General Store Observes 15th Anniversary This Week

The Pinckney General Store is observing its 15th anniversary in business this week. One of the town's most attractive and outstanding business places the store occupies the former Opera House or Community Hall building which the founders Eugene H. Towner and Harry "Bob" Parks purchased in 1945.

The main floor of the store is a modern self-service supermarket while the basement store offers shoes, clothing, gifts, linens and kitchen-ware in its various departments.

In 1954 Mr. Towner's interests in the store were taken over by Mr. and Mrs. Gene Edgar of Lansing who with Mr. Parks operate the store. There are eleven full-time employees and one part-time clerk for the summer months now on the staff in addition to the three owners who also work full time.

The list of store employees: Earl Sprague, Peter Spickenagel, Frances Clark, James Campbell, Mrs. John Bailey, Mrs. Walter Clark, Mrs. C. H. Kennedy, Mrs. Jack Reason, Mrs. Charles Hewlett, Miss Carolyn Fillmore, Mrs. Win Baughn and Miss Kathy Kirschke.

Last summer a customer's parking lot was built in back of the store for convenient off-the-street parking.

Pinckney and the surrounding area have enjoyed the services of this modern store and very best wishes for its continued success are extended to the owners.

US-16 southwest to connect with the freeway near Burkhardt rd.

Low bid on the project is expected to be about $3.5 million. It is one of 45 jobs, with a contract value of about $16.3 million, on which bids will be opened June 21, which also include 3.6 miles of Interstate 96 in Eaton and Ingham counties and 7.8 miles of Interstate 696 Freeway in Oakland county.

Babe Ruth Team Now Selected

The following boys have been selected to play on this years Babe Ruth Team which will represent Pinckney in the Huron Valley League.

Steve Randolph, Merle McMichael, Dennis Williams, Jim Barker, Harold Darrow, Gary Hull, Gary Henry, Jim Wicker, Bobby Darrow, Carmen Bonsaire, Ron Tanner, Ricky Everett, Dick Hollis.

Two boys who are 13 years old and will not be 14 before Sept. 1st are still needed to complete the team roster. If you would like to play and are in this age group contact Mr. Gibson at Thursday's practice on the elementary school diamond.

Because so many fine ball players in the 14 and 15 age group turned out we found it very difficult to select the ten boys. We would like to thank each and every boy who tried out for the team.

Home Buyers Warned on Rackets

We thought this gimmick was stopped last year, but have just learned that is on the move again in Michigan and elsewhere. So here's a warning beamed directly at home-owners with mortgages.

The racket works this way: persuasive gentleman offers to buy you out by taking over your mortgage payments. He may even sweeten the deal by making you a small cash payment to boot. You are not to bother your head about the paperwork — he'll take care of everything. And so he does, by renting

SEASON TO TASTE

When the recipe calls for seasoning ground beef with salt and pepper, how much seasoning do you use? Mary Kay Coleman, home economist at Michigan State University, says one teaspoon of salt and one-eighth teaspoon of pepper for each pound of ground beef is a good guide when exact amounts are not given.

HOW LONG A SLIP?

Women's slips are designed in tall, medium and short lengths. Home economists at Michigan State University suggest the current trend to shorter dress lengths may make the average-length slip just right for the tall woman.

Hot weather doesn't make summer.

Summer begins — officially — at 11 a.m. Wednesday (June 21) in Michigan, a University of Michigan astronomer says.

"On that day we will have our longest daylight, 15 hours, with only about 9 hours between sundown and sunup," explains Associate Prof. Hazel M. Losh (PhD). We will also receive the most heat from the sun in any 24-hour period at this time.

Good Fishermen Learn to Hunt, U-M Expert Says . . .

Fishing is where you find it. And, says Karl F. Lagler (PhD), chairman of The University of Michigan Department of Fisheries, the good fisherman moves around — like a rabbit hunter.

"You will never see a rabbit hunter sitting on a stump in the middle of a field, waiting for the game to come to him. It would be a long wait between rabbits," Lagler reminds.

"And yet, how many fishermen do this very thing — just sitting in one spot, waiting for fish to come to them. The good rabbit hunter tries all kinds of cover until he locates his game. Then he concentrates on that type of cover."

Lagler, a veteran angler, offers this recipe for fishing success:

"Start casting the shoreline with a floating-diving lure. If the water is clear, start the bait moving the second it strikes the water. If the water is murky, let it remain motionless for five or ten seconds, then start retrieving. This gives the fish time to find it when visibility is poor. Occasionally try a surface lure for variation.

"If no fish are taken around shore, try casting from shore into deeper water, using a sinking bait which will dig right down to the bottom. Next try heavier cover such as moss beds, weed patches or lily pad fields. Cast a slow sinking lure next to the cover and make a steady retrieve. Occasionally try a jerky retrieve. Fish far back in the pads or weeds call for a weedless lure. Toss one deep into the cover and retrieve slowly. Set the hook quickly.

"Sunken logs, fallen trees, brush piles, small patches of cover, drop-offs and rocky shorelines are excellent places. Approach them quietly.

"As a last resort, try this — tie a floating lure to the end of your line and about 18 inches ahead of it attach a keel sinker just large enough to sink the lure. Troll this slowly through the middle of the lake. It will ride nicely."

When the fisherman makes a catch, Lagler reminds, he should mark the spot well by picking landmarks in four directions. Then he can visit the spot often. It will be exclusively his and will pay off regularly.

Lagler explains this subject on his radio program, "Conservation Report," produced by the University Broadcasting Service (WUOM) and carried around the state.
