The company has leased 14,000 acres of land in the past year and a half in the Pinckney and Hamburg area, according to leaser Gerald Reason. The company has designated eight different sites for future well-drilling, two or three of these to be started even before the first well is "completed". The depth of the well stands a little over 200 feet from the Wegener house on the Pinckney-Howell road just north of the village limits. Workmen are on the job every day and there should be a report of progress by next week.

"ONLY THE THUMB GREEN, PLEASE"

By Paul W. Adams
State Attorney General

With every Spring the gardening instinct bursts forth and even city dwellers who couldn't grow a house plant are suddenly convinced by the magic of words and pictures that they have acquired green thumbs. They cannot resist digging and planting that all-transforming greenery around the old home place.

Yet at this time of year the Department of Agriculture, the federal government, and my office show an increase in complaints from consumers who have been hypnotized by intriguing descriptions of exotic tropical blooms, bargain buys in paradisaical trees that grow in any soil, climbing berry vines to provide luxury desserts until snow flies, and the like. So beware! There may be trouble ahead!

The gardening instinct and modern transportation make it easy for the few nursery stock dealers whose real stock is unfair trade practices. Every year government agencies receive more reports from home owners who have parted with precious dollars to beautify their homes, only to find that the exotic tropical blooms never sprouted, the heavenly tree turns out a root-spreading weed, and the berry vine neither berry nor vine, or the stock is dead or dying on arrival, or not as described.

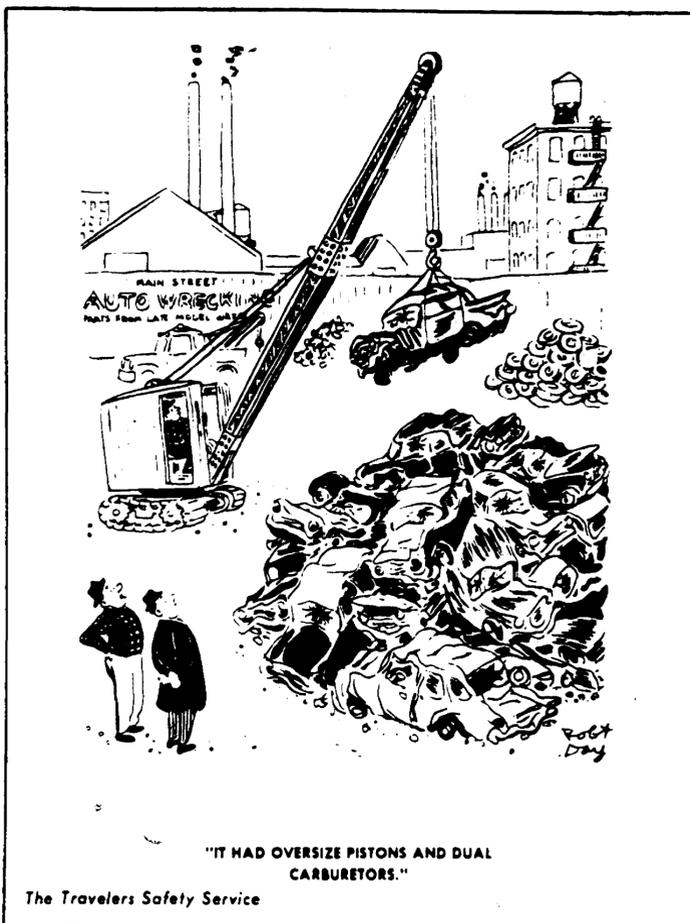

Michigan requires that its nursery stock dealers be licensed, prohibits fraud, provides for inspection of imported stock.

Most mail order nursery houses are first rate, with excellent reputations all across the land. A few are not. Good licensed nurserymen and dealers in Michigan are many. But beware of the supersalesman with catalogue and ironclad contract.

Watch your green thumb and your wallet. If in doubt, check first with the Department of Agriculture.

85% of the vehicles involved in motor vehicles in 1960 were passenger cars.

State Police Notes . . .

With 123 traffic deaths in May, the Michigan road toll of 570 for the first five months is 42, or eight per cent, greater than the 528 of the corresponding 1960 period, according to provisional State Police figures.

May was the fourth month in a row to show increased fatalities compared to the same month last year. The May total was 16, or 15 per cent, more than the 107 in that month in 1960.

More complete figures for April list 128 deaths, an increase of 23, or 22 per cent, and 7,021 injured, up by 553 or nine per cent, while the 14,776 accidents were decreased by 314, or two per cent, compared to April last year.

In the first four months there were 447 persons killed and 25,682 injured in 61,920 accidents. These are increases of six per cent in deaths and two per cent in injuries but a reduction of 10 per cent in accidents, compared to the same 1960 period.

