Adams issued a press release outlining the entire exchange of letters.

While hardly a delicate subject, the question of women's attire could be expected to raise an eyebrow or two in some quarters. Adams handled it forthrightly—and publicly.

CITIZENS FOR MICHIGAN, that non-partisan, political action group headed by American Motors President George Romney, has come out for a Constitutional Convention as a means to modernize the state's 52 year-old basis law.

Included in CFM's stand on the controversial issue was a nine-point program of things that the group believes need to be changed.

Longer terms in office for the governor, legislature and other elected state officials was one of the recommendations.

CFM also backed: a shorter, more concise Constitution; fewer elected state officials; fewer elections held at more regular intervals; elimination of "earmarked" funds to be fed by general state revenues; stronger home rule in county and metropolitan governments, and changes—unspecified—in the present formula for apportioning seats in lawmaking bodies, presumably both state and national.

Other changes which CFM called for would affect noticeably the judicial and legislative branches of state government.

The group advocated changes in the method of selecting judges, particularly Supreme Court justices who are now nominated by party but elected on a non-partisan ballot, and a stronger legislature by permitting a Legislative Council, and appointment of the Auditor General by the Legislature.

QUICKEST WAY TO BE CONSIDERED IRRESPONSIBLE — SAY WHAT YOU THINK.

PINCKNEY DISPATCH
Thursday, June 16, 1960

The reason people won't do as much for a dollar as they once did is that a dollar won't do as much for people as it once did.

Tractor Rides Are Hazardous . . .

Over 22 million dollars worth of pre kindergarten children have been crushed to death by Michigan farm tractors since 1950.

At least, that's how it figures out based on parents' statements that "I wouldn't take a million dollars for my little boy or girl."

Of course, dollar values can't be put on children's lives, adds Richard Pfister, agricultural engineering safety specialist at Michigan State University. But he believes these figures tell an alarming story.

"Pre-school-age deaths on farm tractors outnumbered fatalities in the 30-34 year age group by three to one," the safety specialist continues.

Carrying the comparison further, the 30-34 year old group puts in a lot of time on the tractor. Pre-kindergarten kids do no real work, and a tractor accident can cut short the full life they have ahead of them.

Then too, these children have no choice. They don't make and couldn't avoid the decisions that spell their doom.

To be sure, "Daddy, can I take a ride?" is a hard plea to resist. A tractor ride is one of the world's biggest thrills for many small children.

"If dad can't say no, he should give rides only when he's doing nothing else," Pfister emphasizes.

Enjoy Flowers But Don't Eat Them

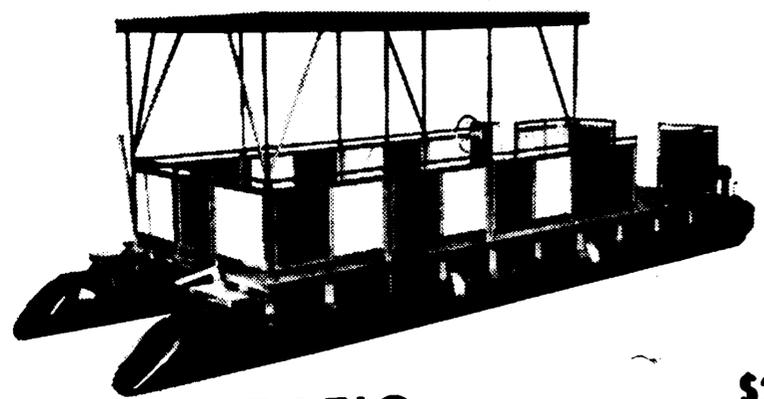

Poison may be growing in your garden. Richard Pfister, extension safety specialist at Michigan State University, estimates that more than one hundred plants found in American gardens contain some poison.

Consider the tulip bulb which contains enough poison to kill a man. One ten-cent package of castor seeds has enough poison to kill five children. Sweet peas can cause a temporary paralysis, and "elephant ears" can induce painful swelling of the mouth, tongue and throat. Some other common plants may have poisonous seeds or berries or leaves.

This does not mean you should stop growing flowers. However, you should take precautions to insure that no members of your family "eat" what should be "looked-at". Do not chew on the leaves or stems of plants and warn children not to put leaves or stems in their mouths.

Vacation is a period when you exchange good dollars for bad quarters.

"He should drive in first gear and make the ride short. And he shouldn't do it often because a set routine usually leads to carelessness."

Eye Care Important In Summer Sun

As one eye specialist put it, sunglasses are as important in summer as overcoats are in winter. He cited a year-long study of the effect of the sun on eyesight in which it was found that about half of all persons over 20 years of age have unsatisfactory retinal sensitivity under conditions of low contrast, such as at dusk or during the night. It was discovered that retinal sensitivity under the same conditions is materially better in persons who make it a habit to wear sunglasses.

