Bollen - Murphy Vows Read Saturday at St. Mary's Church

Miss Karen Ann Bollen and Robert T. Murphy repeated their marriage vows at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, June 3, at St. Mary's Catholic church with the Reverend George P. Horkan officiating.

St. Mary's Graduates 21 8th Graders

Twenty-one eighth graders of St. Mary's school were graduated in ceremonies held at St. Mary's church Thursday evening.

A reception at the parish hall followed the exercises.

All of the students at St. Mary's school participated in the May crowning of the Blessed Virgin held Sunday afternoon, May 28, at the church.

The student body entered the church sanctuary singing while 8th grader Marva Barker placed the crown on the statue of Mary.

The attendants were Joan Eichman and Susan Buggy, also eighth graders. Little Cindy Burton, a first grader, was the crown-bearer. A capacity audience witnessed the impressive ceremony.

Her pearl crown held a finger-tip bouffant veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of carnations and stephanotis.

Miss Margaret Higgs was the maid of honor. Miss Sheila Bollen of Pinckney and Mrs. George R. Hynes of Ann Arbor, sisters of the bride, were her bridesmaids.

Hollingsworth-Whitacre Vows Read in Indiana Recently

A wedding of interest to readers here took place on June 3 at Fort Wayne, Indiana, when Miss Joyce Whitacre of New Haven, Ind., became the bride of Edward Hollingsworth of Marion, Ind.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Whitacre of New Haven and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hollingsworth of Brownsburg, Ind.; former Pinckney residents.

The couple repeated the marriage vows at 2 o'clock at West Creighton Christian church in Fort Wayne with the Reverend E. Clayton Gooden officiating.

For her wedding Miss Whitacre chose a floor-length gown of nylon sheer over taffeta. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a jeweled scoop neckline and short sleeves. The bouffant skirt was enhanced with lace appliques which were repeated on the long petal train of the gown. She carried a bouquet of white cymbidium orchids with lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Rosalie Hellwrath, Celina, Ohio, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Francis Bundy, Arkon., Ind., and Miss Barbara Nesemeier, Fort Wayne.

The pancake brunch sponsored by the Rainbow Board at the Masonic Hall Sunday morning for a benefit fund for Rainbow Girl Patricia Borovsky was a complete success. The $200 raised thru the breakfast was the amount needed for the special nurse fund the board planned to underwrite for the young heart surgery patient at University Medical center. Reports as of Monday are that "Pat" is looking and feeling "just fine" and a complete recovery is expected.

Conservation Notes

Michigan anglers can stop wishing and start fishing for large and smallmouths come June 17, opener of this year's bass season which runs through September 10 on trout lakes and streams and December 31 on all other waters, including the Great Lakes.

Except in several experimental lakes regulated by the Conservation Department for research purposes, the minimum size remains at 10 inches for these fighting fish. The daily catch quota is still five, singly or combined.

Fishermen will find no change in license fees. Residents must have an annual $2 license to fish on inland lakes and streams. They need only the right gear, bait, and know-how for bass fishing in the Great Lakes and their connecting waters.

Nonresidents are required to have a license for bass fishing in all Michigan waters. The annual fee for out-of-state fishermen is $5 while the non-resident 15-day license is $4.

A June 1 bass opener is in prospect for 1962, covering all waters except Lake St. Clair, the St. Clair river, and Detroit river. It was approved in a bill passed recently by the legislature which pends final action by Governor Swainson.

Nearly 44,000 acres of Michigan lands will be open to bidding for oil and gas lease rights during a public auction to be held June 23 in Lansing by the Conservation Department.

The sale will begin at 10 a. m. in Room 133 of the Stevens T. Mason Building.

Most of the lands up for leasing are located in state and national forests of the northern lower peninsula, the center of drilling interest in recent months. Tracts in Alpena, Charlevoix, Oscoda, Newaygo, and Antrim counties head the acreage list.

Letters to the Editor . . .

We would like to give a good pat-on-the-back to a small boy whom we chanced to see during the Memorial Day ceremonies, but alas! we know not who he is or where he may be found. He was walking along a local street, when, in front of a certain dwelling, his eyes fell upon two miniature bright red ball-bats, which probably had been left there by the children who live in that house. Picking up one of the toys, Small One examined it thoroughly, pretended to bat a few ball with it, fondled it a moment longer — then carefully laid it down, exactly where he had found it, and went on his way.

After a few moments, an older girl came by and was likewise attracted by the gaudy little clubs. But how different was her reaction! She glanced furtively at the house, and in every other direction, then hastily scooped up both the bats and made a quick get-away down the street. We wonder is she put them into the family car or hid them away for a later reclaiming, for she soon came walking back — head high, and hands empty.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Little League baseball season is just around the corner, in fact, June 19 will see the first games played in this community. The managers and the players have signed up in record number, as in years past.