Estimated mileage for the first three months, the latest information available, totaled seven billion, a decrease of three per cent compared to the corresponding 1960 quarter while the death rate of 4.5 per 100 million vehicle miles was up two per cent.

WYNNE CHESTER SAYS:

Early Summer Is For Shooters

Although there is little hunting these days in most of the states, except on the licensed shooting preserves, or for certain predators, it's a wonderful time of year for target shooting, trap and skeet.

If you haven't tried your hand at skeet . . . why not? You've been missing some great sport. Most trap and skeet ranges have expert instructors who will see that, first of all you are using a shotgun that is right for you, then after a little coaching on the simple rules and a few practice rounds you'll be thoroughly enjoying skeet, along with the thousands of women who do just that . . . every chance they get.

Target plinking in the fields and woods is great early summer fun, too. Now that the youngsters are on vacation it's a splendid time to get out in the open with them . . . and enjoy them! Just make sure that your shooting place is the right one, with safe backstops, and that everyone in the group practices safe gun handling rules. There are only ten. Your local gun dealer will be glad to furnish you with a copy of them. Just drop in and ask.

Thirty-three of South Lyon high school's June graduates are planning to enter colleges and universities this fall. Five of the students have won scholarships. "Although many schools send a greater percentage to college," Principal Hartman said, "South Lyon's average is greater than the national average."

Stores, Inc., since its organization in 1926, now a chain of 34 stores throughout Michigan. His widow, the former Frances Farmer, 2 daughters and several grandchildren survive.

Howard Flintoft was elected head of the Chelsea Board of Education last week. He succeeds Dr. J. V. Fisher.

The Dexter chamber of Commerce is seeking a slogan to use on a brochure which it plans to distribute in the near future advertising the area. A contest is open to all residents of Dexter school district. A $50 U.S. Savings Bond will go to the writer of the winning slogan.

Gale Dillingham of Fowlerville graduated on June 15 from the Mortuary Science School of Wayne University.

Six members of the class of 1911 of Brighton High school were able to attend the 50th reunion of the class June 19th at the Canopy Hotel.

Charles A. Powers was elected president of the Brighton school board last week for the ensuing year. Donald Werner is the new secretary and Mrs. Fred Hyne, treasurer.

Michigan will continue to get more heat from the sun than it will lose each day until around the first of August, so temperatures can be expected to keep climbing until then, she says.

Actually, however, the sun is about three million miles farther away from us than during our winter. And because of this, "our seasons tend to be a little milder than those of the southern hemisphere. Also because the earth is moving a little more slowly in its orbit during the summer, this season is several days longer than the winter, Professor Losh points out.

Pesticides and insecticides can be bad news—and not just for the bugs.

The Department of Agriculture fights a constant battle to keep farmers from mishandling chemicals that are harmful only to pests if handled properly. It also continually has to warn people who buy treated goods. Neither job is easy. But the application of pesticides on a large scale, if not handled properly, can produce more problems than the bugs themselves.

The Conservation Department is also concerned about large scale applications.

How Valuable Is Local Newspaper Advertising To Local Business People?

Here's What the American Bankers Magazine Has To Say:

"No business man or woman in any town should allow a newspaper to go to press without his or her name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half, or even a quarter page advertisement in each issue of the paper, but your name and address should be mentioned, if you do not use more than several inches of space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town . . . it's the best possible town advertiser. The man or woman who does not advertise does an injustice to himself or herself and definitely to the town."

Conservation Notes

"Michigan Trees Worth Knowing", a popular publication profiling the state's native and common forest members, is again available in revised form through the Conservation Department's publications room in Lansing.

Updated to cover changes since it was printed in 1952, the 60-page publication pictures 56 tree species of Michigan, shows close-ups of their leaves and bark, and describes where they are commonly found, their importance to the state, their identifying characteristics, and other information of interest to students, conservationists, and outdoor users.

Norman S. Smith, in charge of research and development for the Department's forestry division, authored the publication and it is priced at 50 cents per copy to pay costs of printing.

The Department has received some 2,000 requests for the publication since its supply ran out about 18 months ago. Some 40,000 copies of the publication have been sold since it first came off the presses in 1948.

Michigan boaters are advised to space or hyphenate letter and number groupings in the registration series on their craft if they plan to use waters under jurisdiction of the U. S. Coast Guard.

While Michigan law permits these groupings to appear in a solid block, the Federal Boating Act of 1958 spells out that they must be separated on boats using Coast Guard waters. Here are examples of the federal requirement: MC-1234-AA or MC 1234 AA.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

WHERE DO THE KIDS that crowd our schools go in the summer?

A silly question? Maybe, but

In passing along this reminder through the Conservation Department, the Secretary of State's office adds that the entire sequence of letters and numbers must be painted on or attached to each side of the boat's bow in letters and numbers at least three inches high. The series should be placed as high above the later line as practical and should contrast with the hull's color so as to be both clearly visible and legible.