Exposure to bright sun bleaches "visual purple" in the eye—a pigment in the retina needed for vision in dim light. Persons with this condition in marked form should avoid driving except in daylight hours. Visual reaction is slowed by this condition and can make the driver accident prone. This effect is often more noticeable immediately after exposure, but may have a "slow fuse" and cause trouble days later.

The following persons were appointed to serve the specific groups mentioned: (However, any organization desiring a speaker on this subject may receive immediate help by contacting Joseph Ellis, of Brighton, chairman of the Welfare Committee, or any member of the promotional committee.) Salmonella Is Not Delicious

How'd you like a little Salmonella for lunch?

Sound enticing? Like a salad dish, made with salmon, lettuce, mayonnaise, and other tasty morsels, for a hot summer's day?

Well, Mrs. Alice Smith, chief of the public health nutrition section of the state health department, has news for you. Salmonella is the bacteria which causes food poisoning, called salmonellosis. It's most prevalent in the summertime, though there may be cases of it any time of the year.

The bacteria come in a variety of sizes, shapes and colors, all of which have been given different names and cause different degrees of illness. Some make you "deathly" ill; others dead.

In the first quarter of this year, 71 cases were reported to the health department. Last year there were 250 cases reported, 54 of them during the summer months of June through July. There were no fatalities, according to health department records.

You've heard of food poisoning outbreaks. If you were a victim, you'll remember how sick you were.

What MO (method of operation) does this villain use? If you learn his MO, you can help prevent food poisoning outbreaks in restaurants and in the home.

Salmonella thrive and multiply rapidly in warm temperatures. Therefore, refrigeration is of prime importance. Watch the kids, Mom don't let them leave the sandwich spread, milk, mayonnaise and other foods which spoil easily out on the table.

Potato salad; mayonnaise and other dressings; milk and milk products; poultry; egg and tuna salads; cream or custard-filled pies or other cream-filled baked goods; and meat products are foods the poisonous bacteria most commonly attack. Store mixtures containing milk and eggs in shallow pans in the refrigerator so they become thoroughly chilled, Mrs. Smith advises.

Salmonella is transmitted by man or animal. To help prevent it, always wash your hands thoroughly before handling food.

Symptoms generally start with a tired feeling and irritability, followed by loss of appetite, aches and fever, and usually severe stomach cramps and diarrhea. Most people become ill enough to run to their doctor immediately, and many are hospitalized. There are some less severe cases which respond to the common remedies for treating mild stomach cramps and diarrhea.

No Extension of Reserve Contracts

Chairman Charles J. Davis of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee today announced that Conservation Reserve contracts which expire in 1960 or later years are no longer eligible to be extended for an additional period of years.

Previously, contracts entered into for 5 years or less have been eligible for extension up to the maximum of 10 years upon application filed with the County ASC Committee at any time before the original expiration date.

Mr. Davis said the extension of contracts is being stopped at this time because of the fact that extension has the same effect as a new contract and would require the expenditure of additional Conservation Reserve funds. Under present legislation, no new Conservation Reserve contracts may be entered into.

The only exception to the cut-off on extensions is in the case of contracts calling for tree-planting for which seedlings are not available.

Mr. Davis said the present ruling has no effect on the period of existing contracts. These will continue in accordance with contract terms.

GRIST FOR A DIPLMA MILL?

By Paul L. Adams
State Attorney General

For your youngster's sake as well as your own, take time to investigate before signing up or paying tuition to any school, college or training facility. It may save both money and heartbreak.

Never has the diploma mill operator had it so good. All schools and colleges are crowded to bursting. Demands for education and specialized training are at an all-time high.

These unscrupulous con-men will take your money and exploit your willingness to sacrifice for learning, to line his pockets, leaving you wiser only in the ways of con-men.

A recent case investigated by my office concerned the operation of a mail order outfit aimed at people who want civil service jobs. The operator employed no teachers (only salesmen and somebody to slit open the envelopes and shake the money out). By cunningly worded advertisements offering a 24-lesson course with "placement counseling," he induced thousands of people to sign notes and contracts. Once signed, the notes were sold to a finance company (which is not responsible for the original seller's promises). He could then ignore the outraged cries of the victims when they received the mimeographed mishmash labelled "lessons."

My office was able to put him out of business in Michigan. But my investigation discloses that when driven out of one business, such as civil service training, the diploma mill artist quickly shifts to another operation, such as jet mechanics training, air hostess training, meat-cutting schools, and so on.

There is a quick and easy way of protecting yourself from educational frauds. Before signing or paying anything, find out if the outfit is listed with the Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State of Michigan as an accredited institution. Call his office or write mine. We'll be glad to check.

Follow the "low-temperature rule" when cooking fish. Mary Coleman, foods and nutrition instructor at Michigan State University, says high temperatures should be limited to browning or to short cooking periods.