The Pinckney Kiwanis Club will sponsor the leagues again this year. Of interest to every parent and player is the following letter from Mrs. Robert Tasch, who assists her Kiwanian husband with his league duties.

To the Community:

Another publication recently printed an article concerning the drawbacks of the Little League. Kiwanis is cognizant of these drawbacks and here will attempt to answer how we try to avoid them.

Here in Pinckney we have no tryouts. Every child is allowed to be on a team. Every manager knows that the main object is for each child to have a chance to have a fair opportunity to play.

It is true that sometimes parents put too much emphasis on calls by the umpire and on winning. However, these are much in the minority. We have had wonderful examples of good sportsmanship, of parents working with children and of boys sharing companionable moments.

At the end of the season we have a few complaints, these mostly from some one who didn't think his team won enough. We are sorry about this. All parents have to try to set good examples for their children and to know the little league is strictly for the boys.

Yours,
(Mrs.) Robert Tasch

● NEIGHBORING NOTES

South Lyon high school held its first annual art show last week with more than 250 pieces of art work on display for the public to see. The students exhibited everything from sculpture to ink drawings.

Chelsea's Showboat is gathering steam and plans for a gala three-day celebration on June 22, 23, 24, are going ahead at a fast pace. A cast of 237 will perform in the event.

Mrs. Helen A. Jump died at the age of 98 at her farm home near Stockbridge last week. She was a native of Fitchburg.

Seven Brighton teen-agers were seriously injured and the driver of the car, William Zellman, 16, was killed, when the vehicle went out of control on a curve in a gravel road near Brighton. The car was mangled after hitting an abutment and a tree.

Despite snow flurries and cold rain Dexter's Sidewalk Days held on May 26 and 27 have been pronounced highly successful.

Fowlerville has set Sept. 1, 2 and 3 as the dates for the gala celebration of its 125th anniversary. Many events and contests have been scheduled for throughout the summer but the climax of the year's events will be in those three days in September.

Michael Herbert Cook of Hamburg and Bill Spicer of Brighton have enlisted in the Navy and will begin their basic training soon at Great Lakes, Illinois. Both enlistees are in the Seamen Field of Training Program.

INTERESTED TEENAGER MAY ENJOY SEWING

Encourage the teenager to sew if she's interested, says Eleanor Mullikin, clothing instructor at Michigan State University. At first this may not save money because of mistakes, but there are satisfactions in learning a skill and in making something one likes to wear.

Eventually, the girl who sews can have more and better clothes for the budget she has to spend. The garments can also be more original. Adults should guide sewing projects to keep them within the teenager's ability and available time.

Mrs. Mullikin adds that sewing is not the best hobby for every girl. If fussing with a needle and thread is a struggle and not enjoyable, a girl might better choose another hobby.

At least 60 future kindergartners were enrolled in the recent Kindergarten Round-up at the local elementary school last week, according to principal Jennie Kellenberger.

The Gallagher company of South Lyon was the lowest to compete for a building a new bridge 1.5 miles south of Fowlerville. It will be 44 ft. long with a 29 ft. roadway to replace the present bridge. Completion date is Aug. 31.

MANY OF US who have watched the satellite Echo move across the night sky realize that the project gave America a clear lead in space communications. However, the longer we delay in setting up the first satellite system, the more we risk losing our lead.

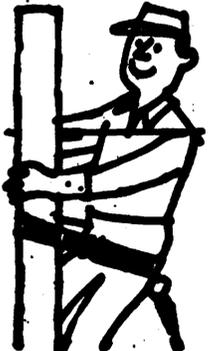

The Bell Telephone System has offered to build and pay for experimental satellites. It is willing to pay for their launching and for the ground stations in the U. S. (Foreign ground stations would be owned by foreign communications agencies.) There would be no cost to the taxpayer.

The Bell System's interest in space stems from the fact that a space communications system would be a natural extension of networks used in providing service to the public today. Bell seeks no monopoly and does not wish to exclude other international carriers either from establishing satellite communications systems or from sharing use of the system it proposes. This system would be operated under government regulation just as today's communications systems are operated.

What could offer a better means to serve the public's interest in a broader communications network for tomorrow!

EVER WONDER how a telephone lineman knows the safety strap he wears when working atop poles is dependable? Like all equipment our people use, the straps must meet rigid standards. Nothing is left to chance. These safety straps are made of several layers of tough fabric. When the outer layer wears thin, the contrasting color of the next layer shows it's time to get a new belt. A small thing—but one reason why telephone people are six times safer than those in most other industries.