PEG BOARD STORAGE

Peg board can help organize home storage. Use peg board for storing tools in the garage or carport. Hooks of many sizes and shapes are available to hold rakes, shovels, and garden tools, and to support shelves.

Peg board usually can be fastened to studs in the garage. If the wall is sealed, the peg board should be mounted on strips to insure at least one-half inch clearance for manipulation of hooks. Once the board is in place, hooks can be arranged so that each tool is within easy reach.

Peg board may be used by the home carpenter for storing tools on the workroom wall and by the homemaker for storing frequently-used equipment on the kitchen wall.

PINCKNEY DISPATCH

Wednesday, June 28, 1961

On June 1st, 1931, the Navy's first autogyro was delivered at Anacostia, D.C.

one that should mean much to any citizen, parent or not, who has stopped to contemplate the tremendous job it is to provide recreation facilities for youngsters.

A really great many youngsters flock to the playgrounds, swimming pools and libraries provided by villages, townships, cities, counties and the state of Michigan.

Recreation, like almost every other facet of modern-day life, has become big business.

Therefore, it has big problems. Overstrict and complicated child labor laws make it difficult or impossible for boys and girls to get even menial summer jobs. Kids who are old enough want to play ball. They want to swim, and do handicraft work. The younger ones want play equipment to climb, slide on, jump over and occasionally fall off of.

Generally, municipal units of government carry the biggest load in the struggle to provide adequate recreation. And generally, they do a good job.

The Recreation Association of Michigan, an affiliate of the Michigan Municipal League, is one of the groups that provides a place where recreation officials can exchange ideas about the complex problems of setting up programs to provide the best possible recreation.

Among the questions which come up each time a city or other unit of government gets ready to set up its recreation program are those concerning budgets; what equipment to buy; how to organize a baseball league; what do kids in various age groups like to do best, and on and on and on.

Everybody interested in his children should also be interested in his local recreation program. For the rural resident, the outings organized by groups for rural children often use the facilities of a local unit of government, or the state. In the city, the programs help keep the young people busy, exercised and out of trouble.

Not only must the proper facilities be provided, supervision must be adequate and safety must be stressed.

One of the most complex questions ever to face the Michigan Legislature was the huge bill which revised the code of judicial procedure for the state.

Lawmakers in 1961 passed the bill, after failing to get around to it the year before. It was signed into law by Gov. John B. Swainson.

While it won't take effect until 1963, and is almost certain to be changed in more than one respect before it even becomes operative, it could prove to be the most far-reaching step in many a year.

It's safe to assume that not more than a handful of legislators ever read the proposal from cover to cover. In its latest form it was 664 pages long.

As backers of the bill said during its course through the lawmaking process it had to be taken largely on faith.

The faith was in a committee of the State Bar of Michigan, in numerous lawyers, judges and professors who had a hand in compiling the document, and in the belief that the judicial and law professions will make the best use of the new procedures.

Despite the roughly four years of study that went into making up the revision, the first revision of the Judicature act since 1915, there are bound to be loopholes. Hopefully, most members of the bar will be quick to point out the loopholes to the legislature, and slow to use them to the detriment of citizens seeking justice.

A quarter of a century is a whale of a long time to look ahead when trying to plan for something as complex as highway needs.

But Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie has handed just that assignment to a committee of seven experts in engineering, planning, and administration who combined have a total of 226 years in highway building. Mackie told the committee to find out what Michigan's highway needs will be in 1980, and then figure out how to meet them.

Technological advances alone, in the automotive industry, in the construction business and in hundreds of related mechanical and electronic fields, can be safely predicted as staggering.

The assignment presents an unequaled challenge for the men to whom it was handed.

Even men of vision would have had trouble 25 years ago predicting the vast interstate system as it exists today. The men on Mackie's committee in a sense have the future of Michigan motoring in their hands.

"Serving Since 1865"

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"Lost And Found, Found, Found, Found!"

I ran one of the most important "Lost and Found" advertisements in Clarion history for the Widow Parker last week.

Seems she lost her purse with $8 in it at the last town meeting. We figured it would mean a lot to her if it were found and returned.

Well, the ad ran and the strangest thing happened! We received four envelopes—from Buck Hanson, Windy Taylor, Curly Rice and Slim Thomas. Each envelope contained a note saying the enclosed money was found in or around Town Hall. We returned the lost money with 300% interest!

From where I sit, people are pretty wonderful. I see it in a lot of little things. For instance, my neighbor always has a cold glass of beer on hand when he invites me over for dinner—though he prefers tea with his meals and has for years. His gesture is not only generous but tolerant, too... both are valuable assets to be "found" in any community.

Local Rainbow Girls to Be at State Meet June 29

A delegation of eighteen from the Pinckney Chapter No.

A few years ago, a prospect stopped at the offices of the Economic Development Department in Lansing. He was looking for a building in which to house a new industry which he had just assembled. The department's man gave him lists of buildings on three different occasions and the prospect spent about eight weeks traveling to look at these vacant plans. None of them were quite what he wanted, so he went back to the department for a fourth attempt.

The industrial agent told him that the only remaining building he knew of was right in Owosso that he himself had listed in the department's available plant file. The prospect remarked in utter amazement that he had never thought of this possibility and proceeded, after weeks of searching elsewhere to move his new industry into his own building.

Professionals in the plant locating field will tell communities to assemble every possible bit of information about their towns. This will help. It is of value to those looking for locations. It will show the community is interested. The utility or state representative can knock himself out trying to sell a community. This helps too.

But luck, the efforts of little people, the unexpected, the whimsical; these too can be the deciding factor.

If you always buy one or two kinds of cheese, you may be overlooking some good eating at the dairy counter. Mary Kay Coleman, instructor in foods and nutrition at Michigan State University, says there are four hundred variations of cheese offering a wide range of flavors and textures. She notes these can be divided by texture into soft, medium and hard types, and she lists a few of the more popular ones.

Cottage cheese and cream cheese are examples of the soft type. Less well-known is Neufchatel, a soft cheese which is gaining favor with consumers. It is much like cream cheese, but is higher in protein and lower in fat content. Some prepared cheese dips are made with a Neufchatel cheese base. Camembert, Limburger and Liederkranz are stronger-flavored and are excellent for a snack tray dessert with fresh pear or apple slices. Mozzarella is a mild cheese which owes its popularity in this country to use in pizza pie.

67, Order of Rainbow for Girls will be attending the annual meeting of the Grand Assembly Order of Rainbow for Girls on the Michigan State University campus, East Lansing, June 29 and 30 and July 1 and 2.

The visitors will be housed on the campus in Shaw Hall and all meetings they attend will be held in the M.S.U. Auditorium.

Meetings will include a Grand Cross service for those who have given outstanding service to Rainbow, a majority service for those girls who have reached the age of twenty years, installation of new officers for the coming year. The meeting will close with a church service on Sunday, July 2, after which the girls will return home.

Marilyn Gustafson, Past Grand Worthy advisor, will serve as Grand Worthy Associate Advisor throughout the session.

In addition to Marilyn, Mother Advisor Mrs. George Van Norman and Mrs. Henry Gilbertson, secretary of the local Rainbow Board, will accompany the girls; Margaret Ackley, Judy Borovsky, Judy Bekering, Karon King, Sybil Huntley, Janice Heiner, Kathy Gustafson, Kathy Shettleroe, Sharon Gallup, Caroline Nicholes, Jean Wright, Linda Gilbertson, Connie Slagle and Cheryl Van Norman. Mrs. Wayne Shettleroe, secretary of the Rainbow Mother's Club will attend overnight, July 1 and 2.

AUTHOR TO SPEAK HERE THIS WEEK

Dr. W. S. Hottle, veteran Bible Expositor and author of many articles and books on religion, will be the guest speaker in a series of talks on "Successful Christian Living" at the Peoples Church at 7:30 every evening this week through Friday, June 30.

Dr. Hottle, who was the author of the adult Sunday School Material for Union Gospel Press for the past 45 years, is a former Detroit. He now makes his home with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Sam DeLapp of 1590 Patterson Lake road.

The public is invited to the programs which also offer outstanding musical specials and an interesting display of books at each meeting.

The humble hot dog has staunch support from dietitians at The University of Michigan Medical Center who say it's one of the safest meat items to take on summer picnics.

Finding the right menu for family picnics during the hot summer months can be a difficult and critical chore for the housewife, says Margarite Burgoin, U-M staff dietitian. The food basket can make the difference between a healthful week end in the outdoors, and a rush visit to the hospital for food poisoning.

For an ideal safe picnic lunch, Miss Burgoin recommends: soft drinks, ice tea or lemonade; fresh fruit; relishes such as carrots, radishes, pickles and celery; and hot dogs—grilled, of course.

Some of the more dangerous foods are "salad sandwiches," deviled eggs, mayonnaise, cream pies and any kind of chopped or ground meat. These can become excellent breeding grounds for disease-producing germs. In addition, said Miss Burgoin, they can "smell good" and "look good" and still be dangerously contaminated.

The hot dog—possibly because of its skin-tight individual wrapping—fends off bacteria better than other meats. Although cold cuts run it a close second, the practice of singeing the hot dog in the campfire just before eating makes it the safest picnic meat.

What if you don't like hot dogs? Then says the U-M food specialist, take extra special precautions to keep your picnic selections cold (under 45 degrees) or very hot (over 150). This slows the growth rate of those bacteria that cause different forms of food poisoning.