PINCKNEY DISPATCH Wednesday, June 7, 1961

MICHIGAN MIRROR

Minority groups in Michigan have little reason to resort to "freedom rider" crusades, or even the "sit-in" or "kneel-in" tactics common in southern states.

They've got the law behind them here.

Northern states, of course, don't have the problems of the South. There is discrimination, because where there are people who differ in color of skin, national background or religion, there is in some degree mistrust, fear and bigotry.

But Michigan has been a leader in guaranteeing human rights.

Even controversy over such things as the anti-discrimination "Rule Nine" which deals with real estate is based mostly on the fear that the rights of non-minority groups might be impaired by going too far with legislation or administrative rules.

Anti-bias law has far deeper roots than "Rule Nine," which was promulgated by the Corporation and Securities Commission.

First, there is the Michigan Constitution, which (in Article 11) guarantees certain basic property and personal rights to all the citizens of the state.

The Fair Employment Practices Act, which sets up a Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC), is aimed at insuring equal job opportunities for all citizens, regardless of race, color, creed, national origin or ancestry.

The FEPC finds its greatest tool for fighting bias is the threat of action, although it can and will go to court to protect rights.

Legally, of course, it is difficult to prove an employer has been discriminatory in his hiring and firing practices. Too many questions involving only judgement, of such things as competence, personality, suitability and other characteristics enters in.

But the law tends to make employers conscious of race regulations and even employees who might resent the hiring of some people realize the law makes it difficult to do otherwise.

Perhaps the most effective anti-discrimination force in the state is the example set by the Michigan government in its personnel policies and statements.

The Civil Service Commission has promulgated comprehensive and effective rules to prevent official bias.

Another move to safeguard the rights of all persons in Michigan was recently made by Gov. John B. Swainson, who issued a "Governor's Code of Fair Practices" to govern personnel practices and services, facilities and regulatory and contracting policies of all state agencies.

While Swainson, like any other politician, is aware of minority group bloc-voting, he also seems to have a very strong personal feeling in the area of civil rights.

"If I demand a right for myself," Swainson has often said, "then I must be ready to give that same right to others."

The Governor's code, which details the things which government agencies may and may not do in connection with civil rights, was based, he said in the Preamble to the code, on fundamental American concepts that "men are created equal," and are endowed with "certain inalienable rights."

"No state constitution, no state law can hinder the pursuit of equality, justice and liberty," the Preamble says.

The state has a good record in civil rights, Swainson said, but government must take special pains to keep its house in order.

"State government, as an employer, has a responsibility to serve as a model for business, industry, labor and private employment agencies," Swainson said in the Preamble to his code.

Group health and life insurance for state employes apparently will go ahead as ordered by the Civil Service Commission despite the fact that many agencies who have tight budgets may be hard-pressed to meet the state's share of the cost of such programs.

Attorney General Paul L. Adams has ruled that because the Legislature failed to prohibit the programs, they will be legal.

In an opinion nearly two years ago, Adams cleared the way for insurance programs in which the state and state employes participate in the cost by ruling that the Civil Service Commission could legally make the necessary commitments to set up such a plan.

State Controller Ira Polley asked Adams if it would be proper to certify expenditures for the states share of insurance premiums. Adams said yes.

The Legislature not only refused to include in appropriations for salaries and wages any sums for insurance, it also failed to either approve or disapprove of such expenditures.

Adam's opinion said not only could classified Civil Service employes take part in the plan, but so could unclassified employes — which includes the Legislators.

Small Craft Rules Make Boating Safe

Small boating has become one of the nation's most popular sports.

It can also be among the safest if boat owners prepare for the coming outdoor season by learning the 10 fundamental safety rules offered by Edward J. Slezak, supervisor of aquatics in The University of Michigan's Department of Physical Education.

1. Inspect all small craft and motors for efficiency and damage.
2. Wear life jackets on the water.
3. Carry spare oar and anchor.
4. Always use running lights for night boating and canoeing.
5. Secure outboard motors with safety chain.
6. Know and observe marine laws.
7. Never overload small craft.
8. Prevent horseplay in small craft.
9. Remain seated when fishing.
10. Learn to administer artificial respiration and treat for shock.

HOMEMAKING SHORTS

Happy talk at mealtime is more important than strict, clean-plate rules. Sound eating habits are established gradually by example and with knowledge of good nutrition. Parents are reminded that children will not eat every recommended item every day, especially when they are tired, out-of-sorts or excited.

Basil is an herb that is at home in tomato soup and tomato aspic salad. Dill seed can be used with egg or cheese dishes.

The ideal retirement house is compact, comfortable, convenient, easy to maintain and as accident-proof from falls as possible.
